Charles Smalley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Goldson W. Smalley, of Fairview avenue, is planning a two days trip to Washington, D. C., next week.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

The fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Blaine will be celebrated on Thursday evening, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Theodore Voorhees, of Jackson avenue.

REDUCES ITS FORCE.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey reduced its force of firemen by twelve men yesterday. The only local man affected by the reduction is Samuel McGovern, of Grechbrook road.

Mrs. Louisa Trust and daughter, Miss Louise, of Mountainview terrace, returned home on Monday from Belmar, where they had been spending a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maurer, of Madison avenue, are spending a week at Lake Hopatcong.

The household effects of Mr. and Mrs. Finley Lewis were moved yesterday from the home of Mrs. Libbie Hill on Madison avenue to the David T. King house on North avenue, formerly occupied by E. Clifford Smith.

KESSLER—STRYKER.

Miss Elizabeth L. Kessler, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Kessler, of Summit Lawn, Pa., and Walter Stryker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stryker, of First street, were married in the Reformed church at Philadelphia at noon today, by the Rev. Charles E. Meyers, the pastor of the church. Only members of the immediate families were present at the ceremony. After they were married the couple left immediately by automobile for a trip up through the New England States. They will return from their trip on Sunday, and will commence housekeeping in the new Dr. M. J. Whitford bungalow on Whittier avenue.

Mrs. Anne E. Marlow, of Dunellen avenue, who has been laid up for a couple of weeks with blood poisoning of the foot, is rapidly improving.

Mrs. Lewis D. Walker, of New Market road, is rapidly recovering from the effects of her recent critical operation as the fact that she was able to go out driving on Monday will attest.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Mrs. Rosa Jahn, of Park avenue, is entertaining her grandson, Philip Backer, of Lebanon.

Miss Florence Bettman, formerly of the borough, but now of New York, is spending a few days with her aunt, Miss Carrie Bettman, in the borough.

Miss Georgette Neider and Philip Neider have returned to their home on South avenue, after visiting at Monmouth for the past week.

Fred Hunter has returned to his home in Camden, after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter, of the township.

The assembly room of School No. 1 has now been partitioned off into three rooms, and the congested condition which has been existing in the school for some time is relieved for the time being. Each room will seat between thirty-five and forty, and if necessary the office can be turned into a class room. This will relieve the necessity of having half sessions, which has been vigorously protested against by parents of children who have had to attend from half past twelve to half past four in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eberle, of Martine avenue, are entertaining friends from Brooklyn.

Lively times are promised at the school election to be held in School No. 1 tonight, when it will be decided as to the appropriation of $16,500 for the purchasing of land in the "Graceland" section of the township to build a school. Most of the residents of the borough were aware of the holding of a previous meeting and were not present, but will be there tonight, most of them in an effort to defeat the proposition. They say that if a school is necessary it should be built in the borough, so as to save children from walking over a mile as they now do.

South Plainfield.

Frank Valicindy, of New York, has returned home after visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton spent Sunday with Mr. Hamilton's mother at Fords.

Miss Ruth Monahan spent Sunday with Plainfield friends.

Daniel Lynch has returned to his home in Elizabeth after spending a week with his aunt, Mrs. P. F. Kaine.

Mr. and Mrs. William Farrell, of Metuchen, spent Sunday with Mrs. Farrell's mother, Mrs. M. McDonough.

The Get Together Club spent Friday at Siedler's Beach. The party went by auto bus and after a pleasant evening at the beach returned home at an early hour.

Miss Anna Conway, of Elizabeth, has returned home after visiting Mrs. Hugh McCaffrey.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Snipe and children, Elizabeth and Gertrude, accompanied by Miss Alma Randolph, spent Sunday with friends in Annandale.

William Hamilton is having a garage built in the rear of his home.

Robert Hamilton had his bicycle stolen a week ago. The thief took the wheel, which was left against the porch, about 9 o'clock in the evening. It was a new Pierce model, the number X15765.

P. F. Kaine has broken ground for a restaurant on Lehigh avenue opposite the station.

Mrs. James Tharp accompanied by Mrs. Milton Boss, spent Saturday in Newark.

Mrs. Chris Fiester has returned to her home in Newark after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Snyder.

OFFERS RIGHT OF WAY FOR SEWERS

But Realty Company Wants Dunellen Council to Accept Streets.

Business of minor importance was considered at the adjourned meeting of the Dunellen Council last night. A petition for a crosswalk at Washington avenue and Fourth street, was referred. Attention was called to a tree standing in the middle of Fourth street near Washington avenue, and Street Commissioner I. V. Smalley was ordered to remove it if found dangerous.

The report of Collector Stite relative to the sale of property on September 4 for taxes, was filed. Samuel Schwartz, president of the Equator Realty Company, offered to allow the trunk line sewer to pass through the company's tract, if the borough would accept the street. This was laid over until the next meeting for investigation.

Current bills aggregating $400 were ordered paid if found correct. Mayor E. B. Latham called the Council's attention to the failure of property owners on the westerly side of Prospect avenue, between the railroad and Grove street, to raise the walk to grade, and it was decided that the borough should go ahead with the work.

Borough Clerk Deering was authorized to prepare a note for $800 and have it discounted at the local bank to provide for payment of current bills and interest on the joint sewer bonds. The clerk was instructed to notify the water company to fix up Prospect avenue where it has been opened for water connections. The next meeting of the Council will be held Monday, October 5.

Fall Millinery Opening

The Formal Opening of the Fall Season Occurs TOMORROW, FRIDAY and SATURDAY

This Will be Our First Complete Showing of Autumn Hats

Extensive preparations have been made for this display. Splendid new hats in great assortment have been gathered from the Fashion Centres, and the newest and best of the season's Millinery styles will be offered for your inspection.

This showing will be of unusual interest and importance to every woman in Plainfield. It enables you to gain authentic information upon the new Autumn Millinery Fashions. It shows you all of the styles that will be in vogue this season. It gives you the opportunity of selecting your Fall hat from a broad and comprehensive gathering of the new fashions.

We cordially invite you to come. Should you care to purchase your Fall hat now, you will find our prices attractive.

A Most Unusual Offering In Women's Wearing Apparel

For the Occasion of Our Fall Millinery Opening

Some extra special values in Tailored Suits at ..... $15.00 and $25.00

You do not ordinarily expect to see much of a suit at these prices, but this is not an ordinary occasion and the suits offered at the above mentioned prices are out of the ordinary values. You will surely be the gainer if you secure one of them. Their style and workmanship is all that you could ask for at twice the price, the materials are of the most reliable sort, and most used weaves of the season. Suppose you come in just to look them over.

About Our Boy's Clothes

So strongly do we believe in the correctness of style, our lower prices, and the almost indestructible wear resisting qualities of our Boys' Clothing that we feel it a duty we owe to this comparatively new, but already prominent department to extend to you a most urgent appeal to visit our Boys' CLOTHING DEPARTMENT before making a selection. Whether your source of supply is New York or elsewhere, we invite a comparison of price and quality with those of any other dealer on the face of the globe.

We promise not to urge you to buy, though we'd be pleased to sell you.

BORO ELECTION TOMORROW.

The special consolidation election of North Plainfield, which was called two months ago by the borough Common Council, will be held tomorrow, when the regular polling places will be used. The polls will be open from 6 in the morning until 7 in the evening. The last open-air meeting at which the question of consolidation will be discussed, is to be held this evening on Somerset street in front of fire headquarters.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

The monthly meetings of the various committees of the Y. W. C. A. will be held this week. The membership body will meet in the morning and evening tomorrow, and the physical committee will meet Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Miss Wetherall, the physical director, would like to meet all who wish to join this year and make appointments for examinations.

TELEPHONE ALARM.

A telephone alarm called out the borough fire department, yesterday afternoon, to the home of George Schroppe, of Jackson avenue, to extinguish a slight chimney blaze. The damage was slight.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer, Aaron Newsdealer.

Capital Has Flowed Into Mexican Oil; Untold Millions Invested

THE flow of capital into the oil fields of Mexico in the last four years, checked only with the recent outbreak of hostilities at Tampico, has its parallel in the flow of oil from the sands many hundreds of feet under Mexican surface. Investments in the Panuco and Topila territory, along the Panuco river, and in the southern field are easily in excess of $200,000,000, about one-eighth of the assessed valuation of real estate in Philadelphia.

Oil in commercial quantity was discovered in Mexico about ten years ago. Four years ago less than a half dozen companies were operating in the three fields. Today, from the best information obtainable, there are fifty-five American, thirteen British, twenty-one Mexican and various companies representing interests in Holland, Germany and other nations.

Capital that has been poured into Mexican oil enterprises from the United States is well in excess of $100,000,000. Nearly all the companies operate under lease.

This, however, is the smallest item in the cost account. To drill and equip a well costs on an average $25,000. Eleven companies have what are termed in oil parlance tank farms—great areas covered with steel tanks, each of 55,000 barrels capacity. The tanks cost about $12,500 apiece, and it is estimated that 250 dot the oil fields. The Mexican Petroleum company alone has about 100 such tanks.

Besides the steel tanks, earthenware storage has been thrown up, the flow of oil frequently exceeding the steel tank and large capacity. Pipe lines, from three to six miles long in the Panuco field and from thirty to seventy-five miles long in the southern field, have been constructed. In the southern field are the wells of the Lord Cowdray interests, Standard Oil, American, Zaleta Mar, Electra and Huaerteca companies, which pipe oil to Tampico and Tuxpam.

OIL GUSHER IN TAMPICO DISTRICT.

Oil is to Mexico what gold was to California during the influx of the forty-niners. California has 6,000 oil wells, producing 200,000 barrels a day. Mexico has six wells with a daily production of 345,000 barrels. Mexico shipped 18,250,611 barrels of crude oil to United States ports in March. The average price was slightly in excess of 55 cents a barrel. Mexico collected an export duty of 50 cents (Mexican) a ton, about six and one-half barrels. The bulk of the oil is shipped through Tampico, being barged down the Panuco river from Panuco and Topila, or piped from the southern field.

Crude oil represented 90 per cent of the total exports at Tampico and the agency at Tuxpam last year. Shipments of oil from Tampico were valued at $7,130,532, compared with $3,009,-296 for 1912, and from Tuxpam $4,684,-714, compared with $685,571 for 1912.

The three greatest producers in Mexico are the National Oil company, Philadelphia, with wells of a productive capacity of 30,000 barrels a day; the Corona, 150,000 barrels, and the Pearson Portrero de Leano, 100,000 barrels. Three other great producers are the Juan Casiano well of the Mexican Petroleum company, which has been flowing 25,000 barrels a day for fifty-two months; the Pan Mex (Standard Oil company) and the Bowser-Sims, each 20,000 barrels a day.

After a conference with Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador, and Minister Van Rappard of the Netherlands, Secretary of State Bryan announced that the United States government is seeking to reach an agreement with foreign nations whereby American oil operators will not be deprived of their oil leases as a result of the disturbed conditions at Tampico.

"We are endeavoring to arrange," said Secretary Bryan, "with all governments represented in the Tampico field that no advantage may be taken of the exceptional conditions there. We desire to maintain as far as possible the status quo, so that no man should suffer by his temporary absence."

MADE IN AMERICA.

"Made in America" is going to be met as often as the familiar "Made in Germany" has been. We are going to stop marking our home products "imported" and stamp everything in this country "Made in America." We have been forced to learn that American made goods are just as good, or better, than those turned out in Europe.

The Germans marked all their commodities "Made in Germany" because they wanted to do so. They wanted the world to understand how far Germany had progressed in the various industries and how far Germany had progressed in supplying the markets of the world. Germany has stopped supplying us, and as we can't get along without a lot of things she has given us we must do the work ourselves.

The only reason we haven't made a lot of things sooner is that Germany made them so well and at such low cost that it was better all around to allow her to go right along making them and selling them to us. We could rely upon the supply, so we said, and Germany knew she could rely upon the American market. But it happens now that Germany hasn't time to make anything for anybody except herself, and she's certainly busy at that. So, if we are to get the lot of things we must have we must make them ourselves. Which is what we are about to do. It will be a long time before Germany is able to supply us with what we need, with the stuff we have been buying from her. It takes a long time after a war for a nation to get back into the industrial stride. In Germany it will take less time than in any other country because of the German's marvelous capacity for organization. But it will take time even there.

Not only will this departure be a great benefit to America as a nation in its economic effects, but it will train us to know that we can make everything that is made in Europe just as well. And when everything we make is marked "Made in America" it will be a standing notice to our people and to the world that America has ceased to depend upon anyone for her needs. America is going to depend upon herself. Americans will know that in future they need not fear having their supply of anything shut off because there is a war or anything else in Europe.

Not the least of the good effects will be that as the people grow accustomed to seeing "Made in America" on everything they soon will come to see that we can make things just as well here as it is done in Europe. By the time the European nations recover from the effects of the war in the first stages of rebuilding, we shall not need much, if any, of the made-in-Europe stuff.

Business in America has suffered a partial paralysis as a result of the war, and we should be worse than merely foolish if we sat down and waited for these countries to get ready to take our money.

We have all the materials, we have the men, we have the means, we have the energy, we have the intelligence, we have the skill, we have the stick-to-itiveness—we have everything needed. That's why we're going to go right at this "Made in America" and supply ourselves with all we need.

Some people have expressed surprise this morning over the fact that John H. Capstick defeated former Congressman Charles N. Fowler for the nomination on the Republican ticket as a candidate for Representative from the Fifth district. Mr. Capstick showed much strength, not only in Morris county where he lives, but in Union county, where he cut the Fowler vote materially. Mr. Fowler undoubtedly lost many votes among Republicans who took offence at his attacks on the Wilson administration. In times like these, when great problems confront the country, the people, regardless of party, are with the administration, and do not care to see it criticized, as was the case whenever Fowler made a speech. Mr. Wilson's masterly handling of the Mexican and foreign war situations has made him thousands of friends during the past few months, and they do not want to hear him unjustly criticized. Undoubtedly many Democratic Congressmen will be re-elected this year for no other reason than the people wish to uphold the hands of the President.

In considering the primary returns, our North Plainfield friends must not lose sight of the fact they are to have an election all their own tomorrow. The important consolidation question comes up over the brook, and it is one that the people of the borough must determine on its merits. It is the belief of the Daily Press that the opposition has not shown a single convincing reason why the vote should not be taken, as a mere expression of public opinion will go a long way toward getting needful legislation to bring about annexation. We again draw our readers' attention to the letters which appear elsewhere in this issue on the subject.

The candidacy of Senator Carlton B. Pierce and Mayor Percy H. Stewart for the State senatorship carries with it the consolation that whoever is elected, the people of Union county will have a capable, clean and satisfactory representative. Mr. Pierce, of course, has the advantage of having served in both House and Senate, and has been the father of much progressive legislation. Mayor Stewart, on the other hand, as executive of Plainfield, his only political office, has been successful, and undoubtedly after a few months' service in the Senate to learn the ropes, would if elected, make a valuable member of the upper house.

County Clerk James C. Calvert's nomination was not unexpected. His conduct of the office during his incumbency, coupled with the clean campaign which he made, won him hundreds of friends, and he did not have the power of a political office such as that of the sheriff to use in any way to aid his work. There were no misrepresentations of support which was accorded him, and he had practically the unanimous endorsement of the Republican members of the bar in Union county. We expect to see him re-elected by a substantial majority.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School. There will be something of interest to every one in this club. There is a sewing class for the girls, conducted by Miss Thair. Dramatic and music clubs have been started from which very fine work is expected. There will also be games, magazines and papers.

The Folk Dance Club will meet at 8:15 tomorrow night in the Bryant School.

FUNERAL OF INFANT.

The funeral services of Louis Thompson Mulford, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mulford, of 142 Duer street, were held this afternoon at the home of the parents. Rev. C. C. Cain, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, officiated. Interment was in Hillside.

We Are Selling More Blankets

This season than ever before. The reason for it is, that we have the "RIGHT BLANKETS" and sell them at the "RIGHT PRICES."

As usual we feature the FAMOUS "AMANA BLANKETS," made by the Amana Society, a community at Homestead, Iowa. The products of their mills are widely known for their excellence. The sizes and weights are just what they say they are. Strictly all wool and guaranteed not to shrink, as the wool is shrunken before being made into blankets. The assortment comprises a full line of sizes and weights in white, sanitary grey, fancy plaids and tan color.

At Prices Ranging from $6.00 to $13.50

The Well Known Beacon Blankets

An all cotton blanket that has the appearance of an all wool blanket. The manufacturers claim that they surpass the heavy all wool variety in comfort, protection from cold, appearance and especially in cleanliness.

"BEACON BLANKETS" are made of clean, long staple cotton by a new process that gives them all the wool advantages and at the same time makes them sanitary. We have a big assortment of attractive designs in white with fancy borders. In plain colors such as tan and grey, army blankets in blue, grey, tan and red; also Indian blankets that are true to color and design. The prices of "BEACON BLANKETS" are as interesting as the blankets—

NAMED BY PROGRESSIVE AND SOCIALIST PARTIES

No Contests for the Nominations in Either Party, Causing Light Vote.

Little or no interest was taken in the Progressive and Socialist primaries yesterday, due to the fact that there were no contests whatsoever within either party. Former Mayor George W. V. Moy, of this city, was chosen by the Progressives as their candidate for Congress, and State Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, who was renominated by the Republicans, was endorsed by the Progressives for the office. He is the only one who receives the support of two parties. The candidates of the Roosevelt party for general Assembly are James B. Furber, of Rahway, William D. Jones, of Elizabeth, and Theodore F. VanDyke, of Summit; while Edward A. Leach, of Elizabeth, will run for county clerk. William R. Richart, of Elizabeth, is the nominee for sheriff and Harwood Fish, at present mayor of Roselle Park, will seek the position of county register of deeds and mortgages. Jay B. Stevens, of Roselle, is the candidate for coroner.

In the Socialist party all of the candidates come from Elizabeth, where their strength is found. Those nominated [illegible] John Keyes for the [illegible] Edward S. Brown, Al[illegible] and Emil Speck for As[illegible], Max Theimer for county clerk; Gustave Theimer for sheriff; John W. Hoffman for register of deeds and mortgages, and Hans Hansen for coroner.

COUNCILMANIC NOMINATIONS W[illegible] WITHOUT CONTEST

Th[illegible]re no contests for councilmanic [illegible]ainations in this city yesterday. Councilman Abiel D. Edgar was renominated in the First ward by a large vote. In the Second ward, Christie P. Hamilton received the nomination on the Republican ticket, succeeding Cornelius van Herwerden, who retires, while Seymour Perkins is the Democratic nominee.

R. S. Rowland is the only nominee in the Third ward, being the choice of the Republicans and endorsed by many Democrats. In the Fourth ward, Councilman Francis J. Blatz was renominated and David L. Coleman was nominated by the Democrats.

LOCAL DELEGATION WILL ATTEND FORESTERS MEETING

The adjourned session of the twentieth meeting of the High Court of New Jersey, Independent Order of Foresters, will be held tomorrow, in Elks Hall, Asbury Park. Plainfield will be represented by about twelve delegates and three members of the High Court of the city will also be present.

The following members of the local organization were elected to be delegates [illegible] convention: John Lewin, [illegible] John R. Kline, John [illegible], Henry Hansen, James T. McCarty, Edward J. McCann, Louis J. Feiring, P. S. Flatley, Thomas Fitzgerald and James Patterson. There are also three members of the High Court of this city who will attend. They are Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, M. D., John J. Praed and Edward J. McCue.

VOTE IN WARREN TOWNSHIP.

The principal contest in Warren Township was for committeeman, between John C. Cooper and John F. Mundy. The former won out by a majority of 31 votes. On the Democratic ticket, Walsh for Congress; Beekman for State Senator, and F. W. Ralph for Township Committee received practically the full party vote, while on the Republican ticket, Anderson for Congress; Smalley for State Senator and Hammond for Assembly were supported by the members of that party in the township.

CURRENT EVENTS CLASS WILL BE STARTED SOON

The current events class, which proved so popular and successful last year, will be started again at the local Y. W. C. A. on Thursday afternoon, October 22, at 4:15 o'clock in the association rooms. The class will be in charge of S. B. Howe, who had it last year, and will cover a period of twenty-four weeks, there being a class every other Thursday.

The existing conditions of the world should make the work more interesting and helpful than last year under such a competent leader. The fee will be the same as last year.

"No Alum"

must be the watchword when the housewife buys baking powder.

Alum is well known to be a powerful astringent, and should never be used in food.

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M. D., of the University of Pennsylvania, says: "I consider the use of alum baking powder highly injurious to health."

Food economy now, more than ever, demands the purchase and use of those food articles of known high quality and absolute purity and healthfulness.

MORE AGITATION ON BOROUGH FOOTBALL

Manager of New Brunswick School Team Announces Game With Boroites.

Although it has not been announced that the Board of Education of the Borough High School, has reconsidered its statement regarding a football team to represent the borough institution this season, some one has taken a step in the right direction and has appointed himself manager of the eleven. More than this, that person has evidently thought that the Board might reconsider the law and has already started arranging games. When the New Brunswick High School football schedule was received it had the borough warriors partially scheduled to meet the Middlesex boys on October 10, but the word "pending" was written after. From all present indications it would seem that the game will be "pending" all season as no one has as yet started anything great in the borough along these lines.

The New Brunswick team faces a hard schedule this season, which includes nine games. On November 7, the local High School eleven will meet them at that place. Reading Academy, one of the borough's old rivals, will also stack up against the New Brunswick men.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Sept. 26—Trenton High School at home.
Oct. 3—Reading Academy at home.
Oct. 10—North Plainfield H. S., pending.
Oct. 17—Freehold H. S. at home.
Oct. 24—Somerville H. S. away.
Oct. 31—Rutgers Prep. at home.
Nov. 7—Plainfield H. S. at home.
Nov. 14—Westfield H. S. away.
Nov. 21—Chattel H. S., pending.

ANNUAL TENNIS TOURNAMENT FOR SCHOOLBOY WIELDERS

The annual Plainfield interscholastic singles tennis tournament, which is held under the auspices of the Princeton Club, of this city, will be started Saturday morning on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club. Any member of the three schools in this city are eligible to enter and there will probably be a large number of entries as uusual.

Last year the honors went to the city High School and Leal's, and present indications show that Philip VanDeventer, of the city school, will repeat his performance of last year and again take the title. However, there may be some one in the other two schools that will give him a rub, but that remains to be seen. Announcement of this event was made in all the schools this morning, and entries close Thursday night. The draws will be made Friday night and play will begin bright and early Saturday morning. The usual fee will be charged and two prizes will be given to the winner and runner-up.

SECOND GAME OF SERIES MAY BE BIG SURPRISE

Hostilities will be resumed between the Pets and the Macknien on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, and this is Manager Dorflinger's last chance to get revenge on his greatest rivals. When the game starts that little silver mug will be leaning over to the Saurer boys, but the Pets are going to try their hardest to set it up straight again.

Manager Martin, who is sure of the game, cup, title and everything else that goes with this series, will have his regular men on the field of battle and is not losing any sleep over the coming game. The Pets magnate will have his regular men on the field but may get either Schuppe or O'Toole from the New York club as they can be very easily spared now. The game will start at 3:30 sharp.

HOLY CROSS TEAM MAY PLAY PRACTICE GAME

The Holy Cross football squad held a practice last night on the Marshall field and a large number were present, although several were missing. Coach Martin put his charges through a short hard drill. The team is greatly in need of an end and Coach Martin would like to hear from any player who has not yet reported and would like to. Several Westfield men have reported and are making a strong bid for places.

A practice will be held Saturday afternoon on the Cricket Field, and Martin expects to have a team there to buck up against his men for a practice game. All men are requested to be present at that time and all will be given a chance in the game.

PRELIMINARY ARRANGEMENTS FOR K. OF C. BOWLING LEAGUE

Preliminary arrangements for the Knights of Columbus Bowling League were made Monday night at an informal meeting held in the rooms of the Columbus Club in Newark. Indications are that the circuit will be larger than last year's, and that ten or twelve councils from nearby cities and towns will be represented. Joseph Sullivan, of the Newark council, was appointed temporary secretary until the annual election of officers is held.

It is believed that the circuit this year will be composed of Newark, Star of Bethlehem, Bayley, Westfield, Plainfield, Montclair, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Bayonne, Rahway, Olive Branch and Jersey City councils. A formal application for membership was made by Edward F. McMahon, of the Westfield council, and it is believed that a franchise will be granted to that council at the annual meeting.

The councils have been requested to send representatives to the next meeting so final arrangements for the season can be made. In addition to the election of officers, various committees will be appointed. Present plans call for the opening games to be rolled during the week of October 26.

DECIDING MATCH.

The third and deciding match between the Plainfield and Somerville Eagles' bowling teams will be played on the Second street alleys tomorrow night. In the first match of the season, on the local pathways, the county seaters took the decision, three games to two, but at Somerville last week Miller's men turned the tables and evened up the games, making a third match necessary. Both teams will have their regular men and some good pinning is expected.

BOWLING TONIGHT.

The local Eagles will have a practice match with the West End team tonight, to get them in shape for the big encounter tomorrow. The intruders tonight will present a strong lineup and will make the birds fly their fastest to keep ahead. Crowley, who was injured at Rahway, Monday night, will be unable to play and his place will be taken by Margentino.

WILL ELECT CAPTAINS.

The elections of captains and managers of the local Elks junior and senior bowling teams will take place at the clubhouse tomorrow night.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Over three hundred violins are utterly ruined each season in Henry W. Savage's production of the sensational operetta success, "Sari," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night. The action of the story calls for the actor who plays the role of Pali Racz, the gypsy leader and violinist, to break his Stradivari at the tensely dramatic climax of the operetta. He has just failed to impress a Parisian audience by his violin playing he, the gypsy leader who all his long life had had the adulation of the world, and his son who followed after strange gods and played music by note instead of from the moods and fancies that visited his heart, as all gypsy musicians do, had been hailed by that same audience as a great artist. Pali Racz really breaks his violin past all mending and a new one is required for each performance of "Sari." Eight are broken each week, or 320 in a season of forty weeks. To buy the violins individually would cost a king's ransom in the course of a year and so the Savage office in New York made special arrangements with a firm that manufactures violins to buy them by the gross, taking a large part of their product.

"The Yellow Ticket," a new play by Michael Morton, will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Friday night. This is the play which followed "Within the Law" at the Eltinge Theatre, New York city. It has been selected by A. H. Woods, the producer, in the conviction that it will be as universal in its appeal to the general public as was its predecessor. The chief incidents of the drama have been taken from life in modern Russia and the author spent some time in St. Petersburg, in order to acquire the proper atmosphere which "The Yellow Ticket" is said to contain to a surprising degree.

Belgium, Heroic little Belgium. The eyes of the civilized world are today transfixed on this wonderful people, but why should the world be surprised at the recent heroic acts of Belgium, in defending herself against powerful Germany. The Belgiums are traditionally an heroic people. The Wars of Centuries have been fought on the soil of this remarkable country. While civilization has moved steadily westward, Belgium remains Europe's battlefield. Louis the XV. of France, made Ostend his army headquarters and the gorgeous photoplay, "The Heir of the Logarderes" of "The Motto," adapted from Paul Feval's remarkable story of the same name, shows, in one of its many tremendous scenes, the French army of Louis XV. in camp at Ostend. This picture will be shown at the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening. We learn from this scene how the French army and its officers in magnificent uniforms looked 175 years ago. Very different in appearance fro mthe soldiers of today. While this wonderful scene is only incidental to the more wonderful plot of this story, it is all the more interesting, owing to the recent and present enormous military operations in Belgium, particularly in and around Ostend. "The Heir of the Lagarderes" is the greatest motion picture production of the season; it holds its audience spellbound; it is an artistic triumph. The greatest living French artists, members of the Sarah Bernhardt, Comedie Francaise and l'Odeon Theatres, appear in this picture.

The engagement of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday avening, September 28, brings to this city tne most talked about production in years, and without doubt, the most successful. While the play has been attracting the multitude in America for nearly four years, it has become a fixture in five foreign countries. In England it is being toured by two organizations. An entire trainload of scenery and effects are carried by the organization from city to city. Over one hundred and fifty people are employed in the production and a symphony orchestra is accompanying the organization to render the impressive score which was written for "Everywoman" by George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, of Boston. The company includes a score of well-known names, prominent among which are Edna Porter, Elmer Grandin, Emmett Shackelford, Lea Lecture, Maxwell Pearce, John McKee, Hilda Peters and Hubert Osborne.

One of the vocal stars who will, perhaps, find a most cordial welcome awaiting him when he visits Plainfield is Signor Manuel Malpica, the little baritone of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company, which will fill an engagement at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday night, Sept. 30, famous for his incomparable rendition of the prologue in "I'Pagliacci." Malpica achieved operatic fame in the role of Tonio, the clown, in Leoncavallo's popular opera, but his great versatility calls for his services very frequently, with the San Carlo forces. While in this city Malpica will be heard as Henry Ashton in "Lucia di Lammermoor." Another eminent baritone with the San Carlo Company is Sig. Adamo Gregoretti. Like Malpica he is a great acting singer. The present is his first season in the United States, finhe is said to be one of the most finished artists in the role of Rigoletto, in Verdi's tragic four-act opera. His greatest success has been made as Escamillo, the toreador in "Carmen."

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Construction of School Building.

The Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J. will receive sealed bids at the Board room in the High School Building, corner West Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at a meeting to be held on Monday, September 28, 1914, at 8 p. m. for the construction of a school building on Evergreen Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Plans and specifications are now on file at the High School Building, Plainfield, N. J. where they can be seen from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., on week days, excepting Saturdays, when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, until the day and hour of opening the bids as above mentioned.

Plans and specifications are also on file at the offices of the Architects, Wilder & White, 50 Church Street, New York City.

Copies of the Plans and Specifications may be obtained from the architects by depositing with the architects a certified check for $25.00 payable to the order of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J. which will be returned upon the return of the drawings and specifications.

The work will be let in four contracts. 1. For the general construction. 2. For the heating and ventilating work. 3. For the plumbing work. 4. For the electrical work. And separate bids will be received on each contract.

All bids are to be on forms furnished with the specifications and accompanied by a certified check on some solvent bank or trust company, payable to the order of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J. or a surety bond of a company authorized to do business in the State of New Jersey, in the amount of five per cent. of the estimate submitted.

All bids or proposals are to be in writing and sealed and addressed to the Secretary of the Board. Each bid must state explicitly upon what portion of the work it is based.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to open the same and publicly announce their contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received by the Board previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to waive any or all formalities.

B. VAN D. HEDGES,
Secretary Board of Education.

CONSOLIDATION COMMUNICATIONS

An argument against consolidation has been received this morning from A. C. Pleydell. It was stated in these columns, last night that we could not agree to print any more letters on the subject in addition to those already in hand yesterday, and the amount of copy incident to the primary election yesterday makes it necessary for us to abide by that announcement. As the election takes place tomorrow, there will be nothing gained by printing further communications on the subject in the issue of Thursday.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I am following ex-Mayor Smalley's frantic efforts to defeat consolidation but rest satisfied that the people of the borough understand Newton B. pretty well by this time—as a matter of fact N. B. is not opposed to consolidation—he is only opposed to the present efficient administration of the borough, and believes that unless he resumes control of the government of the borough that that municipality will go to the bow-wows. Newton is not a bad sort of a chap, he has done a lot of good work for the borough in his time, but he must not continue to take himself too seriously. Borough folks know that Newton was for the joining together of Plainfield and the borough, and it was only through the [illegible] manner of its proposal and advancement that the people voted it down. I don't believe that the people of the borough are retrograding, even if N. B. shows that tendency.

It is a remarkable coincidence that N. B. is so active against something for which he fought like a demon 12 years ago. It is more remarkable that the distinguished citizen, C. W. McCutchen, did not appear in person in the agitation earlier in the game, and supplied the people with better reasons for the defeat of consolidation, than the ones which he now advances.

(1) That the attorney for the borough does not know enough of the consolidation act to advise the borough correctly, (2) that Mr. McCutchen does, (3) that Mayor Clark and the Council are guilty of an administration blunder and we deduct that some other person should assume control. Who Nota Bene—can you guess who? (4) That if the borough votes for consolidation she will not know what she is going to get from Plainfield. Answer to this is, She will get as good as Plainfield gets—no more, no less. She will get proportional representation. Oh, pshaw, what is the use? Property interests are greater to some folks than community interests. Personally I dare say exactly what I think, and refuse to be brow-beaten by politicians or by nabobs.

The borough has long enough been under the thumb of dictation of landed aristocracy—it is now time for the workingman to arise in his might and speak now that he is given the chance. Not every Mayor would be man enough to give him the opportunity. Not every Council would be courageous and honest enough to stand by a good square upright honest Mayor. The workingmen of the borough have nothing to fear from consolidation, nothing to fear from Plainfield. I honor Mayor Clark and the ex-Mayors of the borough who are supporting him in his progressive, yet timely work of lifting the borough into the place it should have occupied for many years past. All honor to an able vice president of the Board of Trade and chairman of Greater Plainfield committee for the board, William L. Saunders, a thoroughly democratic, energetic, able man. Praise for those gentlemen who are assisting in the work and prayer of all workingmen and home owners should be one Plainfield for all, and all for one Plainfield. Hurrah boys, vote for consolidation and cast off the vote of "Tuxedo Park" domination.

Yours faithfully
WILLIAM JEFFERY.
President Board of Trade, Plainfield, N. J.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Replying to the letter contributed at this late day by C. W. McCutchen, I beg to say that this gentleman whom we hold in high esteem is in error both as the facts and in reasoning. The Board of Trade is not a commercial, but a civic organization and covers the borough as well as the city and vicinity. A number of prominent gentlemen in the borough are members of the Board; some are ex-Mayors, ex-Councilmen, Councilmen, etc. Nothing slow about the borough being represented in the Board of Trade. The point is that the city and borough Board of Trade (a civic organization) is consolidated and Mr. McCutchen does not know it, notwithstanding the Board's activity and the publicity of the same supplied by both Plainfield newspapers.

Mr. McC. is correctly informed that the Mayor and Council of the borough, after mature consideration, did at the behest of the Board of Trade, call a special election for September 24, 1914, in order that the people may express themselves as to consolidation.

The Board of Trade at one of its regular meetings, after due notice to the public, discussed consolidation. Several prominent borough citizens were in attendance and by unanimous vote the meeting declared that "the early consolidation of the city and borough is desirable." This the Board communicated to the Mayor and Common Council of the borough, appearing by its committee, consisting of J. V. E. Vanderhoef, Herman Schwed and myself. (Mr. Schwed and Mr. Vanderhoef are both residents of the borough.)

Upon this resolution and upon the experience both of intelligence and business acumen (and no mayor of North Plainfield ever handled that borough better), Mayor Clark and his able colleagues, after advice from the borough counsel, an able lawyer, it was decided to hold the special election.

The charge that the Mayor and Council yielded their prerogative is ridiculous. Surely Mr. McC. sees his mistake now. The Mayor and Council simply realized that there was a well defined demand for an election on consolidation and they decided that the matter might safely be left to the people to decide. If this is what Mr. McC. is chagrined at, then there must be danger that the people may vote favorably on consolidation, otherwise why the plea to the voters to vote against it.

Mr. McC. did the same thing twelve years ago and as we are informed and believe he was mistaken in doing so and was sorry for it afterwards. I take it that now Mr. McC. is not opposed to consolidation, only he wants it fixed up in some other way—a way by which the borough may know how the estate will be settled. Consolidation is one thing and a vote to consolidate another. I am afraid that our distinguished citizen wants to skin the bear before catching it. Plainfield will treat the borough all right—get them together and the two will work out the solution.

It seems that to go at consolidation in any other way than Mayor Clark and the Council has provided would, if Mr. McC.'s plans were followed, be more of a job than the establishment of peace in Europe. In conclusion, the Board of Trade has kept out of the review of the subject; it has not burdened the people of the borough with its views, but has persistently refrained from being drawn in, so that the people of the borough might decide the matter for themselves. Our work was done when the special election was called, but now that the Board of Trade has been referred to as the means by which the Mayor and Council of the borough are alleged to have waived their prerogatives, I am compelled to answer such a foolish assertion and trust that Mr. McCutchen will get in touch with our very able chairman of the Greater Plainfield committee, Dr. William L. Saunders, who will be only too pleasant to supply him with the data which he sorely needs.

The counsel of the borough will, I am sure, be only too pleased to straighten out Mr. McCutchen on the law. The election is called under one act, and Mr. McCutchen refers to another, I am informed. It is all up to the people of the borough and the Board of Trade awaits their decision. Please notice the Board has declared that the early consolidation of the city and borough is desirable. If then that is its declaration, we would advise every voter in the borough to vote for consolidation and right the wrong of 12 years ago to which Mr. McCutchen was a party.

Better be 12 years late then not to consolidate at all.

WILLIAM JEFFERY,
President Board of Trade, Plainfield, N. J.
Sept. 19, 1914

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Will you allow me in your columns to say briefly why I intend to vote for consolidation and why I believe consolidation is the manifest destiny of North Plainfield and Plainfield?

I think it is a mistake to say that there are no arguments on the other side. Anything men honestly differ about has two sides and we gain nothing by ignoring or denying the arguments of opponents.

Mr. McCutchen's opinion on any subject is not to be lightly treated. His honesty and intelligence and devotion to the interests of the borough everybody must recognize, and when I read his letter I began to re-examine my position, for I generally feel safer in agreeing with than in differing from him.

I am inclined to think he is right in some of his criticisms of the methods adopted in promoting consolidation; but I do not see that these go to the root of the question. I should have preferred to have some plan of union set forth at least in outline; that we might know what consolidation, if adopted on both sides of the brook, will mean to North Plainfield. But I am quite willing to trust our interests to the committee that will be selected to represent us.

I shall vote for consolidation because:

1. I see no sufficient reason for two communities so closely connected in business, property, social and governmental interests as are Plainfield and North Plainfield to continue as separate municipal organizations.

2. There is no geographical barrier to keep them apart. Only a brook divides them.

3. Plainfield has solid advantages which we cannot share except by consolidation. Plainfield has all the business, and all the corporation properties, and can therefore raise its taxes more easily than we can raise ours.

4. Plainfield's tax rate is much lower than ours. Ours is constantly increasing, and is becoming burdensome. The difference in rate is likely to become greater in Plainfield's favor, rather than less.

5. Consolidation must save expense. It saves expense in all business affairs and must operate economically in municipal affairs. Double sets of offices, double high schools will be avoided, and we shall gain also in the efficiency of government.

6. Our interests as a borough do not connect us with the rest of Somerset county, but with Plainfield. Ours is not a farming community; but really a residence section of Plainfield. All our natural ties are with the municipality across the brook.

7. Consolidation will be mutually beneficial; but it is more urgently necessary to the borough just now than to the city. I do not believe our circumstances are likely to improve as a separate civil unit, but rather to lessen. Therefore this is the opportune time to do what we shall be inevitably driven to do later on, if we refuse to do it now.

H. K. CARROLL.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

In the issue of the Plainfield Daily Press of Saturday last there appears in the editorial headed "Facts About Consolidation," a quotation from the law of 1900, which is misleading, due to the fact that not all of the section is quoted. Section 5, Chapter 83 of the laws of 1900 reads as follows.

"5. On the second Monday after any such annexation or consolidation shall take effect a committee of three, to be appointed by the board of aldermen, common council or other governing board of such city, and a committee of three, to be appointed by the board of aldermen, common council or other governing board of each municipality, and by the township committee of each township, a part only of the territory of which shall be annexed to or consolidated with such city, shall meet at the city hall of such city, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, and shall then and there, or as soon thereafter as may be, proceed to allot and divide between such city and such municipality or municipalities and township or townships, all the paupers of such municipality or municipalities and township or townships, and all the property and moneys on hand or due to, and all indebtedness of such municipality or municipalities and township or townships respectively, in proportion to the taxable property and ratables within the respective limits of such municipality or municipality or municipalities and township or townships as the same shall remain, and the part or parts thereof which shall be so annexed to or consolidated with such city; and such apportionment of assets and debts shall be based upon the last abstract of ratables made for the purpose of levying taxes; and such city shall be liable for its part of the debts of such municipality or municipalities and township or townships, so ascertained, and shall be entitled to its share of the moneys and properties thereof in proportion to such ratables as divided as aforesaid; in effecting such division a decision of a majority of those present of the committee of such city and of the committee of such municipality or township, the debts and property of which are being divided, shall be final and conclusive, the members of the committees of other municipalities and townships present for the purpose of making such division having no voice therein; if any member of any of said committees shall neglect or refuse to attend such meeting, those assembled may act, provided, that it shall be lawful to adjourn said meeting from time to time, not exceeding one week, as a majority of said committee may decide."

from which it appears that this section is incorporated to provide for consolidation of a part of one community with the whole or part of another community, and in consequence does not apply to the consolidation of the entire Borough of North Plainfield with the City of Plainfield.

Let it be understood that I am in favor of consolidation, but I am not in accord with the precipitate action taken by the borough and to be decided in the election on the 24th.

Arrangements in the nature of forming a partnership can be successful and satisfactory to the people concerned only when considered upon a definite and well understood agreement, arranged in advance. The plan of forming the partnership and arranging the details afterwards is inherently wrong and I believe in the present case would be most unfortunate.

Obligations assumed or about to be assumed by either or both of the communities in question makes it necessary to arrive first at a complete understanding before submitting the question to a vote of the people and with the best interest of both communities in mind I believe it would be better to defeat consolidation at the election on Thursday and to take up the matter again after the details have been thoroughly and completely worked out. If the present law does not provide sufficiently to take up this matter again there is little doubt but that the Legislature would provide a remedy whereby the consolidation of the two communities could be voted upon as soon as the preliminary agreements are determined.

On this basis, should the result of Thursday's election be against consolidation the inhabitants of the City of Plainfield would understand that the people of North Plainfield have decided not against consolidation but against consolidation on an indefinite basis.

EDWIN S. BOYER.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Having been asked my views regarding the consolidation of North Plainfield and Plainfield, would like to emphatically state that I honestly believe that it would be the best possible thing for the borough from practically every standpoint and I cannot see why any one owning real estate in the borough should be against consolidation. The following comparison of values might prove interesting:

Take for example, the corner of Park avenue and Front street or Somerset street, for a center; go out Somerset street to the corner of Craig place and you will find ground values about ($150) per front foot. Go out West Front street the same distance and ground values will be found over $1,200 per front foot and out East Front street $1,000 a front foot. Go out Park avenue, and values north of the railroad are around $750 per front foot and south of the railroad from $300 to $400 per front foot.

All other ground values in the borough are from 20 to 50 per cent. lower than in Plainfield and there seems to be no reason for this condition other than the fact that it is North Plainfield and it has contributed to the building of the main street in Plainfield.

My business is building and selling residential property. I built several in the borough and now confine my operations to the city of Plainfield because property in the city of Plainfield in less accessible locations could be readily sold whereas there was no demand for same in the borough.

Very truly yours,
CLIFFORD D. MANNING.

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

While favoring consolidation under proper conditions and upon equitable terms I believe that any action looking to consolidation should be initiated by the joint action of the two municipal governing bodies after they have settled upon a plan equitable to both. To merge two municipalities into one without some understanding as to the terms of such merger must inevitably lead to endless bitterness and loss of friendly cooperation such as now exists between the city and the borough.

Section 5, Chapter 83, of the Laws of 1900, does not afford in any way machinery for an adjustment of terms after consolidation and has no reference whatever to the present plan.

Section 5 provides that "On the second Monday after any Consolidation a Committee of three to be appointed by the City, and a Committee of three to be appointed by each municipality A PART ONLY of the territory of each shall be annexed to or consolidated with such City, shall proceed to allot and divide between such City and such municipality all the paupers and all the property and moneys on hand or due to, and all indebtedness of such municipality in proportion to the taxable property

A Gas Heater Makes a Room Comfortable

At this season of the year, when the evenings are cool, gas can be used to advantage as a heating fuel.

It is too soon to start the furnace fires, and yet there are times when a little heat is quite necessary.

Nothing can meet this need like Gas Fireplace Heaters, Grates or Gas Logs. They are always ready and give quicker and cheaper results than coal.

PUBLIC SERVICE GAS COMPANY

and ratables within the respective limits of such municipalities as the same shall remain, and the part or parts thereof which shall be so annexed to or consolidated with such City, etc., etc."

Manifestly, this section applies only to a consolidation, where a part of a municipality is consolidated to a city and a part remains. Construed otherwise it is without sense.

If two municipalities are merged and made one there can be no division or allotment of property, paupers and indebtedness; but when, on the other hand, a part of the territory of a municipality is annexed or consolidated with another, then it is evident there must be some equitable settlement so that the portion which remains unconsolidated shall bear its proper share of outstanding debts and other liabilities, and receive its fair proportion of any moneys and property on hand.

If the borough is now consolidated with the city there will be no division of assets and will be annexed by the city; the borough will be entirely dependent upon the subsequent action of the consolidated city, and certainly will be in no position to make terms except as a minority interest.

Under the joint sewer contract entered into between Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, the borough is on an equal footing with the city in directing expenditures and carrying out this most important improvement. The borough now has it within its power to make a contract for its collecting sewer system, but unless such a contract is made before consolidation, the borough will be dependent upon the favor of the consolidated city for this much needed improvement.

Voters should clearly understand that consolidation, to be acted upon Thursday, means that, if carried, the borough will forfeit its fought-for and much prized equal voice in the joint enterprise, but at the same time will, of course, be chargeable with its percentage of cost; the borough will become responsible for a share of the indebtedness of the city without any guarantee that the borough will secure for herself improvements commensurate with the liability so incurred.

It is within the range of possibility that the borough would find itself in the position of having paid a large proportion of the joint enterprise, a share of the cost of the city's collecting system, and yet be without any similar improvement herself.

It would be far wiser for the borough to vote against consolidation in its present form—take up with the city a tentative agreement, incorporate such in a bill which undoubtedly could be passed through the Legislature same as was the case in that known as the Plainfield-North Plainfield Sewer Act.

It is humiliating to hear our borough decried from every street corner and in the press. It is doubly humiliating to see our borough being thrown, unasked, at Plainfield to be taken in when and upon such terms as the city may elect.

Mrs. William Wagner, who was called to New York city by the accidentay drowning of her nephew, William McCreel, Labor Day, returned home last evening. The young man who was about 34 years of age, had attended the races with a party on the boat Petrel, he acting as referee. When evening came his companions urged him to accompany them to Poughkeepsie and have a "good time," but hereplied he felt tired and would lie down on the boat and take a sleep. One of his friends came along and threw an overcoat over him after he lay down, saying if he must sleep he had better have some cover as the night was chilly. A large boat in passing jarred the Petral and threw Mr. McCreel into the water, the shock killing him. Several hours were spent in attempting to resusicate him, but all efforts were without avail.

The World Set Free!

By H. G. Wells

Copyright 1914, by H. G. Wells.

The clocks in the light, gold capped belfries of the town below presently intimated the half-hour after midday.

Of course he and Pestovitch had thought it out. Even if they had caught those men they were pledged to secrecy. Probably they would be killed in the catching. One could deny anyhow, deny and deny.

And then he became aware of half a dozen little shining specks very high in the blue.

Pestovitch came out to him presently. "The government messages, sire, have all dropped into cypher," he said. "I have set a man"—

"Look!" interrupted the king and pointed upward with a long, lean finger.

Pestovitch followed that indication and then glanced for one questioning moment at the white face before him.

"We have to face it out, sire," he said.

For some moments they watched the steep spirals of the descending messengers, and then they began a hasty consultation.

They decided that to be holding a council upon the details of an ultimate surrender to Brissago was as innocent looking a thing as the king could well be doing, and so when at last the ex-king Egbert, whom the council had sent as its envoy, arrived upon the scene, he discovered the king almost theatrically posed at the head of his councilors in the midst of his court. The door upon the wireless operators was shut.

The ex-king from Brissago came like a draft through the curtains and attendants that gave a wide margin to King Ferdinand's state, and the familiar confidence of his manner belied a certain hardness in his eye. Firmin trotted behind him, and no one else was with him. And as Ferdinand Charles rose to greet him there came into the heart of the Balkan king again that same chilly feeling that he had felt upon the balcony, and it passed at the careless gestures of his guest. For surely any one might outwit this foolish talker who for a mere idea at the command of a little French rationalist had thrown away the most ancient crown in all the world.

One must deny, deny.

And then slowly and quite tiresomely he realized that there was nothing to deny. His visitor, with an amiable ease, went on talking about everything in debate between himself and Brissago except—

Could it be that they had been delayed? Could it be that they had had to drop for repairs and were still uncaptured? Could it be that even now while this fool babbled they were over there among the mountains heaving their deadly charge over the side of the aeroplane?

Strange hopes began to lift the tail of the Slavic fox again.

What was the man saying? One must talk to him, anyhow, until one knew. At any moment the little brass door behind him might open with the news of Brissago blown to atoms. Then it would be a delightful relief to the present tension to arrest this chatterer forthwith. He might be killed perhaps. What?

The king was repeating his observation. "They have a ridiculous fancy that your confidence is based on the possession of atomic bombs."

King Ferdinand Charles pulled himself together. He protested.

"Oh, quite so," said the ex-king; "quite so!"

"What grounds?"

The ex-king permitted himself a gesture and the ghost of a chuckle. Why the devil should he chuckle? "Practically none," he said. "But, of course, with these things one has to be so careful."

And then again for an instant something like the faintest shadow of derision gleamed out of the envoy's eyes and recalled that chilly feeling to King Ferdinand's spine.

Some kindred depression had come to Pestovitch, who had been watching the drawn intensity of Firmin's face. He came to the help of his master, who, he feared, might protest too much.

"A search!" cried the king. "An embargo on our aeroplanes!"

"Only as a temporary expedient," said the ex-king Egbert, "while the search is going on."

The king appealed to his council.

"The people will never permit it, sire," said a bustling little man in a gorgeous uniform.

"You'll have to make 'em," said the ex-king, genially addressing all the councilors.

King Ferdinand glanced at the closed brass door through which no news would come.

"When would you want to have this search?"

The ex-king was radiant. "We couldn't possibly do it until the day after tomorow," he said.

"Just the capital?"

"Where else?" asked the ex-king still more cheerfully.

"For my own part," said the ex-king confidentially, "I think the whole business ridiculous. Who would be such a fool as to hide atomic bombs? Nobody. Certain hanging if he's caught; certain and almost certain blowing up if he isn't. But nowadays I have to take orders like the rest of the world. And here I am."

The king thought he had never met such detestable geniality. He glanced at Pestovitch, who nodded almost imperceptibly. It was well, anyhow, to have a fool to deal with. They might have sent a diplomatist. "Of course," said the king, "I recognize the overpowering force—and a kind of logic—in these orders from Brissago."

"I knew you would," said the ex-king, with an air of relief, "and so let us arrange"—

They arranged with a certain informality. No Balkan aeroplane was to adventure into the air until the search was concluded, and meanwhile the fleets of the world government would soar and circle in the sky. The towns were to be placarded with offers of reward to any one who would help in the discovery of atomic bombs.

"You will sign that," said the ex-king.

"Why?"

"To show that we aren't in any way hostile to you."

Pestovitch nodded "Yes" to his master.

"And then you see," said the ex-king in that easy way of his, "we'll have a lot of men here, borrow help from your police and run through all your things, and then everything will be over. Meanwhile if I may be your guest"—

When presently Pestovitch was alone with the king again he found him in a state of jangling emotions. His spirit was tossing like a wind whipped sea. One moment he was exalted and full of contempt for "that ass" and his search; the next he was down in a pit of dread. "They will find them, Pestovitch, and then he'll hang us."

"Hang us?"

The king put his long nose into his councilor's face. "That grinning brute wants to hang us," he said. "And hang us he will if we give him a shadow of a chance."

"But all their modern state civilization!"

"Do you think there's any pity in that crew of Godless, vivisecting prigs?" cried this last king of romance. "Do you think, Pestovitch, they understand anything of a high ambition or a splendid dream? Do you think that our gallant and sublime adventure has any appeal to them? Here am I, the last and greatest and most romantic of the Caesars, and do you think they will miss the chance of hanging me like a dog if they they can, killing me like a rat in a hole? And that renegade! He who was once an anointed king!"

"I hate that sort of eye that laughs and keeps hard," said the king.

"I won't sit still here and be caught like a fascinated rabbit," said the king in conclusion. "We must shift those bombs."

"Risk it," said Pestovitch. "Leave them alone."

"No," said the king. "Shift them near the frontier. Then while they watch us here—they will always watch us here now—we can buy an aeroplane abroad and pick them up."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The Renewal of Suffrage Activities.

Now is the time for associations of all kinds to renew their activities. The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield held their first meting of the season yesterday afternoon, and laid more earnest plans than ever for a campaign that should secure votes for women in New Jersey in 1915.

The success of New Jersey women will mean not only victory for themselves, but will go a long way toward spelling victory for New York and Pennsylvania. The latter States will take a vote on the suffrage amendment in November, 1915. New Jersey will vote on the suffrage amendment at a special election earlier in the fall, in compliance with the New Jersey Constitution, which requires a special election for constitutional amendments.

All who sympathize with the movement to secure equal franchise for men and women should send their names to the local chairman of enrollment, Mrs. C. L. Riley, 7 Myrtle avenue. The enrollment may be non-dues paying or dues paying. Fifty cents a year secures membership in the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield and the dues are a help in carrying on the work. But every sympathizer is asked to make herself known to the enrollment committee even if she is unable to pay dues or to do any work. Her name alone counts for a great deal when numbers are being counted by the Legislators. This is a time, also, when conventions are imminent. They are not actually upon us since October intervenes, but Suffragists should bear in mind the two important conventions that will take place early in November. The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association will convene on November 6 and 7 in Camden. The National American Woman Suffrage Association has issued the following call for a week later. The national convention will be held at Nashville, Tennessee, November 12 to 17, inclusive.

The Call.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association issue this year the call for its forty-sixth annual convention. It summons the delegates of its sixty member-associations to meet together for inspiration and for counsel.

Being met, they are to hear from each other of victories won, of progress rapid and ever more rapid towards our mighty goal, of the nation's constantly widening sympathy with our high aim. Our task will be to formulate judgment on those great issues of the day which nearly concern women; to choose the leaders who, during the coming year, are to guide the fortunes of our cause; and finally, to deliberate how the whole national body may, on the one hand, best give aid and succor to the States working for their own enfranchisement and, on the other, press for Federal action in behalf of the women of the nation at large. May our resolutions and conclusions be born of wisdom and power, be inspired by that deep sense of kinship and sympathy, potent to warm the heart and fire the will to further effort, which springs from intercourse with fellow-workers gathered together from far and wide.

Since the last convention met, all the horror of a great war has fallen upon the civilized world. The hearts of thousands of women have been torn for the death and wounds of those they bore, or those they love. Yet never has their will and power to help been greater, never man's need of such help been more clearly seen. We, who are spared the anguish of war, well understand that, as weight is given in the world's affairs to the voice of women, moved, as men are not, by all the tragic waste of battles, the chances of such slaughter must perpetually diminish. Now is the time, when all things point to the violence that rules the world, now is the very time to press our claim to a share in the guidance of our own country's fortunes, to urge that woman's vision must second and rectify that of man.

Let us, then, in convention assembled, kindle with the thought that, as we consider methods for the political enfranchisement of our sex, our wider purpose is to free women and to enable woman's conception of life in all its aspects to find expression. Then woman's horror of war and of all needless misery, woman's indignation at the exploitation of her sister-woman, woman's care for and wise stress upon the needs of the child will become operative. Let us set a fresh seal upon the great new loyalty of women to women; let our response be felt in the deep tide of fellowship and understanding between all women which today is rising round the world.

Notes and News.

The National Association of Postoffice Clerks at its annual convention last week in Omaha, Neb., unanimously endorsed equal suffrage. The organization has 30,000 members, and 500 delegates were present, among them representatives of every State in the Union.

"The consent of the governed is the true foundation upon which all democratic government must rest," said the resolutions, "and the consent of women as well as men is necessary to establish a true democracy. Therefore we, the National Asociation of Postoffice Clerks, hereby endorse the principle of universal suffrage for all—men and women."

"This is considered a big feather in the cap of the Suffragists," says an Omaha paper, "not only for its effect on the campaign in Nebraska, but elsewhere, as the association is one of the biggest and strongest in the country."

CHICAGO WOMEN'S VOTE A SURPRISE.

Despite Restrictions 50,000 and Not 8,000, as Reported, Went to the Primaries.

The estimate that only 8,000 women voted at the Chicago primaries, which was circulated throughout Chicago and the rest of the country last week, turns out to be an absolutely false one. Later returns showed that about 50,000 women went to the polls. The size of the vote was somewhat of a surprise; for as stated in last week's Woman's Journal a light vote had been expected. Women could not vote for the most important offices and there was a strong feeling of non-partisanship.

Mr. Bok, in the current number of the Woman's Home Journal, advises women to prepare for the ballot. He points out that many benefits would accrue to them by the mere act of preparing. For years Mr. Bok has found nothing too bad to say against suffrage—but no one is keener than Mr. Bok to discern the "drift of the wind."

Some Cookery Suggestions

WELL BALANCED MEAL.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Buttermilk Muffins.
Fish Omelet.
Surprise Salad.
Orange and Nut Glace.
Chocolate.

THIS luncheon is well balanced as to food values and is light and palatable.

Buttermilk Muffins.—Take two cupfuls of flour, a tablespoonful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of soda, a cupful of buttermilk and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Mix in the order given and beat thoroughly. Bake in a hot oven.

Use For Cold Fish.

Fish Omelet.—Take cold boiled white fish, four eggs, a little white sauce, a tablespoonful of milk or cream, an ounce and a half of butter and seasoning. Free the fish from all skin and bones, break into small flakes, melt a small piece of butter in a saucepan, add the fish, with salt and pepper and enough white sauce to moisten the fish. Keep it hot. Slightly beat the eggs, add the milk and season to taste. Melt an ounce of butter in an omelet pan, pour in the eggs, stir over a hot fire till the mixture begins to set, then shake well. Shape it in oval form, put the prepared fish in the middle and fold in the ends.

Surprise Salad.—Take peelings from tomatoes of uniform size, scald and set on ice until cold. Scoop the inside from the tomatoes, leaving a thick shell. With half the pulp mix a few chopped walnuts and half as much chopped celery as you have pulp. Season with salt and pepper to taste and a little sugar. Return the mixture to the tomato shell and set on the ice to get cold before serving on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise.

A Cold Dessert.

Orange and Nut Glace.—Put two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of cold water in a saucepan over the fire. Cook carefully until the sirup spins a thread. Beat the yolks of six eggs very light, pour the sirup upon them slowly, beating all the while. Return to the fire and cook for one minute. Strain into a bowl and beat until cold. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla, one-fourth of a cupful of orange juice and very finely chopped nuts if desired. Turn the mixture into a freezer, and when thoroughly chilled add a pint of cream whipped to a stiff, dry froth; beat well. Fill paper boxes; sprinkle with chopped nuts or grated macaroons; pack and freeze.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Royal Stables of An Emperor.

Belonged to the Kaiser's Only Daughter.

"IT'S wartime, kiddies, and every one's heart is heavy. The most terrible war in history is taking place now over in Europe."

Daddy's face was grave as he gathered Evelyn and Jack in his arms for the evening story.

"Perhaps you would like to hear something about the German emperor, who is at the head of the German army."

"He is an awful fighter, isn't he, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Yes, Jack, but then there are others," said daddy.

"When I was in Berlin I visited the royal stable near the stately palace on the river Spree. As you kiddies are fond of horses, you may like to hear about the horses and carriages that I saw there.

"The stable held at that time about 350 horses and 200 carriages, besides about twenty motorcars. It was three stories high, and I was shown over it by a guide who was dressed in the imperial livery of black with shining silver buttons and a tall hat with a cockade at one side.

"Most of the horses on the first floor were black, though there were a number of gray and white ones.

"The name of the horse and the year of its birth was placed above its stall. The blankets of blue cloth were bound with red and yellow, and tiny crowns and the letter 'W' were embroidered in the corners.

"A white necked, dappled gray bodied horse on the second floor attracted my attention. It was a very handsome horse, and the guide told me that it belonged to the kaiser's only daughter, Princess Victoria Louise.

"Most of the horses on this floor were bay. They were the emperor's hunting horses. Rows of carriages were upon the third floor. There were some very beautiful ones—one in particular, the state carriage of 1740, all glittering with gilt and crowns and eagles.

"In another part of the big room on this floor was a glass case filled with red, gold plated, silver and black and red and black harness. Beautiful red and gold and blue and gold saddles from Turkey and Morocco attracted me very much.

"Jack, you would have liked the elegant driving whips, I think, while Evelyn would have liked the big bunches of ostrich tips and long flowing plumes which are used for trimming the carriages upon state occasions.

"You might wonder, kiddies, how the horses were taken to the second floor. The stable was fitted up with immense elevators, and these were used to convey horses, carriages and motors from floor to floor.

"Back of the stables was a big circular court inclosed in glass, where members of the royal court could ride in unpleasant weather. Good night, kiddies."

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Israel Belowin and Mrs. Israel Belowin:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof in a cause wherein The Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund is complainant and you and Isadore Friedlander and The Plainfield Ice and Supply Company are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint on or before the fourth day of November Nineteen Hundred and Fourteen or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Isadore Friedlander and Lillie his wife, to the said The Board of Trustees of the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial Fund, dated May 1, 1913, on lands in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, and you, the said Israel Belowin, are made a defendant because you are the owner of said mortgaged premises, and you, the said Mrs. Israel Belowin, are made a defendant because you are the wife of said Israel Belowin and entitled to an inchoate right of dower in said lands or some part thereof.

Dated September 3, 1914.

NORTH PLAINFIELD VOTERS

DO NOT BE DECEIVED. CONSOLIDATION WITHOUT ANNEXATION IS NOT PRACTICABLE, AND WILL BE A BURDEN TO NORTH PLAINFIELD NO MATTER WHO SAYS TO THE CONTRARY.

THE BI-MUNICIPAL CONSOLIDATION COMMISSION, OFFICIALLY CONSTITUTED TO STUDY THIS QUESTION, DELIBERATELY SUMS UP BY SAYING:—

"AND WHILE THE COMMISSION HAS NO DESIRE TO HINDER OR DISCOURAGE THIS MOVEMENT, IT HAS REACHED THE CONCLUSION THAT CONSOLIDATION WITHOUT ANNEXATION IS IMPRACTICABLE."

(Signed)
ALEXANDER GILBERT,
FLOYD T. WOODHULL,
MASON W. TYLER,
Commissioners for Plainfield.

BESIDES TWO COMMISSIONERS FOR NORTH PLAINFIELD. ARE THE GENTLEMEN WHO SO VOCIFEROUSLY ADVOCATE CONSOLIDATION IN NORTH PLAINFIELD WISER THAN THESE IMPARTIAL AND DISINTERESTED PLAINFIELDERS?

MR. SAUNDERS ON MONDAY EVENING REITERATED HIS STATEMENT THAT SECTION 5, OF CHAPTER 83, LAWS OF 1900, PROVIDED THAT THE BENEFITS IN CONNECTION WITH THE ALLOTMENT AND DIVISION OF ASSETS, MONEYS, ETC., SPECIFIED IN SUCH ACT WOULD APPLY TO AND BE AVAILED OF AUTOMATICALLY BY THE BOROUGH AFTER CONSOLIDATION.

MR. SAUNDERS REAFFIRMED THIS WITH MUCH SPIRIT AND PROCLAIMED THAT IF HIS STATEMENT OR INTERPRETATION OF THE LAW WAS INCORRECT, THEN HIS ARGUMENTS IN FAVOR OF CONSOLIDATION

WOULD FALL TO THE GROUND

IN ORDER TO SHOW THAT THE PEOPLE OF THE BOROUGH HAVE BEEN MISLED BY THE EMPHATIC STATEMENTS MADE BY MR. SAUNDERS IN THIS CONNECTION, THE OPINION OF A PROMINENT LAWYER, JUDGE COLLINS, OF COLLINS & CORBIN, OF JERSEY CITY, IS HEREBY ATTACHED.

CITIZENS OF THE BOROUGH WHO HAVE BEEN INDUCED TO YIELD ASSENT TO THE PRESENT CONSOLIDATION MOVEMENT HAVE BEEN MISLED AND DECEIVED IN THIS AND OTHER STATEMENTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE ON THIS SUBJECT.

JUDGE COLLINS, OF COLLINS AND CORBIN, SAYS:--

"WITHOUT REGARD TO THE LEGALITY OF THE PROPOSED ANNEXATION OR CONSOLIDATION, UPON WHICH WE DO NOT CARE TO EXPRESS AN OPINION AT THIS TIME, SECTION 5 OF CHAPTER 83, OF THE LAWS OF 1900, ABOVE QUOTED, GRAMMATICALLY AND OBVIOUSLY REFERS ONLY TO CASES WHERE A PART OR PARTS OF A MUNICIPALITY OR MUNICIPALITIES, TOWNSHIP OR TOWNSHIPS ARE ANNEXED TO OR CONSOLIDATED WITH A CITY AND WOULD NOT AFFECT A CASE WHERE AN ENTIRE BOUROUGH BECAME ANNEXED TO A CITY."

(Signed) COLLINS & CORBIN.

$930,000 Per Week Paid for Hudson Cars

$235,600 in One Day
By Individual Buyers

The day before this is written—September 15—the sales made to users of the HUDSON Six-40 were 152 cars. That is, yesterday's buyers of new cars paid out for HUDSONS $235,600.

The average for the past four weeks is $930,000 per week—because that is the limit of output. We are building and selling 100 per day. That is five times as many—five times, mark you—as we sold at this season last year.

And we had no war then—no talk of war's depression. Our average sales have more than trebled since this war began.

That Means That Hudsons Rule the Field Today

In July—when we brought out this new model—we trebled our output to cope with demand. Yet on August 1—despite our best efforts—we were 4,000 cars oversold.

We shipped by express nearly 1,000 cars to minimize delays. That's an unprecedented act. But thousands of men waited weeks for this car, when every rival had cars in plenty. Nothing else could satisfy a man who once saw this new model HUDSON Six-40.

Five-Fold Increase an Amazing Thing

Consider this fact: The HUDSON has long been a leading car. Every model has for years been designed by Howard E. Coffin.

In the HUDSON car Mr. Coffin has brought out all his new advances. And the demand for his models long before the advent of this HUDSON Six-40 gave HUDSONS the lead in this field. The first HUDSON Six, inside of one year, became the largest selling Six in the world.

Think what a car this must be—this new HUDSON Six-40—to multiply that popularity by five in one year. And to do it at a time like this. Think how far it must outrank all the cars that compete with it. Think what tremendous appeal it must make to car buyers.

Think what a car it must be when, in times of slow sales, men pay $930,000 per week for it. And they would pay more if we had the cars to deliver. They yesterday bought at the rate of 50 per cent. more cars because 152 cars arrived.

The HUDSON Six-40 now far outsells any other car in the world with a price above $1,200.

See the Car That Did It
Howard E. Coffin's Best

Come now and see this model—the car whose record is unapproached in the annals of this line. You will see a quality car sold at a price which is winning men by the thousands from lower grade cars.

You will see a class car—in many respects the finest car of the day—which is sold at one-third what class cars used to cost.

You will see how clever designing and costly materials have saved about 1,000 pounds in weight. And in this light car—the lightest of its size—you will see one of the sturdiest cars ever built. You will see a new-type motor which has cut down operative cost about 30 per cent.

You will see new beauties, new ideas in equipment. You will see new comforts, new conveniences—scores of attractions you have never seen before.

They are all in this masterpiece of Howard E. Coffin, who has long been the leading American designer. This is his finished ideal of a car—of the man who is conceded to be final authority.

Mr. Coffin has worked for four years on this model. And the whole HUDSON corps has worked with him—47 able engineers. Part by part, every detail of this car has been brought to its final refinement.

This is the coming type. This lightness, this beauty, this economy, this price are new day standards which men are demanding. And this quality—Howard E. Coffin's level best—is the least that men who know will take.

COME THIS WEEK—SURE

Now's the Time to Choose

This is the time to pick out your new car. Next years models are out now. You have seen what the field has to offer.

If you buy a class car, this new HUDSON Six-40 is the car you'll want. The exclusive features which have won such an avalanche of favor are bound to appeal to you.

Come now, because the best touring months are before you. Don't miss the bright, cool, Indian Summer days. Get your new car and enjoy them.

We won't keep you waiting. We will see that you get the car when you want it if we have to ship by express.

LIVELY DEBATE AT LAST MEETING

Consolidation Gathering Hears Various Interpretations of the Law.

SMALLEY SAYS LIAR

And Then Apologizes Publicly for Having Intimated That Mayor Clark Was One—Crowd Hissed Use of Term.

The largest crowd that has attended the final borough consolidation open-air meetings held during the past ten days, was present last evening long before the hour set for the first speaker. The printing of a half page advertisement in the Daily Press last evening by the anti element, coupled with the distribution of circulars by the pros drew a large number. The special election on this question is being held today.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders presided, as at former meetings, and immediately called the attention of the audience to the fact that the opinion supposed to have been that of Judge Collins, of the law firm of Collins & Corbin was, in reality an opinion of the firm, rather than of Judge Collins, as stated in the advertisement. Mr. Saunders brought out the thought that if such an opinion is to be considered as having any bearing on the question, it should bear the name and signature of one of the firm.

A. C. Pleydell later read opinions from Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, as well as McCarter & English, law firms, in an endeavor to confirm the opinion given out by Collins & Corbin in regard to the meaning of the now well-known Section 5 of Chapter 83, of the laws of 1900. Both of these letters were denounced by Mr. Saunders, as he claimed that the communications had not been signed by individuals.

During the remarks of Mr. Saunders, ex-Mayor Smalley continually interrupted for the opinion of Charles A. Reed, of this city, and this was produced by Mr. Saunders, who read it from a pamphlet, the opinion being dated April 3, 1907. Mr. Reed's opinion differed in many details from the other opinions which had been read.

Charles H. Lyman followed Mr. Pleydell, and referred to the great possible growth of what is now the borough should it become part of Plainfield. He spoke especially of his experiences as a real estate dealer, and inability to dispose of borough property as long as he had lots in this city for sale. He also spoke of the increase in valuations in this city.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., followed Mr. Lyman, and defended the present administration against attacks and against the charges of extravagance and lack of progress which had been made against it by Mr. Smalley and others. The Mayor went into details and made his points, closing by urging the audience to consider the question of consolidation without bringing into the proposition whether the present or any other administration had been extravagant or had made little or no progress.

Mr. Smalley made his final plea in opposition to the consolidation at this time, feeling that anexation first was the proper course to follow. He made charges against Mr. Saunders of misrepresentation of facts, but recited no specific instances.

The gathering turned against Mr Smalley during the closing remarks of Dr. Saunders, when Smalley broke in with the exclamation that Mayor Clark was a "liar," when the latter was mentioned by the speaker. At this break on the part of Mr. Smalley the gathering lost no time in hissing him. Close upon this came a voice from the crowd which termed Mr. Smalley a "——— one." Mr. Smalley immediately withdrew his statement against the Mayor, and later, following a short conference with the Mayor, publicly apologized for his hasty remarks.

Y. M. C. A. "MOVIE" PROGRAM.

"The Gauntlets of Washington," a historical picture, will be the feature at the Y. M. C. A. weekly moving picture shows Saturday. The colored film, "Babes of the Woods," taken from the book, will be the second on the program. Two or three comedies will be shown, including "Winsome Winnie's Way," "Master Fix It" and "The Capture of Mr. Softly Beat It." A picture entitled "Moros Acrobats" will also be shown.

AUTO HIT WAGON.

An automobile driven by Mrs. Isaac P. Runyon skidded on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, hitting one of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company's delivery wagons. The rear wheel of the later vehicle was demolished, but no one was injured. The damage was satisfactorily adjusted by the parties concerned and no arrests were made.

RAISING FUNDS HERE TO AID BELGIAN AFFLICTED

Movement for $1 Subscriptions Started by Charitably Inclined Women.

To aid the wives, widows and orphans of Belgian soldiers a movement was started this morning, at the home of Mrs. Frederick W. Wallace on Hillside avenue, which promises to reach to all corners of the city. As a result an appeal will be made to the whole people for subscriptions of $1 each, and for clothing, which it is expected will meet with a generous response. Larger contributions are not expected and will not be received.

The plan originated with forty of the prominent and charitably inclined women of the city, each of whom pledged herself to secure five subscriptions of $1 each, and each of those subscribers will be asked to get another series of five, so that the $1,000 will, it is expected, be raised without much effort. The original forty subscribers also have agreed to furnish one garment each, and to do all they can to procure more.

The movement is one which has an especial appeal, as thousands of women and children in Belgium have been made homeless and fatherless by the war, and unless relief is given them they face starvation and the rigors of the winter. The movement is conducted in connection with the Belgian Relief Society, which has been formed in this country, and none of the money will be used for the soldiers, every cent going to their families.

In order to try to reach many people who have not been approached in the matter, Daily Press readers may leave their subscriptions of $1 each at the office of this newspaper, and all will be acknowledged in these columns. It is hoped to make the movement a general one in the city, and the originators of the plan think that in a community of nearly 30,000 people fully $2,000 will eventually be raised.

The meeting this morning was a most enthusiastic one, and all of those present pledged themselves to do all in their power to aid the cause. Mrs. Pierre Mali, of East Front street, wife of the Belgian counsul in New York city, presided, and the others present were Mrs. David H. Rowland, Miss Hartridge, Miss Seward, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. J. P. Stevens, Mrs. Elliott T. Barrows, Miss Mellick, Mrs. and Miss VanBoskerck, Mrs. F. D. Warren, Mrs. Frederick W. Yates, Mrs. William A. Conner, Mrs. Van de Linde, Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Henry Cochran, Mrs. Edward Patterson, Mrs. Noah Barnhart, Mrs. John F. Harman, Mrs. James R. Joy, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. Mellor, Mrs. Corey, Mrs. William G. Cooke, Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch, Mrs. William M. Wherry, Jr., Mrs. Duncan Taylor, Mrs. Thomas M. Day, Mrs. Arthur L. Otterson, Mrs. Howard McWilliams, Mrs. Frank Ard, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, Mrs. Howard Tracy, Miss Hope Ivins, Mrs. Charles W. King, Mrs. Francis de Lacy Hyde, Mrs. Louis K. Hyde, Mrs. Walter McGee and Mrs. Wallace.

IT COST MOY ALL OF $2.27 TO GET HIS NOMINATION

Trenton, Sept. 24.—George W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, Progressive candidate for the nomination for Congress in the Fifth district, filed a statement with the Secretary of State today showing that his campaign expenses were $2.27 for carfare and postage.

CAN TALK ALL HE WANTS NOW.

William Garrigues, of the borough, who wasted much energy in interrupting the consolidation open air meeting on Somerset street, last evening, and endeavored to make a speech without the privilege of the floor, was placed under arrest on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. Garrigues was arraigned this morning in the borough police court before Recorder Hand, and was sentenced to spend five days in the North Plainfield lock-up.

DEATH OF JOHN JEWETT, Jr.

Word reached this city this morning of the death of John Jewett, Jr., the five weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jewett, of Cornell, Wis. The death occurred last evening, after a short illness. The young boy's mother was formerly Miss Helen Cruickshank, of Belvidere avenue, this city, while Mr. Jewett is a nephew of Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie.

IT'S A GIRL.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lynch, of Jersey City, formerly of this city, are parents of a girl, who arrived yesterday. Mother and daughter are doing well.

ALLEGED TOOL THIEF ARRESTED BY HIGGINS

George McGauley Taken Into Custody Following Series of Robberies.

Following the theft of tools from a house in the course of erection at Leland avenue and East Front street, Saturday night, Sergeant Maurice Higgins, of the local force, yesterday arrested George A. McGauley, whose apprehension is expected to clear up a number of mysteries of this nature that have been awaiting solution for some time past. Information secured by Higgins and Chief Kiely directed the finger of suspicion at McGauley and his actions were watched for several days by sleuths prior to his arrest.

He was met coming from the rear of the Leland avenue job along the "Big Woods" near Mountain avenue, with a large bundle and taken into custody by Higgins when he failed to supply a satisfactory alibi. After his arrest the local authorities went to the Italian district in Cook avenue, Scotch Plains, and in a house to house search located numerous tools that are said to have been stolen by McGauley and sold to the Italians living there. Among the loot confiscated by the police were tools which McGauley is said by the police to have stolen from his own brother.

The police are making efforts to clear up several other robberies of a similar nature with the aid of their prisoner and when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning he was remanded until tomorrow morning when some disposition will be made of the case.

TWO YOUNG GIRLS WERE ACTING SUSPICIOUSLY

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza and asked to explain their suspicious action that aroused the attention of local business men recently, Lottie Burnett, of Stirling, was given a suspended sentence in the city court, this morning, and her companion, Hannah Backer, of East Third street, was held for re-arraignment tomorrow morning. The girls were arrested by Patrolman Neylon, Tuesday, and Chief Kiely secured a confession from the duo that may aid the police in running to earth several other suspects.

According to the police the two girls have been living together in a room on Watchung avenue and their actions have been the subject of complaint from several sources. Both were given severe reprimands by the court, this morning, and the Burnett girl was ordered to return to Stirling.

CONDITION OF ACCIDENT VICTIMS IS UNCHANGED

According to a report received from Muhlenberg Hospital, this morning, the condition of Mrs. Hart Farley and John Valiant, victims of the midnight automobile crash on the upper end of Park avenue, last Saturday, remain about the same. It is said at the institution that Valiant will recover, but grave doubts are still entertained for Mrs. Farley's case.

Fred Gwyer, the third member of the fated party, has fully recovered from the slight injuries he received. Both Valiant and Mrs. Farley are suffering from fractures of the skull.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 81 degrees; 11 a. m., 84 degrees; 1 p. m., 87 degrees.

SOME BEAN.

The Daily Press Dunellen correspondent, who has never been accused of being a nature faker, turned in the following item this morning. He says if any one is skeptical, all they have to do is to go look at the bean.

Paul Kratzel, of Front street, has a bean which he grew in his garden, on exhibition in the Park Hotel which measures three feet from end to end if it measures an inch. This bean, which is called a yard bean, has certainly lived up to its name. It is not common in the North. Mr. Kratzel obtained his seed from a friend down South where the bean is quite common. It is said to be especially good for cooking purposes. In preparing the bean for the table it is broken up in the same manner as string beans are. It is less difficult to prepare than the string bean is, however, as there are no strings to remove.

ASSOCIATION TO HOLD RECEPTION

Boro Parent-Teachers Plan Affair to Open Year's Work.

SELECT COMMITTEES

Officers Elected Yesterday and Activities for the Year Are Planned Enthusiastic Send-Off for What Promises to Be a Banner Term.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the borough held its first meeting for the ensuing year in the High School assembly hall, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. J. A. Foulks, president for the past year, being absent from the city, Mrs. M. H. Ewert, second vice president, was in the chair. After the reports of the April meeting were read, the association was placed in the hands of the officers elected at that meeting.

The officers for the coming year are: Mrs. M. H. Ewert, president; D. Fred Aungst, first vice president; Mrs. Allen B. Laing, second vice president; Mrs. W. O. Taylor, secretary; Mrs. Judd Stewart, treasurer. The work for the new year was begun by the reading of the constitution, and announcing the new committees. The committees for the year are as follows:

Question box committee: D. Fred Aungst, chairman; Mrs. A. Milne, Mrs. H. Schwed, Miss E. P. Lyndon and Miss S. E. Mackey; reception committee, Mrs. A. E. Kenney, chairman; Mrs. J. E. Bailey, Mrs. J. Green, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, Mrs. C. L. Bennett, Albert Early, Miss A. M. Speidel, Miss Mary R. Robley, Miss K. Dietmar and Miss N. Bauersachs; chaperone committee, Mrs. W. Townley, chairman; Mrs. F. C. Burner, Mrs. J. R. Blair, Mrs. F. O. Dunning, Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs. C. Frank French and Mrs. A. S. Van Denburg; visiting committee, Mrs. L. D. Townley, chairman; Mrs. W. R. Douglas, Mrs. William R. Faber, Mrs. Edward Clark, Miss Edna French, Miss I. Williams and Miss B. K. Nelson; sanitation committee, Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. F. E. Bach, Mrs. E. F. Sheppard, Mrs. J. T. Goodwin and Mrs. C. L. Riley; new membership committee, Mrs. J. H. Buchanan, chairman; Mrs. Corra Ryno, Mrs. L. S. Smith, Mrs. H. Eddy and Mrs. T M. Jones; entertainment committee, Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson, chairman; Mrs. C. M. Dolliver, Mrs. E. S. Boyer, Mrs. Frank Rowley, Miss E. Tantum and Miss L. M. Sydenham.

The president then announced that the executive officers and chairmen of committees will hold a reception at the home of the president, Mrs. M. H. Ewert, 88 Fairview avenue, Tuesday evening, October 6.

The reception is given to the new supervising principal, Prof. F. Aungst, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Early and to all teachers of Somerset and Watchung Schools, to the members of the Board of Education and their wives, to the members of the Parent-Teacher Association and their husbands.

The object is to introduce Professor Aungst and the new teachers. From 8 to 9 o'clock a speaker whose name will be announced later, will explain to the guests the aims of the Parent-Teacher Association and what has been accomplished through its agency in other places.

Professor Aungst was introduced as the first speaker of the afternoon He explained thoroughly the reasons for the present doubling of classes, answered freely all questions asked from the floor, and showed an earnest desire to solve a vexing problem with fairness to all. At the close of his remarks a motion was made that insofar as the Parent-Teacher Association is concerned, "we leave the matter entirely in Mr. Aungst's hands." This was carried unanimously.

J. A. Van Mater, chairman of the building and grounds committee, was then introduced. He explained what had been done in the way of repairs, to bring the Somerset School up to the requirements of the State Board; what they hope to do, and why it had been impossible to go on with the work. After a vote of thanks to these men, the meeting was adjourned.

INDIANS WILL HIKE.

All members of the Indian League, of the Y. M. C. A., are invited to take a long hike Saturday morning and return in the afternoon for a swim. The start will be made from the association building at 8:30 and the party will be in charge of Mr. Meermans. All hikers will take their lunch.

VIEWING THE CHICKENS.

Walter C. Doobins and Frank Dunning, of the Plainfield Daily Press, are attending the annual Allentown Fair, at Allentown, Pa., today. Both are fanciers of chickens of the feathered species and yearly inspect the birds on exhibition at the fair.

SLIT SKIRT INCIDENT HAD NOTHING ON THIS

Scotch Plains School Election Last Night Roused All But the Dead.

Scotch Plains was treated to more excitement, last night, than it has had since the school authorities discharged a teacher who wore a slit skirt. And it was a school matter that caused all the trouble this time. Some weeks ago a special election was held at which $15,000 was voted to build a new schoolhouse in the "big woods" section of Fanwood township, which was to be used largely for colored people residing in that section. At the time a very light vote was cast and it was unanimous in favor of erecting the building. Last night's strenuous campaign also resulted in the voters favoring the proposition.

Because of a technical error in advertising the bonds authorized by the former election, it was found necessary to hold another election, and it was duly advertised to take place between 8 and 9 o'clock. Things were going along in the usual quiet manner of the previous school election at about 8:30, up to which time possibly a dozen votes had been cast. The tellers were contentedly waiting for 9 o'clock to arrive, so that they could retire to their homes for a night's rest, when about forty residents of Fanwood borough section began to drift in unexpectedly and let it be known that they were going to vote against the appropriation.

That stirred things up, and couriers of the faction which wanted the school were sent flying in all directions. Paul Revere's ride had nothing on the speed displayed by some of these messengers, and many a door was pounded until the sleepy inhabitants, who had been in bed for an hour or more, stuck their heads out of the upper windows to inquire "what in tarnation all that noise was about." When the trouble was explained there was a sudden descent on the schoolhouse by residents in all sorts of attire, all intent upon voting before 9 o'clock. It is said that the slit skirt incident had nothing on some of the costumes displayed by women voters.

The school Board had provided 200 ballots for the election, which was about 150 more than is usually cast at such a time. When the crowd arrived, it was suddenly discovered that in the excitement someone had made away with a good part of the printed tickets, and temporary makeshifts were resorted to, being written on pads purloined from the desks of some of the pupils.

Now the antis are threatening to take the matter to the courts, and the pros admit that the election will probably have to be held again. In the meantime the present schools are crowded, and until a new building is provided the educational facilities will not be of the best.

The tellers were Benjamin Elliott and S. Dana Townsend. 127 votes were cast for the appropriation and 43 against.

MR. SCHLOSS WROTE ADV.

William Schloss, of S. Scheuer & Company, is the author of the advertisement of the Business Men's Association, which appears in another column today. He emphasizes a point about buying at home, which cannot be emphasized too many times. The Association would be pleased to have advertisements written by any citizen of Plainfield, and will welcome them if forwarded to postoffice box 575.

Paris, Sept. 24.—An official statement issued here this afternoon announces that the French left wing is making steady progress and that Peronne has been occupied by the French. In an attempt to drive off the French troops who are threatening their lines, Gen Von Kluck is making a sharp attack upon the French forces at Peronne. Perrone is 17 miles northwest of St. Quentin, and more than 70 miles northeast of Paris. In its turning movement therefore the French left wing has advanced about 70 miles since it was driven across the Marne by the swift advance of the German right and there forced the Germans in turn to withdraw.

The complete official statement says: "On our left wing between the Somme and the Oise, our troops have advanced in the direction of Roye, about 25 miles southeast of St. Quentin. A detachment has occupied Peronne and is maintaining itself there despite sharp attacks from the enemy.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne the enemy continues to maintain important forces intrenched. We have advanced slightly to the northwest of Berry au Bac. On the centre between the Argonne and Rheims there is no change. At the east of Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse the enemy continues his attacks with particular violence.

"The combat continues with alternative recoil at certain points and advances at others. On our right wing there is no notable change in the region of Nancy and in the Vosges. Some detachments of the enemy have attempted again to penetrate French territory pushing forward light covering forces, but their offensive has been quickly arrested."

Referring to the situation in the eastern theatre of war the statement says: "In Galicia the Russians have captured Jaroslaw, completely invested Przemysl and continue their offensive against Cracow."

Paris, Sept. 24.—The great force of Germans operating against the left wing of the allies continues to waver under the assaults of the French and English troops. Even the famous Guards are declared to be unable to stand the pressure and are giving more ground.

The diversion attempted in Loraine having proven ineffectual, the Germans are now making a fierce drive in the Woevre district, northwest of Verdun. Their purpose undoubtedly is to cut off the army fighting around Nancy, but the Kaiser's troops already had tried to make an opening between Verdun and Toul, besieging Troyon at the same time. It is doubtful that they will succeed any better this time than they did in the former attempt. The manoeuvre, however, is a great menace to the allies, who are resisting desperately and have thus far repulsed attacks with heavy losses.

That the Germans are losing greatly on their right is also borne out by the continued arrival here of prisoners and wounded. Early today many motors were seen with wounded, both Germans and allies, passing through the streets.

The steady progress of the Allies' left has caused increased confidence here.

The press is a unit in declaring that the battle of the Aisne cannot last much longer, for the steady retirement of the German right must weaken the centre elbow that the Germans threw out along the river Oise to prevent being turned.

London, Sept. 24.—A despatch from Petrograd to the Morning Post says that the main Russian forces pursuing the Austrians and Germans have reached the River Vislok. "This means," says the despatch, "that a possibility of the Austro-Germans near Przemysl effecting a juncture with other armies further west is now excluded.

To the south of Przemysl Russian operations are being directed toward the capture of Sambor, 20 miles south of Przemysl. With the capture of this point the Austrian's last Galician fortress will be completely cut off from railway communication, while Russia will hold all routes westward toward Cracow and also will command the lines passing into Hungary.

A despatch to the Times from Bordeaux today says that interest in the fighting today centres in the Woevre district, where the Germans are making a serious effort to pierce the line of forts linking Verdun and Toul, to the northeast of Verdun.

A despatch from Athens to a news agency says that it is learned from a dipolmatic source that the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau steamed out of the sea of Marmora last Monday and returned to the Bosphorus yesterday.

The movement of the Russian army is now described as a huge wedge, the right line of which extends roughly from Limbau on the Baltic along the railroad line to Warsaw. The Russian General Rennenkamf is guarding this line. It protects the Russian sources of supply and prevents any outflanking movement against the Russian army of attack, which ac-

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

George W. Vander Veer, of Prospect avenue, is attending the Firemen's convention at Atlantic City.

Quite a number of boroughites are planning to take in the Trenton Fair next week.

Mrs. Blanche Teeling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Teeling, of Dunellen avenue, departs for Roselle tomorrow, where she will spend a week as the guest of a cousin, Mrs. Nathanial Noulton.

Mrs. George Lee, of Grove street, is entertaining her brother, Charles Meyer, of Brooklyn, during the present week.

John McMahon, the old Dunellen catcher, witnessed the game between the St. Louis and New York National League teams at the Polo Grounds, yesterday.

Peter Ratti, of Cranford, a former resident, was a visitor in the borough yesterday.

Miss Iva Dayton, of New Market road, departed yesterday for a week's visit with a cousin at Whippany, near Morristown.

William Coriell, of Main street, is spending a couple of days in Philadelphia as the guest of his son, Frank Coriell.

Thomas Beck, of Jackson avenue, is confined to his home with rheumatism.

Clarence Carman, of Jackson and North avenues, has rented the Alvah Gray house on Jackson avenue, recently vacated by Clarence Vliet and will take possession some time next week.

Miss Sophie Alberti, of Hudson, N. Y., who has been spending a month in the borough as a guest of her uncle, George Zink, the North avenue baker, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Harold Chapman and daughter, of Kensington, Conn., are visiting Mrs. Chapman's sister, Mrs. Albert Biernbrauer, of Lincoln avenue.

BOY ABLE TO BE OUT.

Walter Schneiderwind, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, is now able to get around with crutches. One Sunday about two months ago Walter sustained two bad fractures of the ankle as the result of jumping off of the top of the shed in the rear of his home. Walter had made three successful jumps previously, landing on a pile of hay, but on the next jump he missed the hay and landed on the hard ground. Doctors Cooley and Whitford were summoned and they ordered his immediate removal to Muhlenberg Hospital. He was brought home from the hospital a couple of weeks ago.

Edward Sheehan, of Grove street, has resigned his position with H. Cashin, of North avenue, and his brother, Harry, has taken his place.

Leo Logan and W. Fowler Vail visited Mr. Vail's cousins, the Misses Cynthia and Lucella Bowers, at Rahway, last evening.

Oscar Runyon enjoyed a motor boat trip up the Hudson on Tuesday, as the guest of Mr. Lineburger.

WILLIAM DEALAMAN VISITS.

William Dealaman, a former resident, was a visitor in the borough on Tuesday evening, motoring over from Madison. Mr. Dealaman is employed at that place as the manager of the dairy and poultry departments of the large Netherwood Farm. The farm is owned by Edgar L. Marston, president of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, of New York city.

LAY OFF FIFTY MEN.

The Levgar Structural Company laid off about fifty of its night force on Tuesday night. Those affected include some painters and the entire force employed in the beam shop.

PIERSON—CASSET.

Miss Lillian Casset, of 212 Short Third street, Plainfield, and Ernest William Pierson, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Lisbon Pierson, of New Market road, were quietly married at the home of the bride on Tuesday evening, by the Rev. Mr. Vaughn, pastor of the Mount Olive church. The couple will reside at the bride's home. Mr. Pierson is employed by the Consumers Coal Co., of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Field, of Fourth street, witnessed the "Elder Son" at the Playhouse Theatre, New York city, on Saturday evening.

MRS. GEORGE GARDNER.

Mrs. George Gardner, wife of the Rev. George Gardner, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church at New Market, died, aged 56 years, at 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening at her home at Atlantic Highlands. The deceased had not been well for a year. Her death was not unexpected as her life had been hanging in balance for the past two months. Funeral services were held at 10:30 this morning at Atlantic Highlands and at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church, South River. Interment will be made at South River. The deceased, besides her husband, leaves three daughters, Mrs. Walter Nelson, of New Market; Mrs. May Sitch, of Boston, and Miss Frances Gardner, who teaches school at Newark.

MOVED TO NEW YORK.

The household effects of John J. Quinn and family were moved today from the house on Prospect avenue, near Centre street, which they have tenanted for the past four years, to New York city. They move there in order to be nearer Mr. Quinn's place of business. They came to Dunellen from Roselle.

Street Commissioner Isaac V. Smalley and Benjamin Scribner, of Madison avenue, were among those from this place who attended the Allentown Fair today.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dusel, of Walnut street, are entertaining Mr. Dusel's brother, Frederic W. Dusel, of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

BOY SCOUTS TO MEET.

The Presbyterian patrol of Boy Scouts will meet in the chapel of the church this evening. Henry D. Williams, of Prospect avenue, is at present in charge of the troop. A scoutmaster will be elected shortly.

WAR HELPS HIS BUSINESS.

Some of the household effects of Jerome S. DuMont were moved on Tuesday by Isaac V. Smalley from his home on Penfield place to Jersey City, where he has an office. Mr. DuMont is an exporter and importer, dealing principally with South American countries. Since the outbreak of the present European conflagration he has been busy night and day. For that reason he has decided to take up temporary residence near his place of business.

Miss Myrtle Pierson, of New Market road, has fully recovered from the effects of a severe three week's illness. She has received a trained nurse's application from the Lincoln Hospital at New York city and expects to enter soon.

JOHN WYSZENSKI.

John Wyszenski, the one-year-and eight-month-old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Kostonty Wyszenski, of North avenue, died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning from convulsions. The funeral service will be held at the late home tomorrow morning. Interment will be at St. Raymon's cemetery Westchester County, New York State

ACCIDENT IN SCHOOL.

Miss Florence Shantz, the young daughter of Mrs. Mamie Shantz, of Prospect avenue, stumbled over a lad's foot while going down the aisle of the class-room of the third grade in the Whittier School, yesterday. She was thrown to the floor. In falling her cheek hit a blunt object, making a three-cornered incision almost to the bone therein. She was taken at once to the office of Dr. M. J. Whitford, where an adhesive was administered.

A man who gave his name as John Smith, aged 20 years, of Oyster Bay, was arrested by Marshal Isaac V. Smalley at 8 o'clock this morning, while riding a bicycle along the pavement on North avenue. The arrest was made in front of Ratti's. The police are of the opinion that the fellow is a John Doe and that the wheel, whichs in an Eagle, in good condition, was stolen. He told the police that he had been living for the past fifteen years in Oyster Bay and yet he wouldn't give the name of any party that he knew there. When asked where he got the wheel, by Chief Marshal Mohan, he said that he had purchased it from a friend recently for $22. He had nary a cent in his possession, and if the clothes that he has on his back are any criterion of his financial condition he has not had 22 cents alongside of $22 with which to purchase a bicycle, the police say. Chief Marshal Mohan is in communication with the authorities of neighboring places in an endeavor to find out whether any wheel has been reported as having been stolen recently. The fellow will probably be given a hearing before Recorder D. S. Campbell in the borough hall this evening.

VOTE WAS LIGHT.

The voting in the borough on primary day was indeed very light, only 158 voters out of 597 registered taking the trouble to cast their ballots. In the First district there are 361 registered voters, 102 of these voted. In the Second district 56 out of a possible 236 performed their duties. Of the 158 who voted 84 were Democrats, 61 were Republican and the balance of 13 Progressives.

The many local friends of Clarence M. Haight are congratulating him over his nomination at the primaries on Tuesday as one of the assemblymen on the Republican ticket.

Joint Meetings of the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, the Borough of North Plainfield and the Borough of Dunellen, N. J.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Construction of Trunk Sewer and Sewage Disposal Works.

CONTRACTS A AND B.

Sealed proposals for furnishing all labor and materials for constructing a trunk sewer—Contract A, and sewage disposal works—Contract B, for the Joint Meeting of the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, the Borough of North Plainfield, and the Borough of Dunellen, addressed to C. M. Dolliver, Esq., Secretary of the said Joint Meeting, will be received at the meeting place of the said Joint Meeting in the City Building, No. 149 North Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey, until 8:00 P. M., on October 7, 1914, and at that time and place will be opened and publicly read. The bids shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications for the works on file with the said Joint Meeting, and at the office of George W. Fuller, Engineer, 170 Broadway, New York City, from whom copies may be obtained. A deposit of Twenty-five ($25) Dollars will be required for each set of plans and specifications furnished, which sum will be refunded if said plans and specifications are returned in good condition within thirty (30) days after bids have been received and acted upon by the said Joint Meeting.

Proposals shall be made on the blank form of Proposals accompanying the specifications, and may be for either Contract A—Trunk Sewer, or Contract B—Sewage Disposal Works, or both separately. Any proposal containing bids not asked for, or which does not contain prices in words and figures for all items given in the Form of Proposal, or which is otherwise not in conformity with this Notice, may be rejected.

Each proposal shall contain the full name of every person, firm or corporation interested in the same, and the address of the person or firm or the president and secretary of the corporation bidding, and shall be accompanied by a certified check upon a National Bank or Trust Company, drawn to the order of the Joint Meeting of the Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, the Borough of North Plainfield and the Borough of Dunellen, in the sum of Twenty-five Hundred ($2,500) Dollars for each contract bid upon.

The bidder to whom a contract may be awarded shall attend at the said meeting place of the said Joint Meeting with the sureties offered by him within ten (10) days (Sundays excepted) after the date of the notification by the Secretary of the acceptance of his proposal and there sign the contract for the work in triplicate. In case of failure so to do, the bidder will be considered as having abandoned the same, and the certified check accompanying his proposal shall be forfeited to the Joint Meeting.

The checks of all unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon demand, and also the checks of the successful bidders upon the execution of the contract and the furnishing of the required bond. Before the execution of the said contracts, respectively, the successful bidder thereon shall furnish a surety company bond in the sum of Fifty (50%) Per Cent. of the price named therein conditioned upon the faithful performance of such contract. Each bond shall be satisfactory to the said Joint Meeting, both as to form and surety.

The Joint Meeting will not be responsible in any manner for verbal answers to any inquiries regarding the meaning of the drawings or specifications given prior to the awarding of the contracts.

C. M. DOLLIVER,
Secretary.

VOTING HEAVY AT SPECIAL ELECTION

North Plainfield Boards Kept Busy Throughout the Morning.

It has become evident by the large number of votes being cast in the special consolidation election held today in North Plainfield, that the meetings which have been held in the borough for the past week have accomplished their purpose in so far as creating interest in the question to be voted upon is concerned. With the possible exception of the Third, which is the smallest district, all of the various boards were busy from the start, opening this morning at 6 o'clock. A personal canvass of the polls by a Daily Press representative was made shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the majority of the boards reported that the number of votes cast was the greatest ever recorded for that time of day.

The vote cast up to 2 o'clock by the districts was as follows: First, 70; second, 67; third, 38; fourth, 103; fifth, 50; total, 328. The polls will remain open until 7 o'clock this evening, their locations being the same as on primary day.

INCREASED MILEAGE RATES SOON IN EFFECT

Trenton, Sept. 24—Unless the Public Utilities Commission of the State of New Jersey suspends new and increased passenger tariffs, effective October 1, filed by the Pennsylvania, the Lehigh Valley, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lackawanna, the West Shore and other railroads in this State, passengers who use mileage books will have to pay $22.50 for a 1,000-mile book, instead of $20, as heretofore. Just as quickly as the clerical work can be done the roads intend to file increases in the cost of trip tickets.

RUSTEM BAY WANTS TO QUIT.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A. Rustem Bey, the Turkish Ambassador, has asked his government for a leave of absence. It is understod he has written to the President that he sees no occasion to withdraw any of the statements made in several interviews which incurred the displeasure of the American government.

STANDARD FILES PETITION.

Trenton, Sept. 24.—The Standard Automobile and Tire Company, of North Plainfield, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court here today. It claims liabilities of $15,654 and assets of $8,909.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The keystone of every production of operetta is the orchestra, a fact which Henry W. Savage never forgets. Every musical production that he sends out carries its own orchestra and leader; the music must be played spiritedly and accurately or the effect is lost. If the music is slurred and slighted, the principals and chorus are bad and upset and a bad performance is given. That is why Mr. Savage always sends a carefully trained orchestra and an experienced leader with every musical production he puts out, and why his productions are always eagerly looked and do a big business. "Sari," the sensational operetta success which Mr. Savage offers at the Plainfield Theatre tonight, has music of a high quality, sparkling, joyous, piquant rising to grand opera heights in the big numbers, yet always comprehensible and charming to the untrained ear, and a large orchestra is carried to play it. Besides his many light opera productions, Mr. Savage was the original producer of grand opera in English in this country and the orchestra for either sort receives his personal attention.

Originally selected by A. H. Woods to succeed "Within the Law" at the Eltinge Theatre, New York city, "The Yellow Ticket," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night, quickly established a new record, playing to greater business than did its famous predecessor during the corresponding weeks of its phenomenal run. The outcome of the final situation affords one of the many thrills provided throughout three acts of what is perhaps the most vital absorbing and drastic melodramas of the present day.

JAMES JONES TO SPEAK.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance Society of the German Lutheran church expects to have James Jones, of Nyack, as the speaker at the meetings to be held tomorrow at 3:30 and 7:45, at the church, corner Duer street and Craig place. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Brazil Conover, of Jackson avenue, the borough, is confined to her home by illness.

A SPLENDID WORK.

A movement was started in Plainfield this morning which will appeal to every person with red blood in their veins. Initiated by a number of well known Plainfield women, the start has been made toward raising $1,000, all of which will be used for the fatherless, the widows and the wives of Belgian soldiers who have gone to the front and either been killed or incapacitated during the fearful struggle abroad. Anything which has as a primary object the relief of suffering childhood, or those who are deprived of home and the necessities of life, appeals to all true Americans.

The Daily Press has been asked to participate in this work to the extent of receiving subscriptions, which are asked for in the uniform amount of $1.00 each. This is not a plan for the rich alone. It is one aimed to appeal to the purse strings of those in the most humble position in life, and we hope to be able to print the names of scores and hundreds who wish to do their little part in this great and humane work. Contributions may be sent to the Daily Press office, and will be acknowledged in the news columns.

INFECTION FROM ICE.

The modern practice of using ice in food and drinks is so universal in this country that it is important to determine to what degree ice may be relied on as not carrying infection. When in the seventies and eighties of the last century it was shown that bacteria might survive freezing, ice fell under suspicion as a possible medium for the transmission of disease, yet few epidemics have been ascribed to it, and the evidence concerning these has been regarded as inconclusive.

Ice is either natural or artificial. Until recently, in order to secure clean, transparent artificial ice, it was necessary to distil the water used, thus destroying all disease-germs present. With the newer methods employed, filtration is held to be sufficient. H. S. Cumming, in a United States Public Health report, remarks that the fact, well known to chemists, that during crystallization nearly all extraneous substances are expelled from the crystal, was overlooked by sanitarians until recently. In the formation of natural ice, most of the impurities are expelled into the waters of the pond or stream, and the same result is attained by the newer methods of artificial ice-making.

Some natural ice is undoubtedly derived from polluted rivers or ponds. Three great factors tend to purify ice from polluted waters. The first, as just mentioned, is crystallization. The second is temperature—the fact that freezing destroys a large percentage of bacteria. The third and most important is time. The longer the time intervening between the infection of water and its use (as water or as ice), the slighter the chance of the survival of the germs. On this score, natural ice, which is collected and stored for several months before shipment, has the advantage over artificial ice, which is usually marketed soon after it is made. Owing to these free factors—crystallization, temperature, time—clear, clean ice is of itself as free from danger as could be wished.

Artificial ice made from pure water in clean, sanitary factories may be regarded as safe; so also may natural ice cut from reasonably pure deep ponds or lakes and stored under sanitary conditions. Artificial ice made from polluted water in dirty, insanitary factories is unsafe; natural ice cut from shallow polluted ponds or from grossly polluted rivers is also unsafe. Any dirty-appearing, cloudy ice may be infected as well as polluted; no such ice should be used in contact with food or drinks. Ice which is otherwise safe may become infected by improper handling—by being dragged across dirty streets or sidewalks or distributed by unclean hands. This is the great source of danger.

Summing up the situation, The Journal of the American Medical Association says that we may practically eliminate danger by avoiding the handling of ice with dirty hands, by washing the ice with pure water, and by using only clear ice.

The crying need of rural New Jersey, according to a bulletin isued by the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, is social centers where young people can be entertained, amused and instructed under the direction of cultured, clean and competent leadership; where aesthetic surroundings stir the love for the beautiful; where art charges the atmosphere with inspiration and power, and innocent amusements instruct and brighten their lives. To hold the young people on the farm we must make farm life more attractive, as well as the business of farming more remunerative. The school house should be the social unit, properly equipped for nourishing and building character, so that the lives of our people can properly function around it and become supplied with the necessary elements of human thought and activity.

The result of the primary election must have been a great shock to more than one candidate. One of the most gratifying things about the campaign was the strength shown by the Plainfield candidates for sheriff. Had Mr. Cose been alone in the race from this city, it is safe to say that he would have been nominated.

With the borough election over, the next thing to cause excitment in this neck of the woods will be the regular November elections for national, county and local offices. And there is promise of plenty of excitement in that line, too.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press.

In your paper of even date you state, in connection with the action of the Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies in leaving the name of William N. Runyon off the Federation ballot, that "those who answered the questions satisfactorily had their names included on the list printed on the circular."

This is a rather serious statement to make and we presume that you can substantiate it. We will be pleased to see in your next issue a statement as to your authority for claiming that the Federation bound itself to support candidates simply because they answered the questions and that Mr. Runyon alone of those who answered was left off the list. The latter is plainly intimated in your article.

No explanation is needed at this time as to why Mr. Runyon was rejected with others, but part of the answer can be found in Mr. Runyon's answers.

You conclude by making a statement that is absolutely unwarranted and of a very serious nature when you state that the Federation is "supposed to contain in its membership all organizations which are known as Anti-Catholic bodies." That the charge is made in the form of an innuendo makes it no less serious and we ask that you state to your readers what bodies, which are members of the Federation, are anti-Catholic or anti-anything. Things have come to a pretty pass when the mere asking of candidates to state their positions on matters covered in the constitution of the United States and particularly the first amendment leads to a wholesale charge that the action is anti-Catholic. Are we to conclude from this that to be a defender of separation of Church and State, free press, free speech and free schools is to be branded as an anti-Catholic. If this be true then what do the Catholic hierarchy stand for?

We will be pleased to state our position further in detail for the information of your readers upon receipt of a reply in your columns.

PERCY S. BROWN,
President Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies.

September 21, 1914.

(Editor's note—Mr. Runyon having been nominated by a large plurality, the Daily Press can see no reason for again starting a discussion which could be but a repetition of an extended one conducted in these columns some months ago, at which time the whole subject in question was thoroughly aired without any tangible or satisfactory result being obtained, except to materially increase the circulation of the Daily Press. The statements to which Mr. Brown takes exception appeared in our news columns, and if he wishes to state that the organization is not an anti-Catholic one in so many words, without elaboration, his communication will be printed. The Daily Press, when the organization was first named, printed a notice which was sent to it by the secretary setting forth the objects for which it was formed.)

Editor, Plainfield Press:

As communication between friends at home and tourists in Europe has become most difficult and uncertain, I wish to say in the interest of both parties that Americans in Berlin and also those in Holland are well cared for at normal prices and funds are given or loaned to all who need while waiting for transportation. The Honeyman party separated after reaching Berlin from Russia, all except four: Mrs. John Baker and sister, Miss Wimball and Miss Cranswick, going to Sweden.

One member of Mrs. Baker's party being a British subject, is not allowed to leave Germany and while awaiting events the party is comfortable at Hotel Alexandra, Mittel Str., Berlin.

Food prices are normal and banks meeting all demands, while the German army is winning on every side. 70,000 Russians taken prisoners or drowned in marshes of East Prussia, Brussels taken, Liege taken, several divisions of the French army now in flight. Many thousands of Russian prisoners are working the fields in East Prussia.

Belgian barbarism and muscovite ignorance and superstition will never supplant this grandest and best of the European nations.

EMILY P. COARD.

Bismarck Str. 132 Charl-Berlin.

DEATH OF MRS E. W. CAREY.

Mrs. Emmaline W. Carey, widow of the late Tunis J. Carey, for many years a resident of this city, died yesterday afternoon after a long illness. Mrs. Carey was sixty-eight years of age. The funeral services will be held from her late home at 475 West Front street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30, when Rev. Charles M. Anderson will officiate. The interment will be made at Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Carey's late husband was police chief in this city for a short time about twenty-five years ago, and for years canducted a storage warehouse and auction rooms at the stand occupied by Robert Murray, on West Front street. One son, Alvah Carey, of this city, survives.

TO RESUME WINTER SCHEDULE.

The Warren Chapel Sunday-school will resume its winter schedule next Sunday, the sessions convening at 2:45 in the afternoon. Next Sunday the morning service will be held at 10:30 and in the evening.

We Are Selling More Blankets

This season than ever before. The reason for it is, that we have the "RIGHT BLANKETS" and sell them at the "RIGHT PRICES."

As usual we feature the FAMOUS "AMANA BLANKETS," made by the Amana Society, a community at Homestead, Iowa. The products of their mills are widely known for their excellence. The sizes and weights are just what they say they are. Strictly all wool and guaranteed not to shrink, as the wool is shrunken before being made into blankets. The assortment comprises a full line of sizes and weights in white, sanitary grey, fancy plaids and tan color.

At Prices Ranging from $6.00 to $13.50

The Well Known Beacon Blankets

An all cotton blanket that has the appearance of an all wool blanket. The manufacturers claim that they surpass the heavy all wool variety in comfort, protection from cold, appearance and especially in cleanliness.

"BEACON BLANKETS" are made of clean, long staple cotton by a new process that gives them all the wool advantages and at the same time makes them sanitary. We have a big assortment of attractive designs in white with fancy borders. In plain colors such as tan and grey, army blankets in blue, grey, tan and red; also Indian blankets that are true to color and design. The prices of "BEACON BLANKETS" are as interesting as the blankets—

SOME CORRECTIONS IN REPORTS OF PRIMARY

In the rush of compiling election statistics yesterday a few obvious errors crept into the columns of the Daily Press. In the count of votes for William N. Runyon, Republican candidate for Assembly, a transposition of figures made it appear that he had received a vote of 5156, when the figures should have read 1556. In Fanwood township it was shown that Samuel P. T. Wilbur, candidate for sheriff, received 127 votes, which made the grand total cast for the sheriff candidates more than all votes cast in the township. The figures should have been 27, reducing Mr. Wilbur's grand total to 126.

In recording the names of candidates selected in this city for Council, it was stated that the Republican choice in the Third ward was R. S. Rowland. Mr. Rowland was elected a member of the Republican city committee, and Robert H. Cox is the nominee for Council.

THE KAISER'S PIPE DREAM.

By GEORGE I. SILL.

"At midnight in his guarded tent,"
He pipe-dreamed of the hour
When France, "her knee in supplicance bent," He'd view from Eiffel tow'r.

"I'm Europe's War-Lord!" William said,
"Now, take it straight and see,
I'll fill all people full of lead,
Who don't fall down for me."

Then turned he over on his back—
The vision further stirred—
Of carnage, triumph, gave no lack;
It surely was a bird!

And yet, when conquered all the earth,
It turned out but a bore;
Of things to conq., he'd made a dearth,
And William sighed for more.

"Sure, Alexander late of Greece,
Was but a dippy guy,
And ne'er had mourned the reign of peace,
If he had learned to fly.

"The hunch I have, hits like a rock—
I'll get more Zeppelin cars,
And soaring high, proceed to knock
The stuffin' out o' Mars!"

They Can't Be Cured

By GEORGE I. SILL.

"It's going to be too hot for much work, Miss Somers; so just get those letters off and we'll close up at noon and go to the ball game. Nothing doing Saturday and besides, I promised to take Mrs. Blobson. Here are tickets for you and William—don't let the kid punch the umpire."

Mr. Algernon Blobson, fair (and square), fat and fifty, with coat, collar and tie removed, his feet comfortably reposing on a corner of the desk, sat tilted back in his office chair complacently gazing down Sherman street. From time to time he hummed to himself that beautiful ditty which narrates how a certain Mr. McGinty went "to the bottom of the sea, dressed in his Sunday suit of clothes," but seemed quite unaffected by any contemplation of that gentleman's sad experience. Plainly enough, Mr. Blobson was happy.

"You know you expect Mr. Bilks at ten," said Miss Somers, "shall I get that paper out?"

"No, thanks, not now—I'll tell you when. Here William, take this dollar, go to Welton's and get me two 'Paradiso's,' medium; he'll know the kind I want. And, William—don't always be in such a hurry—what color did I say? That's right, medium. Now you can skip!—perhaps you'd better take an 'Empire State Express,' as my friend may be here any minute."

The cigars and Mr. Blobson were waiting, the latter still indicating by song further features of the McGinty episode, when Mr. Bilks arrived.

"Blob," said he in his enthusiastic manner as he shook hands, "upon my word, it does one's heart good to hear you sing. Apart from the keen, unalloyed enjoyment always afforded the artistic listener; it proves as well, that you have a good digestion and a clear conscience. Is this a natural gift of yours, Blob, or the result of much pains and study? Well, well!—and do you often 'bust' forth like this? Are your talents appreciated, generally? Before we get down to talking dull, prosaic business, do give us once more that tender, touching ballad I heard as I came in. While we listened together in the hall as the heavenly strains of 'Down went McGinty' floated out, even the janitor seemed strangely moved."

"'He's be-doing' of it for a nour, said he,—an' I can't get away from it—will ye's call the perlice?'

"'What are you going to do with that stick of dynamite?' I whispered."

"'This aint no dynamite,' the poor fellow answer, 'this is a bokay, an' I'm goin' to t'row it at Mr. Blobson.' Mind all gone—mental wreck—bughouse! However, after some difficulty I dissuaded him."

"Yes," answered Blobson, "it's remarkable how extremely sensitive some people are to melody. But take this cigar as a reward for saving my life, and sit down; we may have an interesting little chat. The first thing I must ask you is, are you elected? Did you see the Mayor, get the paper signed and have everything fixed up? Am I to congratulate you? You didn't know it, but in this matter I've been a sort of rival of yours; although of course your success would make no difference in our old-time friendship."

"No, Al., I sincerely hope not—there are some things in our lives too precious, too sacred, for the contaminating, corroding touch of business. To tell the honest truth, after a long talk I got the contract. There were perhaps, two or three unimportant clauses in it to which I objected, but the Mayor who had to higgle-haggle as usual, changed those to my satisfaction or took them out entirely. I left the document at the house, or you could have had a squint at it."

"Well," said Mr. Blobson, "I might have known from the way you talked the other day, that you would land all right. This good fortune hasn't been thrust upon you Joe—you've achieved it. It's a tribute to your honor and integrity and to your extraordinary genius as a jollier. In a year or two now, I'll see you blossoming out in private yachts and flying machines. But if you do acquire a plethoric wad, don't forget the friends who have stuck to you through thick and thin like pieces of Red Cross sticking plaster; don't give 'em the cold eye, like Mat. Richly. I'm sorry though, you didn't bring that contract around, I should like to have seen it."

"I'll bring it in Monday, sure. But old man, you can rest assured no matter what the circumstances, there'll never be any change in me. I shall remain the same always, and fight for the hard-earned reputation for honesty I now enjoy."

"Well, Joe, I think you couldn't change under any circumstances. But I feel as if I ought to 'blow' on an occasion like this; suppose we go around to Schroeder's and have lunch. As I went by Thursday, I saw them putting green turtles in the cellar and you know this is his day for our favorite dish."

"Nothing would please me better—but Al., let me caution you—not a word of what I've told you to a living soul—perhaps I've said too much already."

"Don't worry—you know the well established character of the grave for silence and keeping a secret?—same here. I must show you something, though, before we start. Miss Somers, will you kindly get that paper from the safe? There, Joe, cast your optics over that, and tell me what you think of it as a contract. Originally, 'there were perhaps, two or three unimportant clauses in it to which I objected, but the Mayor who had to higgle-haggle as usual, changed those to my satisfaction, or took them out entirely.' But come on to Schroeder's—a dry Martini, will give you an appetite."

"Blob, there's some mistake here—as sure as Mary stole——

"Mistake?—of course there is, and you made it. Why won't you take this one to heart and profit by it? Why will you continue to fall down whenever you prevaricate? Oh, my friend," and here, Mr. Blobson clapped him heartily on the back, "strive, I beg, I beseech and implore you, strive to remember the noble words once uttered by that famous Italian, Machiavelli: 'When you tell a lie, tell a good one.' But come on."

COUNTY C. E. UNION HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Encouraging Reports of Work Received, as Season's Program is Planned.

Union, Sept. 24.—A well attended session of the executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union was held here Monday evening. President J. Duer Randolph, of Elizabeth, presided.

Miss Nellie K. Foote, of Elizabeth, in her report as county district secretary, mentioned the fact that a Young People's Society had been organized in the First Presbyterian church, of Roselle. The application of the above society, for membership in the county nion, was unanimously accepted, the secretary having been authorized to notify the Roselle young people of this action.

Walter O. Anderson, of Elizabeth, who is in charge of the special committee to raise the $300 pledged by the union toward the Boston headquarters fund, reported that the plans of the committee have been outlined and that action would be taken at once to try and raise this amount.

The question of financing the union for the coming season's work was discussed, and a motion was finally carried to the effect that Sunday evening October 4, or any other night in October which may be more convenient, be set apart and that each society in the county take up a special collection which is to be turned over to the treasurer for the support of the work.

Attention was called to the State C. E. convention at Jersey City, October 7, 8, 9, to be held in the Bergen Reformed church. Arrangements are being made for a special delegation of two hundred Endeavorers to attend the Friday evening session, representing the Elizabeth and the county unions. Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, will be the principal speaker at this session.

The first county rally for the season will be held in the Central Baptist church, of Elizabeth, October 6 with Karl Lehmann, the United Society field secretary, as the speaker

COSTS LESS TO BE ELECTED THAN RIVAL PAID FOR DEFEAT

Elizabeth, Sept. 24—It cost George C. Otto only $23.65 to be nominated as the Republican candidate for sheriff of Union county, according to the statements of financial expenditures filed.

On the other hand, George H. Stewart, who was defeated for the nomination, spent $45.

TO DRAW UNION CO. JURIES.

Elizabeth, Sept. 24.—The Grand Jury and the first petit panel for the October term will be drawn by the jury commissioners before Judge Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas next Monday. The term opens October 6. The Grand Jury will sit through the entire term, but the petit panel will be replaced by another at the end of two weeks' service.

HUGE SCULPTURED GROUP CELEBRATES AMERICA'S PANAMA CANAL TRIUMPH

First Photographs of A. Stirling Calder's Striking Figures for His Fountain of Energy, Celebrating the Victory of Human Energy Over Earth and Ocean.

Mr. A. Stirling Calder, the sculptor, has just completed the scale models for his triumphal "Fountain of Energy," one of the most important sculptured groups at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and first photographs of the figures are published on this page today.

The theme of the sculptor's work is the triumph of human energy over earth and ocean in the building of the Panama canal. The essential feature of the work is the lightness of effect in portraying a theme which, when attempted in sculptured groups or figures, would ordinarily be expressed in too heavy a mood. The details of the fountain are done in a blithe creative spirit. The figures suggest folk lore and fairy tales. Such figures and sprites were never seen on sea or land.

The Fountain of Energy will prove one of the most striking groups of sculpture upon the exposition grounds. It will be outlined against the vast archway of the great Tower of Jewels through which the visitor will enter directly into the Court of the Universe upon passing through the tropical South Gardens from the main gate of the exposition.

The fountain is unique in its conception. A great globe representing the earth is surmounted by an equestrian figure of "Energy, the Victor," a splendid male figure standing erect in stirrups, with hands outstretched in gesture of command. From his shoulders spring two spirits of fame and glory, who blow their magic trumpets about his head. Sprays of water describing curves with their interplay and motion and light reflection will convey the joyous spirit of the fountain.

In the fountain's main basin at the base of the pedestal are symbolical figures representing the earth's four great bodies of water—the North Sea, the South Sea, the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean.

The spherical pedestal which the triumphal rider surmounts is modeled to represent the earth, crossed from north to south by a decorative band, following the path of the sun's travel through the heavens. This band will be ornamented with symbolic figures of the earth's response to the quickening action of the sun. Surmounting the pedestal and at the base of the figure of Energy, growing out of the sphere as though a part of it, are two figures representing the eastern and western hemispheres.

Of thirty-nine nations that accepted invitations to participate in the Panama-Pacific exposition, only four are involved in the war. None have withdrawn, and if they should, the exposition would still surpass all precedent. Within three weeks after war began, Holland increased her appropriation, France cabled there would be no change in her plans, the first emissaries of English manufacturers arrived, Argentina, in view of new trade alignments, increased her appropriation; Japan, which made a splendid exhibit at St. Louis while at war with Russia, sent word that her display at San Francisco will be the finest she ever has made. The exposition expects to draw a lot of the half billion dollars that has annually been spent by American tourists in Europe.

The four figures of the four seas stand out from the pedestal in the basin and in the circular pool are two alternating lines with the figures of water sprite, and demons mounted upon odd fishes, executed in a whimsical spirit.

The idea of Energy will also be brought out by the play of water. Curving sprays of water in opposite directions will give intricate play and action to the design. The waters of the fountain will describe four interesting curves, the heaviest sheet spreading downward from the top of the pedestal to the pool and each line of "outriders" throwing the curve back toward the center of the fountain.

Mr. Calder's imaginative genius is admirably portrayed in the figures representing the four seas. These figures are as follows:

No. 1. The North Sea portrays an Esquimau peering over the back of a walruss intent on spearing his prey.

No. 2. The South Sea portrays a giant negro, finned and tattooed, mounted on a prodigous sea elephant, survivor of prehistoric oceans. The great black is amusing himself with a wriggling octopus and he is as indolent and good natured as a young puppy. No more striking representation of Mr. Calder's genius could be given than in this picture.

No. 3. The Atlantic Ocean, a water sprite riding on a helmeted dolphin and grasping in her hand as a tridant a flying fish and twisted sea serpent, representing submarine communications. Her head dress is hung with shells and corals. The helmet of the dolphin is symbolical of triumphant navies and armored merchantmen.

No. 4. The Pacific Ocean, representing the goddess of the Pacific, mounted upon a huge sea monster and rising easily over placid waters.

No. 5. Central pedestal surmounted by an equestrian statue, "Energy, the Victor."

FOWLER OFFERS HIS SERVICES TO CAPSTICK

Congratulates Successful Opponent and Says Republican Success Necessary.

John H. Capstick, successful Republican nominee for Congress in the Fifth Congressional district, has received the following telegram from Charles N. Fowler, who was his opponent for the nomination:

"John H. Capstick, Montville, N. J.:

"Accept my heartiest congratulations. The interests of the people demand that the Republican party be returned to power. To achieve this result in this Congressional district my services are at your command until November 3.

"Charles N. Fowler."

It was because Morris county rallied loyally to his support that Mr. Capstick won the nomination over Mr. Fowler, as is shown in the light of later developments. Determined to change the order of things and place a man in nomination on the Republican ticket from the Morris and not from the Union end of the Fifth Congressional ticket the Capstick men have succeeded. Unofficial figures give Capstick about 600 majority.

It was Morris that turned the tide of battle and denied to the former chairman of the committee on banking and currency the chance to "come back." Fowler went out of Union with about 600 votes to the good, and if Morris had accorded the former representative anything like its old-time support, he would have won easily. The returns from sixty-two out of sixty-three election districts in Morris give Capstick 2,681 and Fowler 1,498, which means he will have at least 1,200 majority. The unofficial returns from Union county give Fowler 2,981 and Capstick 2,378. The one Morris district to be heard from is conceded to be a Capstick district, which will give the latter even a still larger margin over Fowler. One of the last districts to come in was Capstick's own district in Montville, which gave him something like 125 votes over Fowler.

William T. Stuchell ran third in Union and in Morris. His total vote in the former county was 1,242, and 410 in the latter.

It was a foregone conclusion as early as 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night that Thomas J. Pierson, the Democratic candidate opposing William E. Tuttle, Jr., did not stand a chance of winning out. While the returns on the Pierson-Tuttle fights are not complete in Morris they show that Pierson has been beaten there by a vote of more than two to one. In Union county Pierson received 2,087 and Tuttle 3,520. In Elizabeth Pierson received 1,683 and Tuttle 2,216.

HOW PRIMARY FIGHT WENT IN SOMERSET COUNTY

An interesting conflict for the Fourth District Congressional Republican nomination was staged in the Somerset county section of the district by the principals, William Delaroche Anderson, Elijah C. Hutchinson, Frederick A. Pope and William E. Blackman. Pope routed his rivals there with a plurality of about 200 over Hutchinson. Representative Allan B. Walsh, seeking the Democratic nomination, also won the advantage there from his rival, Charles J. Blake.

Somerset, like the Mercer and Hunterdon parts of the district, accepted J. Wiggans Thorn as the Progressive Congressional candidate.

The State Senator Democratic nomination, for which Speaker Azariah M. Beekman, William V. Steele and Frederic G. Thomas, all of Somerville, clashed, went to Beekman by about 175 plurality.

Mr. Beekman, who was Speaker of the House last session, was backed by the organization. He had been groomed for appointment as Circuit Court judge, to succeed Judge Black, who was promoted to the Supreme Court bench, but was induced to go after the Democratic nomination for Senator. Mr. Thomas, who as a clothier, made a strong denial during the campaign that he ever had anything to do with the Smith-Nugent combination. Mr. Steele was formerly Mayor of Somerville.

William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, was renominated for State Senator by the Republicans and Charles C. Kenyon, of Somerville, by the Progressives, both without opposition.

For Assembly these were nominated: Republican, Ogden H. Hammond, of Bernardsville; Democrat, Francis E. Bodin, of Watchung; Progressive, Irving S. Whiting, all unopposed.

NEW MARKET MAN NAMED FOR ASSEMBLY IN MIDDLESEX

Middlesex county gave William M. Ramsey (Rep.) for Representative to Congress from the Third District, 12[illegible] plurality, with a few small districts missing. W. Burtis Havens (Rep.), who withdrew in favor of Hetrick, polled 878 votes. Hetrick's name was not printed on the ticket. He will be a candidate, however, as a Progressive, having polled fifty-odd votes as such. The candidacy of Representative Thomas J. Scully (Dem.), of South Amboy, for renomination found no opposition in Middlesex.

That Middlesex's three Assembly seats are valued is shown by the fact that they were ardently sought was indicated by the four aspirants for the nominations. George A. Solt, of Metuchen; George S. Applegate, of South River; Dr. Louis J. Belloff, of New Brunswick, and Clarence M. Hight, of New Market, asked to be put on the Republican ticket, with the result that Solt was the loser.

With Assemblyman Arthur A. Quinn, of Perth Amboy; William Smith, of Sayreville; Charles T. Grace, of South Amboy, Dr. E. Leon Loblein, of New Brunswick, and Charles Anderson, of South River, as the timber from which to pick the Democratic nominees, the voters selected Quinn, Loblein and Anderson.

The Progressives put up only two men as Assembly candidates, George E. William and George W. Ustfeld.

Competitors for the Democratic shrievalty nomination were Acting Sheriff Arthur B. Appleby, of Spotswood; Freeholder Andrew Ely, of Dayton, and Deputy Sheriff Edward F. Houghton, of New Brunswick. The last named succeeded in polling 2,046 votes, against 1,551 for Appleby and 1,495 for Ely. The Republican and Progressive shrievalty candidates, respectively, are John F. Ten Broeck, of Perth Amboy, and William Crowell, also of Perth Amboy.

For county clerk, the Democrat nominated Bernard M. Gannon (incumbent) and the Progressives, former Sheriff William H. Quackenboss of New Brunswick. Neither was opposed. Mr. Quackenboss expects to file a petition soon to run as an independent candidate, too.

Former County Clerk John H. Confer and former Alderman Leslie P. Johnson, both of New Brunswick were claimants for the Republican county clerkship nomination. Congel became the nominee by a substantial majority.

$600 APPROPRIATED FOR UNION'S MOSQUITO FIGHT

Elizabeth, Sept. 24.—The Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission yesterday announced that it had appropriated $600 to ditch the salt marshes north of Elizabeth along the easterly side of the Central Railroad tracks.

The State Legislature has appropriated an equal amount for this work which will be carried on jointly by Union and Essex counties.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

RANDOLPH TO OPPOSE CINCINNATI REDS

"Nibs" Hand Will do the Catching in Big Exhibition Game.

Perth Amboy's all-star Pacer team to oppose the Cincinnati Reds at Amusement Park, Sunday, has been completed with two exceptions, a shortstop and an outfielder. Definite word is expected today from the shortstop who has been spoken of. His name is McErleen and as a Fordham College player he was regarded as the best fielding shortstop in college baseball.

"Blackie" Regan may play the vacant outfield position. The fast Franklin player has agreed to don a Pacer uniform and there is a strong possibility that he will play the outfield.

"Skip" McCarthy, of the Poughkeepsie team, who played with the Pets last year, wired last night that he would be on hand to play the outfield Sunday, and a postcard was received from "Skip" Eley, stating that he would be on the job, so with an outfield composed of McCarthy, Eley and Regan there will be a strong combination to oppose the Reds. McCarthy is the best base runner in the Atlantic League. He gets a good start off first and has the hook slide down to perfection. He is daring on the bases and scored more runs than any other Poughkeepsie player this past season.

Cliff Randolph and Frank Hand, of this city, both announced last night that they would be on deck Sunday to do the battery work. Randolph's appearance Sunday will be welcomed by the fans, who have not seen him since his arm went wrong. Randolph was supposed to report to Connie Mack in Philadelphia on September 9, but the condition of his arm prevented. Arrangements have been made whereby the clever hurler will make the spring training trip with the Athletics next year.

Randolph claims that his arm is all right now and he expects to hold the Reds down to a very low score. He feels that if the Pacer combination is able to score four runs in back of him that he will be able to hold the Reds down to a less number. Randolph had his arm fixed by Bonesetter Reese, at Youngstown, Ohio, three weeks ago. There was a misplaced bone in the elbow. It took Reese about five minutes to set the arm right and then he told Randolph he could go right out and throw all the fast balls he wanted. Reese, however, warned Randolph not to throw a curve ball for a week. Three weeks have elapsed since that time. Randolph pitched a shut-out game against a semi-pro team last Sunday.

WORLD SERIES WILL START DAY AFTER LEAGUES CLOSE

Chicago, Sept. 24—Play in the world's championship baseball series probably will start on October 8, one day after the American and National League seasons are brought to a close, according to President B. B. Johnson, of the American League and member of the National Baseball Commission.

President Johnson asserted there was no truth in the report that October 10 had been decided on as the date for starting the series.

"It is our aim to start and finish the series as early as possible," Johnson said. "I believe we can arrange to play the first game on October 8. There is no reason for delay."

In the event that the Boston Nationals and Philadelphia Club of the American League are contenders for the world's title, two games will be played consecutively in each city instead of alternating each day, as was the case between New York and Philadelphia. The place for the opening game, it was announced, will be decided by the flip of a coin.

RUBBER MATCH TO BE ROLLED ON LOCAL ALLEYS TONIGHT

For the third time this year, the Somerville and Plainfield Eagles bowling teams will meet tonight in the playoff of the match series which now stands a tie. The match will be played on the local alleys and the Queen City birds have an excellent show of taking the rubber decision. The first match was rolled on the Second street alleys and resulted in a victory for the county seaters but the second one went to the local team and the fight for the third will be interesting.

Crowley will be out of the Plainfield lineup as he received an injury to his finger while pinning at Rahway, Monday. The teams will probably lineup as follows:

HOLY CROSS RIVALS PLAN BIG SEASON

Dexters Look Forward to Meeting Locals in Perth Amboy.

When the pigskin starts a'rolling in Perth Amboy, October 18, the opponents of the fast Dexter eleven will be the Edgewaters, of Stapleton, S. I. This game has been secured by Manager Arthur A. Quinn, Jr., of the Dexters, who has also made arrangements with the management of Amusement Park for the use of a gridiron to be laid out there. Negotiations are being made with various other fast teams in the State for games both at Perth Amboy and out of town gridirons.

Within a few days the Dexter warriors will be donning their moleskins and getting out for practice. "Tom" Hanson, one of the best football coaches in this section of the State, will probably take charge of the team again this year, and under his coaching the State champions should make rapid strides. Although Hanson will probably be unable to devote much time to the coaching of the team as in former years, he has the interests of the Dexters at heart and his services to the team are sure to prove very valuable.

The arrangements whereby the Dexters will be given the use of Amusement Park assures Perth Amboy followers of the gridiron game that their football appetite will be more than catered to this season. If proper support is given by the public the football schedule of the Dexters can be more extensive than ever this year and some fine teams will be booked by Quinn. Probably the game this season that will draw the most interest will be the clash with the Holy Cross eleven, of this city. The Dexters registered a win over the latter aggregation last year on Cricket Field and the game this year may be staged in Perth Amboy.

While there is an abundance of material at hand for the team this year, it is likely that the Dexters will lineup practically the same as in the past two years. With such a formidable line as they possess and their snappy backfield, the Dexters should make a record on the chalk-lined field this year, since they will be offered far better facilities than ever before. Quinn is anxious to give the football loving public the very best attractions and the Dexters are certainly capable of "delivering the goods."

BROOKLYNITES TRIMMED BY PUBLIC SERVICE NINE

For the first time since baseball was introduced as a sport among the street railway employes the Public Service exponents of the national game tried their hand against a team of invaders from another State yesterday. The visitors were the best the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system had to show in the way of baseball talent and they descended upon the Hilton grounds confident of their ability to show the Jersey trolleymen a thing or two about how the game is played in the City of Churches. The display they made was not enough to worry the P. S. boys, who won the game by a score of 10 to 9.

Accompanied by a delegation of fans of both sexes, the Brooklyn contingent made an early start for the scene of activities. They were met by the Public Service with gaily decorated special cars and escorted to the ball grounds.

When play was called at 3 o'clock a large crowd was on hand including many officials of the Public Service and Brooklyn companies. The home contingent put forth its best efforts and had the break in the luck. Lawlor and Heckel was the battery for the Public Service and Brooklyn had Miller and Ahearn in the box and King at the receiving end. A return game will be played at Bedford Park, Brooklyn, October 1. Score of yesterday's contest.

DOUBLES TOURNEY PLANNED FOR COUNTRY CLUB COURTS

The ladies' doubles tennis tourney will be started at the Plainfield Country Club, Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Entries may be sent to any of the following persons: Mrs. Story Rowland, 'phone 981; Miss Madeline Ashwell, 'phone 863-M; Miss Florence Stuart, 'phone 304-J. Entries for the event close Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

This tournament is one of the leading feminine events held on the local club's courts and is expected to attract the attention of a host of aspirants to the title. Prizes have been offered for competition and the winning team will be recognized as the feminine champions of the club.

JACK MARTIN SPIKED IN MONDAY'S GAME

Plainfield Player's Place Being Taken by Sherwood Magee Temporarily.

Jack Martin has once more been forced into temporary retirement and is watching the Philadelphia club's contests from the bench while Sherwood Magee is supplying the gap at short. Martin's old time jinx came to the fore again Monday afternoon and he was spiked in the leg. This is one of a series of accidents that the Plainfielder has suffered since he has been in the game and the injury this time, while painful, is not considered serious. He will probably get back into the game this afternoon or tomorrow.

The player's friends in this city have noted the disappearance of his name from the Phillies' box score just at a time when the club needs his services the most and much speculation was unearthed as to the reason for his absence.

BOYS' CLUB IS ORGANIZED AT HEAVENLY REST CHURCH

At a meeting at which about twenty boys were present last night, a Boys' Club was organized in the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The following officers were elected to serve for a term: Juan Babcock, president; C. Stitcher, vice president; Wendell Hutchcroft, secretary; Ralph Jacobs, treasurer. The club was formed to promote social and athletic ends and a basketball team will be formed in the near future. If a junior league is formed in this city this team will enter.

The members are planning to get about twenty-five into the club and a committee was appointed last night to draw up a constitution and by-laws, and report at the next meeting. Meetings will be held on the first and third Fridays of every month.

JUMPING FEATURED WEEKLY RUN OF HUNT CLUB HOUNDS

Considerable jumping featured the weekly morning run of the Watchung Hunt Club, this morning, the affair being a successful one, enjoyed by all who took part in it. The riders and hounds left the club at 6 o'clock this morning greeted by ideal weather conditions and proceeded over a tract that wound up in back of New Market and through Picton.

Not an incident occured to mar the pleasure of the run and the jumps were all taken in excellent style by the horses. A fair sized field took part in the run, the following turning out: Rufus Finch, Mrs. Rufus Finch, J. P. Fox, of Westfield; H. L. Finch, Lawrence Smith, a Miss Mary Baker, of New York, and Huntsman Harris. The first of October will mork the renewal of the bi-weekly afternoon runs.

AMATEUR'S IN ACTION.

Clever golf by America's foremost amateurs is looked for this afternoon and also tomorrow at the Baltusrol Golf Club's course. Today there is to be a four-ball match, with Jerome Travers, the many-time amateur champion, of Montclair, paired with Max Marston, of Baltusrol, against Francis Ouimet, the young national amateur champion and hero of the national open a year ago, who will play as a partner of George Low, the Baltusrol professional.

RUTGERS SPURNS LEFTY FLYNN.

New Brunswick, Sept. 24—A rumor emanating from Princeton that Lefty Flynn, former Yale star, was to play on the Rutgers eleven against the Tigers was heard here yesterday. Coach Foster Sanford, of Rutgers, was asked about it. "Rumor has it," he said, "that Flynn tried to enter college but was refused admission." Flynn's spectacular departure from Yale and the refusal of the faculty to have him back apparently was remembered.

MARSTON A WINNER.

Max R. Marston, of Baltusrol, won his first chief golf trophy of the season when he defeated Hamilton K. Kerr in the final round of the invitation tournament on the links of the Greenwich Country Club, yesterday. The margin in favor of the former interscholastic champion was slight, as he finished only 1 up over the Greenwich man.

DUFFEY A WINNER IN SIX CONTESTS

Knights of Columbus League Pinning Was Brisk on Club's Alleys Last Night.

Wilson took two and dropped the third of a series in the Knights of Columbus one man bowling tourney on the club's chutes last night, setting up a double century in the opening collision and dropping to a 156 in the curtain contest. Harry Pasch was Wilson's opponent and by increasing his average three points in the second tilt and by another eight pins in the final setto he managed to take the last tilt with twenty-one counters to spare.

Fred Hillman bowed to John Duffy in all three of their engagements. Hillman fell ten points in arrears in the curtain raiser, was minus forty-three in the second and twenty-five points separated the two in the farewell match.

Duffy had an easy assignment with Harry Pasch, flashing a 214 in the starter and came within one pin of chalking up a second double century in the third. Duffy fell below form in the middle game and got away with the decision by three pins.

Wilson and Hillman engaged in a close series during the evening. Wilson came to the fore with three pins to the good in the first, but fell eleven short in the second. Hillman took the odd game with a twenty-six pin lead and captured the series.

The following contests are due to be decided tonight:

Caulfield vs. G. Taylor.
Strappe vs. Moynihan.
Strappe vs. Caulfield.
G. Taylor vs. Moynihan.

STINE AND NASH TRY FOR COLLEGE ELEVEN

Local Athletes Expected to Make Backfield Berths on Springfield Team.

Herbert Stine and Jim Nash, local athletes who are attending the International Y. M. C.A. College at Springfield, Mass., are candidates for the 1914 football team. Nash is a candidate for the quarterback job and Stine will cast his lot at halfback. According to information coming from the college the Plainfield duo is making good at the institution and it would not be a great surprise to see both Stine and Nash made regulars. The latter has played some good football with Holy Cross and the Plainfield High School team and is a formidable performer at any position. Recently he has played the halfback position more frequently than any other, but he possesses the necessary qualities for a field general, being a quick thinker and a student of the game.

Stine went to North Plainfield High School where football has been a foreign sport for the past three years. During his first year in High School the institution promoted the gridiron sport and he was a star member of the eleven.

George Townley and Donald Sminck, two other Plainfield boys at the college, will confine their pastiming to baseball. Townley pitched for the team last year and Stine caught.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES ELECT OFFICERS

The following boys have been elected to the board of directors of the Boys' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School: Ralph Runyon, Herbert Peacock, William Peacock and Daniel McNamee.

There was no majority between Benjamin Rosenson, James Noonan, William Wheelan and James Herrman. The tie will be voted off later.

BASKETBALL STAR RETURNS TO THE N. P. H. S. QUINTET

Roy Love, a graduate of North Plainfield High School last June, has returned to take up a post graduate course. While in school Roy Love played on every basketball team the school put out. He held down forward position on last year's five and was the mainstay of the team.

Love, in addition to the team will help the maroon and black to put out another winning team this year. Love expects to enter Penn State College next year and has returned to take up some subjects required to enter.

BOARD WILL MEET.

The Plainfield Board of Education will hold a meeting in the Plainfield High School, Monday night.

COPS AND FIREMEN IN ANNUAL SESSION

Atlantic City the Mecca for New Jersey's Force of Bluecoats.

Chief T. O. Doane, D. W. Littell and V. W. Nash, Sr., left yesterday to attend the annual convention of the New Jersey Firemen's Association in Atlantic City. This is said to be one of the wealthiest organizations of volunteer fire fighters in the country. The executive committee of the organization met last night at the Hotel Dennis, and the convention which for four years past has brought paid and volunteer firemen into acrimonious collision over the disposal of a rich fund contributed by insurance companies will be formerly convened today on the steel pier. General Bird W. Spencer, of Passaic, has been president of the association since it was organized thirty years ago.

The New Jersey State Patrolmen's Association is also in session in Atlantic City, 3,000 policemen being in attendance. The delegates from the local organization there are Roland McIntyre, Michael O'Brien and John Herrman. Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy, of this city; William McNeeley and Harry Deter, of the Westfield force; Captain John J. Flynn, William Mernagh and V. F. Bader, of the local force, are also attending the sessions. Elizabeth sent a delegation numbering close to 200. They will parade in Atlantic City today with music by police bands of up-State cities and tango tonight at the Inlet Pavilion.

COMMANDEERING HORSE FOR ARMY

FRENCH SAY BATTLE WILL SOON END

cording to news in London, is beginning to operate in the direction of Posen and Breslau, Germany. The left of this line now rests on Warsaw from which point railroads tap the rich and populous district extending to Odessa.

The occupation of Galicia links up to the Warsaw railroad system and is regarded in London as insuring both supplies and reinforcements.

The Germans are hastily reinforcing their line between Thorn and Kalisz, the latter point being southeast of Posen, even to the extent of abandoning their position against General Rennenkampf.

Tokio, Sept. 24.—The war office makes the official announcement that British troops under Brigadier General N. W. Barnardiston, commander of the North China forces, landed September 23 in the neighborhood of Laoshan Bay to participate in movements against the Germans at Tsing Tau.

London, Sept. 24 (Central News Cable).—Out of the 2,200 officers and men aboard the three British cruisers sunk by German submarines, over 1,000 are now known to have been saved.

A despatch received here this morning from Calcutta states that an armored cruiser, believed to be the Emden, of the Germany navy, appeared on Tuesday night off Madras and fired several shells on the oil tanks belonging to the Burma Oil Company, situated near the harbor there. Two of the tanks immediately became ignited, while two other oil containers were considerably damaged. Guns from the fort were quickly trained on the warship, whereupon she extinguished all lights and hurriedly steamed away. The whole affair did not last more than fifteen minutes, but during that time two native Indians and a boy were killed. The damage done by the cruiser is estimated at three lakhs of rupees. There was an absence of any panic among the observers of the warship's action.

The Paris Matin prints a despatch from Petrograd stating that the Germans who drove General Rennenkampf back in Russia, are reported to have suffered a great defeat at Subir. The Russians have re-occupied Soldau in East Prussia on the Polish frontier A despatch from Cettinje says that it has been officially announced there that the Montenegrins operating in Bosnia after a fierce engagement have taken the small town of Pratzho, which is near Sarajevo.

According to a message from Paris to the Central News, the Russian cruiser Bayan has sunk a German cruiser and two torpedo boats in the Baltic.

The first naval engagement of the war took place in the Baltic Sea. The German cruiser Augsburg started bombarding the Russian naval port Libau, on August 3, when she was attacked by a Russian cruiser. The Augsburg was reported sunk by a Russian torpedo boat on August 7.

The light German cruiser Magdeburg ran ashore in a fog on an island at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland on August 27. She was surrounded by a Russian fleet and blown up. A majority of her crew was saved by the German torpedo boat V-26 under a heavy fire from the Russian fleet.

Since the start of the war there have been various reports of bombardments of Russian ports by the German fleet.

Pekin, Sept. 24.—The railroad bridge between Kiau Chau and Tsing Tao has been dynamited by the Germans. Japanese forces have seized the railway in Shan Tung and have made prisoners of all the German railway officials.

The Chinese government has notified Germany that she is powerless to prevent the landing of the Japanese in Chinese territory.

Paris, Sept. 24.—Capt. Henke, one of Germany's most noted military experts, has estimated that the cost of the present war is $14,000,000,000 a year.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Secretary Bryan announced late yesterday that Russia has agreed to sign one of the peace treaties and that he is hoping that the other belligerents will do the same.

Secretary Daniels today issued orders for the closing of the Siasconsett wireless station at noon tomorrow. The drastic action was taken because of the failure of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company to explain its handling of unneutral messages, or to give assurances of its intention in the future to observe the government regulations.

Venice, Sept. 24.—According to reports reaching here, Asiatic cholera has broken out among the wounded soldiers in Hungary. Nine cases have already been discovered and there is much concern felt in official circles.

Lucerne, Sept. 24 (Central News Cable)—The Swiss Givernment has established a repatriation bureau by which civilians detained in belligerent States may regain their own countries. Both France and Germany have agreed to the scheme for exchange except that each has made exception to men of military age.

Amsterdam, Sept. 24 (Central News Cable)—The Germans continue entrenching about Brussels, constructing strong earthworks before the sites of their guns, many of which have been posted.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary Van Cleef, of Richmond street, who is ill, is said to be improving.

Alfred G. Bauer, Jr., and family, of Third place, have removed to Martine avenue.

Mrs. Willis, of Duer street, has returned home after spending some time at Stewartsville.

Mrs. C. F. Hopewell, of East Seventh street, is now able to be around after a four weeks' illness.

BRING PRESSURE TO BEAR ON MEXICANS

President Wilson Trying to Adjust Latest Villa-Carranza Difficulty.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Pressure of the strongest description is being brought to bear on General Villa and General Carranza to adjust their differences and thus prevent a renewal of the revolution in Mexico. The White House and the State Department both began a vigorous campaign today with this end in view. It is possible that Paul Fuller will be hurried south again.

Coming within five hours of Mr. Fuller's report yesterday to the President that everything south of the Rio Grande was in peaceful guise the declaration of hostilities by Villa has caused the greatest surprise here. It is generally believed that the troops now at Vera Cruz will be retained where they are. Orders for their withdrawal next month very probably will be withdrawn and the fleet again will be increased.

Secretary Garrison will see the President later in the day, when the matter will be considered.

The Mexican embassy claimed to be without advices from its government today, but Charge D'Affairs Uruiquida declared that he was led to believe that the existing difficulty would be settled without bloodshed. As the embassy understands it, the trouble occurred when General Carranza and his lieutenant, General Obregon, broke their promise to evacuate the State of Sonora on the taking of Mexico City, and turn it over to General Villa.

Incensed at this Villa ordered Obregon arrested. It was reported also, that he commanded the prisoner shot. General Carranza immediately interfered and the issue was joined.

The White House, however, takes a different view of the situation. It is regarded as arising entirely out of the differences between Carranza and Villa on the land question. Carranza, who is a large holder, has not moved as rapidly in this direction as Villa believed he should have done. It was made clear at the White House that the threatened recurrence of the Mexican trouble would in no wise change this government's policy with regard to Mexico.

Despite the fact that representatives of Carranza in Washington admit that the first chief has been informed by telegraph by Villa that he will not recognize the validity of the elections to be held in October, War Department officials persistently declare that they had heard nothing of a revolution in northern Mexico.

HEBREW CHARITIES.

The United Hebrew Charities Organization met in regular session, last evening, at Abrams' Auditorium, at which time routine business was transacted. Reports of the various officers and committees were received and indicated that much was being accomplished to relieve the needy among the Jewish faith in this city. The organization, at this time, is giving much attention to the raising of funds for the relief of the poor among the Jewish people of Europe and Palestine during the struggle that is creating suffering among so many.

INSTRUMENTS OF WAR SLAUGHTER

Murderous New Weapons of Battle Now In Use.

DEATH DEALING "GRENADES"

One Modernized Type Fired From a Howitzer Throws Two Pound Missile 300 Yards—Explode on Contact, Scattering 215 Bullets Over a Hundred Square Yards.

At the siege of Port Arthur the Japanese made such effective use of improvised hand grenades that the attention of military experts was attracted, with the result that this ancient weapon has also been modernized. One type of modern hand grenade, the Aasen, weighs one kilogram and contains 190 bullets. As these fly in all directions, says the New York Evening World, it can only be used from under cover. Another form of the grenade can be fired from a howitzer weighing about twenty-four pounds, which can be carried in a case like a rifle. It throws a murderous missile weighing about two pounds to a distance of 300 yards. It explodes on contact, scattering 215 bullets over an area of about 100 square yards. Still another type of this so called grenade can be fired, with the aid of a stick thrust into a rifle barrel, to a distance of 400 yards.

Most deadly of all is the mine grenade, weighing eight pounds and containing 400 large bullets. This is buried a few inches under ground. When an enemy is over the mine the touch of an electric button causes it to spring out of the ground until it is checked by a chain at a height of a yard above the surface, when it explodes, mowing down every man in the vicinity.

Heavy Shells and Their Targets.

The Belgian resistance at Liege has drawn public attention to modern fortresses and their defense. Heavy shells fired from long ranges will penetrate as much as twenty feet of sand, which offers more resistance than other soils. Moreover, a shell which explodes after it has penetrated soil will cause more damage than if it explodes in the air on account of the confinement of the earth it has penetrated. Walls exposed to fire are therefore made of from five to ten feet of concrete, sometimes reenforced with steel. Over these there are a few inches of dirt as a bed for grass so that the fortification may be concealed.

In practically every European country either turrets or iron and steel revolving cupolas containing guns such as those used at Liege are in use.

The value of night attacks was emphasized in the Russian-Japanese war, with the result that troops have been specially drilled in this form of operation and numerous devices for offense and defense have been invented. One of these is the new portable searchlight, with which all European armies are provided to some extent at least. These consist of a generator driven by a gasoline engine mounted on an automobile. These are especially relied upon for protection in case of attack by a dirigible and also in attacks on the ground.

Parachute Lights.

In the absence of a searchlight a force may be equipped with parachute lights, a sort of grenade weighing fourteen ounces, which, with the aid of a firing stick, can be shot from a rifle to a distance of 50 to 100 yards, where it will float in the air and burn brilliantly for a half to three-quarters of a minute. A larger form of parachute light, fired from a field gun with a small charge of powder, floats in the air, giving a dazzling light for several minutes.

A phase of war of interest to the military expert is the fact that an American invention, the gun silencer, devised by Hiram Percy Maxim of Hartford, will be given a thorough trial. Some of the silencer's advantages are, according to official reports, the muffling of the noise of firing, allowing the voice of the officer to be heard, thus giving better control of firing.

PARIS TO USE GREAT SECRET

Terrific Surprise For Germans In a "War to Kill."

A London Daily News correspondent in Paris sends the following censored message:

"I wish I could let you know the real position of things in the present situation, or situations, of our own force. Perhaps I may mention the open secret that if the Germans are rejoicing in the progress of their great siege guns, towed here by 30,450 horses, we have a surprise quite as cheering for them here, once they get to close grips.

"And, besides this, we are all asking ourselves how far their extraordinarily nice sense of humanity will prevent the French from making use of their great secret. This is a war to kill and to be decided by the number killed. And then Lord Kitchener is an unknown factor. We know a great deal about it now.

"General Gallieni is an army in himself, an administrator of established reputation and a fighter by temperament—one of the dangerous, intellectual type. Paris will be in ruins, a tomb of heroes, before he surrenders the pivot of the allied position."

EVOLUTION OF THE RED CROSS TO ITS PRESENT WAR EFFICIENCY

Sending of Hospital Ship Abroad Crowns Half Century of Usefulness.

How the Society Originated. Foreign Nurses Undergo Rigorous Training.

IN this year of titanic conflict, when the greatest war in history is raging on the fields of Europe, the Red Cross passes the fiftieth anniversary of its organization on an international basis. For half a century the Red Cross insignia, by treaty and agreement, has been respected by civilized nations wherever its crimson flag was raised in war or peace. In 1864, when the civil war was drawing to an end, a convention of nations assembled at Geneva, published and ratified the first code governing its operations. Since then there have been revisions and modifications, all tending to further alleviation of the horrors of battle through an extension of the immunity of the Red Cross and ending finally in the revision of 1906.

Under the code then adopted the Red Cross today is operating on the European battlefields. But it was fifty years ago that the first convention laid the foundation on which the Red Cross attained the international authority essential to insure its success.

Florence Nightingale's Work.

The work of the famous sanitary commission during the American civil war was the inspiration of the international convention. The great good accomplished by this organization discovered to the world the possibilities of rendering practical succor to the sick and wounded of belligerent armies. Long before this, however, Florence Nightingale had set her heroic example to disclose to the world what women could do in the field hospitals of war.

STEAMER RED CROSS FITTED OUT BY AMERICAN RED CROSS SOCIETY TO MINISTER TO THE WOUNDED IN EUROPE'S WAR.

In 1854, when all England was stirred to its depths by the report of the sufferings of the sick and wounded in the Crimea, Miss Nightingale, with a staff of thirty-seven nurses, set out for Scutari, to arrive in time to receive the wounded from the field of Balaklava. From that moment, it might be said, organized Red Cross work in the wake of clashing armies dates its advent.

Today whoever legitimately wears the Geneva badge is, to all intents and purposes, neutral. Buildings over which the Red Cross flag flies, trains, ambulances and tents are similarly immune from hostile attack and fire. And, of course, the same convention applies with equal force to the sick and wounded of belligerents who are under Red Cross protection. On the sea special laws prevail, safeguarding as far as may be a warship's hospital quarters and its medical and surgical supplies. Provision, too, is made for the neutralization of hospital ships and under the terms of the convention a belligerent may equip ships of this kind, which, being a partisan part of the nation's naval or military equipment, bear a horizontal bar of green around their hull to distinguish them from purely neutral ships of the same order, equipped by neutral funds, which bear the familiar red border in a broad band around their hulls, as in the case of the ship Red Cross, which this country fitted out.

Nurses Brave Hardships.

The system is elaborately organized in England, and there the Red Cross nurses—the women—undergo a rigorous campaign training to acquaint them with warlike conditions. They learn not only the essentials of hospital attendance, but learn, too, the details of quick action in emergency. They must become good horsewomen, inure themselves to hasty shifts of position and prepare themselves for all the discomforts and exigencies of life in the field and in the camp. They are especially uniformed in a practical garb and carry with them emergency equipment of a surgical or medical character.

The system of caring for the wounded in battle as it is practiced by England is little different from the systems employed by France, Germany, Russia, Belgium, Austria and Japan. Japan, as a matter of fact, is even more advanced in the methods pursued than the other nations now involved in the international conflict.

The British System.

In actual battle, to use the British system by way of illustration, when a soldier falls wounded he does, first of all, what he can to assist himself. He carries with him a first aid outfit, and with this by himself or with the assistance of comrades, he is able to apply an immediate dressing to the wound to prevent infection and to stay the loss of blood. As soon as possible, of course, he goes to the rear. He may make his way thither alone or be borne from the field by stretcher bearers, who, even in the heat of action, go forward to render aid.

As soon as possible the soldier is next placed in an ambulance wagon and removed to a dressing station farther from the front. Here his wound is examined, if an examination is necessary, but unless circumstances make further dressing advisable nothing more is done. His "specification tally," the card diagnosing his wound, has already informed the surgeon the nature of the injury, and a hasty examination verifies the orginal diagnosis, amends it or ends with an additional notation, and the soldier is again ready for transfer farther to the rear.

But here, however, any operation that is urgently called for and cannot be delayed is performed. At the earliest time possible he is again transferred, this time to the hospital at the base, whence, eventually, he returns to his command if he recovers rapidly enough or is invalided home by hospital train or hospital boat to be nursed back to health in hospitals far removed from the theater of war.

Insignia of Neutrality.

Regimental stretcher bearers, numbering two to each company, have been carefully trained in time of peace to perform the duties that devolve upon them in actual battle. When the engagement begins these men relieve themselves of their arms, adopt the Red Cross insignia to indicate their noncombatant functions and take post where they can be of immediate service in removing the wounded from the line. They deposit their burdens in the emergency stations and return immediately to the front.

The soldier passing through the various hospital stations may first encounter the women of the Red Cross as close to the firing line as the general field hospital. Here the British wounded meet with the nursing sisters who belong to the army nursing reserve—those liable to army duty at command of the government. These are not volunteer Red Cross nurses, but are, on the contrary, as regular a part of the regular army as the medical corps itself.

In Germany and in France the Red Cross is officially recognized and is placed under the direct military control. In England, while it co-operates in every detail with the army medical corps, the Red Cross preserves its own organization intact. In Germany the volunteer organization is presided over by an imperial commission or inspector general and the Red Cross operates according to his instructions. Nurses and doctors volunteering are assigned by him to various commands, but it is a rule of the German service that no volunteer who is not of German nationality can be assigned to duty with the army in the field. At base hospitals, however, the services of foreigners are welcomed, but authorization to engage in the work must still emanate from the war office. The same rules regulate the service in France.

Ship to Aid All Nations.

The assistance of the American Red Cross will be rendered to the wounded of all armies in the European conflict. The American society is operating a neutral hospital ship, the Hamburg, borrowed from the Hamburg American line, and renamed the Red Cross. This, of course, bears the characteristic red insignia of the Red Cross and flies also the American flag. By both tokens, however, the ship is pledged to render assistance indiscriminately. If the services were to be directed specifically to the relief of the sick and wounded of one individual belligerent, then, in addition to the Red Cross band of red, ships must fly the flag of the nation in whose special service they are engaged.

Thirty surgeons and 125 nurses compose the first relief party sent by this country to the European war zone on the Red Cross.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

CHAPTER XI.

The Last Rebel King.

THE king was in a feverish, irritable mood all that evening, but he made his plans nevertheless with infinite cunning. They must get the bombs away. There must be a couple of atomic hay lorries; the bombs could be hidden under the hay. Pestovitch went and came, instructing trusty servants, planning and replanning. The king and the ex-king dined together, and the ex-king talked very pleasantly of a number of subjects. All the while at the back of King Ferdinand Charles' mind fretted the mystery of his vanished aeroplane. There came no news of its capture and no news of its success. At any moment all that power at the back of his visitor might crumble away and vanish.

It was past midnight when the king in a cloak and slouch hat that might equally have served a small farmer or any respectable middle class man, slipped out from an inconspicuous service gate on the eastward side of his palace into the thickly wooded gardens that sloped in a series of terraces down to the town. Pestovitch and his guard-valet Peter, both wrapped about in a similar disguise, came out among the laureis that bordered the pathway and joined him. It was a clear, warm night, but the stars seemed unusually little and remote because of the aeroplanes, each trailing a searchlight, that drove hither and thither across the blue. One great beam had seemed to rest on the king for a moment as he came out of the palace, then instantly and reassuringly it had swept away. But while they were still in the palace gardens another found them and looked at them.

"They see us," cried the king.

"They make nothing of us," said Pestovitch.

The king glanced up and met a calm round eye of light that seemed to wink at him and vanish, leaving him blinded.

The three men went on their way. Near the little gate in the garden railings that Pestovitch had caused to be unlocked, the king paused under the shadow of an flex and looked back at the palace. It was very high and narrow, a twentieth century rendering of mediaevalism, mediaevalism in steel and bronze and sham stone and opaque glass. Against the sky it splashed a confusion of pinnacles. High up in the eastward wing were the windows of the apartments of the ex-king Egbert. One of them was brightly lit now, and against the light a little black figure stood very still and looked out upon the night.

The king snarled.

"He little knows how we slip through his fingers," said Pestovitch.

And as he spoke they saw the ex-king stretch out his arms slowly like one who yawns, knuckle his eyes and turn inward—no doubt to his bed.

Down through the ancient winding back streets of his capital hurried the king, and at an appointed corner a shabby atomi automobile waited for the three. It was a hackney carriage of the lowest grade, with dinted metal panels and deflated cushions. The driver was one of the ordinary drivers of the capital, but beside him sat the young secretary of Pestovitch, who knew the way to the farm where the bombs were hidden.

The automobile made its way through the narrow streets of the old town, which were still lit and uneasy—for the fleet of airships overhead had kept the cafes open and people abroad—over the great new bridge, and so by straggling outskirts to the country. And all through his capital the king, who hoped to outdo Caesar, sat back and was very still, and no one spoke. And as they got out into the dark country they became aware of the searchlights wandering over the countryside like the uneasy ghosts of giants. The king sat forward and looked at these flitting whitenesses, and every now and then peered up to see the flying ships overhead.

"I don't like them," said the king.

Presently one of these patches of moonlight came to rest about them and seemed to be following their automobile. The king drew back.

"The things are confoundedly noiseless," said the king. "It's like being stalked by lean white cats."

He peered again. "That fellow is watching us," he said.

And then suddenly he gave way to panic. "Pestovitch," he said, clutching his minister's arm, "they are watching us. I'm not going through with this. They are watching us. I'm going back."

Pestovitch remonstrated. "Tell him to go back," said the king, and tried to open the window. For a few moments there was a grim struggle in the automobile; a gripping of wrists and a blow. "I can't go through with it," repeated the king. "I can't go through with it."

"But they'll hang us," said Pestovitch.

"Not if we were to give up now; not if we were to surrender the bombs. It is you who brought me into this."

At last Pestovitch compromised. There was an inn perhaps half a mile from the farm. They could alight there and the king could get brandy and rest his nerves for a time, and if he still thought fit to go back he could go back. "See," said Pestovitch, "the light has gone again."

The king peered up. "I believe he's following us without a light," said the king.

In the little old dirty inn the king hung doubtful for a time and was for going back and throwing himself on the mercy of the council. "If there is a council," said Pestovitch, "by this time your bombs may have settled it."

"But if so these infernal aeroplanes would go."

"They may not know yet."

"But, Pestovitch, why couldn't you do all this without me?"

Pestovitch made no answer for a moment. "I was for leaving the bombs in their place," he said at last and went to the window. About their conveyance shone a circle of bright light. Pestovitch had a brilliant idea. "I will send my secretary out to make a kind of dispute with the driver, something that will make them watch up above there. Meanwhile you and I and Peter will go out by the back way and up by the hedges to the farm."

It was worthy of his subtle reputation, and it answered passing well.

In ten minutes they were tumbling over the wall of the farmyard, wet, muddy and breathless, but unobserved. But as they ran toward the barns the king gave vent to something between a groan and a curse, and all about them shone the light—and passed.

But had it passed at once or lingered for just a second?

"They didn't see us," said Peter.

"I don't think they saw us," said the king, and stared as the light went swooping up the mountain side, hung for a second about a hayrick and then came pouring back.

"Into the barn!" cried the king.

He bruised his shin against something, and then all three men were inside the huge steel girdered barn in which stood the two motor hay lorries that were to take the bombs away. Kurt and Abel, the two brothers of Peter, had brought the lorries thither in daylight. They had the upper half of the loads of hay thrown off, ready to cover the bombs, as soon as the king should show the hiding place. "There's a sort of pit here," said the king. "Don't light another lantern. This key of mine releases a ring."

For a time scarcely a word was spoken in the darkness of the barn. There was the sound of a slab being lifted and then of feet descending the ladder into a pit. Then whispering and then heavy breathing as Kurt came struggling up with the first of the hidden bombs.

"We shall do it yet," said the king. And then he gasped. "Curse that light. Why in the name of heaven didn't we shut the barn door?" For the great door stood wide open, and all the empty, lifeless yard outside and the door and six feet of the floor of the barn were in the blue glare of an inquiring searchlight.

"Shut the door, Peter," said Pestovitch.

"No!" cried the king, too late, as Peter went forward into the light. "Don't show yourself!" cried the king. Kurt made a step forward and plucked his brother back. For a time all five men stood still. It seemed that light would never go, and then abruptly it was turned off, leaving them blinded. "Now," said the king uneasily, "now shut the door."

"Not completely," cried Pestovitch. "Leave a chink for us to go out by."

It was hot work shifting those bombs, and the king worked for a time like a common man. Kurt and Abel carried the great things up, and Peter brought them to the carts, and the king and Pestovitch helped him to place them among the hay. They made as little noise as they could.

"Ssh!" cried the king. "What's that!"

But Kurt and Abel did not hear and came blundering up the ladder with the last of the load.

"Ssh!" Peter ran forward to them with a whispered remonstrance. Now they were still.

The barn door opened a little wider, and against the dim blue light outside they saw the black shape of a man.

"Any one here?" he asked, speaking with an Italian accent.

The king broke into a cold perspiration. Then Pestovitch answered. "Only a poor farmer loading hay," he said and picked up a huge hay fork and went forward softly.

"You load your hay at a very bad time and in a very bad light," said the man at the door, peering in. "Have you no electric light here?"

Then suddenly he turned on an electric torch, and as he did so Pestovitch sprang forward. "Get out of my barn!" he cried and drove the fork full at the intruder's chest. He had a vague idea that so he might stab the man to silence. But the man shouted loudly as the prongs pierced him and drove him backward, and instantly there was a sound of feet running across the yard.

"Bombs!" cried the man upon the ground, struggling with the prongs in his hand, and as Pestovitch staggered forward into view with the force of his own thrust he was shot through the body by one of the two newcomers.

The man on the ground was badly hurt, but plucky. "Bombs!" he repeated and struggled up into a kneeling position and held his electric torch full upon the face of the king. "Shoot them!" he cried, coughing and spitting blood, so that the halo of light round the king's head danced about.

For a moment in that shivering circle of light the two men saw the king kneeling up in the cart and Peter on the barn floor beside him. The old fox looked at them sideways—snared, a white faced evil thing. And then as, with a faltering suicidal heroism, he leaned forward over the bomb before him they fired together and shot him through the head.

The upper part of his face seemed to vanish.

"Shoot them!" cried the man who had been stabbed. "Shoot them all!"

And then his light went out, and he rolled over with a groan at the feet of his comrades.

But each carried a light of his own, and in another moment everything in the barn was visible again. They shot Peter even as he held up his hands in sign of surrender.

Kurt and Abel at the head of the ladder hesitated for a moment and then plunged backward into the pit. "If we don't kill them," said one of the sharpshooters, "they'll blow us to rags.

They've gone down that hatchway. Come!"

* * * * * * *

It was still quite dark when his valet and Firmin came together and told the ex-king Egbert that the business was settled.

He started up into a sitting position on the side of his bed.

"Did he go out?" asked the ex-king.

"He is dead," said Firmin. "He was shot."

The ex-king reflected. "That's about the best thing that could have happened," he said. "Where are the bombs? In that farmhouse on the opposite hillside? Why, the place is in sight! Let us go. I'll dress. Is there any one in the place, Firmin, to get us a cup of coffee?"

Through the hungry twilight of the dawn the ex-king's automobile carried him to the farmhouse, where the last rebel king was lying among his bombs. The rim of the sky flashed, the east grew bright and the sun was just rising over the hills when King Egbert reached the farmyard. There he found the hay lorries drawn out from the barn with the dreadful bombs still packed upon them. A couple of score of aviators held the yard, and outside a few peasants stood in a little group and stared, ignorant as yet of what had happened. Against the stone wall of the farmyard five bodies were lying neatly side by side, and Pestovitch had an expression of surprise on his face, and the king was chiefly identifiable by his long white hands and his blond mustache. The wounded aeronaut had been carried down to the inn. And after the ex-king had given directions in what manner the bombs were to be taken to the new special laboratories above Zurich, where they could be unpacked in an atmosphere of chlorine, he turned to these five still shapes.

"What else was there to do?" he said in answer to some internal protest.

"I wonder, Firmin, if there are any more of them?"

"Bombs, sir?" asked Firmin.

"No, such kings."

"The pitiful folly of it!" said the ex-king, following his thought. "Firmin, as an ex-professor of international politics, I think it falls to you to bury them. There? No, don't put them near the well. People will have to drink from that well. Bury them over there, some way off, in the field."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The straight plaited skirt makes one of the interesting features of the season.

Here is one that is designed for machine plaiting, but that plaiting may take the form of accordion or flat plaits as preferred. It is just a simple straight piece, but the plaits are pretty and graceful, and they are especially well adapted to the beautiful soft materials that are so much in vogue.

For indoor use crape, the soft satins, chiffon and the other light weight materials are liked and, for the street,

Some Cookery Suggestions

SEASONABLE FARE.

DINNER MENU.
Soup.
Creamed Spinach.
Mashed Potatoes.
Mutton Ragout With Macaroni.
Banana and Lettuce Salad.
Peach Cream Whip.
Coffee.

A SIMPLE dinner for the family may be prepared according to the above menu.

Creamed Spinach.—Wash, cook, drain and chop fine one-half peck of spinach. In a saucepan melt one tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-third teaspoonful of pepper, and cook for two minutes. Gradually stir in three-fourths of a cupful of rich milk until smoothly thickened, add the spinach, draw to one side and simmer gently for ten minutes. Serve on toast.

Plain, but Wholesome.

Mutton Ragout With Macaroni.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a stew pan, add one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper from which the seeds have been removed and a teaspoonful of chopped onion. Cook until the onion is a golden brown. Add one-quarter of a cupful of browned flour and cook until frothy. Then stir in slowly one cupful of the liquor in which the mutton was cooked, and when thickened add one cupful of tomatoes. Season with salt, pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-quarter teaspoonful of horseradish. Put in slices of cooked mutton, heat and turn over boiled macaroni.

Banana and Lettuce Salad.—Wash a head of lettuce, line the dish with green leaves, shred the rest of the lettuce, mix with one large or two small pared sliced bananas and a chopped hard boiled egg. Dissolve one tablespoonful of sugar and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt in vinegar. Mix and serve

A Delicious Dessert.

Peach Cream Whip.—Sprinkle a large cupful of sliced peaches with a small cupful of powdered sugar, allowing them to stand until a thick sirup forms. Then press through a fruit sieve and pour slowly upon a pint of cream that has been whipped solid, beating constantly. Place directly on the ice to chill, and just before serving fold in the stiffly whipped white of one egg.

Just Then the Alligator Yawned.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How a Naughty Bird Fed a Park 'Gator.

"KIDDIES, do you remember the alligators you saw in the Bronx Park zoo when we stopped in New York city on our way to the seashore?" asked daddy.

"Yes. And how cunning the little baby alligators were," said Evelyn.

"Do you remember that there were many signs, 'Do Not Feed or Annoy the Animals,' posted all over the zoo?

"Of course we obeyed the signs. But I'll tell you tonight about a little English sparrow that disobeyed the signs and fed one of the alligators.

"He was a very inquisitive little sparrow and was delighted with all the sights of the zoo. But he didn't believe in signs or else he was an ignorant little sparrow and had never learned to read. Anyhow, he cocked his saucy head to one side, looked at one of the signs for a minute and then proceeded to do all the things that the signs advised him not to do.

"He flew outside the big cage where the birds are kept and sneered and chattered away at them as loudly as possible, telling them all about the delights of freedom.

"Then he looked at the bisons and storks, flew into the snake house and chirped at the big snakes crawling around in the big cages his message of delight at his own ability to wander where he wished. He visited the lions and leopards, the tigers and wildcats and regarded the hippopotamuses with round, beady, inquiring eyes.

"Then he flitted over to where the alligators were lazily sunning themselves. There was something about those sleeping alligators that seemed to arouse all that little sparrow's mischievousness.

"He flew over the railing that is built around the alligator pond to protect the public from the alligators, crocodiles and snapping turtles and also to protect the inhabitants of the pond from the public.

"Then he fumed and fussed and chirped and chirped and pecked and pecked around until one of the very biggest alligators waked up.

"Well, perhaps that little sparrow didn't almost burst himself with glee when he found he could wake that great big alligator.

"Just then the alligator yawned. You see, he was very sleepy even yet.

"Then his jaws snapped.

"Then—there wasn't any more sparrow.

"That mischievous little sparrow had broken the most important of the park rules—he had fed that alligator.'

"Himself!" shouted the kiddies.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The popularity of the High School lunches is becoming more evident each day. The Mothers' Association is receiving lavish praise for the efficient manner in which they are satisfying the needs of 600 and 700 teachers and pupils during the short noon period. It was a colossal undertaking, but the women, with Mrs. Herbert Parker as chairman, have "risen to the occasion," and are making a great success of the work. The food provided is nourishing, well cooked and palatable.

The Washington-Irving School in New York city is providing supper for the night students, and working girls go from their shop or store direct to the school, where they may rest and enjoy themselves until class time.

The October "Ladies' Home Journal" has an excellent picture and sketch of the life and work of Mrs. Marietta L. Johnson, who has lectured in Plainfield on her "School of Organic Education." Those who saw and heard her will immediately recognize her charming face. Like many brilliant people, she has had a hard financial struggle.

The Mothers' Magazine for October is an especially helpful issue, and every parent should read "Parental Delinquency," "The Primary Cause of Juvenile Wrong-doing in the Home," by Richard Maxwell Winans. His first sentence is this: "It has been suggested by an eminent jurist that in all probability a most decided improvement would be effected if a few parents were sent to jail for permitting their offspring to grow up into hoodlums or worse." Chief Justice Russell, New York, is quoted as saying: "Three-fourths of the cases that crowd the calendar of the New York Children's Court are either the direct or indirect result of improper guardianship."

The veteran justice, Joseph M. Denel, proposes a new code of law suits, making parental delinquency a misdemeanor. "The new code is heartily advocated by Judges and those having to do with juvenile courts. The theory now being advanced that parents should be held responsible for the delinquency of their children, is particularly worthy of consideration as a radical means to an end in juvenile correctional methods. All persons having the welfare of the child at heart, and particularly American mothers should do all in their power to further its practical application. The records of our juvenile courts furnish ample justification for a thorough-going inquiry into the degree of parental neglect and incompetence responsible for the incorrigibility which usually proceeds from bad bringing up. As a measure of social justice for children, indeed, the special courts established to try their offenses might advantageously be supplemented with courts for cases of parental delinquency. In this connection Earnest K. Coulter, of the Manhattan Children's Court and who speaks with a knowledge and from motives born of an unprecedented experience with cause and effect as related to juvenile delinquency, said that if corporal punishment were provided for the offense of parental delinquency, one of his principal delights would be to operate a powerful and effective spanking machine to chastise delinquent parents, who through carelessness, neglect—and worse—have allowed their children to reach the care or correction of the Children's Court." "Do not think for a moment," he added, "that the brunt of such punishment would fall upon the 'unusual' parent of the tenements and the lower classes, for in the more than one hundred thousand cases which I have observed, it is unfortunately the altogether 'usual' parents of the middle or better classes who are the more prominent and frequent offenders."

"It is encouraging to know," says Chief Justice Russell, "that environment is more important than heredity in influencing and determining juvenile delinquency. If it is now too late to select a child's ancestors, it remains entirely possible to change their environment. And when the child's environment becomes what it should be, then the aid of the Children's Court will no longer be required. I maintain that the primary cause of the child's danger is in the home. The object to be aimed at is not to provide institutional care, but to reclaim the family and to place it permanently on a higher level."

There is also the first installment of a story, "Making the Worst of a Boy," in the same issue of the Mothers' Magazine, which will provide food for earnest thought.

STATE EXHIBIT FOR CITY AND BOROUGH

Boards of Health and Anti-Tuberculosis League Planning for Demonstration.

At a meeting held in the Board of Health rooms, Tuesday night, plans were made for the State Tuberculosis Exhibit which will be held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, October 12 to 16 and 19 to 23. This will cover a period of two weeks, omitting Saturday and Sunday, when the exhibit will be closed.

A general committee was appointed last night, of which William S. Tyler is chairman, and the exhibit will be under the direction of the Boards of Health and the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. A meeting will be held during the latter part of this week when final plans will be made. The members of the general committee in charge of the exhibit are as follows:

Did it ever occur to you that this is one of the easiest ways of accumulating money? Dividends, interest on bonds, mortgages and other securities, gifts of money —anything, in fact, that is not needed for actual living expenses, should be laid aside in a special account instead of being frittered away. The habit can soon be formed and there is a fascination about watching such an account grow. We invite you to test the truth of this statement by opening an "income account" in our Special Department which will be subject to

4% COMPOUND INTEREST.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

DENTISTS' OUTING A GREAT SUCCESS

Local Professional Men Present at Fourth Annual Clambake of Society.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Feature Program of All Around Entertainment In Which Each of the Members and Guests Participated.

Plenty of excitement prevailed at the fourth annual clambake of the Plainfield Dental Society held at Castles, Gillette, yesterday, a full day of varied amusements being enjoyed by a large delegation of local dentists with the Plainfield doctors and other visiting professional men as their guests. Events typical of a clambake were planned previously to the outing by a committee composed of Dr. George Moore, Dr. Charles Moore and Dr. Chalmers Crist, and an elaborate program awaited the excursionists upon their arrival at Gillette.

The ideal surroundings at the spot selected for this year's clambake lent additional interest to the event and the outing yesterday eclipsed all of the previous ones as a good time producer. Included in the calendar of sporting events run off was a rifle competition at twenty paces. Dr. Stevens returned the best string, while Dr. Leonard was a runner-up and Dr. Clawson pulled up third for target honors. Each of this trio proved himself adept at the sport and several of the other dentists who failed to place exhibited excellent marksmanship. Many were able to keep their bullets from flying out of the Gillette boundaries, while others managed to hit the outer rim of the target on several occasions. Inasmuch as a majority of the shots failed to record themselves on the target the dentists behind the guns declared that blanks were being pulled on them and refused to continue in the running for laurels.

One of the feature events was a fat man's 100-yard dash, all of the starters weighing over 170. Dr. Clark romped across the tape a victor in this event, while Dr. Dundon was second and Dr. Hillman pulled his avoirdupois into third position. In a sprint for the tape in the latter event Dr. Giddes had a fall, but responded to first aid remedies administered by several of the physicians present. The lightweight century dash resulted in a tie between the Moore twins for first honors, while Dr. Mancell was second and Dr. Whitford third.

The remaining events resulted in the following contenders placing:

Potato race—First, Dr. Clawson; second, Dr. French; third, Dr. Hubbard; fourth, Dr. Hedges.

Sack race—First, Dr. Clark; second, Dr. Clawson; third, Dr. Whitford.

Prizes were awarded to the place winners in each of the above events. The baseball game was the big number on the day's program, Dr French's Giants springing a spurt and beating Dr. Hillman's Boston Braves by a score of 10 to 2. The much looked for Boston slump was greatly in evidence while Jawn McGraw French finally injected the necessary ginger into his Giantlets to bring home the bacon. Dr. Hedges was the star performer, turning some regular baseball stunts.

The lineup of the teams:

BRAVES.	GIANTS.
Stevens	Craig
Clark	Crist
Davis	Giddes
G. Moore	Whitford
Mancell	Clawson
Hedges	C. L. Moore
Currie	Murray
Hubbard	Leonard
Adams	Wells

Umpires—Drs. Davis and son and Dundon.

Those present were Drs. Hillman, French, Charles Davis, C. Moore, Mancell, C. F. Leonard, B. Leonard, Whitford, Clawson, Stevens, Giddes, George Moore, Clark, Craig, Hedges, T. S. Davis, Murray, Miller, Creager, Currie, Hubbard, Crist, Adams, Wells, Thiers, Whitford, Dundon.

RESIGNS POSITION.

Henry S. Gildersleeve, of West Front street, who has been manager of the local store of the Grand Union Tea Company, has resigned his position with that concern, and has taken charge of the Eldorado Theatre, a moving-picture house at High Bridge.

RUNYON ASSURED OF WARNER'S SUPPORT

Successful Candidate Receives Congratulations From Opponent.

Arthur E. Warner, one of the defeated candidates for the Republican nomination to the Assembly, yesterday, sent to William N. Runyon, a successful nominee, the following letter:

"William N. Runyon,
"Plainfield N. J.
"Dear Judge Runyon:

"I sincerely regret that I did not meet you during the recent campaign for the nominations, but wish to extend to you my most sincere congratulations and assure you of my support at the coming election. I shall work for you and the others upon the ticket in every way possible.

"I want to say a word of appreciation of the way in which the recent campaign was conducted by all of my opponents. Although defeated, the friendships that I have made during the race are far dearer to me than any political victory.

"With best wishes for a successful campaign and a term of service, useful and beneficial to our county and State, I am,

"Yours very sincerely,
"ARTHUR E. WARNER."

Mr. Warner also expresses his thanks to the various political and other organizations of Plainfield which supported his candidacy and made possible the large vote which he received in this city.

MAY SELL BONDS TO PLAINFIELDERS

Council Considers Plans to Raise Funds for Street Improvements.

Finding it difficult just at this time to sell a series of bonds for street and sewer improvements, a special meeting of the Common Council was held last night, when steps were taken to raise the necessary funds. The Council went into executive session for awhile, after which on motion of Councilman Francis J. Blatz the matter was referred to the street committee.

The Council approved a series of street improvement bonds and owing to the condition of the bond market has found it difficult to dispose of them. It has been suggested that the bonds, which aggregate a few thousand dollars, be offered to the people of Plainfield in case they want to invest their money that way.

This is not the first instance recenty when trouble has been experienced in selling municipal bonds, and the suggestion of allowing Plainfielders to buy them had been thought a good one. The whole matter will be taken up by the street committee when a recommendation will be made at a later date to the Council. In case it is decided not to sell the bonds to local people, the Council will probably issue short time notes and in this way be able to secure the necessary funds to carry on the proposed improvements.

PUPILS' TRANSPORTATION CASE TO BE HEARD OCT. 9

Trenton, Sept. 25.—The Board of Public Utility Commissioners has fixed Friday, October 9, at its offices in Newark as the time for a hearing upon the decision of the Public Service Railway Company in discontinuing the sale of tickets at reduced rates for the transportation of pupils to and from school.

The board has suspended the increased rate for two months.

The agreement entered into between the Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company and the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company for the joint use of certain poles in Camden was also approved by the board.

M'GAULEY HELD FOR GRAND JURY ACTION

Alleged Tool Thief Waived Examination on Two Complaints This Morning.

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on two complaints charging him with stealing carpenter tools, George McGauley waived examination and was held in bonds of $200 on each charge for the October term of the Grand Jury. The complaints were sworn out by Louis Hansen and Anthony Alberts, local contractors, following the defendant's apprehension by Cergeant Maurice Higgins. Since making the arrest Higgins has been running down several clues secured from McGauley through examination, and the result has been a big confiscation of stolen tools.

One room at police headquarters, this morning, was converted into a small sized hardware shop and many local contractors who have been missing tools recently, examined the various articles rounded up by Higgins for the purpose of identification. Hansen estimated his loss through petty thievery of this kind had reached $12, while Alberts has lost $20 worth of tools at various times. Included in those with which McGauley is alleged to have stolen in the Alberts complaint are a number from his brother, Bert McGauley.

The arrest came as the culmination of a series of tool thefts in this city and nearby boroughs recently, and the defendant was arrested on Mountain avenue near Scotch Plains with a quantity of tools on his person.

TO RECEIVE BIDS FOR NEW SCHOOL

Special Meeting of the Board of Education to Be Held Monday.

The Board of Education will hold a special meeting Monday night at 8 o'clock, at the High School building to receive bids for the construction of the Evergreen Avenue School, and it is expected that an unusual number of bids will be presented at the meeting.

Nearly forty firms, both local and from outside of Plainfield, have written to the architects for plans and especially low figures are expected.

A number of well-known local contractors will be among the bidders and while the law is mandatory that the work has to go to the low bidder irrespective of locality the success of a local man would please everyone.

On account of the scarcity of work this winter the letting of this contract at this ime would be of special benefit to Plainfield.

SAURER SHOP AGAIN WORKING FULL TIME

The Saurer Motor Works, as the local branch of the International Motor Company is known, started on Monday of this week to work on the full schedule of fifty-four hours a week, after being run on short time for some time. With the orders for trucks and other work on hand, together with work which is anticipated, an additional force will undoubtedly be added, but the full force will not be put on for the time being. This improvement is the first to be noted aside from the improvement noted some time ago at the shops of the Levgar Structural Company, at Dunellen. Improvement in other shops has not been reported as yet, but it is expected that as soon as the war scare in the money market is completely cleared away.

WALTER L. HETFIELD, JR., IS CHOSEN HIGH COUNSELLOR

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of the law firm of Reed & Hetfield, this city, was yesterday elected high counselor at the annual session of the high State court of the Independent Order of Foresters held at Asbury Park. James T. McCarthy was appointed high chief organist by the high chief ranger. The officers elected are as follows:

High chief ranger, K. C. Taylor, of Elizabeth; high vice-chief ranger, W. D. Bauer, of Somerville; high secretary, F. A. MacKenzie, of Elizabeth; high treasurer, W. J. Bray, of Jersey City; high physician, Dr. G. E. Potter, of Newark; high counselor, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city; high auditors, F. J. Switzer, of Newark, and Walter Williams, of Jersey City.

BOROUGH FAVORS CONSOLIDATION

Largest Number of Votes Ever Polled at North Plainfield Election Decides Issue.

TWO DISTRICTS ANTI

Majority of 39 For Saunders' Campaigners—Smalley's Defeated Followers Lost Ground During Forty-eight Hours Prior to Election.

Culminating a heated campaign, the passage of the consolidation question at the special election held in North Plainfield, yesterday, came in direct accordance with the prediction of those closely affiliated with the proposition, a victory having been conceded for several days prior to the date set for the election. As the time for the vote drew near the forces in favor of the question, led by former Mayor William L. Saunders, loomed up as favorites and during the two open air meetings immediately preceding the election this faction took on considerable strength. The result of the election yesterday is evidence of the borough voters' sentiment in the matter, there being a majority of thirty-nine votes when the ballots were counted last night.

The amount of interest that the special meetings have aroused on the topic was indicated by the fact that this election was one of the largest ever conducted in the borough. A total of 730 votes were cast, of which 369 were in favor of consolidation and 330 against it. Former Mayor Newton B. Smalley led the campaign against the merger and while his forces were strong two weeks ago they gradually succumbed to the campaign waged by the Saunders followers. The vote yesterday does not decide the question of consolidation, as the voters of this city will also have to ballot on it. A special election for Plainfield will be arranged and will probably be held in the near future.

One of the questions in connection with consolidation is that if it becomes effective Plainfield will be under the control of Union county authorities and North Plainfield will be subject to Somerset county jurisdiction. Somerset county will claim taxes from North Plainfield and Union county from Plainfield. Some arrangement would also have to be made regarding the distribution of State school funds.

The Fourth district in the borough, where the vote was the means of sustaining the final verdict, had the largest number of citizens to turn out to be recorded at the poll. In that district eleven ballots had to be rejected because of wrong marking, but the ballots all indicated the intent of the voters in favor of the question. A total of thirty-one ballots were declared illegal in the entire borough. The Fifth district, which includes the Prideville section, gave the antis a majority of sixty-one votes, but the majorities of the First and Fourth districts were more than enough to wipe out this advantage.

Consolidation Returns

	For.	Against.	Votes Rejected.	Total Vote.	Majority For.	Majority Against.
First District	80	45	1	132	35
Second District	71	73	7	151		2
Third District	41	39		80	2
Fourth District	135	70	11	216	65
Fifth District	42	103	6	151		61
Totals	369	330	31	730	102	63

Net majority in favor, 39.

MR. AND MRS. H. SCHWED SAIL FOR HOME TOMORROW

Several friends of Herman Schwed, of the borough, who has been in Germany all summer, have received postal cards from him, in which he states that the party of six with whom he and Mrs. Schwed are traveling are all well. They expected to sail for home last Saturday, but the boat that they were coming on was seized by the English because it carried German reservists. The latest word received by Isaac Schwed was that his brother would sail for home tomorrow. All the postals and letter received in this city from Mr. Schwed are written in German, and no sealed communications are permitted, as everything must be inspected by the censor. Both Mr. and Mrs. Schwed have been enjoying the best of health all summer.

PEANUT VENDING MACHINE RIPPED FROM MOORINGS

Paul Dixon, Morris Farbman and George Height, three small boys from Philadelphia, were arrested on the Central Railroad tracks near Clinton avenue at 4 o'clock this morning, as vagrants and brought to police headquarters. They were arraigned this morning before Judge DeMeza and allowed to go on suspended sentences.

Shortly before the boys were apprehended Patrolman McGinley found a peanut vending machine on the Clinton avenue bridge. The machine had been ripped from its moorings and an attempt made to get the money out of it. It is the supposition of the police that the work was that of boys.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. MADELINE MACK

Succumbs to Attack of Diabetes at Her Somerville Home.

Mrs. Madeliene C. Mack, sister of Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of this city, died suddenly this morning, at her home in Somerville. She had been suffering from diabetes for sometime, but her condition had improved until Tuesday, when there was a sudden change for the worse, and she passed away this morning.

Mrs. Mack was the daughter of the late Alvah A. Clark and Mrs. Anna M. Clark, and had been a resident of Somerville the greater part of her life. She had many friends in this city. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Anna M. Mack; two children, Clark Mack and Miss Katherine Mack; a sister, Mrs. Charles A. Reed, and a brother, Eugene R. Clark. The funeral service will be held at the late home, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church, Somerville, will officiate and the burial will be at Somerville.

MRS. SMITH'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mrs. John Smith, of West Third street, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Rev. P. W. Collier, pastor of the church, officiating. A large number of friends and relatives were in attendance. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

—Could there be more important news in the paper than is contained in the "help wanted" ads?

Paris, Sept. 25.—That heavy fighting is going on at both ends of the great battle line in France is shown by the official report issued at 3 p. m. today. This stated that the battle continues on the left wing of the allied troops and that the French forces here are being opposed by German reinforcements coming by way of Liege. On the right wing the statements says the Germans have occupied the heights of the Meuse and are marching in the direction of St. Mihiel. This is on the east bank of the river. St. Mihiel is about 20 miles southeast of Verdun. The French forces have occupied the heights on the west side of the Meuse before Verdun.

Reports that fresh British troops are being landed in France and are being rushed to the front have been confirmed by the war office. It is expected that the new army will reinforce the Allies which are attacking the German right wing and that it may advance between Cambrai and Mons, where the Germans have only a screen of cavalry to guard the rear of their line.

Bordeaux, Sept. 25.—Official announcement was made here today that the Germans last night recommenced bombarding the Cathedral at Rheims.

That France is looking forward to a hard winter campaign is indicated in a circular which Minister of War Millerand has sent to all prefects of France requesting them to secure as rapidly as possible supplies of woolen underclothes, socks, gloves and blankets for the use of French soldiers this winter.

London, Sept. 25.—A despatch from Petrograd says that the Russian army is massing before the Austrians of Cracow and that the next big battle of the war will be on before many hours. The fall of Cracow will leave the road to Berlin open to the Czars troops.

A despatch from Petrograd says that an official anouncement from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, states on the southwest front the Russian troops have taken possession of the fortified position of Czyschky and Fouldtyn, which covered Khyroff and other positions in the Radymno region taking all the enemy's artillery. The Przemysl garrison has evacuated Bourgade, and Medyka and has been repulsed in the eastern segment toward the lines of forts.

There has been no fighting on the German front.

An official statement issued this afternoon says that the Australian naval forces have seized and occupied Friedrich Wilhelmshaven, the seat of the government of the Kaiser in Wilhemshaven, German New Guinea, without opposition. The German forces appear to have been centred at Herbertshore. The British flag has been hoisted at Wilhemshaven and an Australian garrison established there.

Rome, Sept. 25 (Central News Cable).—A despatch from Antivari to the Corriere D Italia today, states that the French fleet has shelled the signal stations of Lissa, Palagosa and Lesina, three islands of the coast of Dalamatia and afterward made a general inspection of the south coast of Dalamatia, destroying all mines laid by Austrians. In addition to the lighthouses on the coast all signal stations and wireless stations were demolished without any resistance being offered by the Austrians.

London, Sept. 25 (Central News Cable).—Official announcement by the Admiralty this morning, says 352 of the crew were saved from the cruiser Hogue, 237 from the Aboukir and 190 from the Cressy. The figures are exclusive of officers.

A Zeppelin airship, coming from the direction of Thourout, 12 miles southwest of Bruges, Belgium, dropped three bombs yesterday. One struck a bridge on the outskirts of the town, another fell in the harbor and another partially wrecked a building. Surrounding houses were damaged. The Zeppelin returned in the direction of Thielt, 12 miles northeast of Courtral. The censor evidently has eliminated the place where the foregoing message was filed and also the name of the town into which the bombs were dropped.

A despatch from Lucerne, Switzerland, says that military operations in Upper Alsace have been halted by falls of snow.

A South Shields despatch says that the Norwegian steamship Nesvik has been totally destroyed by striking a mine in the North Sea. The chief engineer and one of his assistants were killed, but the captain and the crew of 14 were rescued by a British warship and brought to South Shields.

A despatch from Rio De Janeiro says the German steamer Prussia has arrived at Santos and landed the master and fifteen men of the British steamer Indian Prince, which was sunk by the German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm. The ship was bound for New York from Brazil with 34,000 bags of coffee.

Paris, Sept. 24.—A news agency despatch from Nish says desperate battles were fought September 22 along the front of Sevornik, Losnitza and the front of Mitrovitza, Shabata, the situation being favorable to the Servians. In the island of Szelaska and at Zebrograde the enemy attempted attacks in the direction of Malalada and Tzigallia, Ada, which were repulsed.

On the nights of September 21 and 22 the enemy began an artillery fire on Belgrade, the fortress and the wharves of the Save, but their efforts to cross the Danube near Belgrade and Vershera failed.

Tokio, Sept. 25.—A force of British infantry has been sent from Hong Kong to reinforce the Japanese land forces now operating against the German concessions at Kiau Chau.

Amsterdam, Sept. 25 (Central News Cable.)—A despatch from Antwerp says that the Belgians have captured an armored train conveying 2,000 Germans. One hundred and eight of the Germans were killed and BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

A birthday dime social conducted by the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church will be held at the home of Mrs. Ella Kennedy, on Washington avenue, next Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

SWIMMING CLUB OUTING.

The Pete Swimming Club of Bound Brook, among the membership of which are a number of Dunellenites, met on Saturday and took the final dip of the season. Mrs. L. Walters took first prize for endurance and Mrs. E. L. Field, of this place, the first prize offered for pretty diving. The members of the club give Mrs. Field great credit for her accomplishment as this is the first year that she has ever attempted to swim. Mrs. Field, however, desires no credit for her performance claiming it to be the result of natural ability. All the members of her family are natural swimmers. Her brother, Swimming Instructor Edmond Burke, of the club, has many medals to show for his supremacy in wonderful swimming and novelty diving.

KNEW ROOSEVELT.

"I ate a ham sandwich and it made me dizzy," was the excuse that the fellow giving his name as John Smith, of Oyster Bay, who was arrested by Marshal I. V. Smalley while riding his bicycle on the sidewalk along North avenue, yesterday morning, gave for committing the offense when arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall, last evening. The local authorities are positive that the fellow is a "John Doe" and that he didn't come by the wheel honestly and he was cross-examined by the court on those grounds. "Who do you know in Oyster Bay, where you say you have lived for the past fifteen years?" the court asked. "Theodore Roosevelt, who lives at Sagamore Hill," Smith replied. There was a titter in the court when some one said, "The world knows that." Recorder Campbell brought the gavel down with a resounding blow and then proceeded with the examination. He asked the prisoner in turn the names of Oyster Bay's Mayor, chief of police and hotel keeper and the prisoner was obliged to admit that he didn't know any of them. The court waxed indignant and thundered, "You mean to tell me that you have lived in a small place like Oyster Bay for fifteen years and don't know the name of the Mayor, chief of police or hotel keeper?" The prisoner was silent. What is the name of your wheel?" Recorder Campbell abruptly asked him after a minute of steady glaring. "The wheel is in your possession and you can look for yourself," the prisoner sullenly rejoined, in refusing to give the name of the wheel. Recorder Campbell looked the prisoner full in the eye and said, "Now I want you to tell me the truth. Didn't you drop off of a coal train down the road aways and in running across the wheel in front of some store decide to make away with it?" The prisoner evasively answered, "Now, Judge, you can either send me over the road or let me go and get a job somewhere." "Hearing adjourned until tomorrow morning to await further developments," was the rejoinder of the court.

A pure food demonstration supper will be served this evening in the Presbyterian chapel under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Watchung.

Fire Chief George Mobus, Hugo Kelm and Edward F. Bodin left yesterday as delegates from the Watchung Fire Department to attend the firemen's convention at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Francis E. Bodin, of Mountain boulevard, is spending a week at Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

After the Tuesday evening meeting, September 29, a sociable will be held to which all are cordially invited in the Wilson Memorable Union church.

The rain last evening was very welcome in this vicinity as the roads were very dusty and many of the wells on the mountains were low.

Miss Elsie F. Schmidt, a graduate of N. P. H. S. of the class of 1912 and now a student at Trenton Normal School, has been honored with the unanimous election as president of the class of 1915. Miss Schmidt is a Shakespearean and a member of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet.

'Plains & Fanwood.

A special meeting of the Fanwood Township Board of Education was held in School No. 1 last evening to take action on the result of the election of Tuesday. The bonds will be advertised for sale and bids will be received for the erection of the new school.

The supper held by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church last evening, was a great success. Although the dinner was supposed to be prepared by half of the members as the result of being beaten in a recent membership campaign everybody took a hand in the work and had a most pleasant evening.

An illustrated lecture on "Immigration," to be held in the Baptist church this evening, under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible class of the church.

Mrs. Felix Korn, of Martine avenue, is entertaining her daughter from Brooklyn.

Instead of adopting an entirely new health code as was proposed, the borough Board of Health has amended Section 19 of the old code which establishes a plumbing code, which must be followed in the building of all new houses in the borough. Heretofore heat and other plumbing has been installed in houses without having it inspected, but now William Addis, present pluumbing inspector, of Plainfield, has been engaged to make inspections.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Erner, of El Mora, are the parents of a young daughter born Monday. Mr. Erner was a former resident here and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Erner, of Martine avenue.

Mrs. Howard Gilmore, a former resident of the borough, but now residing in Newark, has returned home after visiting Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of Martine avenue.

Agitation has been started by commuters of this place for a large bulletin board placed at the approach to the local railroad station and it is likely that the matter will be brought to the attention of the Council. Commuters say they are in New York all day and do not know what is going on in the place and point out the school election the first of the month when, they say, only thirty-two votes were cast was because hardly any one knew of it.

Although this is the first year that local pupils have attended Westfield High School, they are already taking part in the various activities of the school, not only in studies, but sports.

SOMERSET COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL ASS'N CONVENTION

The Somerset County Sunday school Association will meet in the Franklin Park church, Somerville, on Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 10 a. m. Among the speakers will be Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, of New York; Rev. Clifton Littlefield, of New York; W. A. Brown, of Chicago, and the New Jersey workers, Isaac P. Burgess and Miss Alice B. Hamlin.

A free lunch will be provided at noon by the women of the church and the convention dinner will be served in the evening. Rev. Dr. Morgan will be the evening speaker.

FORT TELLS WILSON PEACE ASSURED FOR SANTO DOMINGO

Washington, Sept. 25.—Former Governor John Franklin Fort, of New Jersey, had a fifteen-minute conference with President Wilson yesterday, about Dominican affairs. Mr. Fort review the acts of the Peace Commission, which he headed, and assured the President that, as far as could be foretold, the island republic was assured of a peaceful regime. The President thanked Mr. Fort for his services.

Mr. Fort also conferred with Secretary of State Bryan. Mr. Fort plans to return home today.

A BEAUTIFUL BECOMING HAT FOR EVERY TYPE SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN THE AIM OF OUR MILLINERY CREATORS THIS SEASON

For once at least the style creators have approved not only small and medium sized hats but the fairly large sizes as well and this combined with the great variety of colors represented, assures every type of woman of a thoroughly becoming hat.

Very evident preferences has been shown toward our millinery if we are to judge by the number of stylish women who have purchased here. It really merits the approval with which it has met for the models are superbly fashioned and the trimmings and color effects are surpassingly beautiful. And style may well take first place, but there are the more practical considerations of price and assortments to be thought of. In variety, we do not believe our present showing can be outnumbered, despite the brisk selling, and prices are uncommonly reasonable. You can supply yourself with a hat here safe in the belief that the style is correct, and that you have not paid an excessive price for it.

NEW FALL SUITS ARE SELLING FAST

Seldom have we seen a new season's styles so thoroughly appreciated. Almost without exception they have been judged eminently satisfying by the actual wearers, who of course are the final critics.

From our complete assortments many women, critical admirers and purchasers of their apparel, have selected their Fall suits, and that they will be the most appropriately dressed women in this vicinity goes without saying. You who are in search of suits will find our stocks replete with the most handsome and well appearing of the Fall Season's new models and the uniformly reasonable prices will prove a source of great satisfaction to those who value economy as well as style correctness. A visit to the Suit Department now will undoubtedly prove interesting to you.

POLITICAL NOTES.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

The following statement regarding his defeat for the Republican county clerk nomination, and his intention of supporting the successful candidate and all the others named in the Republican primaries, was issued Wednesday by Sheriff Wright. It was given out after he had congratulated County Clerk Calvert on being chosen as the G. O. P. candidate to succeed himself. The sentiment it embodies were personally expressed at that time.

"Now that the ticket for the November election has been chosen," Sheriff Wright said, "it is my intention to abide by the wishes of the majority, and support with my best efforts all the candidates named. That I am not one of them is a matter of small moment when compared with the importance of the approaching contest.

"All of the candidates named are capable, conscientious, and worthy of the support of the entire party, which if extended will elect them to the offices I feel sure they can fill with credit to the party and themselves. I put my best endeavor into my campaign and have no regrets on that score. I am deeply thankful for the loyal support of my friends and take pride in the vote they gave me.

"At this time, however, I desire to sincerely ask all Republicans to rally to the Grand Old Party and carry it to victory at the polls in November."

State Senator Carlton B. Pierce received more votes than any other candidate in Tuesday's primaries. In the Republican primaries his total was 5,592, and in the Progressive primaries 491. More than 6,000 voters thus approved his candidacy, which is considered a most magnificent showing, considering the light vote recorded all along the line. Even more significant as to the trend in the Progressive ranks is the fact that Mr. Pierce's Bull Moose vote was greater with one exception than the vote received by any of the other Progressive county candidates, all of whom were Bull Moose leaders of two years' standing. Mr. Moy, the Congressional candidate, who was a Roosevelt delegate to both Chicago conventions, obtained twenty-two votes less than Senator Pierce. Mr. Fish, the county chairman, nominee for registrar, obtained 434, unofficially, as compared with Mr. Pierce's 491; Mr. Leach, for county clerk, received 443, and Mr. Richart, for sheriff, 443. On the Assembly ticket Mr Furber's vote just equalled Mr. Pierce's, but the other Assembly candidates fell well below him.

John H. Capstick, Republican candidate for Congress, expressed himself as gratified over the result of the election, after it was certain how the result would be. Over the telephone from his home in Morris county, he told a Press reporter that he was the same old Capstick. "The election hasn't made any difference with me," he said. "I am gratified at the result and appreciate the support given me, but I am just the same old John Capstick that I was before the primaries."

According to the Geran Election Law, candidates for public office, exclusive of those nominated in writing on the ballots, must file their expense statements before September 27.

Candidates for sheriff, surrogate, Assembly and coroners are to file their statements with the county clerk, while candidates for constable and county committee will file their statement with the city clerk. All Congressional statements must be filed with the Secretary of State at the State House.

It is expected that the majority of the statements by county candidates will be filed with County Clerk Calvert before tomorrow.

With the primaries over, the Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties are preparing for the State conventions at Trenton next Tuesday noon. Under the Geran Act, the time for the State conventions is fixed for the Tuesday following the primaries.

The Democrats will meet in the Masonic Temple, the Republicans in the Republican clubrooms and the Progressives in the Wilkinson building.

Those entitled to sit as delegates are the State Senate and Assembly candidates nominated Tuesday and the State committeemen elected last year for three years. In the Democratic convention Governor Fielder will be a delegate.

Platforms will be adopted, and it is likely that the conventions will take up the greater part of the afternoon. The Democratic platform, it is believed, will largely reflect the views of Governor Fielder.

Arrangements for the holding of the Republican convention were made Wednesday at a conference in Trenton of the hold-over Senators and nominees. Several planks in the platform were considered.

THE PRICE OF CARELESSNESS.

The commonplace gains enormously in impressiveness when familiar and long-recognized facts are collected and tabulated. Fourth of July accidents were regarded as inevitable and of comparatively small importance until The Journal of the American Medical Association undertook the systematic collection and compilation of the statistics. Presented in the aggregate, they shocked the nation. The American people have long been accustomed to accounts of railroad accidents in the public press. It is only the occasional accident of startling character or unusual magnitude which arouses comment. The public does not appreciate the enormous toll which is paid each year in loss of life and limb because of avoidable accidents on our railroads.

A bulletin just issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, contains a summary of the accidents resulting in personal injuries caused in the operation of interstate railways during the months of October, November and December, 1913. The facts presented are so appalling that if they were found anywhere else than in a government publication they would be regarded as extreme exaggerations. During these three months, 2,792 persons were killed and 50,776 persons were injured in connection with railway operation. Of these, 191 were killed and 3,726 injured in train accidents; 2,675 were killed and 21,769 injured in accidents other than train accidents, such as fires, floods, landslides and explosions affecting the right of way, and accidents in connection with railroad operation other than those of trains and roadway, while 117 deaths and 29,007 injuries were industrial accidents to employes working on tracks, bridges, stations, engine-houses, shops, wharves or elsewhere. Of the 2,792 persons killed, thirty-four were passengers killed in train accidents, and 137 were employes killed in train accidents. Eighty-five passengers were killed from all causes and 730 employes from all causes, making a total of 815 passengers and employes. The 1,860 other persons killed included trespassers, non-trespassers and employes not on duty, while 117 employes in addition were killed in industrial accidents not connected with railroad operations.

Detailed tables showing the cause and character of the accidents are most interesting and illuminating. For instance, of the 21,769 persons injured through train and other accidents, five persons lost their eyesight, ninety lost arms, forty-seven persons lost their hands, 213 persons lost legs, 143 persons lost feet. Many of those crippled will be incapable of supporting themselves for the balance of their lives and will consequently become dependents.

With over fifty thousand persons injured in three months, the economic loss must be enormous. At this rate there are probably nearly twelve thousand persons killed and over two hundred thousand persons injured every year on our railroads. The majority of these accidents are avoidable either through proper safety devices supplied by the operating company or through care in operation on the part of employes. The price paid for carelessness as shown by the official statement of fact is too enormously heavy to be tolerated.

People often have to go away from home to get the news. We are told in all seriousness, in a column and a half article in the New York Sun, that the New Jersey primary law is considered a failure by the people, and has not accomplished the desired results. Who put the Sun correspondent at Trenton up as the spokesmen for the voters of New Jersey? We can only speak for those with whom we come in contact, but it is safe to say that eighty per cent. of the people, including many of the politicians, are entirely satisfied with the way in which the Geran law works, and would not return to the old method of selecting candidates. Take the primary in Union county on Tuesday for example. Every one of the men named in both parties were undoubtedly the best possicle choice for the office. Some of them would have been chosen had the old convention system been in force, while others would not have been named. It is perfectly safe to predict that if any person elected to the Legislature should be guided to vote to repeal the law by the manufactured sentiment published in the Sun of yesterday, he would be quickly retired to private life in the primary of next year.

As was generally expected, the voters in North Plainfield yesterday demonstrated that they favor the consolidation of that borough with the city of Plainfield. While the majority was not large, there were many who voted against the proposition who are in favor of uniting the two communities, but who did not think that the method chosen was the proper one. This was admitted on the stump by the leading anti-consolidationists. Now that the citizens of the borough have expressed themselves on the matter, a campaign of education will be started in the city, and if the proposition can be passed over here there will be no difficulty in getting needful legislation to bring about annexation. Probably an annexation bill will be presented to the next Legislature, which will make it possible to place North Plainfield in Union county. No argument against uniting the two places can offset the obvious fact that without one the other would be seriously affected, commercially, socially and in every other way.

It is certainly a relief on the day after election to pick up an exchange in which the editorial column is devoted to a dissertation on mushrooms.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, has written the contributed editorial for tomorrow's Daily Press.

German military expert says the war will cost $14,000,000,000 annually. As Josh Billing's says, "There ain't no such sum."

That man Villa seems to insist upon crowding in on the front page, with his little insignificant war.

W. De La R. Anderson, now that the primaries are over, is the busiest little explainer hereabouts.

"I told you so," was the remark most heard in the borough this morning.

TAKE STEPS TO DEFEAT PROJECT

Residents of Fanwood Will Fight Large Expenditure for New School.

CIRCULATE PETITIONS

Will Ask Board of Education to Review Action at School Election—Claim Borough Pays One-third School Tax.

Steps have already been taken by residents of Fanwood Borough to prevent the expenditure of $15,500 for the purchase of a tract of land and erection of a four-room school building in the "Big Woods" section of the township, as the result of a special school election Wednesday night. Petitions are now in circulation which will be presented to the Board of Education for a review of the action at the election.

Those who oppose the proposition as passed Wednesday night, say that they are not against the building of a school, but they do object to spending $15,500 to buying land and erecting a four-room school in the section chosen by the board, believing that the expenditure is "out of all reason." According to the "antis" there are about one hundred colored children that would attend the school, there being but few white children in that section of the township.

It is argued that the ultimate cost would be nearer $20,000, including equipment and teachers. The tract of land upon which it is proposed to build the school is triangular and comprises a half-acre. The board proposes to pay $1,000 for the site, it is said. The balance, $15,500, would be expended on building, which the opponents say is too much to expend for a four-room structure. They claim that school No. 2 at Alton only cost $5,000.

Another argument used by those who are fighting the proposition is that Fanwood Borough now pays one-third of all the township school tax, and yet there is not a single school in the borough, both being in the township and they declare that they do not propose to be further taxed unnecessarily.

The petitions which are now being circulated for signatures cites eight reasons why the action at the election should be reconsidered. It is claimed that the meeting was not held in accordance with law, that the chairman did not declare the purpose of the meeting, that the amount of money to be expended is "out of all reason," that the ballots were not "regular," that the qualifications of voters, claiming that some were unqualified to vote and others did not know what they were voting for.

It is furthermore claimed in the petitions that a member of the Board of Education directed an employe to "wake up the people of Scotch Plains," that a member of the board visited places of business in the township and urged the proprietors to go and vote and asserts that in one case remained at a place of business while the proprietor voted.

The petitioners lastly request the board to inform them of their legal liability by taxation for schools outside of the borough of Fanwood and to preserve the ballots voted at the meeting Wednesday night for future reference.

SWEDISH PEOPLE IN NEED OF FUNDS

Lutheran Church Has Been Erected But Congregation Cannot Pay Debt.

Those interested in the Swedish Lutheran church in this city are endeavoring to raise funds to defray the expenses of building the new edifice on West Seventh street. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter, the Rev. Karl A. Martin, pastor in the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Augustina Synod of North America, who is interested in the work here, said:

"The Swedish Lutheran congregation of your city started to build a chapel for themselves last year, but through some misunderstanding from the start this chapel cost more than what was first expected. The building was also commenced before a reasonable subscription had been promised. Therefore a heavy debt hangs over the property, so heavy that I am in despair how to handle it. The congregation is small, about 25 members, mostly servant girls. They have done all they could do for the building fund.

"A lot for church building purposes was bought five years ago for $800 on East Seventh street on which the chapel now stands, but the debt on the property is $3,350, which is too much for so small a flock to carry. I have been asked by the president, Dr. L. H. Beck, of the New York conference of the Swedish Lutheran Synod, to come to your beautiful city and help the congregation in this matter, but I don't know what I can do unless our friends help us. If $1,350 could be subscribed right off that would help some to save the property. Will you help

"Suppose your own church that you love and have worked for so hard was about to be taken away from you, how would you feel? How do you think this little flock feel just now? You could do no better deed just now than to help the cause and receive God's blessing for it. I shall be glad to give you all information you want in regard to the situation. The chapel is not finished yet. The second floor is not laid, and no church furniture. Who will give them the floor? Who will give some chairs, pews, pulpit, altar table?

"You can find me at No. 29 Washington avenue, where I shall be glad to receive any donation. I love my people and I should be very sorry if it would be impossible for this hard working people to keep their chapel that they love so much."

SPEEDER LET GO.

Motorcycle Patrolman Roy Martin yesterday afternoon, arrested Alvin Pennington, of Philadelphia, who was driving an automobile along East Front street, near Netherwood avenue, at a speed estimated by the officer to be twenty-four miles an hour. The offender was arraigned in court this morning, but owing to the fact that the alleged offense was committed near the city limits and the Pennsylvanian's unfamiliarity with the Jersey law he was allowed to go on a suspended sentence with a warning.

HEART TROUBLE IS FATAL TO J. W. WENE

Dies in This City While Returning From Allentown Fair.

John W. Wene, aged about 45 years, of Asbury, who has been employed in Elizabeth as a carpenter for sometime, died last night, in this city, while returning on a special train from the Great Allentown Fair, where he had been spending the day. Mr. Wene was taken ill on the train, becoming unconscious before reaching Plainfield. The conductor telegraphed to this city to have a physician meet the train.

Dr. Albert Pittis, with the ambulance, was at the station when the train got here about 9 o'clock. The man was removed to the station where, after an examination, Dr. Pittis declared the man to be dead. Heart trouble is believed to have been the cause of death. The remains were removed to the undertaking parlors of George W. Cole & Son, and this morning the dead man's brother-in-law came here and made arrangements for the funeral and burial.

Mr. Wene was a member of the Odd Fellows and the Carpenter's Union. When he left for the fair, yesterday, he was in excellent health, and on the way home remarked what a good time he had had. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wene; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Smith, both of Asbury, and a nephew, John C. Laity, of East Orange.

DECISION RESERVED IN LIQUOR HEARING

Morris Latzko Will Not Know His Fate Until Monday Morning.

Decision was reserved in the case of the city against Morris Latzko, a wholesale liquor dealer doing business on Somerset street, after a lengthy trial before Judge William G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning. Latzko was arraigned on three separate charges preferred against him by Patrolman Martin Flatley, who arrested him on August 8 as an alleged violater of the city excise laws. On that date his driver, Charles Smith, is said to have sold liquor to a number of places in the West End of town in an illegal manner, disposing of it from a wagon owned by his employer.

The case has several times been postponed in order to meet the demands made by William Newcorn, counsel for the defense, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, who prosecuted the case on behalf of the city. Smith was used by the city as a material witness in the case and was on the stand for thirty minuutes. During cross examination, Smith claimed that prior to securing employment with Mr. Latzko, he had worked for a Plainfield wholesale liquor dealer. While driving for the latter individual, Smith claims that it was customary for him to sell from the wagon with the full knowledge of his employer He also said that his former employer was in the habit of allowing him to sell bottled beer from the wagon in quantities of three and four bottles.

When he took up his new work with Latzko the week prior to his arrest, Smith claims he was sent around to his former employer's customers with a tempting proposition to get their trade. He says that Latzko allowed him to sell thirty bottles of beer for $1 and that he had orders for thirty-one cases. The amber fluid was exhibited in the city court, this morning, as evidence in the case. Several of those who had purchased beer from Smith were examined at the hearing this morning.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE STATEMENT OF EXPENSES

All persons who were candidates for office at the recent primary election must, under the laws of this State file a statement of the receipts and disbursements made by them, within five days after primary. Blank forms can be obtained from Francis J. Blatz, at his office, No. 152 Park avenue.

Failure to comply with the terms of the act will disqualify the candidate from holding office in addition to making him amendable to the law. These forms must be filed by Monday.

PRESIDENT ADMITS HE WILL SEE KRENOMINATION

Washington, Sept. 25—President Wilson by indirection today, virtually admitted he would be a candidate for re-election for a second term. The avowal came because of the action of Edward E. Grosscup, State Treasurer of New Jersey, who wrote a letter to the White House urging the President to make his position clear. In reply Secretary Tumulty declared the President would prefer that the advance come from some other section than his home State and from others than his personal friends. There was no intimation of any sort that the President would not be a candidate.

AUTOMOBILE TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FLAMES

While traveling from this city to his home in New Market in his automobile, last night, C. M. Haight, of that place, had a narrow escape from injury when the gasoline tank of his machine took fire and totally destroyed the car. Had an explosion occurred the result migh. have been serious. Mr. Haight was in company with Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Titsworth and son and they were on Vail avenue, near Rock avenue, when the accident occurred. The only things that were saved were two tires, the rest of the car being burned.

The fire started at 8:10 and although an explosion was looked for from the tank, there was none. After the fire was over the wreckage was dragged to the owner's home in New Market. The machine was a 1912 seven passenger Cadillac.

SLAWSON NOMINATED.

Harry M. Slawson, formerly of this city, but now of Roselle, was nominated at that place last Tuesday for councilman on the Republican ticket.

Miss S. E. Schuyler and Miss Mellick, of East Seventh street, have returned after spending the summer at Europe.

ARREST YOUTH IN BORO ON SUSPICION

Joseph Puzzolente Will Be Examined Today as to His Sanity.

Joseph Puzzolente, a nineteen-year-old Italian residing at 758 North avenue, this city, was placed under arrest shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, in the rear of Joseph Genisman's grocery store at 78 Somerset street, on the charge of being a suspicious character. The borough police have received numerous complaints within the past two or three nights about a man prowling through the yards, and upon one occasion about a horse in the barn on the property being turned out during the course of the night.

Upon each of these occasions the man disappeared before the arrival of the police. Another complaint was registered shortly after midnight this morning, and Marshall Swody responded. Puzzolente was located in the yard with a loaded revolver in his possession, and was immediately locked up.

The man will be examined today by a doctor as to his sanity, as the borough police are of the opinion that the man is somewhat unbalanced. The hearing will be held tomorrow morning before Recorder Fred Hand in the borough court.

NAMES WILLIAM NEWCORN AS CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Trenton, Sept. 25—John H. Capstick, of Morris county, former president of the State Board of Health, who won the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth district last Tuesday as the organization candidate, filed a petition with the Secretary of State, today, naming William Newcorn, of Plainfield, as his campaign committee.

MRS. LESLIE M. DANIEL DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Anna Hiler Daniel, wife of former Councilman Leslie M. Daniel, died yesterday afternoon, at her home, 606 West Eighth street, following a long illness with complications. Mrs. Daniel had been a resident of this city for many years and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Daniel was the daughter of Mrs. Louis B. Hiler, of Brooklyn, who, with several brothers and sisters, survive, beside a husband. The funeral services will be private.

MISS MARY KIELY BRIDE OF JULIUS R. BARBIER

Miss Mary Kiely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kiely, of West Sixth street, yesterday, became the bride of Julius R. Barbier, of North Plainfield, the ceremony being performed at St. Mary's R. C. church by Father John McDonald. The couple were attended by Mrs. Anna Mathews as matron of honor, while Michael Kiely, a brother of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride wore a blue traveling gown, with a hat to match, while the matron of honor wore a similar gown. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Barbier left for Niagara Falls, where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return, they will reside on West Sixth street.

TWO JERSEY BOYS PLAY TOMORROW

Former Battin and Rahway Players Have Practically Made Places on Rutgers.

Two Union county boys are practically certain to start the game when Rutgers meets Princeton at Princeton tomorrow. Ralph Seiler, of Elizabeth, former Battin High School player, has been making a strong bid for the quarterback position during the past two weeks, and seems to have the edge on Raymond Martin, of Bloomfield, the other candidate. Seiler is heavy and strong and has had valuable experience on the football field, having played on the Rutgers varsity for the past two years. He has been placed at end, but the loss of Captain Elmendorf at quarterback made it necessary for the coaches to find a man to take his place. Seiler proved to be the most capable candidate.

Elmer Bracher, of Rahway, former All-State halfback, is the other county boy who will be given a chance to work against the Tigers. Although he weighs but 140 pounds, Bracher is one of the most brilliant players on the team, and held down the position of left halfback all through last season. He has lost none of his brilliancy this year, and in spite of serious opposition, is assured of a place on the backfield this year. He is at present troubled with a bad knee, but it is hoped that the hurt will be healed by Saturday.

A special train will take the rooters to the game at Princeton. The train will leave Elizabeth at 12:57 tomorrow, and it is expected that a number of persons from this city will attend.

PLAINFIELD COPS TWICE VICTIMS OF ELIZABETH

Six victories and four defeats is the record established by the Elizabeth policemen's baseball team, which has just recently closed its season. The first five games on the schedule were victories for the Elizabeth guardians, which included two games with the local coppers. The first game, which was played on Parker Field, was interesting throughout, the visitors winning by a score of 12 to 9, but the second was a swatfest for the home club, the final score at the end of seven innings being 14 to 3.

The first team to defeat this club was the Newark cops and took a 1 to 0 victory. The local coppers went to Elizabeth the next week and took the measure of their opponents by a 3 to 2 count. "Hank" Brennan's pitching was a feature of the season. The record is as follows:

Elizabeth, 7; North Hudson, 3.
Elizabeth, 9; North Hudson, 4.
Elizabeth, 12; Plainfield, 9.
Elizabeth, 17; Firemen, 9.
Elizabeth, 14; Plainfield, 3.
Elizabeth, 0; Newark, 1.
Elizabeth, 2; Plainfield, 3.
Elizabeth, 14; Bayonne, 18.
Elizabeth, 3; Newark, 12.
Elizabeth, 17; Firemen, 3.

RECEIVE EXTRA MONEY.

Frank Bruggy and William Luyster, formerly members of the Plainfield team, who helped the Lawrence team to win the New England League pennant and then to cop the post-season series from the New London club, each received $109.23, as their share of the extra game money. The total sum which the teams received to be divided between the players was $1,529.19, sharing it sixty and forty per cent. to winner and loser respectively. The New London players each received $59.97.

VIC TILLOTSON WILL PLAY QUARTERBACK THIS SEASON

When the Holy Cross football team plays its first game, Vic Tillotson, one of the best quarterbacks this city has ever produced, will call the signals and handle the ball as he did several years ago for this eleven. Three seasons ago "Vic" was the star of the Holy Cross team, but moved away and has not played since. His return will be welcomed by all pigskin followers as he will undoubtedly be a great help to the team.

The squad will be called out tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and it is possible that a practice game will be played. The season will probably open one week from tomorrow.

MORRISTOWN HORSE SHOW HAS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Morristown, Sept. 25.—The seventeenth annual horse show of the Morristown Field Club opened yesterday afternoon at 12:45 o'clock. The weather was ideal and a good first day attendance was the result. Twenty classes were disposed of, ranging from single roadsters to four-in-hands and one class of heavy draft horses.

Bexley Hocombe won the four-in-hand class with his new four. Otto H. Kahn also received a number of ribbons with his light driving horses. Only a few of the boxholders were out yesterday, but today's and tomorrow's show, it is expected, will bring them out.

QUOITS BETWEEN VOTES.

One of the oddities noted yesterday in the borough was the members of one of the Election Boards enjoying a quoit game between votes, with a number of hangers-on as witnesses. When a voter appeared, the game was carried on by witnesses, while the game was taken by the Board after the voter had left. One of the onloookers estimated that fifty per cent. of the time was consumed in playing the game. The rush of the last hours, however, did not give the Board time to play off the "rubber."

ALL STARS IN ACTION.

The Plainfield All Stars, managed by Remmy Reid, of Elizabeth, will meet the strong Monroes at Elizabeth, Sunday afternoon. The locals will have Mike Sharpe and Charlie Maurer for their battery while "Babe" Palmer will oppose the former.

TWO OUT OF THREE FOR EAGLE PINNERS

They Lose the First Game But Take the Second and Third From East Ends.

After losing the first game by a score of 893 to 814, the local Eagles' bowling team took the next two games in their match with the East End team, last night, on the Olympia alleys. The local birds had their regular five with Margentino taking the place of Crowley, who was hurt at Rahway earlier in the week. All of the Eagles bowled well, especially in the last two games, which were victories.

Luthman and Radin were the main pinners in the first game and their high scores in this setto were the cause of the Eagles' defeat. The former made a 206 while Radin hit for 221. Mahoney bowled high for his team in the opening engagement, scoring a 223. In the second the birds were strong and Miller's 249, which was high score of the night's play, helped to take the game and tie matters up. The score were 916 and 796. The third and deciding game was hotly contested and the Eagles only had a thirteen-point margin at the end. In this game Mahoney pinned the best, scoring a 221, while Scott, of the East End team, was second with a 218.

The scores:

NEVER WORRY ABOUT PENNANT, SAYS MACK.

Chicago, Sept. 25—Members of the Philadelphia Americans are not worrying as to the outcome of the American League pennant race, Connie Mack, manager of the world's champions, asserted here yesterday.

"Worry never will win baseball games," he explained.

Asked if he thought the Philadelphia club, which is leading Boston, its closest rival, by five and one-half games, would win the flag, Mack said:

"We expect to be in at the finish."

PERCY HARNEY MAY TWIRL FOR PETS

Either the Local Player or Richart, of Elizabeth, Will Oppose MacLaughlin.

The Saurer batters will not face Harry Jennings tomorrow afternoon in the second game of the Saurer-Pet cup series, as Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Pets, has two others in view, one being one of the members of the local squad. That person is "Perc" Harney, who has been a utility man all season for the Pets. Harney is a good pitcher, having made a good record this season in the Delaware League in that role, and if given a chance he will probably make the Mackmen go the limit for the victory, which means a lot to the Pets.

The Plainfield magnate also has his eye on another man who has performed here twice against the local team and that man is Richardt, of "Rube" Bond's Elizabeth team. Richardt pitched the last game that was played between these two clubs and fanned fourteen of the local swatters and handed them a shutout in the bargain. If he can be signed Harney will probably start the game in his old position, right field. The Betsytown player is a fine twirler and may be able to hold the Saurer boys down so that another game will be necessary for the possession of that trophy. Emery, who appeared on second last week, will again be around that sack and will have his heavy stick with him this time. Should Harney be sent to the firing line, "Lou" Brown, the former Monroe player, will adorn right field.

Manager Brit Martin is not saying much and never even bothered to send in his lineup but that will not be difficult to make up as he will use the same team in the same order that he has all season. Warry MacLaughlin must be getting tired of the Pets by this time and will try to make tomorrow's match the last of the year for him. Nothing much can be said about this aggregation as they are always the same. Degnan, of High Bridge, who performed to the satisfaction of all in the capacity of umpire last week, will again be behind the bat calling the balls and strikes in a strictly impartial way. The game will start at 3:30. The teams will lineup as follows:

PLAINFIELD.	SAURER.
Seifts, 3b	Harriman, 2b
Alberts, lf	Jaeger, ss
Emery, 2b	Mullin, c
Morganroph, ss	Martin, 2b
Dixon, 1b	MacLaughlin, 0
Dorman, cf	Garretson, 1b
Brown, rf	Wilson, lf
Nelson, c	H. Alberts, rf
Harney or Richardt, p	Miller, cf

Umpire Degnan.

FIVE DOLLAR FINE FOR USE OF EMERY BALL

Apropos of their being nothing in the code against the use of the emery ball, rule 14, section 4, says as follows:

"In the event of a ball being intentionally discolored by rubbing it with the soil or otherwise by any player, or otherwise damaged by any player, the umpire shall forthwith demand the return of that ball and substitute for it another legal ball, as hereinbefore described, and impose a fine of $5 on the offending player.

WILL PLAY RETURN MATCH.

The Plainfield Country Club golf team will go to Cranford tomorrow afternoon and meet the team of that place in the second match game of the season. Last week the locals defeated this team on the local links by the score of 18 to 4 and are going after the second match tomorrow.

ALL STARS VS. HIGHLANDERS.

The Highlanders and Smith's All Stars will clash on the Netherwood grounds Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Manager Smith promises to put a strong team on the field and a good game is looked for. Denny and Kyle will form the battery for the Highlanders.

BOSTON CLUB STARTS SALE OF WORLD SERIES TICKETS.

Boston, Sept. 25—Official notice of the progress of the Braves toward capturing the National League penant and participating in the world's series was taken yesterday by the management of the local club. Secretary Herman E. Nickerson announced that applications for seats for world's series games that may be played here would be tabulated, beginning today, and reservations made in the order of receipt.

Applications will be granted for one, two or three day allotments, with preference to those asking for tickets for three days and for any reasonable number of seats for each game, those applying for one or two to have first call.

The first applications reached the local headquarters more than month ago, and more than 500 were received yesterday. Beginning today, an extra force of clerks will be employed to handle the business.

NASH TO CAPTAIN ANTLERED PINNERS

Chauncey Stout Will Pilot Newly Formed Junior Quintet.

Fifty bowlers of the local "Bill" lodge voted to enter a team in the Elk Senior and Junior Leagues at a meeting held last evening, in the Elks' lodge rooms on Watchung avenue.

For many years past the Senior League has been one of the most prominent bowling leagues that roll in the metropolitan district and while Plainfield has never won a team prize yet, many of the members have captured individual trophies. The Junior League is a new thing this year, being started for the purpose of bringing out new blood and timber for the older organization.

The committee in charge of the local lodge believing that Plainfield should have an experienced bowler has selected Chauncey F. Stout as the captain of the juniors. Mr. Stout will within the next two weeks select his team from among the many candidates who are now daily practicing.

The regular five who have so long upheld the good name of Plainfield under the leadership of John J. Campbell and Francis J. Blatz have organized by electing for their new captain Vincent W. Nash, Jr. Mr. Nash will be assisted in his year's work by John J. Campbell, Chief P. J. Kiely, Walter Vail, Jacob Waldorf, Edward A. Laing and Francis J. Blatz, all tried men of many years of experience and known throughout this State as some of the best bowlers who ever rolled a ball.

The local teams will practice on Thursday evening of next week by starting the season with a match game against each other.

The State Senior League will inaugurate the 1914-15 season during the week of October 12.

TENNIS AT P. C. C.

The ladies' doubles tennis tournament, for the championship of the Plainfield Country Club, will be started on the club courts next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. A large number of entries are expected and the competition will undoubtedly be very close. Entries will close at 8 o'clock Sunday night with any of the following members: Mrs. Story Rowland, 'phone 981; Madeline Ashwell, 'phone 863-M; Florence Stuart, 'phone 304-J.

MEET IN FIRST GAME.

The Highlanders and the Independents will meet for the first time this season on the Netherwood grounds tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Denny and Kyle will be in the points for the Highlanders and P. Terry and Compton will form the battery for the Independents.

FOOTBALL MANAGERS, NOTICE!

The Oxford Field Club, of Newark, will be represented on the gridiron this year by a team weighing 140 pounds, actual weight. Teams having home grounds may book games for Saturday or Sunday afternoons by communicating with the manager, H. E. Gill, 559 Summer avenue, Newark, or 1172-M, Branch Brook, between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m.

GIRLS' A. A. ELECTS.

The Girls' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School held its annual election of officers this morning. Miss Irma Good, of the junior class, was selected for president, Miss Ruth Morris secretary, and Miss Dorothy Crane treasuurer.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer. Aaron, newsdealer.

SOME REVERSES IN SEMI-FINALS

Misses Dorothy Burke and Edith Beers Qualify for Tennis Title at P. C. C.

Two of the most exciting contested matches of the ladies' singles handicap tennis tournament for the championship of the Plainfield Country Club were played this morning, in the semi-finals. Miss Edith Beers and Miss Dorothy Burke qualified for the final round, which will be played tomorrow.

In the first match today Miss Beers was forced to extend herself to the limit in order to defeat Miss Marion Brown, who made the match go to three sets before she would acknowledge defeat. The first set went to Miss Beers by a 7-5 score, but her opponent took the second one after some very exciting plays. The score was 9-7. In the deciding set Miss Beers outplayed her opponent and earned a 6-4 victory.

After winning the first set of her match with Miss Dorothy Burke, Miss Barbara Fleming, one of the favorites for the title, lost the next two and her chance in the final round. The first set went to her by a score of 6-4, but in the second her handicap proved too great and she was forced to take the short end of the same score, 4-6.

The summaries of today's play: Semi-final round—Miss Edith Beers defeated Miss Marion Brown, 7-5, 7-9, 6-4; Miss Dorothy Burke defeated Miss Barbara Fleming, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT.

Under the auspices of the Bureau of Civic Promotion, there will be a meeting of local civic bodies at the Y. M. C. A., at 8 o'clock this evening, when a plan will be considered for the civic and commercial development of Plainfield. There will be present representatives of the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce Plainfield Business Men's Association, West End Civic Association and the Netherwood Residents' Association.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Marsh, of Maple avenue, entertained about twenty young people at a party at their home yesterday afternoon, during which the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Hazel Marie Marsh, to Ernest Washburn, of Glen Falls, N. Y., was made. The playing of "500" featured the afternoon, after which favors were given by the hostess. The decorations of the various rooms were of pink and white.

RALLY DAY EXERCISES.

Rally Day exercises will be held by the Bible school of the First Baptist church, Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock, when an attractive program will be presented. A feature will be an address by Rev. Dr. R. F. Y Pierce, now stated supply at the Park Avenue Baptist church. Miss Jewell, cornetist, will also be present and render several selections.

F. W. DOYING.

F. W. Doying, of Westfield, who has been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital since the middle of August, died at that institution this morning. Mr. Doying has been a resident of Westfield for some time, and has a number of relatives at this place.

DUNELLEN COUPLE 50 YEARS WEDDED

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wesley Blaine, of Dunellen, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. T. F. Voorhees, of Jackson avenue, Dunellen, last night. About sixty guests were present from Plainfield, New Brunswick, Trenton, Beechwood Heights, Somerville, New York and Dunellen, and included four generations.

The home was attractively decorated with yellow and white crepe paper and artichoke blossoms. Mr. and Mrs. Blaine received the guests under an arch upon which the numerals 1864-1914 were placed. Rev. E. R. Brown presented the couple with a bride basket containing fifty yellow rose buds and two purses containing sums of gold. He then made a few remarks congratulating the couple and then the entire party enjoyed a bountiful collation. The entertaining features of the evening were games, music and dancing. Not to be outdone Mr. and Mrs. Blaine took the floor and enjoyed the dancing thoroughly. The affair ended at a late hour and the honored guests left amid showers of rice and confetti.

Mrs. Blaine was Miss Phoebe Van Arsdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Van Arsdale, of Bedminster. After being married she and her husband made their home at New Germantown for a short time and then moved to New Brunswick. From there they came to Dunellen about twenty-five years ago, where they have lived ever since. Mrs. Blaine received some handsome gifts.

many were wounded and taken prisoners. The rest fled on foot.

The Germans are destroying all bridges in the vicinity of Liege which might be of strategic value, according to persons arriving from the south of Belgium at Maestricht.

Petrograd, Sept. 25 (Central News Cable).—The capture by the Russians of Jaroslav and the occupation of the two railway junctions of Starce, Miesto, and Prevorsk have made the importance of the forts at Przsemysl minor. The Russians are virtually in control of the large quadrangle of which the four corners are Caroslav, Przemysl, Dynov and Riashov.

The Austrians behind Przemysl are again fleeing, leaving the garrison to its own devices. The Germans are apparently determined that they and the Austrians must defend Crocow to the last, as its surrender will jeopardize the entire German position in East Prussia, where the railways are closed to ordinary traffic owing to the great movement of German troops. Troops are also being brought by sea.

Official announcement is made that the Austrian garrison at Przemysl attempted a sortie and was driven back within the forts.

Rome, Sept. 25.—The Russians have seized all the passes in the Carpatians and have occupied Stanislv and Kolomca, both of which are cities of considerable size and both junction points on the railroad crosses the Carpathiansy into Hungar from Eastern Galicia.

The Giornale D Italia published a report from Basle that Switzerland has refused a request from the Germans for permission to send three army corps across Swiss territory.

BLAZE IN EMPTY HOUSE.

Sparks from a passing train set fire to the roof of an empty house on East Fourth street, yesterday. The fire department was called to the scene by telephone and the blaze was extinguished with chemicals. There was no damage.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL.

Washington, Sept. 25—President Wilson today, signed the Alley Bill, which wipes out tne slums of Washington.

The freshman class held a meeting this non to vote upon the selection of class colors and selected brown and gold. Ronald Conroy was elected to the students' council to represent the freshmen class. Elmer Perry was elected manager and Seymour Day captain of the freshman basketball team.

The Princeton Tennis Club will hold its annual tennis tournament at the Country Club, Saturday. North Plainfield High School will be represented by the following racquet wielders: Hoyt Tomkinson, Warren Townley, Lester Chandler, Sherman Chandler and Martin McDonough.

The Sigma Gamma Kappa Society held its first annual meeting in the school this noon. Since the retirement of Miss Terry, the former borough history teacher, no one has had charge of the work. The only thing done by the society was to set the day for the reception given each year to the incoming freshmen, which will be held Friday, October 2, at the Y. W. C. A.

DECIDING MATCH.

The third and deciding match between the Plainfield and Somerville Eagle bowling teams will be played on the local alleys tonight. This match will undoubtedly prove very interesting, as both teams will be out after the third battle. Plainfield has the advantage of their own alleys, but the last time the county seaters appeared here they took two of the three games. The locals will have their regular lineup that was used against the Netherwood last night.

RALL SERVICE TOMORROW.

Rally Day is to be observed by the Bible school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow morning at 11:45, for which special music has been arranged. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. G. Franklin Ream, of Westfield. The Christian Endeavor service at 4 o'clock in the afternoon will be in charge of Miss Miriam E. West.

WILL ASK STATE BOARD FOR RULE

Question is Raised as Discretionary Powers in Vaccination.

After listening to many protests against the rule which requires all school children to be vaccinated, the instruction committee of the Board of Education, of Newark, has decided to ask the State board if it has any discretion in the matter.

The law says that a board "may" exclude from any school any teacher or pupil not successfully vaccinated. The Newark board has always held that "may" here, as in several other laws, means "shall." The section of the act that bears on vaccination was passed in 1906 as a separate law, and refers to nothing else.

Charles M. Myers, counsel to the board, has advised that "may" in the act means "shall."

Among the vaccination opponents in Newark are Dr. James C. Corlies, president of the New Jersey Anti-Compulsory Vaccination Society. He said that he spoke for a woman who had recently moved to Newark from Montclair, where vaccination is not regarded as compulsory. Now she wanted to send her children to school in Newark. She objects to vaccination because she lost one child by death after vaccination.

Dr. F. W. Collins and Dr. S. A. Hipple, both osteopaths, also spoke against compulsory vaccination. Dr. Collins said that his daughter died as the result of vaccination.

The committee declined to let any children enter the schools without being vaccinated until the opinion from the State board is received.

The law does not require vaccination where, in the opinion of a physician, the pupil is an unfit subject. Dr. George J. Holmes, the medical supervisor, reported Wednesday night that the six-year-old son of William J. Frost, of 69 West End avenue, suspended from school because he was not vaccinated, was strong physically and should be vaccinated.

CANDIDATES FILE CAMPAIGN COSTS

Statement of Expenditures Are Presented to County Clerk Calvert.

Sheriff Wright's campaign expenses were $509.40, and a statement of them was filed yesterday with County Clerk Calvert. Several other candidates have also filed their statements of expenditures, including George C. Otto, the G. O. P. sheriff nominee, and George J. Stewart, one of the unsuccessful sheriff aspirants. The candidates, whether nominated or not, are obliged to file statements as provided for in the corrupt practices act. Failure to do so within five days after the election makes them liable to arrest and punishment by the court.

Sheriff Wright's great item of expense was for postage, $225 being spent for stamps alone. The other items in the statement are newspaper advertising, stationery, printing and for services in addressing and mailing the literature distributed.

Mr. Otto's expenses were $23.65 for advertising and printing. Mr. Stewart spent $45 in the same manner. Edmun Clum, one of the defeated Assembly contestants, had no expenses. County Register Smith although unopposed for the nomination, spent $65.25 in sending a letter of acknowledgement and thanks to all who signed his petition. There were nearly 3,000 of them.

MARTIN OUT AGAIN.

After doing inside desk duty for a week at the local police headquarters, Patrolman Roy Martin has been shifted to his regular assignment. Martin was injured while riding the department motorcycle two weeks ago and has been unable to do regular duty since that time.

ACTING DESK SERGEANT.

Roundsman Andrew Saffron is acting in the capacity of night desk sergeant at the local police headquarters at present. Saffron recently underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital and has not fully recovered.

CHAPTER XII.

The New Phase.

THE task that lay before the assembly of Brissago, viewed, as we may view it now, from the clarifying standpoint of things accomplished, was in its broad issues a simple one. Essentially it was to place social organization upon the new footing that the swift, accelerated advance of human knowledge had rendered necessary. The council was gathered together with the haste of a salvage expedition, and it was confronted with wreckage, but the wreckage was irreparable wreckage, and the only possibilities of the case were either the relapse of mankind to the agricultural barbarism from which it had emerged so painfully or the acceptance of achieved science as the basis of a new social order. The old tendencies of human nature, suspicion, jealousy, particularism and belligerency were incompatible with the monstrous destructive power of the new appliances the inhuman logic of science had produced. The equilibrium could be restored only by civilization destroying itself down to a level at which modern apparatus could no longer be produced or by human nature adapting itself and its institutions to the new conditions. It was for the latter alternative that the assembly existed.

Sooner or later this choice would have confronted mankind. The sudden development of atomic science did but precipitate and render rapid and dramatic a clash between the new and the customary that had been gathering since the first flint was chipped or the first fire built together. From the day when man contrived himself a tool and suffered another male to draw near him he ceased to be altogether a thing of instinct and untroubled convictions. From that day forth a widening breach can be traced between his egotistical passions and the social need. Slowly he adapted himself to the life of the homestead and his passionate impulses widened out to the demands of the clan and the tribe. But widen though his impulses might the latent hunter and wanderer and wonderer in his imagination outstripped their development. He was never quite subdued to the soil nor quite tamed to the home. Everywhere it needed teaching and the priest to keep him within the bounds of the plough life and the beast tending. Slowly a vast system of traditional imperatives superposed itself upon his instincts, imperatives that were admirably fitted to make him that cultivator, that cattle minder, who was for twice ten thousand years the normal man.

And, unpremediated, undesired, out of the accumulations of his tilling came civilization. Civilization was the agricultural surplus. It appeared as trade and tracks and roads, it pushed boats out upon the rivers and presently invaded the seas, and within its primitive courts, within temples grown rich and leisurely and amidst the gathering medley of the seaport towns rose speculation and philosophy and science and the beginning of the new order that has at last established itself as human life. Slowly at first as we traced it and then with an accumulating velocity the new powers were fabricated. Man as a whole did not seek them nor desire them; they were thrust into his hand. For a time men took up and used these new things and the new powers inadvertently as they came to him, recking nothing of the consequences. For endless generations change led him very gently. But when he had been led far enough change quickened the pace. It was with a series of shocks that he realized at last that he was living the old life less and less and a new life more and more.

Already before the release of atomic energy the tensions between the old way of living and the new were intense. They were far intenser than they had been even at the collapse of the Roman imperial system. On the one hand was the ancient life of the family and the small community and the petty industry; on the other was a new life on a larger scale with remoter horizons and a strange sense of purpose. Already it was growing clear that men must live on one side or the other. One could not have little trades people and syndicated businesses in the same market, sleeping carters and motor trolleys on the same road, bows and arrows and aeroplane sharpshooters in the same army, or hereditary peasant industries and power driven factories in the same world. And still less was it possible that one could have the ideas and ambitions and greed and jealousy of peasants equipped with the vast appliances of the new age. If there had been no atomic bombs to bring together most of the directing intelligence of the world to that hasty conference at Brissago there would still have been, extended over great areas and a considerable space of time perhaps, a less formal conference of responsible and understanding people upon the perplexities of this worldwide opposition. If the work of Holsten had been spread over centuries and imparted to the world by imperceptible degrees it would, nevertheless, have made it necessary for men to take counsel upon and set a plan for the future. Indeed already there had been accumulating for a hundred years before the crisis a literature of foresight; there was a whole mass of "modern state" scheming available for the conference to go upon. These bombs did but accentuate and dramatize an already developing problem.

This assembly was no leap of exceptional minds and superintelligencies into the control of affairs. It was teachable, its members trailed ideas with them to the gathering, but these were the consequences of the "moral shock" the bombs had given humanity, and there is no reason for supposing its individual personalities were greatly above the average. It would be possible to cite a thousand instances of error and inefficiency in its proceedings due to the forgetfulness, irritability or fatigue of its members. It experimented considerably and blundered often. Excepting Holsten, whose gift was highly specialized, it is questionable whether there was a single man of the first order of human quality in the gathering. But it had a modest fear of itself and a consequent directness that gave it a general distinction. There was, of course, a noble simplicity about Leblanc, but even of him it may be asked whether he was not rather good and honest minded than in the fuller sense great.

The ex-king had wisdom and a certain romantic dash, he was a man among thousands, even if he was not a man among millions, but his memoirs and, indeed, his decision to write memoirs, give the quality of himself and his associates. The book makes admirable but astonishing reading. Therein he takes the great work the council was doing for granted, as a little child takes God. It is as if he had no sense of it at all. He tells amusing trivialties about his cousin Wilhelm and his secretary, Firmin, he pokes fun at the American president, who was indeed rather a little accident of the political machine than a representative American, and he gives a long description of how he was lost for three days in the mountains in the company of the only Japanese member, a loss that seems to have caused no serious interruption of the work of the council.

The Brissago conference has been written about time after time as though it were a gathering of the very flower of humanity. Perched up there by the freak or wisdom of Leblanc, it had a certain Olympian quality, and the natural tendency of the human mind to elaborate such a resemblance would have us give its members the likenesses of gods. It would be equally reasonable to compare it to one of those enforced meetings upon the mountain tops that must have occurred in the opening phases of the deluge. The strength of the council lay not in itself but in the circumstances that had quickened its intelligence, dispelled its vanities and emancipated it from traditional ambitions and antagonisms. It was stripped of the accumulations of centuries, a naked government with all that freedom of action that nakedness affords. And its problems were set before it with a plainness that was out of all comparison with the complicated and perplexing intimations of the former time.

The world on which the council looked did indeed present a task quite sufficiently immense and altogether too urgent for any wanton indulgence in internal dissension. It may be interesting to sketch in a few phrases the condition of mankind at the close of the period of warring states, in the year of crisis that followed the release of atomic power. It was a world extraordinarily limited when one measures it by later standards, and it was now in a state of the direst confusion and distress.

It must be remembered that at this time men had still to spread into enormous areas of the land surface of the globe. There were vast mountain wildernesses, sandy deserts and frozen lands. Men still clung closely to water and arable soil in temperate or subtropical climates, they lived abundantly only in river valleys, and all their great cities had grown upon large navigable rivers or close to ports upon the sea. Over great areas even of this suitable land flies and mosquitoes armed with infection had so far defeated human invasion, and under their protection the virgin forests remained untouched. Indeed, the whole world, even in its most crowded districts, was filthy with flies and swarming with needless insect life to an extent which is now almost incredible. A population map of the world in 1950 would have followed seashore and river course so closely in its darker shading as to give an impression that homo sapiens was an amphibious animal. His roads and railways lay also along the lower contours, only here and there to pierce some mountain barrier or reach some holiday resort did they clamber above 3000 feet. And across the ocean his traffic passed in definite lines. There were hundreds of thousands of square miles of ocean no ship ever traversed except by mischance.

Into the mysteries of the solid globe under his feet he had not yet penetrated for five miles, and it was still not forty years since, with a tragic pertinacity, he had clambered to the poles of the earth. The limitless mineral wealth of the arctic and antarctic circles was still buried beneath vast accumulations of immemorial ice, and the secret riches of the inner zones of the crust were untapped and indeed unsuspected. The higher mountain regions were known only to a sprinkling of guide led climbers and the frequenters of a few gaunt hotels and the vast rainless belts of land that lay across the continental masses, from Gobi to Sahara and along the backbone of America, with their perfect air, their daily baths of blazing sunshine, their nights of cool serenity and glowing stars and their reservoirs of deep lying water, were as yet only desolations of fear and death to the common imagination.

And now, under the shock of the atomic bombs, the great masses of population which had gathered into the enormous, dingy town centers of that period were dispossessed and scattered disastrously over the surrounding rural areas. It was as if some brutal force, grown impatient at last at man's blindness, had with the deliberate intention of a rearrangement of population upon more wholesome lines, shaken the world. The great industrial regions and the large cities that had escaped the bombs were, because of their complete economic collapse, in almost as tragic a plight as those that blazed, and the countryside was disordered by a multitude of wandering and lawless strangers. In some parts of the world famine raged, and in many regions there was plague. The plains north of India, which had become more and more dependent for the general welfare on the railways and that great system of irrigation canals which the malignant section of the patriots had destroyed, were in a state of peculiar distress, whole villages lay dead together, no man heeding, and the very tigers and panthers that preyed upon the associated survivors crawled back infected into the jungle to perish. Large areas of China were a prey to brigand bands.

It is a remarkable thing that no complete contemporary account of the explosion of the atomic bombs survives. There are, of course, innumerable allusions and partial records, and it is from these that subsequent ages must piece together the image of these devastations.

The phenomena, it must be remembered, changed greatly from day to day, and even from hour to hour, as the exploding bomb shifted its position, threw off fragments or came into contact with water or a fresh texture of soil. Barnet, who came within forty miles of Paris early in October, is concerned chiefly with his account of the social confusion of the countryside and the problems of his command, but he speaks of heaped cloud masses of steam "all along the sky to the southwest" and of a red glare beneath these at night. Parts of Paris were still burning, and numbers of people were camped in the fields even at this distance watching over treasured heaps of salvaged loot. He speaks, too, of the distant rumbling of the explosion —"like trains going over iron bridges."

Other descriptions agree with this; they all speak of the "continuous reverberations" or of the "thudding and hammering," or some such phrase, and they all testify to a huge pall of steam, from which rain would fall suddenly in torrents and amid which lightning played. Drawing nearer to Paris, an observer would have found the salvage camps increasing in number and blocking up the villages, and large numbers of people, often starving and ailing, camping under improvised tents because there was no place for them to go. The sky became more and more densely overcast until at last it blotted out the light of day and left nothing but a dull red glare "extraordinarily depressing to the spirit." In this dull glare, great numbers of people were still living, clinging to their houses and in many cases subsisting in a state of partial famine upon the produce in their gardens and the stores in the shops of the provision dealers.

Coming in still closer, the investigator would have reached the police cordon, which was trying to check the desperate enterprise of those who would return to their homes or rescue their more valuable possessions within the "zone of imminent danger."

That zone was rather arbitrarily defined. If our spectator could have got permission to enter it, he would have entered also a zone of uproar, a zone of perpetual thunderings, lit by a strange purplish red light, and quivering and swaying with the incessant explosion of the radio active substance. Whole blocks of buildings were alight and burning fiercely, the trembling, ragged flames looking pale and ghastly and attenuated in comparison with the full bodied crimson glare beyond. The shells of other edifices already burnt rose pierced by rows of window sockets against the red lit mist.

Every step further would have been as dangerous as a descent within the crater of an active volcano. These spinning, boiling bomb centers would shift and break unexpectedly into new regions, great fragments of earth or drain or masonry suddenly caught by a jet of disruptive force might come flying by the explorer's head, or the ground yawn a fiery grave beneath his feet. Few who ventured into these areas of destruction and survived attempted any repetition of their experiences. There are stories of puffs of luminous radio active vapor drifting sometimes scores of miles from the bomb center and killing and scorching all they overtook. And the first conflagrations from the Paris center spread westward half way to the sea.

Moreover, the air in this internal inner circle of red lit ruins had a peculiar dryness and a lustering quality, so that it set up a soreness of the skin and lungs that was very difficult to heal.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CANNING VEGETABLES.

WHEN vegetables are cheap and abundant they may be canned for winter use. The process is not a difficult one, and, thanks to it, the housewife may be assured of pure canned goods at a minimum of cost.

An Easy Method.

Canned Beans.—Butter, wax and string beans may be put up in this way. Beans must be tender. Cut off stem of the beans, but do not break. Select wide mouthed jars. Wash beans in cold water. Pack into jars, placing the beans full length in jar. For a quart jar add one teaspoonful of table salt. Fill jar with cold water nearly full, leaving about one quarter to one-half inch for steam, so as not to break jar. Put on cover, put in washboiler, having cold water to neck of jar, and boil between two hours and a half and three hours. Place strips of wood in bottom of boiler under jars. Jars must be air tight.

Preserving the Flavor.

Canned Beets.—Select small, perfect beets, wash carefully without bruising or cutting, cover with cold water and cook until tender. When tender turn off the hot water and pour on cold. Skin the beets, using the fingers to slip off the skin, and not a knife and fork. Then pack carefully in sterilized jars and cover with very salty water. When quite cold set the jars in a boiler of cold water to cover three-fourths of the height, boil an hour, lift up to the brim with boiling salted water, adjust rubber and top and screw tight. When quite cold set away in a cool, dry place, protecting from the light.

Economizing For Winter.

Canned Green Peas.—Be sure the peas are fresh and tender. Pack into quart jars and pour over them salt water, allowing a teaspoonful of salt to three-quarters of a pint of water for each quart jar. Adjust tops of the jars without the rubber in the way and set on a rack in the bottom of a large kettle or boiler, separating the cans by cloths, ropes or wisps of hay so that they do not touch. Pour in cold or lukewarm water, never hot, allowing the water to cover the jars three-quarters of height. Put on cover of boiler and steam three hours. Take out the jars one by one, fill to overflowing with more of the salt water kept hot for this purpose, put on the rubber and top and screw slowly air tight. Put back in boiler, adding more water, enough to immerse the jars this time. Steam one hour more, lift out and set on thickly folded paper or a board out of a draft and allow them to cool, screwing the lid tighter if possible. When quite cold wrap in coarse brown paper and set in a cool, dark place.

Then She Began to Cry.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Japanese Marvel At Little White Girl.

"I AM going to tell you the story of Dolly Vincent's adventure in Japan to-night," said daddy. "Mr. Vincent was telling me a most amusing story this afternoon."

"Oh, goody!" cried Evelyn. "I've wanted awfully to see her ever since she came back."

"You see, Dolly's daddy works for some folks who import Japanese things, and instead of remaining in the big city of Tokyo, where white people are not a novelty, Mr. Vincent was obliged to go into a small town a long way from Tokyo.

"Dolly teased to go, too, so she was taken along. She was very much pleased with all the odd sights, but it never occurred to Dolly nor her daddy either that while she was seeing so many queer things she herself was a strange sight for the Japanese folk of this little interior town.

"That is, they didn't know at first that she was attracting a good deal of attention. But after a time Mr. Vincent noticed that, while the natives paid no attention to him, whenever Dolly was with him they would be surrounded by a crowd of curious women, children and even grownup men.

"The women and children would pull Dolly's long golden curls, and they must have wished to see if her eyes were real, I suppose, since they tried to poke their fingers in her eyes.

"But one day Dolly strayed away from the house alone and went along the street looking at all the queer things and having a beautiful time at first. Pretty soon a great crowd surrounded her, and when Dolly tried to get away she couldn't.

"Then she began to cry. Great tears rolled down her cheeks, and, while the Japanese are usually a solemn people, her tears seemed to afford them great joy. They sat around her and laughed and laughed and the harder she would cry the harder they would laugh.

"Why, kiddies, that whole town had gathered around that one little girl! The shops were left untended, the women left their domestic duties, and every one was gathered there to see one poor little white girl cry.

"Pretty soon Daddy Vincent came along and stopped at the outer edge of the crowd. He said he wondered why all the shops were deserted and the great crowd gathered.

"He peered over the heads of the little brown people, and there in the center sat Dolly crying, her pink and white face all smudged, her white dress all stained with mud and her curls all awry.

"You better believe that Daddy Vincent found his way through that crowd pretty quickly and had Dolly in his arms in no time at all."

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS ELECT OFFICERS

The annual election of officers in the Plainfield High School senior class was held yesterday afternoon, much interest being manifested in the races for the various offices, all of which were keenly contested. Daniel F. McNamee was elected president of the class; Miss Lillian Fountain is the vice-president, and Miss Lottie Mendel is secretary.

These officials will serve throughout the remainder of the school term prior to the graduation of the class in 1915. According to a new custom which has been announced by Principal Best, each of the four class presidents will be required to occupy seats on the chapel platform during the morning assembly exercises in the future.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Construction of School Building.

The Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., will receive sealed bids at the Board room in the High School Building, corner West Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at a meeting to be held on Monday, September 28, 1914, at 8 p. m., for the construction of a school building on Evergreen Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Plans and specifications are now on file at the High School Building, Plainfield, N. J., where they can be seen from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., on week days, excepting Saturdays, when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, until the day and hour of opening the bids as above mentioned.

Plans and specifications are also on file at the offices of the Architects, Wilder & White, 50 Church Street, New York City.

Copies of the Plans and Specifications may be obtained from the architects by depositing with the architects a certified check for $25.00, payable to the order of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J., which will be returned upon the return of the drawings and specifications.

The work will be let in four contracts. 1. For the general construction. 2. For the heating and ventilating work. 3. For the plumbing work. 4. For the electrical work. And separate bids will be received on each contract.

All bids are to be on forms furnished with the specifications and accompanied by a certified check on some solvent bank or trust company, payable to the order of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J., or a surety bond of a company authorized to do business in the State of New Jersey, in the amount of five per cent. of the estimate submitted.

All bids or proposals are to be in writing and sealed, and addressed to the Secretary of the Board. Each bid must state explicitly upon what portion of the work it is based.

Upon receipt of the bids, or proposals, the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce their contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received by the Board previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to waive any or all formalities.

B. VAN D. HEDGES,
Secretary Board of Education.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

At the Plainfield theatre, tonight, A. H. Woods will present Michael Morton's new play, "The Yellow Ticket." Mr. Morton, whose eminence as a playwright in England is equally accorded in this country, and who is well known for his dramatization of Tolstoi's "The Resurrection," has chosen for the theme of "The Yellow Ticket" the conditions which prevail today throughout the kingdom of the Czar and the status of the Jew in modern Russia. The main characters of "The Yellow Ticket" are chosen from official and diplomatic circles and the author has not resorted for his drama to Nihilism, bombs nor any of the usual concommitants that go to make up most plays of Russian life. There are three acts, all of which take place in St. Petersburg, and the intense interest which is aroused by the situation which develops at the rise of the curtain, is said to be maintained throughout until the final climax in the last act. The principal parts will be played here by Warner Oland, Maud Gilbert, Edward Foley, William Macauley, Edwin Maxwell, Louis Hartman, May Ward Holton and others.

A young man of noble birth, heir *to enormous estates, and who sup*posedly had been dead over fifteen years, returns to his home; proves his identity to the entire satisfaction of his mother, a countess, and marries the young lady who was his childhood sweetheart and whom he had heroically saved from death by stopping her runaway horses, not knowing, at the time, who she was and being also wholly unaware of his own identity. The case is one of thrilling interest. It would seem that Philippe de Lagardere, heir to the title and estates of the Lagarderes, and who, it was thought, had died fifteen years before, was in reality, in a drugged condition, stolen from his cradle by his nurse, Bathilde de Wendel, and a dead child substituted for him. The nurse took this heroic action that Philippe might be saved from assassination at the hands of a scoundrel, an enemy of the house of Lagardere, and against which he had sworn his eternal vengeance. "The Heir of the Lagarderes" is a photo-play declared to be an artistic triumph. It will be at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow, matinee and night.

There are some big names that loom prominently when the production of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," which Henry W. Savage will disclose at the Plainfield Theatre in Monday night, is discussed. In the first place, the producer, Henry W. Savage, himself. Though Mr. Savage's name appears so often in print in connection with his various theatrical and musical enterprises, though he has given more than any other individual to the furtherance of good music in America through his productions in English of "Parsifal" and other Wagnerian operas, though his name has become a hall-mark as to quality when it is announced as the sponsor of a theatrical or musical attraction, the majority of people who have found pleasure in his productions know nothing of the man himself, for Mr. Savage is a man who avoids publicity. Never with his consent has his picture appeared in a newspaper or magazine, and reporters declare that he is one of the hardest men to interview. He prefers that his work should speak for him. George Marion, the general stage director for Mr. Savage, had charge of the production of "Everywoman." He is considered the master of his craft and "Everywoman" is his master work. It represents months of patient and painstaking labor. The scenery was painted by Walter Burridge and the costumes were made from designs by Hy Mayer, the famous cartoonist and magazine illustrator.

Signor Alberta Amadi is an artist of the San Carlo Grand Opera Company forces, who recently came from LaScala, Milan, where last season he sang in Cimarosa's "Secret Marriage" and in Humperdinck's "Koenigskinder." The career of Amadi is a remarkable one. Up to the age of twenty-two he had studied civil engineering, when he accidently met one of Italy's greatest tenors—Edoardo Garbin. The latter had heard Amadi singing in private at a gathering of friends, and was so impressed by the beauty of his voice that he at once advised him to forsake his former course of study and devote himself to lyric art. Two years later Amadi; always under the advice and guidance of the older Italian artist, made his debut in "Linda di Chamounix," at the Municipal Theatre of Monsa, the historical city six miles from Milan. It was a real triumph, and the following day the impresarios of Milan besieged him with flattering offers for engagements in the leading theatres of Italy. Amadi will be heard as Edgardo in "Lucia di Lammermoor," at the Plainfield Theatre on Wednesday night, next.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from back ache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

SAVING THE "EXTRAS"

Did it ever occur to you that this is one of the easiest ways of accumulating money? Dividends, interest on bonds, mortgages and other securities, gifts of money—anything, in fact, that is not needed for actual living expenses, should be laid aside in a special account instead of being frittered away. The habit can soon be formed and there is a fascination about watching such an account grow. We invite you to test the truth of this statement by opening an "income account" in our Special Department which will be subject to

4% COMPOUND INTEREST.

CLOTHING ON CREDIT AT CASH PRICES

$1 WEEKLY TO ALL

EXPERT knowledge of clothing, hats and shoes enables us to buy to such advantage that it is a difficult matter for newer, less experienced concerns to meet our prices and easy terms of credit.

That this is more than a mere advertising claim is a matter which you can easily prove with a little effort.

Shop around a bit and compare our goods, prices and terms with others. We're not afraid!

GERMANS CROSSED MEUSE ONLY TO BE DRIVEN BACK BY ALLIES FIERCE DEFENSE; BATTLE STILL UNDECIDED

Hard Fighting in Progress on Left Wing--Germans Take Control of Cracow, Relieving All Austrian Officials--Protest Against Dropping of Bombs on Ostend Is Made by Burgomaster to This Government--English Take Town in German Southwest Africa--Airship Over Boulogne.

Paris, Sept. 26.—It was admitted by the French war office this afternoon that the Germans had crossed the Meuse at St. Migiel, but that they had been thrown back. It was officially stated that on the French left wing hard fighting is in progress between Somme and the Oise and Soissons and the Aisne.

The official statement also says that on the Aisne the French troops have made some slight progress. The enemy has not attempted any attack. Between Soissons and Rheims there is no important change. At the centre from Rheims to Verdun the situation is unchanged.

"At the south of the Woevre," says the statement, "our attacks have not ceased to progress. The Fourteenth German corps has been thrown back, after suffering heavy losses. On our right wing (Lorraine and the Vosges) the German's effectiveness seems to have been reduced. Some detachments which had attacked our advance posts at certain points have been repulsed by the entry into action of our reserves.

The following was issued at the same time on the eastern theatre of war: "The Russians have captured Rzeszow on the railroad leading to Cracow and the two fortified positions to the north and to the south of Przemysl. In Posen the Germans appear to be fortifying themselves north of Kalisz.

London, Sept. 26.—The great battle of the Aisne is still undecided according to latest advices. There is still much water in the trenches because of the chalkiness of the soil. A German military commandant is today in control of Cracow, which has been occupied by German troops, according to despatches from Petrograd. All officials of the Austrian government have been displaced.

The correspondent of the Times at Ostend says that the Burgomaster has addressed through United States Consul to President Wilson, a protest against the German action in dropping bombs in Ostend.

A telegram from Basel says that the recent English aerial raid on Dusseldorf, a depot for Zeppelins, resulted in the damage of one Zeppelin, but the extent of the injury is not known.

A second bomb is reported to have destroyed part of a machinery shed in the vicinity containing duplicate pieces for the craft, while a third bomb fell in a meadow. No deaths were reported.

A message from Cape Town says that a Union defence force occupied Luderitzbucht, in German Southwest Africa, on September 19. The German garrison had previously retreated blowing up the railway and destroying the wireless, but otherwise leaving the place intact.

Ostend, Sept. 26—40,000 German troops are now in camp at Waterloo and passes to the south of Brussels have been refused. It is now believed that the Germans are moving artillery from France to Mons.

Paris, Sept. 26—In a battle lasting four days in Upper Alsace, the French forces threw the Germans back from Wessering Valley to Gernay. The fiercest fighting took place between Gernay, Thann and Affach.

London, Sept. 26—A German aeroplane flew over the City of Boulonge yesterday dropping bombs into a ship yard. No one was injured and only slight damage was done.

An official statement issued last night says that the losses incurred in the sinking of the British cruisers in the North Sea number 60 officers and 1,400 men.

Berlin, Sept. 26—From a high official source comes the statement that the majority of the German army in France are reservists. The seasoned troops are being rapidly mobilized to the eastward to check the Russian advance.

LOCAL DELEGATES HAD GREAT TIME

Patrolmen Delegates to State Convention Took Active Part in Affair.

HAD MONSTER PARADE

Plainfielders Marched With Elizabeth Delegates Who Were the Hit of the Event—More Than 2,000 in Line.

Patrolman Roland McIntyre, of the local police force, one of the three delegates to the annual convention of the New Jersey State Patrolmen's Benevolent Association which closed in Atlantic City, Thursday night, has returned home and is preparing a lengthy report of the business thansacted at the meetings. Marshal John Hermann, of the North Plainfield police, and Michael O'Brien, of the Somerville force, were the other two delegates from the local association. The election of officers at the convention resulted as follows: President, William J. Burke, of Newark; vice president, William Trunk, of Union Hill; secretary, John Connors, of Union Hill; treasurer, Joseph Kehoe, of Edgewater; sergeant-at-arms, John J. Miller. The banquet held at the Hotel Dennis was one of the attractive features of the gathering Mayor Reibel, of Atlantic City, and ex-President Connors, of Trenton were the principal speakers. William J. Burke, the newly elected president, was the toastmaster.

Several other members of the Plainfield force, including Captain John J. Flynn and Patrolmen William Mernagh and Cornelius McCarthy, were visitors at Atlantic City during the convention. The Plainfield delegation took part in the monster parade, marching with the Elizabeth coppers. More than 2,000 minions of the law from all parts of the State took part in this big event the Elizabeth division of the line of march making the best showing. With their uniform, blue hats, wearing badges and carrying canes with blue streamers, the Elizabetheans created favorable comment.

In reviewing what occurred during the gathering to a Daily Press reporter, this morning, McIntyre was enthusiastic over the reception accorded the bluecoats by the Atlantic City authorities. Many sight-seeing trips were participated in by the Plainfield delegates at the popular resort. The parade was led by one hundred mounted policemen in full dress uniforms. Accustomed to wearing municipal livery from eight to twelve hours daily in their home towns nearly every day in the year, hundreds of those on parade felt anything but comfortable when being reviewed in civilian garb. The nearest suggestion to uniformity in the line was shown by the brown caps of the Newark delegation, the gray headgear of the Elizabeth contingent and the white umbreilas and brown dusters of the Asbury Park men. Trenton and Bayonne were also largely represented.

The convention was brought to a close Thursday night, with a State ball, at which the Plainfield coppers tangoed until after midnight. This was a royal event, according to the localities, and the spacious ballroom of the Hotel Denis was packed to its capacity.

GIRL SAYS SHE GAVE MAN $4,000 ON MARRIAGE PROMISE

High Bridge, Sept. 26—Word was received here yesterday that Peter L. Toner, who lived all his life in this town, has been arrested in Atlanta, Ga., and is being held by the Federal authorities on a charge of violating the Mann act. His case had been postponed pending the illness of Miss Bertha Hoffman, also of High Bridge, who is also in Atlanta, although not under arrest.

Miss Hoffman, it has been learned, says Toner secured $4,000 from her by promising to marry her. They have been sweethearts all their lives. Toner is twenty-six and Miss Hoffman is a year his senior.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR BELGIAN SUFFERERS

Daily Press Reader Sees Cause for Thanksgiving in Present Situation.

Many contributions have been received by the local group of well known women who are raising funds for the relief of Belgian widows, orphans and homeless. As was told in the Daily Press, the movement was started at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Frederick Wallace on Thursday morning, when Mrs. Pierre Mali, wife of the Belgian counsel in New York, presided at a large gathering of prominent Plainfield women.

At the time the meeting was described, an appeal was made for funds to be sent direct to the Daily Press, to be placed with the money raised by private solicitation. The first contribution for this fund reached the Press office this morning, in the form of a check for $1 from "C L." The letter accompanying the contribution says, "I am glad to contribute for the Belgian and Widows Orphans Fund, and I hope a large sum will be realized. After all the wailings of the muck-rakers for years past, America does not seem such a bad country to live in just now, after all. That one circumstance of living in a land of peace is a pretty good start for Thanksgiving Day."

The fund is one being raised entirely for those who are or were dependent upon Belgian soldiers. None of it will be used for the relief of the men themselves, for the Red Cross is doing that work. It was stated in the first article that only contributions of $1 were asked for, but larger sums will be gladly received, although the dollar unit is the basis being used in soliciting subscriptions. No more worthy appeal has been made in this city in years, and it is hoped that the amount raised here will run into the thousands. One of the members of the committee received one check for $100, and there have been some of larger amounts. Money may be sent to the Daily Press, by whom it will be placed in the care of the proper authorities.

PRIMARY CANDIDATES FILE THEIR EXPENSES

Repors of expenses incurred by local and county candidates for office at the primaries held Tuesday, show that William N. Runyon and John P Owens, of this city, pse nothing to secure their nominations. Runyon ran for the Assembly and Owens was a candiate for the office of county clerk on the Democratic ticket. Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Democratic nominee for State Senator, filed expenses of $16.50 with County Clerk James C. Calvert, in Elizabeth, this morning. John Cose, of this city, who was defeated by George Otto, of Elizabeth, for the Republican nomination for sheriff, spent $116.25.

John H. Capstick, candidate for Congress in the Fifth Congressional district, paid out $2,250. It cost Capstick less to secure the nomination than was spent by the defeated candidate, Charles N. Fowler, who filed returns of $2,991.

William Stuchell, defeated candidate for the Congressional nomination on the Republican ticket, spent $1,239, while William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, had expenses amounting to $3,521. Thomas Pierson, who was defeated in the Congressional race by Tuttle, paid out $2,098. Former Mayor G. W. V Moy's expenses as Progressive nominee for Congress, spent only $4.71.

In the race for county clerk on the Republican ticket it cost James Calvert, the present incumbant, $4,025 to get the nomination, while the defeated candidate, William Wright, had disbursements of $2,522.

"HEINIE" GOES TO GIANTS.

New York, Sept. 26—The Chicago Nationals and the Giants have arranged a deal by which Heinie Zimmerman goes to the New York Nationals for Marquard, Grant and Bues. The transaction goes into effect at the end of this season. Bues was turned over to the Cubs by the Giants last Monday as a part of the deal.

GIRL WILL BE PUT IN AN INSTITUTION

Emma Backer Gave Police a Merry Chase Winding up in Summit.

Alleged by her mother to be incorrigible, Emma Backer, sixteen years old, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and held for the Common Pleas Court. A request will be made by the local authorities on behalf of the mother, to have the girl placed in some institution.

She was arrested by Patrolman Neylon in company with Mamie Burnett, Wednesday, charged with soliciting money on East Front street. Arraigned in court, Thursday morning, the Burunett girl was told to go back to her home in Stirling and Emma Backer was released to appear again yesterday. She failed to show up and some clever detective work on the part of the police resulted in her apprehension in Summit, yesterday afternoon. She had gone to the Burnett girl's home in Stirling following her release Wednesday and the pair later went to Summit.

MAY AMALGAMATE LOCAL CIVIC BODIES

Plainfield Organizations Represented at Mass Meeting Held Last Night.

Several of the local civic bodies were represented at a mass meeting held in the Y. M. C. A., last night, for the purpose of making tentative arrangements for the amalgamation of the organizations in this city with a view to combining their strength Robert Wakefield, an organizer, addressed the meeting and outlined the proposed plans for the formation of the new body describing the success with which similar movements have met in other cities of Plainfield's size. The speaker told of the good that will eventually come from such a combine and urged the necessity of concentrating the now scattered strength.

He reviewed incidents that have led up to such a movement and suggested that Plainfield fall in line immediately. According to Mr. Wakefield time and patience are requisitions for success in this work and he made a plea for co-operation from all bodies. It is essential that each of the organizations approve of the proposition before it is finally launched, inasmuch as outstanding groups will retard the progress to be met along civic lines.

The speaker outlined in brief the financial requirements to effect permanent organization and made his remarks applicable to conditions existing in this city. At the present time there are bodies active in the four quarters of the city, all formed for the promotion of the same things, and in the opinion of the organizer it will be of mutual benefit to combine.

Following Mr. Wakefield's address representatives from several of the bodies expressed their views on the proposition and it is probable that a meeting will be held in the near future where some definite action will be taken in the matter.

AFTER MISSING GIRL.

The local police this morning received a communication from Chief George B. Hutchinson, of Harrisburg Pa., requesting them to keep an out look for Martha Wetzel, a nineteen year-old girl, who has been missing from the parents' home in that city for several days. She is described as being 145 pounds in weight, medium dark complexion, dark hair, large dark eyes and when last seen wore a white dress with black silk girdle and a white hat trimmed with white grapes. The search has been instigated on a request made by her mother, Mrs. George Wetzel, of 901 South Front street, Harrisburg.

WARNING TO AUTOISTS.

Chief of Police Kiely this morning issued a warning to local automobile owners to keep a careful watch on machines left on the public thoroughfares. Auto thieves have been operating successfully in Newark and other nearby cities and the police are daily requested to keep an outlook for stolen machines. Two were stolen in Newark yesterday, and it is thought that the thieves may be working in this direction.

TO PLAN DEMONSTRATION.

The tuberculosis exhibit committee will meet with Dr. Millard Knowlton, State tuberculosis inspector, at the office of the local Board of Health at 4 o'clock this afternoon, to consider plans for the State exhibit to be held here beginning October 12.

YOUTHFUL VANDALS FORM SCHOOL GANG

One Colored Youth Arrested This Morning Makes Confession to Chief Kiely.

Vandalism on the part of small boys attending the Franklin School has caused the police considerable annoyance. Chief Kiely secured information from a youthful suspect this morning, that will probably result in the round-up of a horde of young trouble makers the first part of the week. Arrested this morning, Denny Starr, colored, remained defiant before a cross-questioning, but finally confessed when threatened with a jail term preceded by corporal punishment. The prisoner is about twelve years of age, and is thought to be the leader of a gang that has been slashing schoolmates' bicycle tires at the Franklin School.

Several complaints have come to the police about such mischief-makers and the Starr boy admitted that he was guilty of several of the offenses. The boy implicated several companions and they will also be arrested by the authorities.

MISS MOSS LEAVES ESTATE OF $8,241.83

Sister of Charles H. Moss, of South Plainfield, Was Quite Wealthy.

New York, Sept. 26—Miss Louise Moss, of Brooklyn, sister of Charles H. Moss, of South Plainfield, left a net estate of $8,241.83 when she passed away on March 31, according to an appraisal of her estate, made by Transfer Tax State Appraisers which report today is on file here, the entire estate, under the directions of her will, executed August 19, 1897, passing over to her sister, Beatrice Moss, of No. 62 West Thirty-sixth street, New York. Eugene C. Moss, a brother, of Metuchen, is the executor.

The gross estate amounted to $9,682.96 and consisted of $8,128.84 in banks; a $1,250 bond and mortgage, with interest, $21.87. The rest in household and personal effects. The expenses—$1,441.13—as charged up against the estate are: Funeral $296.40; administration, $543.86; debts, $333.30, and commissions, $267.57.

Outside of her South Plainfield brother, her New York sister, and her Metuchen brother who is the executor, Miss Moss is survived by three other brothers, Joseph L., also of Metuchen; William P., of South Amboy, and Alfred Moss, of Frankfort, Pa.

LOCAL MEN ATTEND.

The annual convention of the State Y. M. H. A. is to be held at Trenton, tomorrow, at which time delegates from the various associations from all parts of New Jersey as will delegates from the Y. M. H. A.'s of the State. Fraternal representatives from Pensylvania, New York and New England will be present and address the gathering. Samuel Rothberg and Abe Schwartz will act as delegates from the Plainfield body.

ARRESTED AS VAGRANTS.

Three vagrants were picked up on Park avenue, this morning, by Patrolman John Fritts as susspicious characters and when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, they were given one hour to get out of the city. The long distance pedestrians intended to go from this city to Perth Amboy and there take the ferry to Staten Island. They gave their names as Percy Gardner, Harry Cole and Wallace Brown.

WILL ATTEND MEETING.

A large delegation of local Eagles will accompany Vice-president Mahoney to Newark tomorrow afternoon to attend the last meeting of the State bowling league, at which final arrangements will be settled. The schedule will be submitted at that time and the league will be started in a few weeks.

"LORD" MANDVILLE.

John, alias "Lord" Mandville, a vagrant, was arrested yesterday, charged with loitering around the city streets. He was arraigned several months ago, charged with stealing chickens from "Count" Van Ness and instructed to get out of town. He was let go this morning on the condition that he make himself scarce at once.

LIGHT FROST PREDICTED.

Weather Prophet John Neagle reports that there will be light frost in exposed places tonight, and predicts a fair Sunday with moderate northwest winds. Today's minimum temperature was 67 degrees and the minimum was 46 degrees.

IMPROVED INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS REPORTED

Pond Tool Works Said to Have Received $2,000,000 Order.

Rumors which have been in circulation throughout the city during the past few days indicate that the industrial activities of Plainfield are about to resume normal conditions, especially at the Pond Tool Machine Works and the Potter Printing Press Company. It is said that Ponds has received several orders which aggregate $2,000,000, which, if true, would mean that a large force of men will have to be added to the pay-roll within the course of the next few weeks and that the regular working schedule of fifty-four hours a week will be resumed very soon. Just what these orders are it has been impossible to learn as the heads of the concern are out of town today and cannot be reached.

The outlook at the Potter plant has improved considerably within the past week or ten days and several men have been employed at the works, following a shut-down of three months. It is said that several orders have been received recently. Generally speaking, the reaction from conditions which followed the outbreak of the European war, has gradually been disappearing and the outlook is said to be much brighter.

An effort was made today to secure confirmation of the rumors concerning the Pond shop but James T. MacMurray, general manager, and A. C. Stebbins, vice president, were said to be out of the city. There is also a vastly improved condition at the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company, where full time has been resumed with an enlarged force.

Conditions are reported to be much improved at the Walter Scott Printing Press Works, although this plant has been pretty busy all summer. It is said that additional men have been employed recently to take care of several new orders received by the concern, all of which is good news for the mechanics of the city, who have felt the stress of business depression here.

STATE TRUST ISSUES AN INTERESTING BOOK

The State Trust Company has just issued a booklet entitled "It Served John Havens Right." This booklet describes in an entertaining way the experience of a New York man who came to Plainfield to seek a home. He consults The State Trust Company's Real Estate Department in regard to a house, and after securing this, he comes here to live, and opens an account with the company, and tells of the different ways in which the company has served him.

This is a very novel way of treating the subject, and the booklets should prove of interest to the public generally. They may be obtained by application at The State Trust Company.

REQUEST CIVIC BODIES TO SEND DELEGATES

Routine business and many questions of minor importance occupied the attention of the Building Trades Council, last evening. During the session communications were ordered sent to the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce, requesting those organizations to send fraternal delegates to the weekly meetings. This action has been under consideration for some time, the exchange of fraternal delegates between that body and the Business Men's Association having been in vogue for several months.

The report of the business agent, William H. Lunger, was received and a number of questions of interest to the various building trades of the city were discussed.

AMONG THE MISSING.

Dr. Albert Pittis, of East Front street, reported to the police, last night, that a Crescent bicycle had been stolen from his garage.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. STRYKER ARE HELD

The funeral service for Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Stryker, of 16 Madison avenue, was held at her late home yesterday afternoon, the Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, officiating. He spoke impressively of the life of Mrs. Stryker.

The service was largely attended and the floral tributes were numerous. The interment was made this morning in Blawenburg, the body being conveyed to that place in an automobile hearse.

BANK STOCK TAX.

According to the assessments in the taxing districts of the State against the bank stock under the bank stock taxing act, passed by the last Legislature, the total tax in Union county is $29,407.00 and in Somerset county it is $4,578.35. In Middlesex county it is $17,769.84.

RETURNS FROM CONVENTION.

Judge Rene P. F. von Minden, Harry Piddington, W. H. Metz and William VanNess have returned from Atlantic City, where there attended the firemen's convention as delegates from the New Market fire department.

Miss Dora Carberry, of Greenpoint L. I., is spending a week in the borough as the guest of her sister, Mrs Lawrence O'Leary, of Whittier avenue.

MRS. BOWLBY RETURNS.

Mrs. Frank Bowlby, of Washington avenue, who has been in Denver, Colo., since May 1, for her health, is expected home sometime today. The rarefied air, for which Colorado is noted, is said to have done Mrs. Bowlby a world of good.

Wesley Huff, of North avenue, left last evening for Oyster Bay, where he will spend the week-end with his uncle, Fred Chesser. Mr. Huff's father, John Huff, who is not well, has been visiting there now for about three weeks.

TAKES A POSITION.

Arthur O'Leary, of Whittier avenue, has resigned his position in the New York office of Levering & Garrigues in order to resume his studies at Plainfield High School.

Harold Damker, of North avenue has accepted a position as delivery clerk with B. Mann, the Plainfield grocer.

Dr. Celia Rich, who has been spending a couple of weeks in the borough as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Julius Breyer, has returned to her home at Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Helen Shively, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. William Shively, has accepted a position as teacher of the second grade in the East Bound Brook School.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dayton, of Main street, are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Drake, at Roslyn, N. Y.

Mrs. F. Percy Vail and daughter, Miss Virginia, have returned from a six weeks' stay at Muskoka, Can.

PURE FOOD SUPPER.

The pure food supper held in the Presbyterian chapel, last evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was very well patronized The supper was prepared by the chef of Wilkinson, Gaddis & Co., wholesale grocers, of Newark, who advertise some of the products that they dispose of in this manner. The manager of this feature of Wilkinson, Gaddis & Co.'s advertising said last evening, that he is kept very busy all the time in arranging for luncheons or dinners under the auspices of some society, club or church.

FAREWELL PARTY.

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Broderson, of Front street and Jefferson avenue, Wednesday night, in honor of Mr and Mrs. Ernest Fiedler, who left for Philadelphia on Thursday morning. Mr. Fiedler is a chief quartermaster in the United States Navy and has been enjoying a furlough. The parlor and the dining-room of the home were attractively decorated with golden rod and American flags. After the serving of a bountiful supper, dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Music was furnished by Hankerson's orchestra, of Plainfield. Another entertaining feature was singing by Master Ernest Otto F. Fielder. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. O E. Fielder, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Perrine, Mr. and Mrs. William Perrine, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sutton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nye, Mrs. Sutton and daughter, Miss Loretta Mariensheck Miss Marguerite Carpenter, Miss Anna Mariensheck, Miss Margaret Brown, William McDowell, Henry Perrine, William Brown, of Bound Brook; Mr. VanPelt, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrine, of New Market, and Mr. and Mrs. Jonn Brown, of Bound Brook.

BOUGHT HORSE FOR 25 CENTS.

"I gave 25c for the horse," answered six-year-old Steven Brodack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Brodack, of Equator Park, in answer to the query of Marshal Patrick Tarpey, as to how he happened to be in a buggy belonging to G. R. Bennett, the Piscataway produce man, which had been unhitched from in front of Stites' blacksmith shop, last evening, and driven away. Mr. Bennett's mother, Mrs. Jennie Bennett, and a brother, Paul, had driven over to the borough and hitched the horse in front of Stites' while they went into the local theatre to witness "Brewster's Millions." When they came out the rig was gone. They at once enlisted the assistance of the local police. It was while Marshal Patrick Tarpey was describing the horse and buggy over the telephone to the Plainfield police that the first inkling as to the identity of the culprit was unearthed by John Woods, who had heard the police were looking for a missing horse and buggy. He said that while passing Kuldoshes' corner he had seen Tom Reidy fixing the dangling halter of a horse for a lad seated in a buggy. The missing outfit was described to Woods, who exclaimed, "That's the very one. Why, the lad was no more than so high," contiued Woods, holding his hand about three feet from the floor. Herbert Nelson's taxi was at once hired. Chief Marshal Mohan, John Woods and Paul Bennett jumping in and the pursuit was on. Shortly after the party started, Harry Titsworth, of New Market road, pulled up in front of the borough hall with the missing rig and the lad who had caused all the trouble. He had been doing a little detective work on his own hook and had hailed the youthful driver and jumped in while the rig was being driven in a leisurely fashion along Madison avenue. The lad was locked up by Marshal Patrick Tarpey. He is a nice looking little fellow with light hair and exceptionally bright eyes. This is not the first time that he has been in trouble. About three months ago he stole $11.25 from his father and ran away. When caught by some older boys about town who knew what he had done, he offered to give them $1.25 of the amount that he had taken if they would let him go. It is said that the boy does not receive the best of treatment at home. The local authorities are going to investigate conditions there and it is possible that the lad may be committed to the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg.

DESTROYS SLEEP.

Many Plainfield People Testify to This.

You can't sleep at night
With aches and pains of a bad back—
When you have to get up from urinary trouble.
If the kidneys are at fault

Here is Plainfield proof of their merit.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

The Sunday-school in East Whitehouse will hold its sessions at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon hereafter instead of in the forenoon.

Mrs. Samuel Walton, of Newark, is spending a week with relatives at Pleasant Run. She will also visit at Whitehouse Station.

Westfield.

THE CALL TO PRAYER.

The President has designated Sunday, October 4, as the day of prayer for peace between the warring nations of Europe. What are you going to do about it? Some will say that prayer for peace is perfectly useless for this conflict must be fought to a finish.

But we certainly can pray that it may be speedily brought to a finish. Is it not probable that the Almighty has in the armory of heaven something far superior to siege guns, zeppelins dreadnoughts and submarines? His arm is not shortened that He cannot save us from a continuation of this awful conflict of the centuries.—He can step in. He will not answer every petition made to Him. It is blasphemy to pray that He will look with favor upon any people who for years have been worshipping military force.

Europe today is suffering from a false philosophy. Back of the present love of militarism is the deluding philosophy of Nietzsche,—the essence of which is that everything is permitted to the strong, and that might makes right. This terrible war has been made possible because certain men have cherished this ideal—and the people have been misled by their military dictators. What a sad commentary on our Christian civilization! Much of that which has been called Christian is discovered to have been a very thin veneer. Beneath the veneer is paganism.

The present condition of Europe reveals this fact that what the world needs is not culture nor even civilization—it needs the simple Gospel of Jesus Christ, from which will develop the proper kind of civilization and culture. Christ did not use these terms: He speaks of the Kingdom. In the great prayer of our Lord we say, "THY KINGDOM COME." If men really meant this, we should not have been appalled by this present war. The King of the Kingdom is "Our Father in Heaven." His is the King and Father of His people. Jesus Christ came to reveal the laws of the Kingdom, and He said, "Because God is your Father, all ye are brethren and I am your Master." During the last forty years, the Christian (?) nations of Europe have cherished no such thought as the brotherhood of mankind.

For example, the late Dr. Emil Reich a few years ago published a book on Germany's future greatness, in which he said, "Germany is the predestined head and mistress of the human race." And General Bernardi and men of his class have been seeking for years to make this ideal real. The opportune moment came two months ago and the great military machine was set in motion. The man who goes about armed, expecting a fight, will soon find occasion to use his weapons. In addition to the war in Europe, there is a new revolt in Mexico. The world is restless. More than that, it is crazed. The English Admiralty declares that the "ships must be saved before lives." The Allies and the Germans have been fighting for days and "still no decisive fight." Germany declares that "she can carry the fight to the extreme," and the Allies declare that they "will fight to the end." The end does not seem to be in sight.

Happily the United States is not yet involved,—yet she should be involved in this way,—in earnest prayer that God in His wisdom may speedily bring to a close this frightful war. How He will accomplish that result we do not know. Perhaps our prayers to God may suggest to the minds of all the warring nations a way to end this conflict and end it forever.. Don't prophecy that it must go on. Just pray about it,—earnestly and continuously,—and back our prayers by a religious life. It may be that if we let go of our faith in God, and live indifferent to Him and His Church, some great evil may visit us, to compel us to return to Him and His worship.

October the fourth is the day the President has appointed to pray for peace. Let the appeal be made earnestly and from a life entirely dedicated to Him. We are convinced of this truth,—armaments do not make peace. Alliances do not make peace. It is God who makes peace. When Christ came to earth, heaven sang "On Earth, Peace, Among Men In Whom He Is Well Pleased." It is as men and nations are in communion with God, and are daily seeking to carry out His purpose that there comes real peace.

REV. CHARLES E. HERRING.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I take this opportunity in compliance with your request in your issue of the 24th to emphatically deny the statement that the Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies or any of the organizations of which it is composed, are anti-Catholic; i. e., opposed to the Roman Catholic religion.

Moreover I am prepared to maintain this position on the public platform before those of any faith at any time and to elaborate on the absolute necessity for such an organization as ours.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The first of the Sunday-school rally service are to be held at the various churches tomorrow, for which time special services of music have been arranged. Promotions from many of the children's departments will mark a number of the services. The churches at which programs are to be held tomorrow include the Trinity Reformed, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, First Baptist, First Methodist, Bethel chapel and Warren chapel.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue church will have its first session of the fall tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon. There will be no afternoon service at this church, but a musical by the choir will be held there next Sunday. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will preach at the morning service on the subject, "The Great War and Our Christian Faith."

The winter schedule of services will be inaugurated at Trinity Reformed church tomorrow. The pastor, Rev. J. Y. Broek, will preach at the morning service on "The Question of the Centuries."

The Epworth League service tomorrow evening at the First Methodist church will be conducted by Miss Helen M. Joy.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Trinity Reformed church, will conduct a special missionary program tomorrow evening, at 6:15.

The rally service at the First Baptist church will be held at 9.45 tomorrow morning.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, will preach tomorrow on the subject, "The Mount of Angels, or Spiritual Inspirations from Engleberg, Switzerland." The official board of this church will meet at 4:30 to discuss important business.

Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce, the stated supply of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will deliver his famous sermon tomorrow evening, on the subject, "The Heart Cry of the World," with blackboard illustrations.

Rally Day exercises will be held by the Sunday-school of the Netherwood Reformed church at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Special rally services will be held all day tomorrow at Bethel chapel, beginning with a sermon by the pastor at the morning service. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Bethel chapel is a branch, will address the Sunday-school at 3:30. A special musical service is to be held at 7 o'clock. The Christian Endeavor Society will rally at 7 o'clock, which will be addressed by Superintendent James E. Kimball. Rev. E. G. Read, D. D., will address the evening service, which is to be preceded by a song service.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, pastor of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church, has announced his sermon subjects for tomorrow as follows. Morning, "God's Love for All Nations;" evening, "Hidden Treasures Discovered."

Royal Fillmore, of Kansas City, will address the local Unitey (New Thought) church services tomorrow for the last time, using "Prosperity" as a subject. Mr. Fillmore leaves for his home Monday morning.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, has announced the following sermon-subjects for tomorrow's services: Morning, "The Holy Spirit;" evening, "What Makes a Nation Great?"

The fall and winter schedule of services at Warren chapel will be resumed tomorrow, with a rally service at 2:45.

The usual Gospel service will be held at Rescue Mission tomorrow evening, at which time Mrs. Henry Parker, of the borough, will sing.

Alberto Amadi, Lyric Tenor, With San Carlo Grand Opera Co., Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday Night, September 30th.

CHANGE CHILDREN'S DAY AT TRENTON FAIR

Monday Selected For Their Visit to Educational Exposition.

Both the ladies and school children are to be given especial attention at Trenton Interstate Fair, which will be held from Sept. 28 to Oct. 2. Under a new arrangement the day for children of the Exposition is advanced from Tuesday to Monday. Tuesday is given over to the ladies. Attractions that will be of great interest have been booked for both days.

A visit to the Fair has an educational value for the youngsters, as they can see there exhibits of goods that will suggest new ideas to them. The relaxation they get will also benefit them for deeper application to work when they return to their classes. Free tickets are given the children through the schools when the teachers apply for them. The displays will be placed in position earlier than formerly, and everything will be in readiness for the opening of the gates at the Exposition Monday morning. The open air program will be presented in its entirety.

For the ladies, displays of all kinds of articles will be made. They will have every opportunity to examine the goods that have been placed on view in the contest for prizes, and attractive amusements will be scheduled for them. The open air program will have performers from all parts of the country in sensational acts.

The Fair management is endeavoring to make the Exposition of greater interest to the ladies, and as an extra inducement to gain their co-operation the admission fee for them Tuesday is to be reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.

Under the new plan the week will be divided as follows: Monday, children; Tuesday, ladies; Wednesday, farmers; Thursday, politicians; Friday, automobilists.

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

FOUR-BUSINESS-YEARS-IN-NEW YORK

1910 — 1914

On Tuesday next, September 29th, we complete our first Business Olympiad in this city of great retail business.

We look back with satisfaction over the four years which have gone since we came here, unknown and unproved to the majority of the people of New York.

To a degree astonishing to contemplate in so short a time, we have been accorded the confidence of a great company of new friends, to whom it is that our gratitude is felt—and here expressed.

We attribute this confidence to the principles with which this store began, and which have been kept in force ever since—"First of All, Reliability." It is our purpose to carry on these principles, and to remedy our shortcomings, as we and our friendly critics discover them. And to maintain this newest of New York's retail businesses, housed in a modern building, modern in its service and in its merchandising, at the highest state of public usefulness which it is in our power to compass.

In token of the completion of our Fourth Year, we have prepared

A GALA WEEK OF IMPORTANT SALES

Beginning Monday, Sept. 28th, and Continuing Until Next Saturday, Oct. 3d

which will include every portion of the Store in their scope, and bring forward the year's most noteworthy roster of offerings.

These invite you Monday. There are many more. And each new day will have a different stirring story to tell.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

When I was a little girl a very favorite experiment with children was to hold a copper cent (which was almost the size of a silver dollar) against one eye, the other being closed, and gradually moving it away, to notice how much more we could gradually see. I am often reminded of this experiment in reading arguments written by enthusiastic upholders of a "cause," whatever that cause may be. So closely do they hold the beloved object before their eyes that it quite blinds them to objects behind it. It is needless to say that one fails to get a true view of any subject that is looked at at too close a range. Of course every one of us is somewhat hampered by this practical short-sightedness and find it difficult to get the true perspective. This accounts for much of the bitterness of argument. We are so sure that we alone see the truth.

An article by Mrs. Ida Husted Harper in last Saturday's Evening Post has started me on this train of thought. The women who were opposed to slavery and who lent their influence in rousing public opinion against it were by no means all of them suffragists. Indeed at that time the number of women who wanted to vote was so small as to be quite negligible. The subject sometimes caused a good natured laugh and some not too refined jokes. That the public advocates of abolition were also advocates of woman suffrage is no doubt true. At that time few women publicly advocated any cause. But their work in the war hospitals and in the sanitary commission brought them into public life and what had been a silent, unseen influence has since developed into organized, intelligent work for the public good work which has been done efficiently without the vote. That we owe a debt of gratitude to the women who did grand pioneer work, no one, I think will deny. But that they represent the mass of thinking, patriotic women who are giving thought and service to the communities in which they dwell we certainly question. In my home the questions of the day were discussed with great freedom, but woman suffrage never seemed to attain the dignity of a "question;" and this in a family where every effort was being made to aid the establishment of the Woman's Infirmary and to forward the education of women as doctors. Mrs. Harper speaks of the ingratitude of the government in refusing to grant the request for woman suffrage. Some of us think it would have shown far more ingratitude if it had been forced on us. It is forty-five years since women began to petition Congress and now the president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association only claims as a modest (?) estimate thirty to thirty-five per cent. of American women as suffragists and in this she includes four million in the Suffrage States, although it has been clearly shown by indisputable statistics that only two million of the women of those States are eligible to vote. This in forty-five years after gigantic efforts and the expenditure of so much time and money. Surely the Suffrage copper cent has limited her vision.

Then comes the customary cry—the vote was given to the negroes and denied to the women. Again the copper cent. In the Northern States the negro had the vote; it was given to the freedmen, and to them only because it seemed to the majority the only way of guaranteeing their freedom. The fears felt by many then of the danger involved in adding so large a number of inefficient voters to our electorate were only too surely realized and to a certain degree the freedman has been disfranchised.

In discussing the probable effects of the war on Suffrage, Mrs. Harper says:

"It is the almost universal opinion in Great Britain that whichever party is returned to power at the general election next year will without delay grant some measure of woman suffrage. Meanwhile all of the franchise associations have laid aside their work for the vote and are winning universal public approval by devoting their well-organized forces entirely to the demands which are always made upon women in time of war."

Women in England have municipal suffrage, but, it seems, do not value it.

"But I want to know if they are honest in these professions why they do not make a better use of the rights and votes they already possess.

"If the work of Imperial Parliament belongs more naturally to men, the work of local government, with its splendid opportunities for civic betterment and the uplifting of the race belongs more naturally to women.

"Here her powers of citizenship and service can find the fullest and noblest expression.

"Think of it, in the length and breadth of the United Kingdom, there are only 21 women elected on town councils, only 3 on county councils, and you have no less than 232 boards of guardians, without a woman member on them."

This is an extract from a speech by Miss Violet Markham made at the Albert Hall, London. The one thing that gives force to plea for Suffrage is the splendid work done by some of the leaders. But mind you, not only has the work been done without the vote, but also the women who are clamoring most noisily for the vote are not, as a rule, the women who are doing the work. As for the extract given above from Mrs. Harper's article, I only wish American Suffragists would follow the plan of their English sisters. While men are dying by the thousands in this fearful war, the Suffrage question seems puerile and impertinent. The work of improving the world is going on without the woman's vote (West Virginia has just "gone dry"); why not defer the question at least till an election on the subject makes it necessary to resume the debate?

ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

It should be noted that whereas Woman Suffrage has existed in America since 1869, it was not until four years after the United Kingdom had introduced the principal of a minimum wage for sweated workers that the United States took up the matter—and then a non-Suffrage State led the way.—Anti-Suffrage Review (English), June, 1914.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The inspiring dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," from the pen of the late Walter Browne, in many ways the most talked-about play of recent years, will be disclosed by Henry W. Savage at the Plainfield theatre, Monday evening. This unique play which has been accorded such a tumultuous reception by the public, is a sort of nondescript in the matter of classification. It partakes of the nature of drama, opera and musical comedy, and yet in reality is not confined to any one of the three classes. It was suggested to Walter Browne by the ancient morality play, "Everyman," which was performed throughout America a few years ago by a band of English players under the direction of Ben Greet. Yet that work was gloomy and morbid, while "Everywoman" is bright, witty and whimsical, and abounds in comedy. The production is on a vast scale and its preparation engaged the various departments of the Henry W. Savage producing offices for nearly a year. It represents a cash outlay of upward of sixty thousand dollars and is considered by Mr. Savage his greatest triumph as a producer. The cast is a long one and includes thirty-seven speaking characters. The musical setting is one of the attractive features. An entire symphony orchestra is carried by the organization to properly interpret the score which was composed by George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, of London. There is both a grand opera and a musical comedy chorus.

At the Plainfield Theatre, September 30, the San Carlo Grand Opera Company will give a performance of Donizetti's immortal opera in four acts, "Lucia di Lammermoor," with the following cast of principals: Henry Ashton of Lammermoor, M. Malpica; Lucia, his sister, Maria Durand; Edgar of Ravenswood, Alberto Amadi; Norman, follower of Henry, A. Cetti; Raymond, a chaplain, R. Di Biasi; Alice, an attendant, Ada Patira; Lord Arthur Bucklaw, W. Fraschini; Chevalier Ugo Barducci, musical director. A note-worthy feature of this performance will be a large orchestra of picked musicians who have all graduated from the leading musical conservatories of Europe, and superb chorus of highly trained voices. Special scenery and property effects are carried for all productions by the San Carlo Company, which travels in a special train of cars. Mme. Durand, who will be heard in the title role, is a coloratura soprano with a clear and flute-like voice, and who has been pronounced by the musical critics of San Francisco and the larger cities of the South as a "second Tetrazzini."

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

BALL GAME NOT MODERN SPORT

Excited Fans Howled in Yucatan Thousands of Years Ago.

PLENTY OF TY COBBS

Cocoanuts First Balls—Game Like Hand Ball—Indian Tribes Indulged in What Is Now Our National Pastime.

"Pla-a-a-a-y baw-aw-aw-l!" is not as new an expression as some people may think. Neither is playing ball for a living a strictly modern invention. In fact, thousands of years ago, 'way down in Yucatan, impatient crowds sat around in ball parks, yelled themselves hoarse, beat another in the back, and threw feather headgear into the arena in the enthusiasm of the moment, just as we are doing today. Also there doubtless were Ty Cobbs, whose skill in "batting" and "fielding" were such that they could afford to hold up the management occasionally for a few more hundred jaguar skins a year by threats to quit professional ball and go to farming.

Of course, the game was not exactly baseball. But the point is that it was a ball game, that there were regular ball parks—or courts—and that there were professionals who played the game for what there was "in it" to them. Mayhap the medium of exchange took the form of jaguar skins, pounds of cacao, fancy feathers or what not, but it was money all the same. They had their peculiar systems of "slang," too, at least in some parts of the Americas, which, translated into English, means about as much to us as ours would to them; all of which is brought out by Franklin Adams in his story, "Indigenous Games in Latin-America," in the July number of the Monthly Bulletin of the Pan-American Union, Washington. That the ball game is an ancient institution in the Americas may be gathered from the following:

Cocoanuts First Balls.

"The ball game is indigenous to the Americas. Perhaps the first simian inhabitants found true sport in catching the cocoanuts tossed from the tall palms—certain it is that several thousand years ago the ball game had reached a high state of development in the seventy cities scattered throughout Yucatan. On clearing away the matted forests enveloping these marvelous ruins, ball courts were disclosed near the most sacred temples, and, from the elaborate hieroglyphics and pictographs ornamenting the walls, much was learned of the complicated character of the sport. Centuries after the passing of these ancient Mayans, came the first Spanish explorers who found that a younger race in contiguous territory, the Aztecs, had revived the old pastime into a 'national game,' with a stone 'God of Sport' beaming on every court.

"The peculiarity of these early games was that the ball, when in play, was not thrown with the hand but struck by the hips around which the player wore a protecting pad of leather. At each end of the court was a great stone disk with a hole in the centre, and through this orifice the ball was driven before a point was scored. Very naturally a 'lively' ball was used, since rubber trees dominated the forests.

"Old chroniclers marvel at the skill and endurance of the players, for a game was seldom won under four hours of constant play. Such exhausting contests, with a dozen participants in almost constant action, were not for amateurs but professionals. Thus, from the Aztec word olli, signifying 'ball,' came the word mollonqui, 'one who plays ball for a livin.'

Game Like Handball.

"Another form of ball game is played by the Indian tribes of the Cudulary river region in the wilds of Brazil. A carefully leveled field lies in front of the malokas, or large communal houses, and daily, at 5 o'clock, the men returning from the day's fishing or hunting, indulge in the sport—not a complicated game like that of the early Mexicans, but one calling for a high degree of skill, as two balls are used by the players, who drive them with their hands toward their opponents. Yellow tail feathers of the Yapoo bird are affixed to the rubber balls for accuracy.

"The Araucanian Indians of Southern Chile play an ancient game with wooden balls driven by wooden clubs. In a clearing, 300 by seventy-five yards, inclosed by cut branches of trees, these Indians play chuecca, which greatly resembles la crosse or field hockey. The game is played from childhood and the players acquire great skill and the matches draw large crowds. The game calls for great endurance and while generally played in two- or three-hour periods, several days have been known to pass before a decision was reached. During the play it is not unusual to hear a player cry, 'Am I not a real oak tree,' or 'Is he not a lion's leg,' after a brilliant stroke. Such is Araucanian slang."

NEW PUNTING STYLE.

Sykes Tucker, the Mobile youth who is aiming at the Penn quarterbackship, kicks differently from any punter on Franklin field. Tucker throws the ball against his foot. Most punters drop the ball off their hands lightly and then deal it a terrific pelt with their foot. Tucker, by tossing the ball down hard, thinks that he gets the same effects, when he drives his leg against it, as a batter does when he "hits a fast one." The idea has interested Brooke, but a short study convinced Brooke that it takes an exceptional man to meet the ball with his foot. Tucker's kicks fly past the line quicker than those of any other punter. At present he is shooting his spirals a little too high, so the coaches have not been able to ascertain whether his style gives the punt greater distance.

THE NOM DE BATS.

When you applaud a ball player who has just made a great catch and yell "Good boy, Jones!" maybe you are applauding a man named Bascom. There are now thirty-two players in the major and minor league known to be playing under assumed names. How many others are using nom de bats is hard to tell. Many of them are college boys who started professional careers under false names and kept them after becoming well known. The principal reason for the changes of name is family objections to baseball as a profession.

WINS "MET" TITLE.

Forest Hills, L. I., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Edward Raymond furnished followers of lawn tennis with another surprise by defeating Miss Clare Cassel, of the Bronxville Athletic Association, in the final round for the women's metropolitan championship here yesterday in straight sets at 6-3, 6-0. Despite the fact that Mrs. Raymond had upset calculations yesterday by winning from Miss Marie Wagner, national indoor champion, most enthusiasts figured that she would be beaten for the title by the Bronxville girl

NOW LOOKING FOR 1914 BALL RECORDS

World Series Likely to Produce Plenty of Novel Feats This Year.

New records can be established for the World's Series this fall without endangering major or minor league records. All that a pitcher has to do to shatter a previous red letter mark for a blue ribbon game is to dispose of his opponents without a safety. Edward Marvin Reulbach, of the Superbas, has the distinction of having pitched the best game in a World's Series. In 1906, while wearing the uniform of the Cubs, Reulbach let the White Sox down with one safe smash, in the sixth inning, made by "Jiggs" Donohue, who died about a year ago. The Hitless Wonder scored a run in this controversy, but Donohue's safety had nothing to do with the tally.

Men who have twirled two hit games in World's Series are Mordecai Brown, Ed Walsh and Eddie Plank. The Three Fingered Marvel accomplished his feat against the White Sox, Comiskey's one time man of steel selected the Cubs as his victim and the veteran southpaw picked the Giants. Brown and Walsh whitewashed their opponents while they were limiting them to a brace of hits while Plank missed a shutout because of an error by Frank Baker and a piece of bone-headed baserunning by Arthur Shafer, who, according to a sarcastic member of the Baseball Writers' Association of America ought to be awarded a Chalmers car because he has done more for the Braves than any other player.

The three-hit games reeled off in the annual classis now number five. Bill Dinneen pitched the first of these in 1903 for the Red Sox against the Pirates; Jeff Overall the second in 1908 for the Cubs against the Tigers; "Chief" Bender the third in 1910 for the White Elephants against the Cubs; Jack Coombs the fourth in 1911 for the White Elephants against the Giants, and Hugh Bedient the fifth for the Red Sox in 1912 against the Giants. Of these stunts by far the best was that performed by Coombs, for the Ironmonger traveler eleven innings against McGraw's Cohorts.

The four-hit contests total thirteen Christy Mathewson, "Chief" Bender and Mordecai Brown each having pitched two and these men each one "Deacon" Phillippe, Bill Dinneen, Eddie Plank, Nick Altrock, Jack Pfiester, Jeff Overall and "Rube" Marquard.

The record number of strikeouts for a World's Series tussle is twelve Walsh, of the White Sox, fanned a dozen Cubs the first time he faced them, in 1906, and Bill Donovan, of the Tigers, duplicated the performance against the Chance combination the next season, having a dozen innings, however, in which to do so. Dinneen, of Boston, whiffed eleven Pirates in 1903 and in 1911 and 1912 eleven Giants took the strike out count at the hands of Bender, of Philadelphia, and Wood, of Boston. Pitchers credited with striking out ten men in contests for the championship of the universe are Phillippe, of Pittsburgh; Overall, of Chicago, and Mullin, of Detroit.

Considering the number of games played, it is remarkable that there is no very wild exhibition of pitching on the records. The unsteadiest stunt was uncovered by Jack Coombs, of the Athletics, in 1910, when he handed the Cubs nine passes and beat them, nevertheless, 9 to 3.

In order for a batsman to set a new record for home runs in one game, it will be necessary for him to hit for the circuit thrice. Patrick Henry Dougherty, when he was a Red Sox in 1903, slammed out a brace of four-baggers in the second game of the series, his first wallop being off Sam Leever and his second off "Bucky" Vail.

The greatest number of hits torn off in one contest by a batman is four, seven men, two of whom were Chalmers car winners, having turned this trick. The best performance was Frank Isbell's in 1906, all of his smashes being doubles. These are the men who have made four hits in World's Series games:

October 1, 1903—Leach, Pirates, two singles and two triples off Young, Red Sox.

October 14, 1906—Hahn, White Sox, four singles off Brown and Overall, Cubs.

October 12, 1908—Cobb, Tigers, three singles and one double off Pfiester and Overall, Cubs.

October 25, 1911—Doyle, Giants, two singles and two doubles off Coombs and Plank, White Elephants.

October 26, 1911—D. Murphy, White Elephants, three singles and one double off Ames, Wilise and Marquard, Giants.

CLOSE GAMES IN TOURNEY SERIES

K. of C. Pinners do Some Clever Rolling on Local Chutes.

Several interesting matches were rolled last night in the Knights of Columbus one man bowling tournament. Some of the games were exceedingly close and the audience was kept in suspense many times because of the close scores. Moynihan, in the third match of the night, took high score honors with a total of 235.

Caulfield and George Taylor played the first match and after making a fine start by taking the first game of the three, Caulfield fell off considerably and lost the next two and the match. With scores of 193 in each of the first two games Strappe took the series from Moynihan after some exciting pinning, and the latter took the last game with a 208 against his opponent's 159. Moynihan and Taylor clashed in the next performance and the latter took the first and third, while Moynihan took the count with his high score roll.

The closest scores of the night was when Caulfield and Strappe came together in which Strappe made a clean sweep. Caulfield pusned him every game, but could not get ahead of his rival. Only nine points separated the scores at the end of the second game, while there were differences of twenty in the other two. The scores:

G. Taylor	159	177	158
Moynihan	182	156	208
Strappe	193	193	159
Moynihan	146	235	157
G. Taylor	162	191	191
Caulfield	173	173	157
Strappe	193	182	177

Four matches will be rolled Monday night and the following men will be matched:

McInerney vs. Howe.
Cannon vs. Sullivan.

The sheepshead are still in the waters around Barnegat Bay, and a large school of them has been feeding near the trestle at Corson's Inlet for several weeks. The catch of a sheepshead weighing seventeen and a quarter pounds in Barnegat Bay two weeks ago, has served to draw attention to the sheepshead, which is almost a fish of the past in our waters. A recent report had it that two of them were caught at one of the Coney Island piers, but it was impossible to verify the report. This fish is so scarce now on the Atlantic coast north of Virginia that there is very little use fishing especially for them, unless you hit into a school like the one at Corson's.

Blackfishermen now and then catch a sheepshead. The latter has the same habits and feeds the same way as the blackfish. Sheepshead used to be caught off Ocean Grove and Seabright, as well as at the Highlands. Jamaica Bay, too, was a favorite spot for them. It was reported there last year that a famous old fishing expert, who lives at Ozone Park and hangs out most of his time at Broad Channel, got an occasional catch of sheepshead in Beach Channel. He would bait the grounds for several days with small soft clams, depositing a pailful or two close up to the spiles in the deepest part. He would then fish the grounds with strong blackfish tackle at the proper stage of the tide, and occasionally boated one or two of these prizes. This was done late in September, after the summer crowd had discontinued visiting this section of the bay.

Two men went to Sandy Hook recently from Atlantic Highlands and cauught nine fluke and five large weakfish. They fished in the channel, and report the weaks were the best seen this season.

One angler was out in a boat from Sheepshead Bay the fore part of the week, and in a catch of nine blackfish he had three that weighed more than seven pounds apiece. The fish were caught off Seabright.

Fishing at Keyport, which has not been very good since Labor Day, has picked up rapidly during the warm spell. One man caught fifteen weakfish the other day and another got ten weaks and two bluefish weighing about two pounds each.

LOCAL HORSES WIN AT MORRISTOWN

Morristown, Sept. 26.—Though the parking places and boxes were not as well filled as in former years a goodly number of society folk were present yesterday afternoon at the second day's competition of the seventeenth annual horse show of the Morristown Field Club.

In the class for single roadsters the blue ribbon was won by Tenerife, owned by William M. V. Hoffman, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y. Flash and Dash, the property of Paradise Farm, of Teaneck, were the winners in the class for pairs of harness horses. In Class 13 for tandems Otto H. Kahn, of Morristown, won first prize, exhibiting Caesar and Flash; Paradise Farm exhibiting Flash and Dash was a close second.

In the class for ponies in harness, Seaham Natty, exhibited by Mrs. William Ziegler, of Norton, Conn., won the blue ribbon. Emil Seelig, of New York city, exhibiting Barthrop Queen and Florham Elegance, won the first prize in the class for pony tandems. Senator Jackson and Rafferletta, owned by Dora W. Voigt, of Green Village, captured second prize in this class.

In Class 40, for combination harness and saddle horses, Woodford, owned by Mrs. Edwin Gates Babcock, of Brooklyn, captured the blue ribbon. In the class for combination harness and saddle horses, With Attention, exhibited by Donnybrook Farms, of Plainfield, second. In Class 63 for hunters, A. A. Fowler, of Peapack, won first prize. Mr. Fowler also won the blue ribbon in Class 49 for hunters, exhibiting Phyllis.

Among the boxholders were Mrs. Robert D. Foote, Miss Mildred Eddy, Otto H. Kahn, R. H. Williams, Charles W. Harkness, Arthur A. Fowler, Charles Scribner, and Mrs. Ferdinand Kuhn.

LOCAL EAGLES TAKE THIRD FROM RIVALS

Somerville Birds Came Here for Victory But Lost Two Out of Three Games.

The Plainfield Eagles bowling team triumphed over the Somerville pinners in the third and deciding match on the local alleys last night. All ten men that took part in the games were in fine condition, although the local boys were a little tired after taking part in a hard match Thursday night. The Somervillians came here with the expectations of taking the series and after the first game it looked as if they would do it. Crowley was back in the game after a few days' layoff and pinned high, especially in the last game.

The locals started off poorly and Hogan's 122 in the first pulled the locals down considerably, but he came back and pinned well in the next two. Schaub, the last man who bowled for the visitors, hit for 185, and the county seaters won the first game by scores of 803 to 770. Plainfield started off strong in the second and showed their opponents they meant business when they cracked the pins for big scores. When the game was over there was over one hundred points difference, the scores being 864 to 761.

In the third game both teams played their best and the locals' victory was due largely to the fine work of Miller and Walter Crowley. The latter had his finger split last Monday, but in the final game last night made a 210. Miller took away high score honors in this game, bowling 239, while all of the Somerville scores were under the two hundred mark. The scores of the third game were 938 and 789.

All of the local birds who wish to try for the team are being given a tryout and a five will be picked soon to represent that lodge in the city bowling league. The score of last night's play:

MISS BEERS ANNEXES CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

New Title Holder Got a Late Start and Triumphed in Final Two Sets.

By defeating Miss Dorothy Burke on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, this morning, when the finals in the ladies' tennis singles tournament were run off, Miss Edith Beers annexed the championship of the club in this event. Displaying a masterful exhibition of the court game, Miss Burke defeated a worthy rival who had worked herself into the final round by consistent plugging during the week.

The first set went to the vanquished performers by a count of 2-6. In the opening games Miss Beers was erratic and her rival had her completely at her mercy in a majority of the games. The new champion struck her stride in the final two sets, however, and while pressed hard by her plucky little opponent she served and returned her shots in a winning style. Both of the final two matches went to Miss Beers by 6-4 scores.

Trinity Commandery, K. T., of this city, and its friends are going to Atlantic City in force on Friday, October 9, to attend the annual field day of the Knights Templar. While the plans are not yet all complete, the commandery has arranged for a special train, which will leave this city at 8:15 in the morning, and will return here about 10:03 at night, leaving Atlantic City at 7:15.

Accompanying the Trinity men will be Nelson Y. Dungan, the grand commander of the State, and a member of the local organization. Tickets for the trip will be put on sale some time next week, and as a result the organization expects to take a big crowd to the shore city, which is most attractive in October. Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell is chairman of the committee having the outing in charge, and R. F. R. Huntsman, at whose home the annual outings of the commandery are held in this city, will have much to do with the plans for the day.

The other members of the committee are John Z. Hatfield, Matthew H. Ewart, Charles H. Russell and A. D. Honeyman.

RAINEY'S PICTURES TO BE SHOWN IN THIS CITY

The most thrilling animal pictures in the world, according to the highest authority, will be shown at the Plainfield Theatre, Friday and Saturday, October 16-17, for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange. These pictures—Paul Rainey's African hunt pictures—are well known throughout the world and the new 1914 films are said to be more wonderful than those of the preceding year that drew such tremendous crowds all over the country.

There will be two matiness and two evening performances so that everyone who desires may have an oportunity of seeing good pictures. The performances will be for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange of Plainfield, whose good work in helping needy women to sell their handiwork is well known in this city.

The entertainment committee comprises Mrs. Frederick Goddard, chairman; Mrs. N. C. Barnhart, Mrs. Frank D. Warren, Mrs. Clifford Baker, Mrs. Horace Stevens, Mrs. Edward Patterson, Mrs. Townsend Rushmore. Tickets will be on sale at the box office of the theatre on and after October 10, or coupons may be obtained in advance from any member of the board of the Exchange.

News of Interest in Building World

CRAFTS HOPEFUL FOR THE FUTURE

Anxious That Local Contractors Shall Erect New Public Schools.

While the expenditure of money called for by the building permits issued by Inspector T. O. Doane during the past week is in excess of the amount called for by the permits of the preceding week, the amounts are far from being sufficient to care for a great number of mechanics for any length of time. However, the conditions in this city in the building line are far above other localities.

One of the important events in sight for the building world of this city scheduled for Monday evening is the special session of the local Board of Education, at which time bids on the three contracts for the construction of the two-story brick school building on Evergreen avenue will be received. The local craftsmen are in hopes that a local concern will secure the contracts, as a large number of the men of this city are idle at the present time.

Three permits have been issued during the past week calling for the expenditure of $1,250, a slight increase over the preceding week. This amount brings the total of the month thus far up to $126,488. The permits as noted below:

Second Ward.

P. A. McVoy is to erect a frame garage at the rear of 1152 Martine avenue at a cost of $250. The structure will measure 7? by 18 feet. The building will have concrete piers for the foundation, with framework of hemlock. George D. Wilson has the contract.

Third Ward.

Martin Cuniff has secured a permit for the construction of a frame dwelling on Cameron avenue at a cost of $3,000. The house will have a frontage of seventy-two feet and a depth of twenty-eight feet. The building will have a brick foundation, interior supports of iron, and framework of hemlock, while the roof will be shingled. A modern steam heating system is to be installed. W. H. Clum is the architect, T. J. Freeman the carpenter contractor, while the masonry work will be cared for by the owner.

Fourth Ward.

G. H. Vanderhoof is to alter the dwelling located at 917 West Front street, making an extension on the rear of the structure at a cost of $1,000. The improvement will have a frontage of thirteen feet and a depth of twelve feet, and will be two stories high. Warren Townley has the masonry contract, while the carpentry contract has been awarded to A. M. Stine.

IN THE SUBURBS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vliet on Front street, Dunellen, has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Stevens, of Portland, Pa., who will take possession on October 1.

A. H. Burdick has purchased a two acre tract in Dunellen from Fred Berg. The tract, which will be cut up into nine building lots, is bounded on the north by Walnut street and on the west by Washington avenue.

O. A. La Pointe, the builder, has received the general contract for the erection of a six-room cottage at South Plainfield, for Mrs. E. Marrin, of Brooklyn. The work will be started at once, that the foundation may be finished before frost.

On account of the development of realty taking place there, the Dunellen Common Council is planning to accept Culhane place at an early date. There has certainly been a mighty change in the old Smith farm in the past five years.

JUST NOTES

Charles M. Church, of East Front street, is making several improvements about his property on Henry place in the First ward.

The Building Trades Council are taking considerable interest in the question of the consolidation of city and borough, as it may mean the booming of the building activities on both sides of the brook.

Up to this time, no permits for buildings have been issued for buildings in the First ward this month.

Several stores on Front street, both east and west of Park avenue, which have been vacant for some time, are being leased. Should this movement continue for any length of time, it will be necessary for further building operations early in the spring, either on that thoroughfare, or Park or Watchung avenues at either end of the business section.

JUNIOR ORDER PLAN TO ERECT $75,000 BUILDING

Building conditions throughout the county remain steady with many buildings in the course of construction. Among the latter are the new Junior Mechanic building proposed by the four lodges of the Jr. O. U. A. M. in the city of Elizabeth, the estimated cost of which is placed at $75,000. Linden is planning a new school building at a cost of $41,000, on which an election is to be held October 6. Roselle Park also has a school under consideration, the cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $10,000. Rahway is desirous of having a new postoffice building which will cost approximately $125,000.

UNIFORMITY IS WANTED IN REPAIR OF ROADS

In order that there may be more uniformity in the road work in different counties of the State, State Commissioner Edwin A. Stevens, head of the State road department, is formulating a set of instructions for each county supervisor of roads. The instructions will specify certain methods which the State department desires the county departments to adopt in their road building. Commissioner Stevens expects, under these instructions, to see eliminated much of the confusion which has resulted from a conflict of opinion as to how department work was to be carried out.

Commissioner Stevens expects to have the new regulations in shape to become effective November 1 next. The State road commissioner is also planning a codification of the laws on the statute books regarding supervision and care of the State's roads. He has gone back three or four years in a study of the provisions and enactments on this subject and finds many inconsistencies which he hopes to eradicate by getting the legislature of next winter to pass a new law governing this work.

MOVED TO NETHERWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Sloan, formerly residing in New York, have leased the Hayes place in Netherwood, 1216 Denmark road, where they will shortly remove. Mr. Sloan is president of the Manhattan and Queens Railroad. He is also a corporation lawyer and is engaged in the practice of his profession at 60 Wall street, New York.

EXTENSIVE CABLE WORK AT FANWOOD

Three Miles of Wire Have Been Put in Place by Telephone Company.

A recent issue of The Telephone Review contained a description of extensive cable work in Fanwood, for which an appropriation of about $9,000 was authorized by the executive committee.

All of the cables have now been placed, amounting to a total of about three miles in Fanwood and Scotch Plains, and by the time this issue is delivered the splicing will probably be completed and the cables ready for service.

The reconcentration of the subscriber stations to the cable terminals will be completed within a short time, and the removal of aerial wires effected by this work will cause a marked improvement in the plant.

It is estimated that the number of telephones in the Fanwood district will be more than doubled during the next three years and with the increased plant facilities now available, new business in all parts of the district can be cared for with a minimum of delay.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following transfers from the surrounding towns have been recorded at the Middlesex county seat:

Avis M. Laing sold to Merchants & Traders Realty Co., 588 acres known as Plainfield Terrace, Piscataway township.

Joseph G. Walton sold to Ida Costales, lot on East side of Washington avenue, Dunellen, $575.

Katherine M. Howard has bought of the Metuchen Realty and Improvement Co., 2 lots, Metuchen Estates.

John Handley and wife have sold to May Handley, two Piscataway lots.

Three Piscataway township lots were purchased from William D. Duguid by Hilah Winans, who in turn sold them to Walter Pierson.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SCOTCH PLAINS and Fanwood is delivered every afternoon by carrier leaving the main office in Plainfield at 3:45. Orders may be telephoned or mailed to the main office and will receive prompt attention. 'Phone Plainfield 1200.

CHAPTER XIII.

Each a Flaming Center.

SUCH was the last state of Paris, and such on a larger scale was the condition of affairs in Chicago, and the same fate had overtaken Berlin, Moscow, Tokyo, the eastern half of London, Toulon, Kiel and two hundred and eighteen other centers of population or armament. Each was a flaming center of radiant destruction that only time could quench, that indeed in many instances time has still to quench. To this day, though indeed with a constantly diminishing uproar and vigor, these explosions continue. In the way of nearly every country of the world three or four more red circles, a score of miles in diameter, mark the position of the dying atomic bombs and the death areas that men have been forced to abandon around them. Within these areas perished museums, cathedrals, palaces, libraries, galleries of masterpieces and a vast accumulation of human achievement, whose charred remains lie buried, a legacy of curious material that only future generations may hope to examine.

The state of mind of the dispossessed urban population which swarmed and perished so abundantly over the countryside during the dark days of the autumnal months that followed the last war was one of blank despair. Barnet gives sketch after sketch of groups of these people camped among the vineyards of Champagne as he saw them during his period of service with the army of pacification.

There was, for example, that "man milliner" who came out from a field beside the road that rises up eastward out of Epernay and asked how things were going in Paris. He was, says Barnet, a round faced man dressed very neatly in black, so neatly that it was amazing to discover he was living close at hand in a tent made of carpets, and he had "an urbane but insistent manner," a carefully trimmed mustache and beard, expressive eyebrows and hair very neatly brushed.

"No one goes into Paris," said Barnet.

"But, monsieur, that is very unenterprising," the man by the wayside submitted.

"The danger is too great. The radiations eat into people's skins."

The eyebrows protested. "But is nothing to be done?"

"Nothing can be done."

"But, monsieur, it is extraordinarily inconvenient, this living in exile and waiting. My wife and my little boy suffer extremely. There is a lack of amenity. And the season advances. I say nothing of the expense and difficulty in obtaining provisions. When does monsieur think that something will be done to render Paris—possible?"

Barnet considered his interlocutor.

"I'm told," said Barnet, "that Paris is not likely to be possible again for several generations."

"Oh! but this is preposterous! Consider, monsieur! What are people like ourselves to do in the meanwhile? I am a costumier. All my connections and interests, above all my style, demand Paris."

Barnet considered the sky, from which a light rain was beginning to fall, the wide fields about them from which the harvest had been taken, the trimmed poplars by the wayside.

"Naturally," he agreed, "you want to go to Paris. But Paris is over."

"Over!"

"Finished."

"But then, monsieur—what is to become—of me?"

Barnet turned his face westward, whither the white road led.

"Where else, for example, may I hope to find—opportunity?"

Barnet made no reply.

"Perhaps on the Riviera. Or at some such place as Homburg. Or some place perhaps."

"All that," said Barnet, accepting for the first time facts that had lain evident in his mind for weeks; "all that must be over too."

There was a pause. Then the voice beside him broke out: "But, monsieur, it is impossible! It leaves—nothing."

"No. Not very much."

"One cannot suddenly begin to grow potatoes!"

"It would be good if monsieur could bring himself"—

"To the life of a peasant! And my wife—You do not know the distinguished delicacy of my wife, a refined helplessness, a peculiar dependent charm. Like some slender tropical creeper—with great white flowers. But all this is foolish talk. It is impossible that Paris, which has survived so many misfortunes, should not presently revive."

"I do not think it will ever revive. Paris is finished. London, too, I am told—Berlin. All the great capitals were stricken."

"But—monsieur must permit me to differ."

"It is so."

"It is impossible. Civilizations do not end in this manner. Mankind will insist."

"On Paris?"

"On Paris."

"Monsieur, you might as well hope to go down the maelstrom and resume business there."

"I am content, monsieur, with my own faith."

"The winter comes on. Would not monsieur be wiser to seek a house?"

"Further from Paris? No, monsieur. But it is not possible, monsieur, what you say, and you are under a tremendous mistake. Indeed, you are in error. I asked merely for information."

"When last I saw him," said Barnet, "he was standing under the signpost at the crest of the hill, gazing wistfully, yet it seemed to me a little doubtfully now, toward Paris, and altogether heedless of a drizzling rain that was wetting him through and through."

This effect of chill dismay, of a doom as yet imperfectly apprehended, deepens as Barnet's record passes on to tell of the approach of winter. It was too much for the great mass of those unwilling and incompetent nomads to realize that an age had ended; that the old help and guidance existed no longer; that times would not mend again, however patiently they held out. They were still in many cases looking to Paris when the first snowflakes of that pitiless January came swirling about them. The story grows grimmer. If it is less monstrously tragic after Barnet's return to England it is, if anything, harder. England was a spectacle of fear embittered householders, hiding food, crushing out robbery, driving the starving wanderers from every faltering place upon the roads lest they should die inconveniently and reproachfully on the doorsteps of those who had failed to urge them onward.

The remnants of the British troops left France finally in March after urgent representations from the provisional government at Orleans that they could be supported no longer. They seem to have been a fairly well behaved but highly parasitic force throughout, though Barnet is clearly of opinion that they did much to suppress sporadic brigandage and maintain social order. He came home to a famine stricken country, and his picture of the England of that spring is one of miserable patience and desperate expedients. The country was suffering much more than France because of the cessation of the oversea supplies on which it had hitherto relied. His troops were given bread, dried fish and boiled nettles at Dover and marched inland to Ashford and paid off. On the way thither they saw four men hanging from the telegraph posts by the roadside, who had been hung for stealing swedes. The labor refugees of Kent, he discovered, were feeding their crowds of casual wanderers on bread into which clay and sawdust had been mixed. In Surrey there was a shortage of even such fare as that. He himself struck across country to Winchester, fearing to approach the bomb poisoned district around London, and at Winchester he had the luck to be taken on as one of the wireless assistants at the central station and given regular rations. The station stood in a commanding position on the chalk hill that overlooks the town from the east.

Thence he must have assisted in the transmission of the endless cipher messages that preceded the gathering at Brissago, and there it was that the Brissago proclamation of the end of the war and the establishment of a world government came under his hands.

He was feeling ill and apathetic that day, and he did not realize what it was he was transcribing. He did it mechanically as a part of his tedious duty.

Afterward there came a rush of messages arising out of the declaration that strained him very much, and in the evening, when he was relieved, he ate his scanty supper and then went out upon the little balcony before the station to smoke and rest his brains after his sudden and as yet inexplicable press of duty. It was a very beautiful still evening. He fell talking to a fellow operator, and for the first time, he declares, "I began to understand what it was all about. I began to see just what enormous issues had been under my hands for the past four hours. But I became incredulous after my first stimulation. 'This is some sort of bunkum,' I said very sagely.

"My colleague was more hopeful. 'It means an end to bomb throwing and destruction,' he said. 'It means that presently corn will come from America.'

"'Who is going to send corn when there is no more value in money?' I asked.

"Suddenly we were startled by a clashing from the town below. The cathedral bells, which had been silent ever since I had come into the district, were beginning, with a sort of rheumatic difficulty, to ring. Presently they warmed a little to the work and we realized what was going on. They were ringing a peal. We listened with an unbelieving astonishment and looking into each other's yellow faces.

"'They mean it,' said my colleague.

"'But what can they do now?' I asked. 'Everything is broken down.'"

And on that sentence, with an unexpected artistry, Barnet abruptly ends his story.

From the first the new government handled affairs with a certain greatness of spirit. Indeed, it was inevitable that they should act greatly. From the first they had to see the round globe as one problem; it was impossible any longer to deal with it piece by piece. They had to secure it universally from any fresh outbreak of atomic destruction and they had to insure a permanent and universal pacification. On this capacity to grasp and wield the whole round globe their existence depended. There was no scope for any inferior performance.

So soon as the seizure of the existing supplies of atomic ammunition and the apparatus for synthesizing carolinum was assured, the disbanding of social utilization of the various masses of troops still under arms had to be arranged, the salvation of the year's harvests and the feeding, housing and employment of the drifting millions of homeless people. In Canada, in South America and Asiatic Russia there were vast accumulations of provision that was immovable only because of the breakdown of the monetary and credit systems. These had to be brought into the famine districts very speedily if entire depopulation was to be avoided, and their transportation and the revival of communications generally absorbed a certain proportion of the soldiery and more able unemployed. The task of housing assumed gigantic dimensions, and from building camps the housing committee of the council speedily passed to constructions of a more permanent type. They found far less friction than might have been expected in turning the loose population on their hands to these things. People were extraordinarily tamed by that year of suffering and death; they were disillusioned of their traditions, bereft of once obstinate prejudices; they felt foreign in a strange world and ready to follow any confident leadership. The orders of the new government come with the best of all credentials, rations. The people everywhere were as easy to control, one of the old labor experts who had survived until the new time witnesses, "as gangs of emigrant workers in a new land."

And now it was that the social possibilities of the atomic energy began to appear. The new machinery that had come into existence before the last wars increased and multiplied, and the council found itself not only with millions of hands at its disposal, but with power and apparatus that made its first conceptions of the work it had to do seem pitifully timid. The camps that were planned in iron and deal were built in stone and brass; the roads that were to have been mere iron tracks became spacious ways that insisted upon architecture; the cultivations of foodstuffs that were to have supplied emergency rations, were presently, with synthesizers, fertilizers, actinic light and scientific direction, in excess of every human need.

The government had begun with the idea of temporarily reconstituting the social and economic system that had prevailed before the first coming of the atomic engine, because it was to this system that the ideas and habits of the great mass of the world's dispossessed population was adapted. Subsequent rearrangement it had hoped to leave to its successors—whoever they might be. But this, it became more and more manifest, was absolutely impossible. As well might the council have proposed a revival of slavery. The capitalistic system had already been smashed beyond repair by the onset of limitless gold and energy. It fell to pieces at the first endeavor to stand it up again. Already before the war half of the industrial class had been out of work. The attempt to put them back into wages employment on the old lines was futile from the outset—the absolute shattering of the currency system alone would have been sufficient to prevent that—and it was necessary therefore to take over the housing, feeding and clothing of this worldwide multitude without exacting any return in labor whatever. In a little while the mere absence of occupation for so great a multitude of people everywhere became an evident social danger, and the government was obliged to resort to such devices as simple decorative work in wood and stone, the manufacture of hand woven textiles, fruit growing, flower growing and landscape gardening on a grand scale to keep the less adaptable out of mischief and of paying wages to the younger adults for attendance at schools that would equip them to use the new atomic machinery. So quite insensibly the council drifted into complete reorganization of urban and industrial life, and indeed of the entire social system.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WHAT TO EAT.

DINNER MENU.
Soup.
Creamed Parsnips.
Braised Lamb Chops.
Nut and Potato Croquettes.
Salad in Aspic Jelly.
Baked Pudding.
Coffee.

A WELL balanced meal is the following, the chops being cooked in a way that makes them especially digestible:

Makes Chops Tender.

Braised Lamb Chops.—Wipe the chops, put into covered pan and into hot oven twenty minutes. Then dust with a little salt and pepper, add a cupful of cold water, reduce the heat of oven and roast for thirty minutes. Add a little more water if needed to make a cupful. Serve with the following gravy: Add a tablespoonful of flour, which has been mixed with a little cold water, a little salt and pepper; boil until it thickens, add a tablespoonful of caramel and strain.

A Dainty Entree.

Nut and Potato Croquettes.—Take two cupfuls of hot riced potatoes and to them add three tablespoonfuls of cream, half a teaspoonful of salt, an eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper, a few grains of cayenne and a few drops of onion juice. Beat and add one egg yolk. Cook one-fourth of a cupful of soft breadcrumbs with one-fourth of a cupful of cream until of the consistency of a thick paste. Then add half an egg yolk, and salt to taste. Cool and add pecan nut meats broken in pieces, using as many nuts as will be held together by the paste. Shape potato mixture in small nests, fill nests with nut mixture, cover with potato mixture and roll into balls. Dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs, fry in deep fat, and drain on brown paper.

Dainty and Novel Salad.

Salad in Aspic Jelly.—Serve on a bed of crisp watercress with the salad heaped up in the center of the jelly ring, which is made in this way: Whip stiff a cupful of thick cream, and into this stir a cupful of strong aspic jelly. Cool it, and before it is quite set add a small quantity of potted or very finely minced cooked ham. Combine ingredients with the egg whip, color pink and pack in the mold.

Baked Pudding.—Take four level tablespoonfuls of butter, a cupful of sugar, one egg, a cupful of milk, two cupfuls of flour and three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Cream the butter and sugar, add the egg and milk and sift in flour and baking powder. Bake and serve with sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Mother Bear and Cubs Save a Baby's Life.

Took Him To a Sort of Nest.

"BEARS aren't always dangerous," said daddy in answer to a question which Jack had just asked him.

"Won't they eat you if you get near 'em?" asked Evelyn, blue eyes wide with wonder.

"No; not always," said daddy. "I'll tell you a story about a mamma bear and her two little cubs and a baby three years old.

"This baby boy lived on a beautiful farm away out west in Colorado. His mother watched him very closely because she knew there were bears and wolves and jackals in the nearby hills.

"But one day the little boy's mamma—Bruce was the little boy's name—fell ill. Her head ached so terribly that she was obliged to lie down.

"Bruce played very happily beside the couch for a long time; then his mamma's eyes drooped and drooped, and pretty soon they closed.

"Then Bruce thought he would steal out of the house and go exploring the long beautiful road outside the garden gate, the road which didn't ever seem to end and didn't ever seem to have a beginning.

"Baby Bruce crept out of the house, and when he got to the gate he found it open.

"Down the road he ran as fast as his little fat legs would carry him, and pretty soon he found that the road led into a forest.

"It was a hot day, and the forest looked cool, so Baby Bruce went on into the shady aisles of the forest.

"He hadn't gone far before he met what he thought was a great big doggie and two cute, fat, little doggies.

"He ran up to one of the little doggies and began playing with it, hugging it and pulling its hair just as he did the big doggie Gyp at home.

"The big doggie came over and sniffed and sniffed, and Bruce poked his fingers into the big doggie's mouth and laughed and cooed and tried to climb on to the big doggie's back.

"Pretty soon he got tired, and then the big doggie took him to a sort of nest in a patch of briars all lined very 'comfy' with brush.

"The big doggie lay down, and Bruce and the two little doggies snuggled up against her, and they all went fast asleep.

"But Bruce's mamma had missed him. There had been a terrible time, and when Bruce woke he was told that the big doggie was a bear and the little doggies were her two babies. But the big bear had been good to him.

"I hope the two legged animals were as kind to the four legged ones.

"Now run to bed and let daddy read."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

As a matter of course, the basque has undergone a process of development, and here is one of its very newest forms.

It includes all the characteristic features, yet it takes the straight lines which remain an important feature.

In the illustration the new liberty satin is shown with a skirt of the same material, but often these basques are made of satin or some similar material to be worn over a skirt of something thinner and lighter, either plaited or ruffled.

Liberty satin, for example, in any preferred color over a skirt covered with net flounces makes a very smart effect.

For the medium size the basque will require four yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one-quarter yard twenty-one inches wide for collar and cuffs and five-eighths yard thirty-six inches wide for lining.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8392, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleepless nights, sour stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and anybody can make no mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active. Adv.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the glow and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. PLEASING RALLY DAY PROGRAMS

Bible School Children Join in Celebration of Annual Event.

PROMOTIONS ARE MADE

Resumption of Fall and Winter Activities is Marked by Large Attendances—Exercises Include Interesting Addresses.

According to the annual custom, Rally Day exercises were held in a number of Bible Schools of the city and borough, yesterday, the celebration marking the resumption of fall and winter activities in this department of Christian work. Programs were presented as follows:

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Under the auspices of the Bible School of the First Baptist church rally day exercises were held at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning, together with promotions in the various departments. The attendance was unusualy large. In the absence of Superintendent Arthur M. Harris, his assistant, Frank W. Jones, was in charge. A feature was an address by Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce, the stated supply at the Park Avenue Baptist church, who is well-known in Bible School work. There were also selections by Miss Jewell, cornetist for the school. These promotions were made:

Promoted from the beginners' department—Doris Anderson, Ruth G Armstrong, Florence E. Davis, Marguret W. DeMeza, Jessie E. Donley,

SAMUEL ROTHBERG IS CHOSEN DEPUTY

State Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. Hold Big Meeting in Trenton.

Sixty-nine delegates representing twenty-five subordinate associations attended the annual convention of the State Federation of Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. hels at Trenton, yesterday. Mayor Donnelley made the address of welcome, and spoke of the work tending toward the improvement of inland water ways, and how New Jersey would be benefited by the work along these lines. Addresses were also made by Max D. Finkelstein, former president of the Pennsylvania federation, of Scranton; Dr. Edwin Goldwasser, of the national board of experts, and Harry S. Feller, president of the federation, who also presided.

President Feller, who is of New Brunswick, was re-elected, the other officers elected being as follows: First deputy president, Samuel Rothberg, of this city; second deputy president, Joseph H. Stone, of Trenton; third deputy president, Miss Ida Mintz, of Perth Amboy; recording secretary, Dr. Bennard Feldman, of Perth Amboy; financial secretary, Miss Rose Cantor, of North Hudson; treasurer, Sydney Westheimer, of North Hudson; sergeant-at-arms, Samuel B. Weiss, of Camden. Among the most interesting of the addresses made was the one delivered by Miss Janette Marie Goldberg, an officer of the Jewish Chautauqua, of Philadelphia.

Among those attending from this city were Samuel Rothberg, Louis Rothberg, Miss Sadie Rothberg, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Abrams, Hyman Abrams and Abe Schwartz, the trip being made in the automobile of Jacob Abrams.

The 1915 convention will be held in Atlantic City. Delegates attended from Newark, Jersey City, Paterson, Passaic, Hoboken, Plainfield, New Brunswick, Trenton, Camden, Asbury Park, Atlantic City and Perth Amboy.

LODGE APRON SALE.

A cake and apron sale will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Crosbrook of 60 Norwood avenue, Friday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of Lydia Chapter, No. 24, O. E. S. A tea room will be provided for those who desire to remain from the afternoon to the evening, at which time a social hour will take place. This lodge is also planning for a musical to be given during the course of next month.

AUTOISTS' NARROW ESCAPE IN SMASH

Four Hackensack Men in Touring Car That Crashes Head on Into Clock.

The slippery pavement on West Front street, near Madison avenue, was responsible for an accident that came within an ace of proving fatal for four persons yesterday morning. Shortly before noon a big touring car owned and driven by T. W. Spencer, of Hackensack, went tnrough the business section in an easterly direction. As the heavy machine passed the postoffice the driver made an effort to dislodge the wheels from the trolley track and get his vehicle into a clear running space.

The automobile left the tracks with a jolt and the entire machine swung completely around, striking the clock in front of Marcus Silbert's jewelry store with great impetus. The heavy timepiece on the top of the wooden mounting fell to the pavement with a crash, narrowly missing the heads of those in the car who had been thrown from one end of the machine to the other. The wooden section of the ornament was wrecked.

All of the occupants of the fated machine escaped injury but were all prettly badly shaken up. Patrolman Sullivan ordered the driver to report at police headquarters and the automobile was towed to a local garage. The radiator and glass fixtures on the machine were demolished and the car damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. According to Mr. Silbert's estimate, it will cost $600 to repair his clock and the Hackensack man agreed to make good for the loss sustained by the local business man.

BIG TIME PROMISED BY KNIGHTS ON OCT. 9

Trinity Commandery Sends Notice of Annual Field Outing.

As was briefly told in Saturday's Daily Press, Friday, October 9th, will be a momentous day to the members of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. It is the date of the great Atlantic City Field Day, and for the fourth time the Plainfield Commandery will have the right of line in the beautiful parade of Sir Knights. The announcement says:

"Trinity Commandery has furnished four grand commanders of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey, and Rt. Eminent Sir Nelson Y. Dungan, the present grand commander, will be as happy as a lark when he sees the line of Trinity men who will present swords to him on October 9.

"Every Trinity man who holds dear the honor of his Commandery will be there, unless natural infirmaties should prevent.

"The new war song from across the water applies right here. Tais is how it runs:

"How will you fare, sonny, how will you fare
In the far off winter night,
When you sit by the fire in an old man's chair,
And your neighbors talk of the fight?
Will you slink away, as it were, from a blow,
Your old head shamed and bent?
Or say, 'I was not witn the first to go,
But I went, thank God, I went?'"

The Commandery has chartered a special train which will leave Plainfield at 8:15 in the morning and it will reach Atlantic City before noon, returning at 7:15 from Atlantic City.

This will afford a delightful experience for those who have never had the opportunity to see a Knight Templar parade, and every Sir Knight will take as many guests as he wishes if the supply of extra tickets holds out.

Friends of the Commandery may secure tickets from any member of the committee. Many of Trinity members will be accompanied by their wives and members of their families and it is hoped to make this a delightful affair in every way.

The notice concludes:

"This is a time for Trinity men to show that they are Trinity men; this is a time to show Nelson Y. Dungan just what we think of him, and this is a time to show Knights Templar throughout New Jersey that Plainfield has a Commandery that can do things as they ought to be done."

The committee consists of B. F. Corriel, chairman; John Z. Hatfield, M. H. Ewart, C. H. Russell, A. D. Honeyman and R. F. R. Huntsman.

MEDICAL BAG STOLEN.

Dr. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, reported to the police that his medical bag was stolen from his automobile while the vehicle was left standing in front of the Board of Health office Saturday. No clue to the theft has been unearthed.

CALVERT RECEIVES MORE STATEMENTS

Candidates Expenditures May Be Filed at Clerk's Office Until Tonight.

Through a misunderstanding of a telephone message received from Elizabeth, which resulted in the misplacing of the points in the list of campaign expenses of various candidates, the Press on Saturday gave the expenses of some of the candidates at the wrong figures. The proper figures should have read as follows: Charles N. Fowler, Republican, for Congress, $175.30; Thomas J. Pierson, Democrat, for Congress, $205.90; James C. Calvert, Republican, for county clerk, $286.25; William H. Wright, Republican, for county clerk, $509.40.

Other expenses, besides those mentioned Saturday, were William A. Leonard, successful Democratic candidate for county clerk, $27; Michael P. Devine, nominated by the Democrats for sheriff, $31.75; Hugh McLoughlin and Bradford Jones, two defeated Democratic candidates for sheriff, spent $34.25 and $10 respectively. Joseph H. Neil, a defeated G. O. P. candidate for the same office, disbursed $20.65.

William F. Calahan, one of the Democratic Assembly candidates nominated, is the only one to show any contributions except from self. His statement shows a contribution of $45 from the Polishers' and Buffers' Union. In addition to that sum, he spent $18 in his campaign.

Vincent Seiler, one of the defeated Democrats for the Assembly, had expenses of $89.60. Charles L. Morgan, a successful Republican, spent $22.80. William N. Runyon, another G. O. P. candidate named, had no expenses, and neither did F. V. Dobbins, Democrat; James B. Furber, Theodore Van Dyke and William D. Jones, the Progressive candidates. Charles E. Dooley, the third Democratic candidate, spent $15.75.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart, the Democratic candidate for State Senator, although unopposed, spent $16.50. Carlton B. Pierce, unopposed on the G. O. P. and Progressive tickets, did not spend anything. Other statements filed showing no expenses were made out by Harwood Fish, Progressive candidate for register; Dr. J. Edward Rayne, and Dr. A. W. Lamy, Democrats, whose names were written on the ballots as candidates for coroner.

County Clerk Calvert will continue to receive statements today.

FATHER HART GOES TO ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

Mt. Holly Priest Will Succeed the Late Father W. H. Miller.

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, today announced a number of changes among the clergy of the Trenton diocese, included among which is that transferring Father Patrick J. Hart, of the Sacred Heart church, Mt. Holly, to St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, to succeed the late Father William H. Miller, who died about two weeks ago. Father John Baldwin, assistant pastor at St. Joseph's church, when questioned about the appointment today, said that as yet he had not received any official notification of the fact, but he was assured of the change.

Father Hart is expected to come to Plainfield tomorrow to arrange for his residence at the rectory and his first service at the church will be on Sunday, it is thought. The new pastor of St. Joseph's has been at the Sacred Heart church, Mt. Holly, fourteen years. Prior to that he was at Ocean City. He was ordained about twenty years ago. He is forty-five years old and during his stay at Mt. Holly has been successful in his work of building up the Sacred Heart parish, reducing a debt from $14,000 to $1,000.

DECISION RESERVED AGAIN.

The decision in the case of the city against Morris Latzko, a wholesale liquor dealer of Somerset street, who was tried in the city court, Saturday, on three separate infractions of the city excise laws, was deferred until tomorrow morning. Judge DeMeza announced Saturday that a deposition would be made of the case today, but was requested by Mr. Latzko's counsel, William Newcorn, to hold it over until tomorrow.

FLOWER GUILD ACTIVE.

Announcement has been made by the Plainfield Flower and Fruit Guild that it will continue its distribution of flowers among the local shut-ins until such times as the frost succeeds in killing off vegetation. Contributions of flowers and fruit will be received this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, and tomorrow morning from 9 to 10:30.

DRAWS A LESSON FROM WAR ABROAD

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie Praises Policy of President in European Crisis.

GERMANY CONDEMNED

But Other Nations Involved By No Means Have Clean Skirts—German Military Philosophy and War Policy Must Be Driven off Scene.

Rev. John Sheridan Zelie spoke of the war abroad to a large congregation in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning. The sermon was one in which the struggle was reviewed from a church and religious standpoint, and that it was the result of careful thought and study, was evidenced by the remarkably timely handling of the subject by the speaker.

Taking as his text, "We fight not with flesh and blood, but against principalities, against the powers, against the world-rulers of this darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places," Dr. Zelie said one of the first instinctive questions we ask today is, "Where is Christianity? and I anwser that its influence is seen in the fact that all men today feel that this is the wickedest and most senseles war that has ever been waged. Men in their panic and dismay are tempted to believe that now at last Christianity has met with a situation which goes beyond anything it has ever contemplated, and that it is powerless to meet it. Faith needs perspective

ITALIAN CYCLIST AN ENIGMA TO POLICE

Sent to Muhlenberg Hospital After Being Found in Road He Tells Strange Story.

An Italian, whose identity and appearance in North Plainfield remains an enigma to the police, was discovered lying on the road on Norwood avenue, Saturday afternoon, in a dazed condition and removed to Muhlenberg Hospital. While walking along the thoroughfare shortly after 6 o'clock, Henry R. Hubbard, a science teacher in the local High School, and Franklin Newell, of College place, were attracted by the groans of a human being. Investigation revealed an Italian lying at the side of the road entangled in a bicycle which he had evidently been riding.

Appearances indicated that the man had been taken with a fit and fallen heavily to the roadbed. Police headquarters was notified and the man removed to the hospital. After being received at that institution he told a wierd tale to questioners during the short intervals during which he was conscious in the night. His story aroused attention among the hospital authorities and Chief Kiely was notified.

Up to noon today anly meagre information had been gathered by the police with which they hope to establish his identity. The victim claims that he had $200 in his pockets when he was riding along the street in the borough, but when his pockets were searched at the hospital the money was found to be missing. Sergeant Higgins worked on the case, yesterday, in an effort to secure some information from a bundle of letters found in the man's pockets. The letters were written in Italian and one indicated that he had been confined in the Perth Amboy Hospital a short time ago.

No one can be found who is acquainted with the man and his presence in North Plainfield cannot be accounted for. The letters bore the name of Milo Rosso.

AUDUBON SOCIETY MEETING.

The fourth annual meeting of the New Jersey Audubon Society will be held in the Newark Free Public Library on Washington street, Newark, Tuesday, October 6, for the election of officers and transaction of other important business. William L. Finley, State game warden, of Oregon, will present motion pictures of westtern bird life, secured by him under great difficulties, and C. William Beebe, of New York, will speak on "Experiences With the Birds of the Far East."

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 57 degrees; 11 a. m., 62 degrees; 1 p. m., 62 degrees.

Miss Ethel A. Searing, of Park avenue, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her duties with the Maryland Casualty Company, of New York and will visit various points of interest during that time.

For Contracts for Work on Proposed Evergreen Avenue Structure.

It is expected that when the Plainfield Board of Education meets tonight in the High School to receive bids for the erection of the Evergreen Avenue School all records will be broken for the number of bids presented.

There are several reasons for this The time of the advertisement has exceeded the required legal length as the Board felt that by giving ample notice of the bidding all the contractors, and especially the local men would be able to do closer figuring on their estimates. Then, too, the business uncertainty caused by the European war has made all those engaged in the construction business anxious to secure school and municipal contracts which, while they are usually undertaken at a small margin of profit, have the advantage of being absolutely sure payment.

To many who have felt the pinch of hard times the prospect of having a contract that will at least keep their organization employed during what promises to be an unusually trying winter, is an inducement which will make them sharpen their pencils when they come to figure on the job

Something over forty applications for the plans have been received by Messrs. Wilder and White, the architects, and while not all of those who have figured on the job will bid, a very substantial proportion of them have announced their intention to present figures tonight.

The Board will receive all the bids at the opening of the meeting tonight. They will be publicly read and recorded and as the law is strict that the contracts must go to the lowest responsible bidder it should be possible to form a pretty close estimate as to who are the successful bidders in advance of the formal action of the Board which will probably be delayed for a sufficient time to enable a thorough investigation to be made of the responsibility of the low bidders.

In all, four contracts will be let. One for general construction, one for heating and ventilating plant, one for the plumbing work and one for the electric wiring.

IN SAVING GIRLS' LIFE COP HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Chasing a speeding autoist through a crowded business thoroughfore Saturday afternoon, nearly resulted in serious injury to Patrolman Roland McIntyre and a young woman pedestrian on West Front street. McIntyre was driving his motorcycle at a rapid clip in order to overtake a machine which he claims was traveling thirty-five miles an hour.

A Main Line trolley car stopped in his path and a young woman alighted directly in front of his machine. In order to avert hitting her he swerved sharply to the curb. The machine toppled over and the patrolman leaped just in time to escape serious, if not fatal injury. His left side was wrenched and the machine was slightly damaged. The young woman in the case made herself scarce before her identity could be learned as did also the driver who is said to have been afflicted with speed mania.

—Could there be more important news in the paper than is contained in the "help wanted" ads?

London, Sept. 28.—A despatch from Bordeaux to the Times says the rival armies are now close to each other. A few hundred yards separated the trenches on Saturday. Everywhere the German fury was unavailing and the close of the day found the Allies' left reaching up still further north. The battle has become, to some extent, a race between this movement on the left and the enemy's offensive against the centre and right.

Advices from Paris indicate that the battle has reached the most critical as well as the most violent phase and that the issue cannot be much longer delayed. The losses of the last few days on both sides are said to exceed all other engagements of the war. The Germans are reported to have changed their tactics and are making bayonet attacks.

Paris, Sept. 28, (Central News Cable)—The bulletin issued by the French war office today was the briefest given out since it began issuing announcements on the war. It follows:

"There is nothing new in the general situation. Relative calm prevails on part of the front. At certain points, particularly the Aisne and the Argonne, the enemy continually attempts new and violent attacks, but they have been repulsed."

It would appear that the movement of the British government to suppress all war news is being followed in France.

Geneva, via London, Sept. 28, (Central News Cable)—The possibility that Italy will break its neutrality policy and enter the war on the side of the Allies has been decreased by the apparent effect of the Greek-Roumanian-Bulgarian alliance on Turkey's belligerent intentions, say despatches from Rome. Despite the firm determination of the government to maintain strict neutrality, it has been currently believed that any overt act by Turkey would mean a move by Italy, which has held its military and naval force mobilized for six weeks. The pressure of the anti-neutrality faction on the government has not decreased, although public demonstrations have been curbed by the soldiers.

Despatches from Vienna and Trieste tell of preparations by Austria to resist an Italian invasion. Magyar regiments have been sent into Trentino to replace the regiments sent to Servia at the beginning of the war.

Tokio, Sept. 28.—Fighting at Tsing Tao between the German defenders and the allied Anglo-Japanese has been continuous for more than 48 hours, according to the latest reports to the Admiralty. It is officially stated that the losses of the Allies have been small, only 15 having been killed and wounded up to Sunday night. The British and Japanese troops made their attack Sunday evening under cover of darkness. The Germans in the trenches were surprised and many were bayoneted.

Petrograd, Sept. 28.—Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces in the field, has sent the following communication:

"An engagement near Sopotskin, on the Niemen river in Russian Poland, and Drussenilki came to an end with the retreat of the Germans. The enemy has approached Ossowiecz from the north and has begun the bombardment of the fortress.

"In Galicia we have occupied Debica on the railroad, 65 miles east of Cracow, and between Rzessow and Tarnow. A numerous column of the enemy is retreating from Przemysl, in the direction of Sanok, 38 miles southwest of Jaroslav. In their flight they abandoned artillery and automobile transports. At Coloujo we defeated a detachment of the enemy and captured his artillery and many prisoners. Continuing the pursuit we entered Hungary."

Nish, Sept. 28.—The combined Servian-Montenegrin force which is advancing on the capital of Sarajevo has occupied the heights of the mountains east of that city and is forming for the attack on the city. The Austrians made another attempt to cross the river Save, but have been repulsed by the Servians from Belgrade, who met them in open battle and inflicted heavy losses. The Austrians lost several hundred in dead and wounded including a large number of officers.

Antwerp, Sept. 28.—The village of Oordegem has been practically destroyed by the German artillery fire. The Belgians who were opposing the German advance at that point took up a position that placed the village between them and the enemy. The invaders turned their heavy guns on the village and soon the place was in flames. Oordegem is about two miles from Termonde and a little less than 20 miles southwest of Antwerp.

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

Mr. and Mrs. George I. Apgar, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, are the parents of a child.

The Merschrod house on North avenue, formerly tenanted by Herman Miller, has been rented through the C. E. Tinsman agency to Mrs. Albert Meeker, of North Plainfield, who will take possession on October 1.

CALLED TO ALLENTOWN.

Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Front street, was called to Allentown, Pa., on Saturday morning, by the sudden death from heart disease of a cousin, Mrs. Priscilla Haynes. The deceased was 68 years of age. Mrs. Smith will remain in Allentown a week.

J. S. Thompson, of Prospect avenue, returned from Jamaica, B. W. I., on Thursday via the steamer Maita. Mrs. Harry Apgar and two children, who have been spending a week in the borough as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Apgar, of Front street, returned to Philadelphia today.

BOWLING MATCH.

The Baracas will bowl an "All Star" local aggregation on the Presbyterian alleys this evening. The "All Star" aggregation will be composed of Charles Starker, George Voehl, Richard Mann, Merwin Fagely and George Zink. The Baracas will bowl in the following order: Frederick, Oakley, Parker, Brown and Voorhees.

TO OPEN A BAKERY.

Jesse L. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Rogers, of First street, and Norman Van Ness, of Plainfield, are making arrangements to open a bakery at New Brunswick in the near future. There are only six bakeries in New Brunswick at the present time and they believe that another one would be a paying proposition.

INSPECTED STREETS.

Mayor E. B. Latham and Councilmen W. G. Castner and Richard M. Ryan looked over the streets of the Equator tract on Saturday afternoon, relative to taking action at October fifth's meeting of the Common Council on a communication from President Schwartz, of the Equator Realty Company, read at the last Council meeting, in which Mr. Schwartz stated that his company would grant free right of way through the tract for the pipe of the joint sewerage trunk line, providing that the borough would accept the streets of the tract.

Borough Engineer Churchill has been very busy during the past week in surveying the Dile development. The tract is east of Washington avenue and faces New Market lake on the north. It covers fourteen acres.

Edward Maurer, Jr., of Madison avenue, spent the week-end at Lake Hopatcong with his folks, who are making a protracted visit there.

Mahlon R. Dayton, of Centre street, has purchased an Oldsmobile touring car.

A business meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. will be held in the Presbyterian chapel this evening.

Captain and Mrs. B. A. Cole, of Washington avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. George H. Firstbrook and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Painter, and their respective children, of Newark, over the week-end

TAKING NIGHT COURSES.

Five ambitious local young men commenced taking night courses at New York University last Friday. They are: James Markle, LeRoy LaRue, Albert Ritterbusch, George Martin and Leo Logan. Markle and Logan are taking courses in commercial law; Ritterbusch is studying to be a certified public accountant and Martin is taking a course in contracts and agencies.

Frank Farrell, the local real estate magnate, is able to be out and about again after a protracted illness with rheumatism and malaria.

Miss Annie Kelty, of Walnut street, has returned from a week's visit at Weston, Cove, N. Y., where she was the guest of a sister, Mrs. M. F. Carr.

SOME PUMPKINS.

A mammoth pumpkin raised by Mahlon R. Dayton, of Centre street, is on exhibition in one of the windows of the hardware store of Smalley Brothers, on North avenue. The pumpkin weighs 82½ pounds. No fertilizer or manure was used to enrichen the soil that produced this prize. The seed was merely put in the ground and covered over. And what is more on the very same vine that produced this pumpkin there are at present two more pumpkins weighing fully sixty pounds apiece.

Mrs. Mary Murphy and family move on October 1 from the Gustave Winter house on North avenue, near Madison avenue, to the John Rinehart house on North avenue, near Jackson avenue.

C. Lou Wahl, Kasper Fuchs and George Baldwin are planning to run a dance sometime during the coming month at Sebing's Auditorium, Plainfield.

Miss Anna Rinehart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rinehart, of North avenue, was taken ill on Friday morning with appendicitis. By Saturday night her condition, instead of improving, had grown worse and she was removed to the Muhlenberg Hospital for an operation.

Raymond Hamley, of Washington avenue, witnessed the double-header between the Pittsburghs and the Giants at the Polo Grounds on Saturday afternoon.

F. O. Spurdle, of Washington avenue, departed this morning on a three days' business trip through the States of Delaware and Maryland.

Proprietor John Hill, of the Park Hotel stables, has purchased a new horse. The animal was purchased from a party in Three Bridges, Mr. Hill and Paul Rabouin bringing it down yesterday.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Titsworth celebrated the fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home, No. 368 New Market road, on Saturday night. There were twenty-five guests present from New Market, East Orange, Newark, Jersey City and this place. The home was attractively decorated with orange crepe paper and flowers. The entertaining features were games and dancing. Music was furnished by a Victrola. A bountiful supper was served at midnight. Mr. and Mrs. Titsworth received many valuable and useful presents.

Gustav Brodack, eight years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Brodack, of Equator Park, was given a hearing in the borough hall before Judge Rene P. F. Von Minden on Saturday evening. He had been confined in the borough jail since Friday, when he was taken out of the rig belonging to G. R. Bennett, which had been unhitched from a post alongside of the blacksmith shop of Isaac J. Stites and driven away. Steven Brodack, the father, was brought to the hearing by Marshal Torpey. The purport of the proceedings, as Mr. Bennett would make no complaint, was to make an indelible impression upon the mind of the youth of just where he would fetch up if he didn't mend his ways, this not being the first time that he has been in trouble, and to warn the parent that he must take good care of and not abuse his child.

"What's the matter with the lad, anyway?" the court asked of the parent.

The parent held up his hands and said, "I don't know, Judge. He won't come home nights, he steals my money and although I hit him it does no good."

"You must not hit the child; you are too strong a man," interrupted the court. Continuing along the same line, the court in heat said, "I want you to distinctly understand that you must discontinue beating the child until the blood comes, as I have heard." The court then proceeded at length in telling Brodack what he must do for and what he must not do to the child, after which he was told to take the lad home. The final word of the court to the parent as the two passed out was, "Now, don't you beat the boy when you get him home, or I will take care of him," meaning that the case would be turned over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

IN MIDST OF TRAGEDY.

F. O. Spurdle, of Washington avenue, was on the Pottsville express that was stalled for fifty minutes in the Reading's Black Rock tunnel, just this side of Phoenixville, Pa., last week, as a result of the train hitting a woman immediately south of the tunnel. The engineer, in endeavoring to bring his train to a speedy stop, threw the brakes on so abruptly that they were locked and as a result he was unable to move his train, which had stopped in the middle of the tunnel, either backward or forward. The tunnel operator 'phoned Phoenixville for help but by the time a yard engine had arrived and shoved the heavy train out in the daylight again the engineer and conductor were asphyxiated as a result of inhaling the dense and poisonous fumes of the tunnel, and thirteen of the passengers were overcome. "I hope I may never be called upon to pass through such an experience again," said Mr. Spurdle in speaking of the tragedy yesterday. "I would have been overcome by the fumes myself if it hadn't been for the fact that I had tied a wet towel over my mouth and nose," continued Mr. Sprudle. He said that the fumes were so dense in his Pullman that he couldn't see two chairs ahead of him. Mr. Spurdle saved the life of a baby by holding it under an electric fan where the gases were less strong. It took him three days to fully recover from the effects of the fumes that he had inhaled.

CONTRACT FOR ELECTRICALLY OPERATED GANTRY BRIDGE

For the replacing of the gantry crane which was toppled over by a heavy wind last July at the Marion power station, the Public Service Electric Company is installing a similar apparatus of much greater capacity. The last of the contracts for the job has just been awarded to the Robins Conveying Belt Company, of New York, which concern will construct an electrically operated and magnetically controlled gantry bridge at a cost exceeding $50,000. Contracts for the foundation had previously been let.

The new span will be 200 feet long, the old one having been 150 feet and the crane will have a capacity of 200 tons of coal an hour as against only sixty tons for its predecessor. This handling capacity, incidentally, will enable the company to greatly increase its coal storage facilities which is of importance in view of the fact that the station consumes 800 tons of coal every day.

BATTLE REACHED CRITICAL STAGE

Termonde, Sept. 28, (From Charles Hodson, special correspondent of the Central News)—The only battle on in Belgium on Saturday was south of Termonde, where the Germans shelled the Belgians, who held their ground tenaciously under a heavy, well directed fire and then retired steadily through Audegm toward Termonde, completing their retirement at midday. Two hundred shells fell in Audegm.

I reached Termonde at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and paced through the shattered town, in which the Germans occasionally sent a howitzer shell. I proceeded toward Audegm at 10:25 o'clock and watched the German gunners achieve their object of shattering the tower of the church at Audegm. One moment the spire was shrouded in white smoke, the next moment it had disappeared.

Two kilometres this side of Audegm the Belgians faced about again at 2 o'clock, where reinforcements began to arrive. An armored motor car, four mounted gendarmes and one or two of those extraordinarily bold cyclists ventured into the village. Following these with Grant Daily, of the London Daily Mirror, I reached the farther side of Audegm. Here the motor car caught six Germans napping. Its mitraillouse dealt faithfully with them.

At a distance of 500 yards it appeared that the German forces contented themselves with approaching the outskirts of Audegm. Soon after the motor car and its mitrailleuse talked too sharply to the Germans, the Belgians made an advance in force on the right. The race was very short and the battery thoroughly searched the village carefully avoiding the rather fine church. We could hear the crash of shrapnel on the red tiled roofs. In the face of the terrific hail the German resistance was feeble.

Washington, Sept. 28.—Reports that the allies were being hard pressed in the long battle line in northern France were denied at the British embassy today. The embassy issued the following statement based on advices from the London Foreign Office: "The situation is satisfactory. Counter attacks by the Germans on British front have been beaten back with heavy losses to enemy."

Retreat of the Austrian troops in Galicia continues, according to advices received at the French embassy today, from the French Foreign Office. The despatch follows: "The Austrian troops south of Prezmysl continue to retreat west. In East Prussia the German attempts to pierce the line east of Siwaki and south of Gragewo were repulsed."

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—A grant of $50,000 dollars in aid of the victims of the war in Belgium will be Canada's initial contribution to the fund being raised. This may be supplemented.

New York, Sept. 28.—Advices from London indicate that conditions in that city are rapidly improving and the statement is made that at no time has the situation there been regarded as seriously as many here have been inclined to believe. Large amounts of money are known to be available in London awaiting opportunity for investment and it is fair to assume, according to those who have made a careful study of the situation, that a portion of it will seek the American markets for employment. Conditions here are much better than in weeks and the outlook is viewed by many with more confidence than at any time since the war in Europe began.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY.

E. L. Bonny, of Grove street, the borough, has been spending the past few days visiting his mother in the Mohawk Valley, New York. Mrs Bonny yesterday celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday, and is reported as enjoying most excellent health. Mr Bonny will return to this city later in the week.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School.

The Dramatic Club will meet tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Washington School. There will be a rehearsal of the two plays, "My Lord In Livery" and "Sara's Young Man."

BETHEL CHAPEL.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, were the speakers at the Rally Day exercises of Bethel chapel, held yesterday afternoon. Both of the speakers had interesting subjects and there was also some fine music. In the morning, Rev. F. D. Tildon, the pastor had charge of the service and at the Christian Endeavor services, James F. Kimball spoke. Rev. Dr. E. G Read was the speaker at the evening service which was preceded by a musical service.

He was taken sick about two weeks ago, and the disease has now reached a critical stage.

TRIBUTE TO FATHER MILLER.

Father John Baldwin, of St. Joseph's church, at one of the masses yesterday, paid a tribute to the late Father W. H. Miller, when he stated that during the last year of his pastorate, he had reduced the $16,000 debt on the church by $3,000 despite his illness. He also briefly reviewed Father Miller's work in the parish.

WILSON OPTIMISTIC ABOUT MEXICAN SITUATION

Washington, Sept. 28.—In the face of alarming reports from Mexico, President Wilson today, told visitors that he felt certain that General Carranza and General Villa would adjust their difficulties and the trouble in the southern republic would be quickly settled. He did not offer any documentary evidence to support his optimism, but appeared confident that matters were shaping themselves in the direction of an understanding between the belligerents. He declared that he had no intention of sending Paul Fuller to Mexico again.

Practically all the Mexican federal soldiers who fled across the American border following their defeat several months ago at Dinaga, and who were interned by the United States government at Forts Wingate and Rosecrans, have been returned to Mexico. This does not include the officers, however. It is understood here that most of the returning soldiers are enlisting under General Villa. There is no confirmation at the War Department of the reported capture of Zacatecas and San Luis Potosi by Villa's forces.

MRS. CARMAN REFUSED.

New York, Sept. 28.—Supreme Court Justice Kelby at Mineola today denied a motion of counsel for Mrs. Florence A. Carman for permission to inspect the minutes of the grand jury which indicted her for the alleged murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey.

ANOTHER LEGAL LIGHT.

Another lawyer appeared in town yesterday afternoon, when a boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs Martin B. Stutsman, of Cameron avenue. Mrs. Stutsman was Miss Helen Whitney, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, prior to her marriage.

PRESIDENT OUTSPOKEN FOR MERCHANT MARINE

Washington, Sept. 28.—President Wilson came out flatly today for a merchant marine that would capture new channels of trade and carry American commerce to the far ends of the earth. He made this clear to callers when he reiterated his determination to have the ship purchase bill passed at this session of Congress. The President said that he hoped to see the United States acquire a fleet of vessels large enough to acquire new business and retain it. This, he said would be accomplished through the medium of the legislation now being held up.

HOMEMADE TROUSERS.

With a Word to the Woman Who Makes Her Own Gowns.

Would men ever get anywhere, do you think, if they fussed around with as many disconnected things as most women do? And the worst of our case is that we are rather inclined to point with pride to what is really one of the most vicious habits of our sex.

We have all seen the swelling satisfaction with which the comely young schoolma'am, complimented upon a pretty gown, announces, "I made it myself." And we have all heard the chorus of admiring approbation following the announcement—joined in it, perhaps, and asked to borrow the pattern. But really, viewed in the light of reason, what is there about the feat upon which she should so plume herself?

Suppose that a man should point proudly to his nether garments and say: "Lo! I made these trousers." I have not a mental picture of even the most economical of his fellow clerks or mail carriers, or clergymen, or schoolteachers, crowding around to admire and cry: "What a splendid way to spend your time out of business hours! And it looks just like a tailor made."

Which last is just as truly a lie when we tell it to our fellow women as it would be if men told it to men.—Mary Lee Harkness in Atlantic.

Twain's Rate.

Mark Twain went to just one automobile show in his life. He went with a Detroit friend. After he had been shown the cars and other sights the friend said: "Come on over here. The greatest salesman in the automobile business is working, and I want you to hear him."

They went to a place where the salesman was talking to a possible customer about the merits of his car. He was rattling outward so fast that Twain gasped.

"Sakes alive," said Twain in his slowest drawl, "if my publishers ever heard me talk as fast as that man does they wouldn't pay me 30 cents a word or even 2 cents. They'd make me produce words about a hundred for a nickel."—Saturday Evening Post.

A Mistake Avoided.

"I say, old chap, I'm in shocking luck. I want money badly and haven't the least idea where I can get it."

"Well, I'm awfully glad to hear that. I thought perhaps you had an idea that you could borrow from me."—Sydney Bulletin.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Henry W. Savage brings his colossal production of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," to the Plainfield Theatre, tonight. This novel play has proved to be the sensation of the entire country for nearly four years. The same splendid production which was offered in New York for nearly two years is to be shown here without any abridgement. After the engagement here it will be almost immediately taken back to New York for a further engagement of six weeks. The company is an enormous one, containing over one hundred and fifty people. It is accompanied by a special symphony orchestra. This is the only "Everywoman" company touring America and is considered by Mr. Savage the best production [illegible] has ever made of the famous morality play. It represents an a[illegible] expenditure of over sixty thousand dollars. The company moves from point to point by means of a special train.

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company will give Donizetti's melodious and immortal opera, "Lucia di Lammarmoor," at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday night, with the following cast of principals: Henry Ashton of Lammermoor, M. Malpica; Lucia, his sister, Maria Durand; Edgard of Ravenswood, Alberto Amadi; Norman, follower of Henry, A. Cetti; Raymond, a chaplain, P. Dinias; Alice, an attendant, Ada [illegible]; Arthur Bucklaw, [illegible]; conductor, Chevalier Ugo Bardi. Madame Maria Durand, who will be heard as Lucia, is an artist of rare attainments and much personal charm. She sang two years opposite the celebrated tenor, Bonci, in Mexico City and Havana. She has a coloratura soprano voice of high range, and her notes are clear and flute-like. A noteworthy feature of the San Carlo performances is the orchestra of grand opera musicians carried by the organization, all of whom are graduates of the leading musical conservatories of Europe. A superb and highly trained chorus, whose members were carefully chosen for their ability to sing, as well as their other natural attributes, completes the San Carlo Company as give performances seldom heard only in the larger cities.

The supposed [illegible] gentility of culture forms the basis of "The Misdealing Lady," the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night, October 6. Helen Steele, enchantress, argues that no man can know and understand her unless he chains her up and studies her. She gets her wish and is thoroughly tamed by her Patagonian lover. "The Misleading Lady" proved to be the most amusing and most thrilling comedy of the past season in New York. The original cast, headed by Lewis S. Stone and containing Frank Sylvester, the harmless lunatic, and Doris Olsson, the "Misleading Lady," will be seen here.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Under [illegible] company's production of Rol Cooper [illegible] sixth week of its engagement at the Cort Theatre, with William Courtenay featured in the principal role [illegible] hill, Lucille Watson, Lou[illegible] Ralph Morgan, Rae Selwyn, Phoebe Foster, John May, Harry Crosby and Jay Wilson. The success of the play seems to be positive.

"The Elder Son," beginning its third week at William A. Brady's Playhouse, will be removed to another New York theatre in time for Joseph Brookes' production of "My Lady's Dress" during the month of October. The all English company brought to New York for "The Elder Son" recovered early [illegible] nervousness coincident with [illegible] formance in a strange country. The interpretation has benefited through increased momentum and confidence. The play depicts a family problem which presents itself frequently in real life and seems to be especially effective in its application to the gentler sex, since the matinee representations see the theatre even more crowded than at night.

Comstock & Gest present, at the Manhattan Opera House, Walter Howard's massive melodrama of war and love, "The Story of the Rosary." Mr. Howard produced this play, which is his own, at the Prince's Theatre in London nearly a year and a half ago. It ran continuously until near the outbreak of the present general European war. The cast at the Manhattan Opera House introduces two new leading people who have great reputations across the Atlantic. One of these is the young "Lion of London," Alfred Paumier; the other a young emotional actress of beauty and superb dramatic power, Miss Annie Saker. Mr. Howard has his own original role in the production. Singularly enough, the substance of the play is a romantic love story interwoven in the red skein of a great continental conflict like the one now ravaging half the world. There are nine scenes, the most specatcular of which shows two armed troops, including cavalry and machine guns, in action.

Advantages of Buying in Plainfield

Reasons Set Forth by a Competitor in Trade in Plainfield Centre Held by the Daily Press

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I would like very much to give you my idea of shopping in Plainfield. Coming home on the trolley the other night I overheard two ladies talking. This is part of the conversation. One said: "I never buy anything in Plainfield." The other said: "Why, how can you expect to have a flourishing town if everyone went somewhere else to spend their money? I have shopped very successfully there."

The first said: "Well, perhaps you are easily suited but for [illegible] not do."

My curiosity was aroused so next day I went to look (not to buy) and let me say that Newark or New York cannot offer better bargains or better services than your home town. First, I saw in Tepper's beautiful [illegible] dresses for [illegible]

I saw a young lady buy a beautiful linen suit in The Paris for almost fainted when I saw her pay for it—$1.25. I had the twin sister of it and paid $5.98 for it in great big Newark, where they have such a variety you know.

Then I visited Rosenbaum Brothers, surely the father of all bargains. Their attractive window invites one in. I was looking for a linen duster and had not seen what I [illegible] and decided I could not buy, as the prices $4.98 and $5.98 were more than I could pay. I had just decided to move on when a clerk asked me if I would like a bargain in coats? I said: "I guess not," for I was disappointed. Imagine my surprise when [illegible] "Only 98c today." [illegible] a long linen coat with old [illegible] for 98c. [illegible] lady her [illegible] change I saw [illegible] dress for [illegible] Plainfield [illegible] goods, for curious selvpeople and its bargains upon bargains for mine.

MEMBERS OF BIBLE CLASS GUESTS OF W. C. HUBBARD

The Men's Organized Bible class of the Seventh-Day Baptist church were guests at a dinner given in the church parlors, Saturday evening, by William C. Hubbard. The event was a very informal affair and was featured by several speeches by the guests.

The purpose of the gathering was to discuss and make plans for the work of the class for the coming year. Many suggestions were made about the work and it looks as if this organization will have a banner year. After the dinner a general social time was held.

THE COST OF THE WAR.

In the news dispatches Daily Pres readers have been told that a military expert in France had estimate the cost of the war abroad at fourteen billion dollars annually, if it is continued at its present high tensio. The figures are stupendous, and ye the expert mentioned is accustome to work of the kind and what h says is not to be easily whistle down by the wind. It is stated tha for the last fifteen years the cost o armament and standing armies have cost the nations of Europe two billions of dollars a year.

That amount brought Englan Germany, France and other countrie pretty nearly to the limit of the power of their peoples to pay taxes. Wit in the last couple of years, Austi has shown signs of exhausttion in thi way and there is no doubt that t calamity to her forces was broug about by a lack of the necessa money to maintain her armies in th field.

Now the rate of expenditure ha increased fifteenfold. The resource of these these countries in time c war are taxed fifteen times as muc as they were in times of peace. Th question is how long can the warrin nations stand this terrible financia strain, not to speak o the slaughte which prevails on the other side c the Atlantic. It would seem that on year would be as much of this strai as the very strongest of th nation can stand, and yet it is unsafe to pre dict that the war will be over in tha time.

THE RIGHT TREATMENT.

A young woman who is known to the Asbury Park police as Miss Banker, was arrested on a charge o driving an automobile while intoxi cated, and for driving without havin a license to do so, says the Trenton Times. She was held under bail for a hearing, but when the time arrive she did not put in an appearance. Inquiry revealed the fact that she had been sent to the county jail for thirt days by a justice of the peace in one of the townships where she had been driving recklessly.

This is probably the first instance in New Jersey of a woman being sent to prison for violating the automobile law; but since women will persist in violating the law enacted to restrain men it is but fair that they shall re ceive the same punishment. If a few more jail sentences were imposed, there would be less recklessness and fewer accidents. Experience has shown that fines are not specific deterrents.

While it is admitted on all sides that the Republicans have a splendid candidate for Congress in John H Capstick, even the leaders of that party know that he has a very hard man to defeat in the person of the present efficient member of the lower house, William E. Tuttle, Jr. Any prediction as to the outcome is pure conjecture, and party managers can make assurances until they are blue in the fact without convincing the average man one meets on the street that Mr. Tuttle has not a splendid chance of being re-elected. If the Mexican trouble and the war abroad had not come up, to completely overshadow the tariff question, the Republican chances of victory would have been good, but the splendid way in which Mr. Tuttle and hundreds of other Democrat Congressmen have stood behind the president in the crisis through which the country is now passing, has made them all hard to beat. The Maine situation proves the statement.

That the war news printed daily in the Press is as accurate and as late as any which appears in the metropolitan papers, is attested to daily. The baseball extras, published by the New York papers after five o'clock contain the same news that appears in the Press at 3:30. The news agency serving this newspaper is particularly capable, as the organization is the American branch of the greatest foreign news gathering association, the Central News of London. The censors are continuing to get in their good work, but all real news that is allowed to come over the cable *is promptly relayed to Plain*field on our leased wire, and distributed in this city from two to three hours earlier than it appears in any New York paper.

Too much credit cannot be given to former Mayor William L. Saunders for his skillful handling of the fight in favor of consolidation in North Plainfield. He gave much of his time for several weeks preceding the election to mapping out a plan of action, and as chairman of the citizens committee having charge of the details of the campaign during the final days, he was busy every minute. If the consolidation is brought about the credit for the work must be given to Mr. Saunders and Mayor Clark, the latter having also been one of the hardest workers for the cause.

For originality the prize must be awarded to the Dunellen Weekly Call. In these days when the tops of the newspapers are covered with glaring type announcing the various movements in the organized murder abroad, the Dunellen paper present this greeting spread across seven columns, for the first consideration of its readers: "Th average husband can't understand why his wife should need any more money when she don't chew or smoke."

It cost one Somerset county candidate $65.35 to lose the nomination for Congress. The official returns from the three countries in the district have not been accurately compiled, but from newspaper reports the price must have been about four cents a vote. Considering the fun he got out of it the experience was cheap enough for anyone.

POLITICAL NOTES.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Evidently expectant of the ensuing campaign being a "buttonhole" one, like the primary campaign that ended last week, several candidates are alheady quietly "on the job." As a whole, however, the nominees for different offices are getting things in shape for the more serious work ahead. "Harmonizing" after the various primary fights is not the least important of the tasks at hand.

The Republican nominees for city and county offices will meet in the Republican headquarters in Broad street, Elizabeth, tonight, on the eve of the organization of the county committee, to discuss campaign plans and caucus on their platforms. The committee appointed some time ago to arrange for a dollar dinner and "get together" occasion will meet at the same time, and it is likely that a date for the dinner will be decided on.

Pending the State convention tomorrow, the public has a breathing spell after the primary campaign. Following the conventions, however, party leaders declare that the general election campaign will be kept going in an active manner. The county committees will organize tomorrow night, and organizations put into shape for the busy whirl ahead. The State committees will make arrangements to have "imported" orators tour the State during the three weeks immediately preceding November 3. The State conventions will draft the platforms and will have the effect of big "opening guns." The State committees, hold-over Senators, Senate nominees and Assembly nominees, will make up the different conventions. Governor Fielder will be a member of the Democratic convention.

Although there were five candidates for the Democratic Assembly nomination, Assemblyman Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, was one of the three highest aspirants in forty-six out of forty-seven Elizabeth districts. Mr Dobbins also had the distinction of being one of the three leaders in every district in this city, Rahway and Westfield, and also of carrying every other municipality in the county excepting Fanwood borough and Mountainside. Scarcely a dozen Democratic votes were cast in these two places. Mr Dobbins was high man last November, his candidacy being given credit for carrying the rest of the Democratic Assembly ticket through. Of all the Democratic candidates with primary fights of one kind or another on hand, Mr. Dobbins was the highest with 3,977.

The way the Republican voters "took to" the candidacies of William N. Runyon, of this city, and Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, for Assembly nominations, bore out primary expectations. For third place, three Elizabeth candidates were in the field in friendly competition, and Charles L. Morgan won a substantial victory over them. Mr. Pierson received 4,845 votes and Mr. Runyon 4,323. Mr. Morgan's vote was 3,136, but this doesn't necessarily mean that he won't be high man in November. In order to strengthen the ticket geographically, the three Elizabeth candidate had an unspoken and unwritten agreement, it seemed not to direct their fight against the Plainfield and Westfield entries.

That the election officers are becoming more accustomed every year to counting the present style of blanket ballots, which were first used in 1911, was indicated by the speed with which they got through the work Tuesday night. Of course, the light vote was reason for itself for the early receipt of returns, but the counting had something to do with it, too. In 1911 and 1912, and last year to some extent also, the district boards did not all seem to have quite mastered the knack of counting the new tickets without going slowly. The voting public likewise appears to be understanding the new election laws better every election, and difficulties between voters and election officers were too few Tuesday to merit more than passing notice.

The Union county Democrats had five candidates for county clerk, former Assemblyman Leonard winning with his vote of 2,212, giving him a plurality of 723. The aggregate vote of the five candidates was 5,531, so that a vote of 2,766 was needed to select a majority candidate.

One of the other lively Congressional contests was in the Fifth district, where John H. Capstick, of Morris county, won the Republican nomination from former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of Union county. Capstick's plurality was 557, and he is also a minority candidate. There were three candidates in this contest, and the combined vote in the two counties was 11,393, so that Mr. Capstick is about 300 votes shy of the number required to give him a majority.

P. S. R. ADOPTS NEW "STOP" SIGN

Marked Poles Will Take the Place of Enameled Metal Indicators.

Public Service Railway has adopted a new character of sign to designate trolley stops on suburban lines. Heretofore the "Trolley Station" sign suspended from the span wires has been in vogue taroughout the whole system. Experience has shown that while these markers have served their purpose well in the cities they have been subjected to hard usage in sparsely settled territory, where police surveillance is lacking. The enameled metal indicators seem to have been a popular target for boys with a propensity for throwing stones and it has been next to impossible to keep the signs from being defaced.

To take the place of the span wire signs the company management will use trolley poles marked with a conspicuous white band to indicate stopping places. On the white band will be painted the word "Stop" and each stop will have a number.

The change went into effect today on the South Amboy line operating between New Brunswick and South Amboy via Milltown, South River and Sayreville and on the Middlesex line which runs between New Brunswick and Perth Amboy via Highland Park, Pitcataway, Metuchen, Fords and Keasby.

No changes will be made in the signs in the cities of New Brunswick or Perth Amboy, but the use of pole signs will be extended to all the lines in suburban territory as rapidly as the changes can conveniently be made.

"MORE THAN CONQUERORS," BY MISS ARIADNE GILBERT

More Than Conquerors, by Miss Ariadne Gilbert, of this city, just from the press of The Century Company, of New York, is attracting considerable attention. This book, which is handsomely bound and well printed, contains biographical sketches of Lincoln, Walter Scott, Charles Lamb, Emerson, Agassiz, Phillips Brooks, Washington Irving, Robert Louis Stevenson, St. Gaudens, Beethoven, David Livingstone, Edwin Booth, Thackeray, Pasteur. This book is on sale at Estill's Book Shop. Will F. Williams, proprietor, as is also "My Scrap Book," which was written by the late Miss Louise Stockton Andrews, for which there has been a big sale.

DUTCH ARMS MEETING.

The Dutch Arms, men's club, of the Netherwood Reformed church will hold its opening meeting of the season in the church this evening at 8 o'clock. Part of the Dutch Arms Band will furnish the music. R. S. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, will give an address. An informal supper will be served, and a good time is expected.

SELLS HIS PROPERTY.

BICYCLE RIDER HIT BY ROSELLE AUTOIST

Accident Occurred on West Front Street Yesterday Afternoon.

Patrick Sutton, of West Third street, while riding his bicycle East on West Front street at 2.30 o'clock yesterday, was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Lounsbury, of Roselle. The wheel rider was thrown to the street and slightly injured, while his bicycle was demolished.

The victim was picked up by the auto party and brought to police headquarters where City Physician Norman W. [illegible] examined him. He sustained a wrenched arm and several minor bruises. The accident happened near Waynewood place while both parties were endeavoring to avoid a Maine Line trolley car. Roundsman Andrew Saffron was on the car at the time and brought those involved in the affair to headquarters.

Lounsbury was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged with reckless driving but proved to the court that the fault was equally distributed between himself and the victim and was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY OF SOLEMN DEDICATION

The parishioners of St. Mary's church, yesterday, celebrated the fourteenth anniversary of the solemn dedication of the church. The dedication in the phraseology of canon law cannot take place until the church is consecrated and a Catholic church cannot be consecrated until it is entirely free from debt.

The debt of the church proper was removed during the incumbency of Father Smyth, who made it the crowning work of his pastoral activities at St. Mary's church. Since that time additions and improvements amounting to nearly $60,000 have been made and paid for. The celebration yesterday was of a religious character, a solemn mass of thanksgiving being celebrated at 10:30 o'clock. Father Vincent Sciolla was the celebrant, Father John McDonald the deacon and Father B. M. Bogan the sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Father McDonald.

THREW COAL SCUTTLE AT WIFE, BUT IS FORGIVEN

"Arms that you should be using to put around your wife to protect her during life's long journey should never be used to bring her harm," said Justice Rene P. F. von Minden in the Dunellen court, this morning in suspending sentence on James Allen, who had been arrested for throwing a coal scuttle at his better half while in an intoxicated condition. Although Mrs. Allen was made the target for the coal carrier delivered by her husband she refused to enter a complaint against him and consequently he got off with a reprimand.

The scuttle went wide of its mark and hit the Allens' two-year-old daughter, inflicting a painful cut on her cheek. Marshal McCauley made the arrest and the offender was lodged in the "cooler" to recover from the effects of the night before.

LOCAL MEN DRAWN FOR OCTOBER GRAND JURY

Grand Jurors for the October term of the Union county courts were announced this morning, several being selected from this city and Westfield. The Plainfield Grand Jurors are W. W. Corriell, Clare Dwiggins and Harry Werner, and from Westfield George Delatours.

The petit jurors from Plainfield are Norman Barnes, Allen T. Codington, Fred Endress, Clifford M. Applegate, Leslie M. Leland and Ernest Zeek, and from Westfield, Robert H. Middledith and George C. Titus.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LEAGUE TAKES NEW HEADQUARTERS

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield will establish its headquarters at 128 East Front street, where the formal opening will take place in the near future. Wednesday afternoon a "pasting bee" will be held and it is requested that all interested in the movement be present to make the project a success.

Contributions of large and small tables are acceptable and a committee will be at the new headquarters Wednesday morning to receive such donations.

OFFICIAL PRIMARY VOTE FOR SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

The official vote polled in the primary election for United States Senator and Assemblyman was announced today as follows: Senator, Pierce, Republican, 5,309; Pierce, Progressive 490; Stewart, Democratic, 4,615; Keyes, Socialist, 130.

The Democratic Assembly candidates received the following votes: Callahan, 3,309; Dobbins, 3,984; Dooley, 3,577; Linke, 1,622, Seiler, 2,442. The Republican vote was as follows: Clum, 2,185; Morgan, 3,135; Runyon, 4,839; Pierson, 4,365; Warner, 2,976.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

George McDonald Terry, of Chicago, who is visiting his aunt, Mrs. E. H. Guest, of Terrill road, was given a party on Saturday in honor of the ninth anniversary of his birthday. Games and other features made the afternoon one of enjoyment to all present. Refreshments were served. Master Terry was the recipient of many gifts. Among those present were Joseph Martin, George Murray, Martin Herbst, Kenneth Lambert, Lawrence Wentz, George Meisenor and George Terry.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Violet Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sutton, of East Fifth street, was given a surprise party at her home, Friday night, in honor of her sixteenth birthday anniversary. Dancing was a feature of the evening, after which refreshments were served. Miss Sutton received many gifts.

WAGING HOT FIGHT FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Lucius T. Russell, of Elizabeth, and Abram Morris, of Union, in Race.

Democrats in this county were treated to a big surprise yesterday when it was announced on seemingly good authority that there had been a break between Dennis F. Collins Elizabeth mayoralty candidate, and Lucius T. Russell, one of his most ardent supporters and the publisher of the Elizabeth Times. It is admitted that even with the party united General Collins would have a hard fight to land the office he is seeking but without the aid of Russell and the Edward Nugent faction he is practically stranded.

Interesting developments are expected at the meeting of the Democratic County Committee called for tomorrow night. Russell is a candidate for the office of county chairman against Abram P. Morris, of Union. Friends and supporters of Mr. Russell allege that Collins, although he has denied all affiliations with the county issue, is working in favor of the selection of Morris. There are 106 election districts in Union county, with a member in each district in the county committee. Elizabeth has forty-five members and in view of this fact it is claimed that the county seat has the right to expect the chairmanship.

Russell claims that Collins has ignored his declaration to keep out of the race and is using his influence to elect Morris. Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city, is the present chairman, but is a candidate for State Senator and has resigned in order that he might be able to give his entire time to his campaign.

LIVES IN JEOPARDY IN EARLY MORNING BLAZE

Midnight flames did damage to the extent of $1,500 in the home of Frank Peck in New Market, last night, and placed the lives of the occupants in jeopardy for a time before they were aroused and fled from the burning building. The family awoke at an early hour this morning, to find the house enveloped in flames and had barely time enough to make their escape down the front stairs.

Good work on the part of the village fire department was responsible for checking the flames before the entire structure was reduced to a mass of ashes and the damage was held down to a minimum. The origin of the blaze is a mystery but a defective flue is the probable cause.

MOTHER OF GEORGE MELLICK DIES AT SOMERVILLE

Mrs. James Mellick, mother of George A. Mellick, of Summit avenue, died at her home in Somerville, last night at 11 o'clock. She formerly lived in Raritan and Pluckemin. Mrs. Mellick's maiden name was Miss Sarah Ten Eyck and she was married about fifty years ago.

She is survived by her husband and two sons, William, who lives at home, and George, who lives in this city, and a daughter, Mrs. Albert Ammerman, of New Brunswick. She also has a brother. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

PRESIDENT THRILLED.

Washington, Sept. 28.—"Wonderful, but startingly reckless," said President Wilson, today, when Lincoln Beachey, the aviator, turned a double aerial somersault over the White House grounds some 5,100 feet in the air. Beachey was induced to come here by Captain Bristol, chief of the Navy Aviation Bureau, attempting to demonstrate to the lawmakers the necessity for greater appropriations for flying machines for use of both the navy and army. Beachey was watched by Senate and House members.

WOMAN GETS GOV'T JOB.

Washington, Sept. 22.—For the first time in the history of the Department of Justice, a woman has been appointed to the important post of assistant United States attorney. The new official is Mrs. Annette Abbot Adams, of San Francisco, and President Wilson today named her for the position in the District of Calofirnia.

"PEACE SUNDAY" TO BE OBSERVED AT GRACE CHURCH

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, has announced special services on Sunday next for the observance of "Peace Sunday," in obedience to the proclamation of President Wilson. A special form of service authorized by the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese will be used, and intercession for the restoration and maintenance of peace between nations of the world will be made. The rector and vestry of the church are desirous to interest the members of the parish and all citizens of Plainfield in this important occasion.

W. M. LAMBERT'S BIRDS WIN A HARD RACE

The first young bird race under the auspices of the Plainfield Homing Club, was flown last week from Newark, Del. The birds were liberated at 11 o'clock in the morning, the weather being clear with a strong northwest wind. At home the weather was clear with a strong northwest wind, making it a hard race, testing the quality of the birds engaged in the flight. The race resulted as follows:

W. M. Lambert, Westfield, 1021-65 yards per minute; F. Rydzenski, Roselle Park, 1010.83; J. Carberry, Westfield, 972.86; F. C. Brunner, Westfield, 939.63; John Fischer Westfield, 932.53; R. S. Parsons Plainfield, 924.81.

THIRD PRESIDENCY FOR A LOCAL COLLEGE GIRL

For the third time since she enrolled as a pupil in the Montclair Normal School in 1912, Miss Alice Mehl, daughter of Captain and Mrs. George Mehl, Jr., of Madison avenue, has been elected president of her class. This unique honor was bestowed on the local girl at the annual class elections and she heads the class that will be graduated from that institution in 1915. Miss Mehl was also president of the sophomore and junior classes and took an active part in the class work while a freshman.

Popularity at class elections is not the only department in which Miss Mehl excels as she has been active in athletic and scholarship circles at the New Jersey school. She is a member of the basketball team and was a competitor in the tennis tourney that was recently run off. She is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, where she captained the basketball team and was prominent in school dramatics. She is making a specialty of eighth grade work and will enter the teaching field upon her graduation next June. Miss Ethel Mehl a younger sister, is a pupil in the same school, pursuing a kindergarten course.

BOY VANDALS ARRAIGNED.

Three small boys, James Sherman, Edward Smith and Edward Conger, of the West End, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged with throwing stones at passing trains on the Central Railroad in the West End section. The police are determined to put a stop to this practice of vandalism and the boys were instructed to appear in court with their parents next Saturday morning.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

MAC SAYS

As promoters of bowling in this city you have to hand it to those Elks. Enthusiasm displayed by the leaders of the pinning sport in 885 has injected the fever into other fraternal and athletic organizations in this city and nearby suburbs, and the coming winter promises to be one of the most active in which the pin splitters have ever participated. In handing the live honor to the antlered athletes we take into consideration the fact that they were the originators of systematic competition of this special variety hereabouts and have stuck to the pastime through thick and thin up to the present time. Although not always leaders in the Elks' League circuit the Plainfielders have become known for their consistency and sportsmanship and bear an excellent reputation as the result of the healthy mixture of these two qaulities in every town on the circuit. The formation of the junior league lends added interest. It will give those stars developed in the club tournament last spring an opportunity to break through into the limelight and we predict at this time that the Queen City wood splitters will be well up among the leaders when the prizes are handed out on the infant circuit this season. In Bill Nash and Chauncey Stout the respective local teams have a pair of leaders that are well acquainted with the alley sport and can be relied upon to pilot their charges in an efficient style. The personnel of the representative Elks' teams is still a matter of speculation, but the material is abundant and the year spent getting acquainted with the mysteries of the new shutes has resulted in the "making" of a group of phenoms.

Speaking of bowling we also are forced to approve of that city league stuff, which by the way, was launched by the sporting department of this paper last year. Following the initiative set by us the Plainfield lovers of the popular indoor sport have indicated a desire to organize such an organization and we have plenty of teams playing around this burg that would be formidable aspirants for a city championship. With alleys such as this city boasts of there is no reason why we should not run a city league this winter and run it on the right basis. All that is needed is a little work on the part of those who are boosters and we could have just as lively a time this winter as some of the larger cities in this and other States enjoy. Get the thing started. There's no time like the present and we see no reason why we should be subjected to a spasm of post-season championship stuff such as we had to endure last spring.

Jack Martin Day falls due a week from next Saturday according to an entry on our date book. If we are to make this event the important affair it should be someone will have to do some hustling between now and October 10. The baseball season is on its last legs and something pretty tempting will have to be supplied to get the fans to mobolize in the direction of Parker Field with the temperature on the downward hook and the World Series in operation. Again we say "a little pep."

Tennis is another sport that is undergoing a boom in the Queen City this season. There are tournaments galore in these diggings and never before has such zealous interest been taken in the racquet wielding sport. Juniors and seniors, males and females, are indulging in the outdoor pastime and some creditable records have been set up during the present season by some of other localities.

By the way, that High School swimming pool opens this afternoon and those P. H. S. athletes get their first bath of the year. That is, the first bath within the walls of the educational institution. If cleanliness is an asset to better playing, we anticipate some crackerjack teams coming from the Ninth street school this term.

Many Plainfielders are planning to take in that series between the Giants and the Stallings' crew at the Polo Grounds this week. Wednesday, with its tempting double header menu, promises to be a regular Plainfield day at the little old sand lot at the base of Coogan's Bluff. Get in line, they're all going.

If early season enthusiasm counts for anything the Y. M. C. A. basketball season bears every indication of being a record breaker this year. The array of talent that has signified its intention of trying for the five jobs is the kind that gives rise to optimism in any faction.

Saturday will set the football season a'rolling in Plainfield. The Plainfield High School pigskin chasers have a contest to dispose of and it is likely that the Holy Cross warriors will take on a rival on that date. Well, letergo, everybody's waiting for a shift of sporting scenery.

The local baseball season this year has not kept up to a par with [illegible] of former years and a majority of the fans are heartily sick of wat[illegible]ng pepper-less youngsters cavort about the ball diamond.

Rumor has it that Captain Abrams, of the North Plainfield High School basketball team, will appear before the borough Board of Education at its meeting tonight and make application for an athetic hall to train his charges in. We admire your spirit, Abbie, old boy, but go easy on the Board. Putting the kibosh on the proposition would probably result in a ban being placed on the sport in the borough and this would be a truly regrettable feat.

Roy Love's return to the North Plainfield High School gives the basketball stock on the other side of the brook a boost. His entry also boosts the average heighth of the N. P. H. S. squad by about four inches.

Whatsmatter with Scotch Plains this year? Baseball has been lying dormant in that hamlet during the summer months and the basketball bug still remains in hibernation. The doors of the Parish House remain bolted and until someone bursts open the lock the inactivity will continue. It's a pity that such an asset as the Scotch Plains Parish House can not be continued in the future. We agree with Sherman that war is Hades. Funds are scarce in the 'Plains and there is nothing left in the tin bank to keep things going in the athletic rendezvous.

The captain and manager of the North Plainfield A. A. announce that the football team they are promoting has no connection with the North Plainfield High School. No one ever accused some of those warriors of being of High School calibre.

It's about time someone announced that world's series tickets would be among the scarce commodities this season.

Many have asked us if it will be possible to get a hold of some of the passports for the Philly contests this fall. We might say at this time that the scalpers who annually make their appearance have not as yet succumbed to the scalping reform and are still doing a legitimate business.

Yes, gentle sportsman, Maximus has long since been enrolled on the roster of the Publicity Club. He has threatened to enter football this season and by so doing has secured almost as much printer's ink as some would-be pugilists we have heard tell about.

It may be true that football is not a paying proposition, but we would like to know why some local managers are breaking their vertebrae trying to ring up the curtain for the season. The baseball season still has a couple of weeks to go, if the world series is to be taken into consideration.

PETS AGAIN FIND HITS A FOREIGN ELEMENT WHEN RUNS ARE IN SIGHT

Saurer Club Once More Triumphs Over Dorflinger Clan—Victors Behind in the Hit Column But Lead in the Run Column—Many Pets Left Stranded on the Sacks—MacLaughlin Strong in Last Innings While Harney Weakened With Discouraging Support to Contend With.

Kaiser Wilhelm's fusilade on the other side of the big pond has nothing on the bombardment of the Parker Field fence exhibited on the lot on Randolph road Saturday afternoon. Eighteen stalwart bludgeon wielders, some were Germans and some were not, slam-banged a small little inoffensive horsehide pill to the four corners of a diamond studded plot of ground collecting thirteen of the species that in baseball are labelled hits, but which in the foreign war count for one contraband apiece. When the curtain went down the regiment sporting the regalia of the Saurer Motor Company had won another day and driven the fighters commanded by General Ernest Dorflinger into retreat with a volley of eight runs against their opponents two. Reconnoitering in a cunning fashion up to the fifth inning the invaders came to the fore with a burst of speed that forced the Plainfield Pets into the background and into a mood that offered the least resistance.

By snatching this battle the Saurer youngsters copped the second contest of a three game series with the Dorflinger clan, a silver loving cup being at stake for the team making the greatest harvest of runs in the trio of collisions. At the present time the factoryites lead with a count that reads something like 14 to 4.

The same old story, hits being a foreign element when men warmed the sacks, was responsible for the loss of Saturday's conflict. Time and again players garbed in Plainfield drapery hugged the bassocks while two or three men either whiffed the atmosphere or hit easy bounders to the infield. The telling lick was missing.

The Saurer team got but six bingles, but this half dozen counted for eight runs. Most of the clouts were solid whacks and several were of the extra station variety, Harriman and Martin cracking out triples and Johnny Dixon drawing a double decker. Thammy Dorman broke into the extra base class in the ninth round when he connected for three cushions at the expense of a veteran twirler who has been in the world just about twice as long as the little blonde.

A stiff gale blew across the battlefield during the afternoon and while it was a great help to the moundsmen at times, it played havoc with the batsmen's eyes. Considerable dust was loosened up by the wind and this frequently formed thick clouds that completely enveloped the diamond. Several of the waliops were ticketed for round trip excursions when they left the wagon tongue but by the time they had soared a hundred feet into the air the wind proved too powerful and in many cases healthy swats were held down to one baggers.

As an evidence of their ability, or rather inability, to get hits when hits were needed, the Plainfield contingent pounded out seven licks, one more than their victorious rivals, but were able to account for but two runs, twenty-five per cent. of their opponent's tally card. MacLaughlin's air tight pitching was largely responsible for this condition of affairs.

Norman Harney, although defeated, was far from being of inferior calibre during the two hours of fighting. He delivered the goods until his comrades threw a cloud of discouragement over his performance by chalking up five inexcusable and costly miscues, later adding two more. Until the fifth inning not a single clout marred his delivery and he was handling the situation in excellent style. When his backers blew up Harney followed suit and while he maintained a portion of his effectiveness he was far from being invincible during the closing rounds.

At a time when the crowd had started to wend its weary way toward the ball fans' parlor car running on the Arlington avenue tracks, something happened that caused a belated breeze to stir among the bleacherites who had become frozen fast to their cushioned seats. Johnny Dixon, a second addition to the same family of which Lou is the first, came to the bat for his first during the afternoon and laced the pill down the avenue, never stopping to greet his brother at the first sack, but continuing on to second. His two-bagger was over-shadowed in the same stanza, however, by two Plainfielders' contributions to the merry making. Not to be outdone by his "kid" brother, Lou landed squarely on the grooved ball in the Pets' half of the ninth that sailed over the left field fence for the limit period allowed a runner on the bases. Little Thammy Dorman also accounted for an extra base tap in this session, the ball going far enough to allow the engineer to travel three stations on his self-propelled engine. The score:

B-r-r-r-r—baseball? No, shivers.

Britt Martin's Saurer youngsters proved themselves to be in the same class with Johnny McGraw's Giants when it came to getting runs off the least number of hits on Parker Field Saturday afternoon. Outhit by their opponents, the Saurerites were credited with a six run advantage. Not so bad, eh?

Morgan loomed up as big as a mountain for the Pets in the first inning. The first three Saurer men to face Harney were retired with Morgan's assists. He marred his record, however, by opening the second stanza with a beautiful muff of Martin's fly back of short.

By the way, Martin kind of had Morgan's goat throughout the entire engagement. The first two times he faced Harney the Saurer leader got life on first through Morgan's miscues.

Dixon's homer in the ninth came as the direct result of a little bit of good natured joshing between the first baseman and MacLaughlin. Dixon challenged Warry to grove the pill for him and when Mac obligingly did it Dixon slammed it over the left field sign board. That's all. Warry had nothing to say.

Lew Brown, the new Pet recruit from the Sunday-school ranks, loomed up as a promising addition to the fold Saturday afternoon. He got one chance in the field and smothered it for a putout besides handling himself in excellent style for a raw recruit at the home plate.

Ernie Dorflinger is collecting errors contributed by his charges. The Plainfield pilot had some all by himself on the bench Saturday stowing away the prizes as they were committed.

For awkwardness around the keystone sack, that man Morgan takes the prize. Although he has a fine whip and can clout the ball he is no man to have cavorting around second mussing up plays.

"Henyon" Alberts has an expression all his own to flash on the crowd after taking a healthy wallop. The Saurer left fielder puts the biggest dent in the empty atmosphere of any player on either club.

Have you noticed how Albert has been derricked after each of his long swats in the last two contests? A week ago he cracked out a homer and was replaced in the next stanza by Johnny Dixon in right field. Saturday Alberts tapped the pellet for a three decker and was once more retired in favor of Johnny. Such is fame, "Henyon," old boy.

So far this season the Pets have failed to get more than four runs in any one game from the delivery of MacLaughlin. And yet there are some who contend that the old warhorse is retrograding.

As a fielder Katz Miller has no equal in these parts. Saturday's exhibition in the centre field territory is only a very small sample of what he can do.

Jack Wilson stopped one of Harney's slants with his ribe. It had little effect on him, however, indicating that he has been playing football during off-hours.

Ernest Dorflinger stated Saturday that Jack Martin day would surely be run off on October 10, with an all-star attraction for the fans. We might suggest that a football game instead of an exhibition of the national pastime would be more appropriate at this time of the year.

The third game will be staked next Saturday and Dorflinger has high hopes of overcoming the Saurers' ten run lead for the challenge cup. It cawn't be did, Alphonse, it cawn't be did.

Haven't seen a good fight with an umpire on Parker Field in so long that we forget how one really looks in this day of twentieth century civilization. The new arbitrator is apparently satisfactory to all parties, indicating that this is far from being a real championship series.

Seifts and Harney only got two hits apiece Saturday afternoon. We're sorry for you old men.

Curtain—Exit the Pets.

JACK MARTIN SIGNS HIS 1915 CONTRACT

Will Play Another Year in Philadelphia Garb—Recovering From Injury.

Jack Martin, shortstop for the Philadelphia club, of the National League, returned to his home in this city, Saturday afternoon, to recuperate from an injury sustained in a game at Philadelphia one week ago today. Martin was spiked at second base in the first inning, but continued in his position until the contest was finished. The cut, which was inflicted just above the ankle bone on the right leg, began to bother him after the contest and he was ordered by Manager Dooin to report to the club physician.

An examination disclosed the seriousness of the injury and he was ordered to remain idle for ten days at the least. He will remain at his home here until Wednesday when he is due to report to the club.

Before leaving for Plainfield, Saturday, Martin signed a contract with the Phillies for another season. Although he would not disclose the figures it is understood that he is satisfied with them, inasmuch as they have been substantially increased over last year.

MARTIN AN EXPERT BUNTER, ALSO THE MOST AMBITIOUS

In commenting on the run the Philadelphia Nationals have made for the National League gonfalon this season the baseball writer of the Trenton State Gazette has the following to say of our local representative, Jack Martin:

"It was stated early in the season that Doolan and Knabe would not be missed. No, not any more than the right field fence. Until Martin came, shortstop was the most unprotected defense. All those who tried to cover this position, with the exception of Magee, who was remarkably good, the sensation of the early part of the season, but he could not go very far to his right for ground balls, or very far to his left, either. Grounders to deep short or to deep second were good for hits. Doolan ate up an average of three grounders like that every game. Three hits have won many ball games.

"Jack Martin has looked like a very good ball player in his games in Philadelphia. He lacks the clean-up hitting proclivities of most of his team mates, but he is an expert bunter, can run every one of the four bases and appears to be one of the most ambitious players on the club roster. Since he has been at short, Doolan has not been missed so much, but even Martin is not in Mike's class as a ground-coverer."

"MET" CHAMPS WILL BE GREATEST EVER

Fine List of Entries Has Been Filed and Competition Will Be Great.

The senior Metropolitan Track and Field Championships, which will be held at Celtic Park, L. I., on Saturday afternoon, October 3, 1914, will be one of the greatest athletic carnivals held in this district in years, the number of entries received is very large and the committee having opened same until next Monday and each mail brings in another batch.

The feature event of the day will be the 100 and 220 yards run, with C. D. Reidpath, N. Y. C. A. Olympic champion and intercollegiate quarter mile record holder entered, and will compete against A. T. Meyer, I. A. A. C. present metropolitan champion, F. L. Stephenson, Trinity Club, J. Ravenell, St. Christopher Club, F. J. McNally, New York A. C., F. Kaufman, I. A. A. C., and E. Hauret, N. Y. A. C.

Another event that will be worth going miles to witness will be the half mile run with Homer Baker, N. Y. A. C. National and English champion, who created such a sensation abroad this summer with his running, on the starting mark and will compete against A. R. Kiviat, I. A. A. C. national and metroplotan one mile champion; W. R. Granger, I. A. A. C. who finished second to Baker at the national championships held at Baltimore; E. S. Fraser, I. A. A. C. L. Gordon, Yonkers; O. W. DeGruchy, N. Y. A. C., and J. F. O'Connore N. Y. A. C.

In the discus event there will be a dual between E. Muller, I. A. A. C. national and metropolitan champion and J. H. Duncan, Bradhurst Field Club, present record holder for first place, and from the reports received they are both in good shape and it will not be surprising to see the record of 145 ft. 9½ in broken as they are doing better in practice.

Entry blanks and other information can be had from F. W. Rubien chairman, P. O. Box 611, N. Y. C.

COUNTRY CLUB AGAIN DEFEATS CRANFORD

Local Golfers Win Match on Opponents' Course by Score of 14 to 11.

The Plainfield Country Club representatives on Saturday repeated its performance of the week previous and again defeated the team from the Cranford Golf Club, this time by a score of 14 to 11. The score in the first match was 18 to 4. The match was a four-ball one and five pairs on the Plainfield team did all the scoring, as against six pairs on the visiting aggregation. The results of the match follow:

Plainfield—Will T. Glenney and R. S. Rowland, 0; D. H. Barrows and W. Lester Glenney, 0, J. W. Baker and A. J. Watson, 3, S. D. Lounsbery and W. H. Rogers, 2; D. O. Rogers and Arthur Murphy, 3; J. E. LONG SCHEDULE FOR WESTFIELD ELEVEN

Manager Has Booked Thirteen Hard Games for His Team to Play This Season.

Although many of last year's veterans will be missing from the lineup of the Westfield High School football team next Saturday against the Central C. and M. T. school eleven of Newark, the coaches of the Mt. Ararat warriors expect their charges to make as good a showing as they did last year. The team has a long hard schedule in front of it which consists of thirteen games with such teams as Pingry, Battin, Plainfield, Rahway and St. Benedict's of Newark, and the Westfield crew will have to play some football to keep up with its opponents.

Plainfield High School appears on the schedule twice, one game being played on a holiday. The locals will go to Westfield on Election Day and will entertain their rivals on Parker Field on Saturday, November 21. The Westfield team will play their alumni eleven on Thanksgiving Day. The schedule follows:

Saturday, Oct. 3—Central C. & M. T. H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Oct. 10—Pingry School at Westfield.
Monday, Oct. 12—South Orange H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Oct. 17—St. Benedict's Prep, at Westfield.
Wednesday, Oct. 21—Somerville H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Oct. 24.—Dover H. S., at Dover.
Wednesday, Oct. 28—Rahway H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Oct. 31—Battin H. S., at Elizabeth.
Election Day, Nov. 3.—Plainfield H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Nov. 7—Roselle H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Nov. 14—New Brunswick H. S., at Westfield.
Saturday, Nov. 21—Plainfield H. S., at Plainfield.
Thanksgiving, Nov. 26—Ex-High, at Westfield.

The Columbus Day game, Monday, October 12, will be played at 10:15 a. m., and the Thanksgiving Day game at 11:00 a. m. All others will begin at 3:30 p. m.

WORLD'S SERIES GAMES TO START OCTOBER 9

Chicago, Sept. 28—Play in the series for the world's baseball championship will begin on October 9 at 2 o'clock, it was announced by President B. B. Johnson, of the American League and member of the National Baseball Commission, Saturday.

The announcement was made after a long distance telephone conversation with August Herrmann, chairman of the commission.

RIGHT OFF THE REEL.

Sporting Editor:—

For the benefit of some members of the faculty of the North Plainfield High School as well as the public we wish to state that the North Plainfield Athletic Club football team is in no way connected with the borough institution of learning and we do not want to mislead the public in any way.

The North Plainfield A. C., however, expects to be one of the fastest amateur elevens in the State, and anyone wishing to try their skill with such an aggregation will be given a good show.

(Signed)
R. HEBERT, Captain.
D. D. DENNY, Manager.

WILL PLAY BASKETBALL.

Members of the Eagles Lodge of this city are planning to have a basketball team this season. They will practice in their lodge rooms, but will play games on opponents' courts. No definite arrangements have been made yet but something will be done in a short time.

JUNIOR ELKS WILL HAVE SEVEN TEAMS

Plainfield Among the Lodges to Be Represented on the New Circuit.

Seven teams will compose the Junior Elks' Bowling League. This was decided yesterday afternoon at a meeting held at the Elks' clubhouse in Green street, Newark, where delegates from Newark, Plainfield, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Jersey City, New York and Paterson were represented. An election of officers was held resulting in Alex P. Hinton being chosen president; Charles Scott, of Elizabeth, vice president; Walter Burton, of New Brunswick, treasurer, and Vincent Nash, Jr., of this city, secretary. It was decided to open the season Thursday, October 15. The list of prizes and schedule will be decided upon at the next meeting, which will be held Sunday, October 11.

Hinton entered a strong protest when his name was put up for president. He is vice-president of the Senior Elks' League and was mainly responsible for the formation of the junior organization. The delegates disregarded Hinton's protest and he was unanimously elected. George McKee, of Jersey City; George Lawrence, of Paterson, and Charles Scott, of Elizabeth, were elected to serve on the executive board.

It was believed that but six teams would form the league, but the Plainfield lodge of Elks entered a team last week, making seven to start the season. The delegates at yesterday's meeting were Alex P. Hinton and William C. Weber, of Newark, Vincent Nash, Jr., of Plainfield; Charles Scott, of Elizabeth; Walter Burton, of New Brunswick; George McKee, of Jersey City, and George Lawrence, of Paterson. John McGuire, of New York, was represented by proxy.

ZIMMERMAN DEAL AGAIN DENIED BY JOHN M'GRAW

They traded Heine Zimm to the Giants again Saturday, but McGraw said he did not know anything about it. "I'd like to get Zimm all right, said John J., "but there is absolutely nothing doing at present. I made several propositions to O'Day for Zimmerman during the season, but they were all turned down."

The latest yarn is that Zimm comes to the Giants in 1915 for Marquard, Grant and Bues. Bues has already been awarded to his new team. McGraw said the Bues part of the trade is enough to queer it. "We haven't had any claim to Bues since Boston claimed him for the waiver price in 1912," said McGraw. President Thomas, of the Cubs, also denied the Chicago part of the deal.

GEORGE, LOCAL PITCHER, FANS 17 RIVALS BUT LOSES GAME

The Plainfield All-Stars went to Elizabeth, yesterday, and played ten rounds with the Monroes of that place. The locals lost in an extra inning, the score being three to two. The game was interesting throughout, especially in the fifth inning, when Tishe, the local left-fielder, connected with one of Barrow's curves and hit for a home run, tying the score. From the fifth to the tenth there was no scoring done.

George, the local pitcher, was in fine form and allowed only five hits, which, aided by errors, gave the home team chances to win the game. The home team scored once in the first and third, but after that the Queen Cityites played big league ball until the tenth, when they broke and allowed their opponents to score the much needed run. Plainfield pushed one over in the fourth frame and the circuit clout in the following session tied the score. Barrows was touched for seven hits but when on the base the locals could not develop runs. George struck out seventeen of the opposing batters and did not give a pass. The score by innings and batteries:

Elizabeth .....1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1—3

Batteries: George and Trotter; Barrows and Morrow.

LAST GAME WAS MONROE'S BEST OF THE SEASON

The Monroe Avenue baseball team, accompanied by its lady friends, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McDowell, of Plainfield avenue, Saturday afternoon and evening. The spacious grounds, which were tastefully decorated for the occasion, made an ideal spot for outdoor games, which were enjoyed by all during the afternoon.

At 5 o'clock tables were spread on the lawn and a New England supper was served and true baseball enthusiasm was maintained throughout the supper hour. After supper the guests repaired to the house and indoor games were in order until a late hour, when, with three hearty cheers for host and hostess, the team disbanded. This by unanimous vote of all present was declared the best game of the season.

LEALS AND P. H. S. FIGHT FOR TITLE

North Plainfield High School Eliminated From School Tennis Saturday.

North Plainfield High School was eliminated from the interscholastic tennis singles championship Saturday afternoon, at the Plainfield Country Club, and now there are only three Plainfield High School racquet wielders and one Leal's representative left to fight it out for the title next Saturday. Tomkinson and Sherman Chandler, of the borough institution, were defeated in the third round while Stevenson, of Leal's, bowed to Eggie in that same round. Stewart, also of the private school, qualified for the semi-finals by taking the measure of Tomkinson in two out of three sets and will probably meet Blanchard in the title match Saturday.

Blanchard took the only other N. P. H. S. man into camp when Chandler lost in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. In the second division, Blanchard took two matches. The scores of Saturday afternoon's play follows:

Third round: Stewart, Leal's, defeated Tomkinson North Plainfield, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5; Blanchard, Plainfield defeated Chandler, North Plainfield, 6-1, 6-2; Eggie, Plainfield, defeated Stevenson, Leal's, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. D Blanchard, Plainfield, defeated Carter, Plainfield, 6-0, 6-1; Blanchard Plainfield, defeated Eggie, Plainfield, 6-2, 6-0.

FIRST SCRIMMAGE FOR HOLY CROSS

Borough Warriors Are Put Through Hard Grind on Cricket Field.

Coach Martin, of the Holy Cross football team, put his charges through a severe work-out on Cricket field, Saturday afternoon, and is getting the team in good shape for the first game of the season with the Trojans next Saturday on the local field. The first team was lined up against a scrub combination and all those who took part in the scrimmage received some knocks and bruises that reminded them that the gridiron time has really arrived.

Maximus, who signified his intention of trying for a position, kept his word and was out in the rough-and tumble. He will probably be placed on the line. Jack Wilson and Jack Ricketts were not out, but they are both assured of places in the backfield. "Vic" Tillotson was again on the job and was placed at quarterback, and Coyle also played in his old position. After the scrimmage the practice consisted of kicking, receiving kicks and dropping on the ball.

Those who played on the first team Saturday, were: Carty, center; Howarth and Glover, guards; Moore and Bremble, tackles; Caulfield, Webster and Cummings, ends; Tillotson and Coyle, quarterback; Barry and Manning, halfbacks, and Stiglitz, fullback.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL TANK WILL BE OPENED TODAY

Water will be run into the new swimming tank at the Plainfield High School today and the pool will be officially turned over to the pupils of the institution. It is of tile construction and one of the best of its kind in this vicinity.

Ralph S. Patch, director of athletics at the High School, will be in charge of the pool and will conduct a class for those who do not know how to swim. The schedule calls for two days a week for the girls and two days a week for the boys. The candidates for the various athletic teams will also have the use of the tank after practises.

FEMININE TEAMS HAVE HOT CONTESTS

Opening Round of Play in P. C. C. Doubles Was Source of Keen Rivalry.

Play in the women's doubles tennis tournament was started at the Plainfield Country Club, this morning, some good matches resulting from the opening pairings. A number of prominent feminine racquet wielders have teamed up for this all important event and some keen competition is promised. This morning Mrs. A. M. Collens and Mrs. Foster were forced to go three sets in order to pull out with the majority at the expense of Mrs. Harry Brower and Miss Marion Brown. Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. R. S. Rowland trimmed Miss Beers and Mrs. Daniel Runkle in straight sets, while Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. George Hodges turned a similar trick at the expense of Mrs. J. W. Baker and Mrs. Charles King. In their second match of the day, Mrs. W. B. Tyler and Mrs. Hodges disposed of Miss Gough and Miss Madeline Ashwell in straight sets. All of the eliminated teams put up good battles and the winners were forced to extend themselves in several instances.

The summaries: Mrs. A. M. Collens and Mrs. Foster beat Mrs. Harry Brower and Miss Marion Brown, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1; Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. R. S. Rowland beat Mrs. Runkle and Miss Edith Beers, 6-2, 8-6; Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. George Hodges beat Mrs. J. W. Baker and Mrs. Charles King, 6-2, 9-7; Mrs. William B. Tyler and Mrs. George Hodges beat Miss Gough and Miss Madeline Ashwell, 6-3, 7-5.

HIGHLANDERS NOSE OUT ALL-STARS IN EIGHTH

The Highlanders won a 10 to 8 victory over Smith's All-Stars, yesterday afternoon, on the Netherwood field. Matty Coughlin was on the mound for the stars and was opposed by Denny, the Highlander mainstay.

John Denny was the heavy slugger of the day, getting three safe swats out of five trips to the platter. Two of these went for doubles. The score by innings and batteries:

All-Stars .....2 0 0 3 0 1 2 0 0— 8

Promoted from the junior department—Lillian King, Grace Cornwell, Lillian Rollinson, Dorothy Niles, Raymond Gerhold, John Cose, Irwin Lance, Pierce Fountain, Randolph Douglas, Lloyd Mundy, Roy Spratt, Theodore Seals, Walter Sutphen, Howell L. Hodgskin, Buchan Telfer.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Rally Day exercises at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday afternoon, was marked by an attendance of 582, with sixteen classes with a perfect attendance. F. E. Smith, superintendent of the Bible School, was in charge. There were selections by an orchestra, with vocal solos by Roy Titsworth, and an address by Rev. J. Y. Brock, pastor. Two classes were promoted from the intermediate to the senior department.

The exercises consisted of recitations of Psalms and other passages of Scripture. The books and divisions of the Bible were participated in by graduates from the beginners, primary and junior departments. Diplomas were presented to the graduates of these departments and Bibles were given the primary graduates. The promotions were as follows:

From the junior to the intermediate department Dorothy Seader, Dorothy Van Winkle, Mildred Tier, Gladys Colthar, Elsie Zepp, Mable Bodine, Marjorie Dufford, Edith Mundy, Lavina Todd, Ruth Compton, Dario Pastor, Malcolm Sheppard, Wellington Baker, Kenneth Scribner, Kenneth Voorhees, Earl Cooke, Earl Kirch, Bertram Tallamy, Alfred Townley, Carl Schleif and John Hincken.

From the primary to the junior department: Helen Dunn, Ruth Colthar, Katharine O. Judson, Ruth E. Scribner, Ruth A. Nellis, Mary Raleigh, Amanda Baker, Helen E. Foster, Willetta Ord, Kenneth E. Osborn, John B. Mehlenbeck, Wesley Mundy, Russell Pangborn.

From the beginners to the primary: Dorothy Heege, John Hedrick, Catharine Rose, Leonard Mundy, William Young, Stanley Neighbor, Albert Wilson, George Weaver, Proctor Reid, Roger Mowen, Catharine Wirth, Brooks Benton, Norman Hoffman and Eleanore Sheppard.

WARREN CHAPEL.

Rally Day was observed at Warren chapel yesterday afternoon. The primary and beginners' departments took part in special exercises, while the main school enjoyed several talks and special music. Superintendent J. W. Gavett was in charge. After the opening exercises William Holmes sang a bass solo, "The Ninety and Nine." Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., then spoke to the main school about rally day.

Several members of the primary department took part in the exercises and Dorothy Smalley gave a recitation, "Rally Day." Dorothy Johnson rendered a vocal solo and was assisted by Miss Bertha Martin at the piano. Arthur Gaskill recited a poem entitled, "Somebody," and the entire primary department sang a song. A large number of children were given diplomas and were graduated from the primary to the main school.

A very interesting missionary letter was read by E. E. Parvin, from Mrs. Kerr, who is in Canton, China, and told of the Christian work that is going on in that country. Four members of the beginners department were awarded honors for regular attendance. The oldest of this quartet is not over seven and the youngest about five and none of them missed over three Sundays during the year. They were Dorothy Kane, Harvey Kane, Ella Giddes and M. Winn. Sixteen from this department were presented with diplomas and go to the primary department.

PARK AVENUE BAPTIST.

Rally Day was celebrated at the Park Avenue Baptist Bible School, yesterday, with an attractive program, enjoyed by the entire membership. The superintendent, Willard M. Maxim, presided. The program included the following numbers by the elementary department: Recitation, "Bakin' Day," Lucille Casner, recitation, "Watch the Corners," Alice Spangenberg; songs, "O, to be Like Him" and "I'll be a Sunbeam," elementary department.

These exercises were in charge of the elementary superintendent, Mrs. Harry Runyon, with Miss Muriel Dunham at the piano. Accompanied by remarks that were beautifully adapted to the smallest child in the department, Superintendent Maxim presented diplomas to the graduates from the cradle roll, beginners' and primary departments.

The blackboard artist, Charles VanWinkle, indicated upon the board the number present in each class, together with the number in attendance on this occasion; the result was naturally of considerable interest, showing almost the entire membership of the school to be present.

A feature of the program was as usual the music, which included two selections by an orchestra led by Prof. Gottschalk, consisting of: Violins, Prof. Theo. Gottschalk, Mrs. Willard M. Maxim, Mrs. Charles Hellyer, Mr. Tanham; 'cello, Mrs. Evans; cornets, Carl Evans, Joel Olear; trombone, Mrs. Zweifel; pianist, Mrs. Carrie Schuyler. The orchestra accompanied the singing by the school, led by the musical director, William N. Runyon.

Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce, stated supply of the church, gave an excellent address to the school, holding the closest atention of young and old with incidents of child life which he told in simple language. His talk was illustrated, the speaker using three silk handkerchiefs, red, white and blue, which he applied in a symbolical way.

Superintendent Maxim expressed to all his appreciation of their faithfulness and hearty co-operation in the work of the school and the loyal support given. Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanWinkle made the room especially attractive by the use of a number of large American flags and quantities of hydrangeas. Dr. Pierce presented each one present with a pretty calendar and he requested that they place opposite the date, September 27, a cross, meaning on that day they had determined to live more closely to the Lord Jesus Christ. The committee in charge of the exercises comprised David M. Runyon, chairman, Miss Elinore Stutsman, Chester Gaskell and Miss Florence Hawkins.

NETHERWOOD REFORMED.

The Rally Day exercises of the Netherwood Reformed Sunday-school, yesterday morning, were a great success. A record attendance of the school was present, crowding the building to the doors. F. E. Smith, superintendent of Trinity Reformed school, gave an interesting and stimulating address. The orchestra of Trinity school assisted by members of the Netherwood church led the music. The occasion was a revelation of the growth and prospects of the live and wide-awake church.

CRESCENT AVENUE.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church held interesting rally day exercises yesterday at the regular hour, comprising songs, recitations and promotions. There was a large attendance of members of the school, the rally marking the resumption of fall and winter activities. The following promotions were made:

Primary to junior department: Frances Abbe, Dorothy Blancke, Marion Cowperthwait, Betty Fenner, Mary Genung, Mollie Otterson, Barbara Mellon, Catherine Swan, Notjen Thomas, Gretchen Wherry, Mary Wallace, William Besier, George Booth, Samuel Carter, Ralph Daniel, Randolph Hubbard, Paul Huntsman, Charles Langdon, John Shaw, Henry Taylor, William Taylor, William Tyler, Thomas Robinson, Redding Van Doren, Herman Winter.

LESSON FROM WAR ABROAD

and if we take it we know that our Lord lived His life, enacted His ministry, said all His gracious words and gave Himself to the cross in full view of worse calamities than we have seen. And we are not to think of Him as averting His face from men today, but as identifying Himself more deeply than ever with men in the moments when they shudder at each other.

"We are naturally tempted by the wish to localize the blame for this war upon some one person and most naturally upon that solitary, mistaken and as he now seems almost sinister figure of the German Emperor. But that is all vain. The Apostle Paul might have focussed all the evils of the world upon Nero, but instead he searched for the things that made a Nero and found them surrounding every human life. He practically said that we fight with poisoned atmospheres and spiritual influences—which are ruling the actions of all nations."

Referring to the fact that we have been the laughing-stock of Europe in our dealing with Mexico, Dr. Zelie said that we might be willing to occupy that position quite a while longer if by any means the result of our experiment should be something new in the history of the world.

"Our great President Wilson in his call for intercession has lifted the whole experience up into the very atmosphere of the Christian faith, in speaking of it as something that goes beyond the control of policies and statesmen. It is not as we, for our convenience, like to think a mere matter of Germans and Austrians and Russians and English. We have been told of the Yellow Peril and the Black Peril and the Slav Peril, and we know it is none of these things. We are up against humanity and a godless humanity is a peril to itself. We are very shallow if we think that all what is needed is to down Germany and her militarism. It will all spring up again elsewhere, that is all."

Dr. Zelie said that although Germany was to be condemned in this case, there were other nations participating whose hands by no means had always been clean. Referring to Belgium, he said that "no one is so virtuous as your rascal for once in the right," and called attention to the atrocities which that nation committed in the Congo. He told how the Russians had driven thousands of Chinese into a watery grave only a few years ago in order to take possession of the land they occupied. He told how France had been an ungodly nation for years and has systematically worked atheism into schools, government and everything else, and that even England has been open to criticism in the past, but said that at the present time there is no nation to which the world has occasion to be more grateful than the British.

Dr. Zelie said that America's greatest opportunity is to hold to her neutrality. No one knows what may suddenly be kindled. Just now the world talks of the awful reparation which Germany must make in the settlement and reminded his hearers that that was simply trying to do what Germany tried with France 40 years ago. He spoke of how a little ordinary human spite might perpetuate itself for a generation as when Bismarck, entering the negotiations, after the Franco-Prussian war, meant only to ask the indemnity and the city of Strassburg, but was so angered by the truculence and conceit of France that he demanded in addition the whole provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, which have been a thorn in the side of both nations ever since.

"In compressive neutrality, we need not be neutral toward the military philosophy of Germany. We can only hate to the uttermost the pronouncements of her war policy—until such counsels are utterly driven off the scene.

"Then when it is over are we to go back to the same old thing. The old world rulers of this darkness will get hold of the situation again and shape it to the same old issues if possible. Mr. Roosevelt says that every nation must be prepared to vindicate and substantiate its own honor. In other words he sees before us nothing but the same old thing, only next time to do it better. It is a counsel of despair—the world spirit may be changed. The armed peace is the spectre which has taken the place of the spectre of war. Like the Apostle we are looking for the spirit that is behind all the trouble—the whole spirit of the world may be changed. The counsels and policies in which nations have trusted may be sapped and honeycombed by the distrust of all peoples."

CHAPTER XIV.

A New Common Social Order.

IDEAS that are unhampered by political intrigue or financial considerations have a sweeping way with them, and before a year was out the records of the council show clearly that it was rising to its enormous opportunity, and partly through its own direct control and partly through a series of special committees it was planning a new common social order for the entire population of the earth. "There can be no real social stability or any general human happiness while large areas of the world and large classes of people are in a phase of civilization different from the prevailing mass. It is impossible now to have great blocks of population misunderstanding the generally accepted social purpose or at an economic disadvantage to the rest." So the council expressed its conception of the problem it had to solve. The peasant, the field worker and all barbaric cultivators were at an "economic disadvantage" to the more mobile and educated classes, and the logic of the situation compelled the council to take up systematically the supersession of this stratum by a more efficient organization of production. It developed a scheme for the progressive establishment throughout the world of the "modern system" in agriculture, a system that should give the full advantages of a civilized life to every agricultural worker, and this replacement has been going on right up to the present day. The central idea of the modern system is the substitution of cultivating guilds for the individual cultivator and for cottage and village life together. These guilds are associations of men and women who take over areas of arable or pasture land and make themselves responsible for a certain average produce. They are bodies small enough, as a rule, to be run on a strictly democratic basis and large enough to supply all the labor, except for a certain assistance from townspeople during the harvest, needed upon the land farmed. They have watchers' bungalows or chalets on the ground cultivated, but the ease and costlessness of modern locomotion enable them to maintain a group of residences in the nearest town with a common dining room and clubhouse and usually also a guild house in the national or provincial capital.

Already this system has abolished a distinctively "rustic" population throughout vast areas of the old world where it has prevailed immemorially. That shy, unstimulated life of the lonely hovel, the narrow scandals and petty spites and persecutions of the small village, that hoarding, half inanimate existence away from books, thought or social participation, and in constant contact with cattle, pigs and poultry, is very rapidly passing away out of human experience. In a little while it will be gone altogether. In the nineteenth century it had already ceased to be a necessary human state, and only the absence of any collective intelligence and an imagined need for tough and unintelligent soldiers and for a prolific class at a low level, prevented its systematic replacement at that time.

And while this settlement of the country was in progress the urban camps of the first phase of the council's activities were rapidly developing, partly through the inherent forces of the situation and partly through the council's direction, into a modern type of town.

It is characteristic of the manner in which large enterprises forced themselves upon the Brissago council, that it was not until the end of the first year of their administration, and then only with extreme reluctance, that they would take up the manifest need for a lingua franca for the world. They seem to have given little attention to the various theoretical universal languages which were proposed to them. They wished to give as little trouble to hasty and simple people as possible, and the worldwide distribution of English gave them a bias for it from the beginning. The extreme simplicity of its grammar was also in its favor.

It was not without some sacrifices that the English speaking peoples were permitted the satisfaction of hearing their speech used universally. The language was shorn of a number of grammatical peculiarities—the distinctive forms for the subjunctive mood, for example—and most of its irregular plurals were abolished. Its spelling was systematized and adapted to the vowel sounds in use upon the continent of Europe, and a process of incorporating foreign nouns and verbs commenced that speedily reached enormous proportions. Within ten years from the establishment of the world republic the new English dictionary had swelled to include a vocabulary of 250,000 words, and a man of 1900 would have found considerable difficulty in reading an ordinary newspaper. On the other hand, the men of the new time could still appreciate the older English literature. Certain minor acts of uniformity accompanied this larger one. The idea of a common understanding and a general simplification of intercourse once it was accepted led very naturally to the universal establishment of the metric system of weights and measures and to the disappearance of the various makeshift calendars that had hitherto confused chronology. The year was divided into thirteen months of four weeks each, and New Year's day and Leap Year's day were made holidays and did not count at all in the ordinary week. So the weeks and the months were brought into correspondence. And, moreover, as the king put it to Firmin, it was decided to "nail down Easter." In these matters, as in so many matters, the new civilization came as a simplification of ancient complications. The history of the calendar throughout the world is a history of inadequate adjustment, of attempts to fix seedtime and midwinter, that go back into the very beginning of human society, and this final rectification had a symbolic value quite beyond its practical convenience. But the council would have no rash nor harsh innovations, no strange names for the months and no alteration in the numbering of the years.

The world had already been put upon one universal monetary basis. For some months after the accession of the council the world's affairs had been carried on without any sound currency at all. Over great regions money was still in use, but with the most extravagant variations in price and the most disconcerting fluctuations of public confidence. The ancient rarity of gold upon which the entire system rested was gone. Gold was now a waste product in the release of atomic energy, and it was plain that no metal could be the basis of the monetary system again. Henceforth all coins must be token coins. Yet the whole world was accustomed to metallic money, and a vast proportion of existing human relationships had grown up upon a cash basis and were almost inconceivable without that convenient liquidating factor. It seemed absolutely necessary to the life of the social organization to have some sort of currency, and the council had therefore to discover some real value upon which to rest it. Various such apparently stable values as land and hours of work were considered. Ultimately the government, which was now in possession of most of the supplies of energy releasing material, fixed a certain number of units of energy as the value of a gold sovereign, declared a sovereign to be worth exactly 20 marks, 25 francs, $5, and so forth, with the other current units of the world and undertook under various qualifications and conditions to deliver energy upon demand as payment for every sovereign presented. On the whole this worked satisfactorily. They saved the face of the pound sterling. Coin was rehabilitated, and after a phase of price fluctuations began to settle down to definite equivalents and uses again, with names and everyday values familiar to the common run of people.

As the Brissago council came to realize that what it had supposed to be temporary camps of refugees were rapidly developing into great towns of a new type and that it was remolding the world in spite of itself, it decided to place this work of redistributing the nonagricultural population in the hands of a compacter and better qualified special commitee. That committee is now, far more than the council or any other of its delegated committees, the active government of the world. Developed from an almost invisible germ of "town planning" that came obscurely into existence in Europe or America (the question is still in dispute) somewhere in the closing decades of the nineteenth century, its work, the continual active planning and replanning of the world as a place of human habitation, is now, so to speak, the collective, material activity of the race. The spontaneous, disorderly spreadings and recessions of populations, as aimless and mechanical as the trickling of spilled water, which was the substance of history for endless years, giving rise here to congestions, there to chronic devastating wars and everywhere to a discomfort and disorderliness that was at its best only picturesque is at an end. Men spread now, with the whole power of the race to aid them, into every available region of the earth. Their cities are no longer tethered to running water and the proximity of cultivation, their plans are no longer affected by strategic considerations or thoughts of social insecurity. The aeroplane and the nearly costless mobile car have abolished trade routes, a common language and a universal law have abolished a thousand restraining inconveniences, and so an astonishing dispersal of habitations has begun. One may live anywhere. And so it is that our cities now are true social gatherings, each with a character of its own and distinctive interests of its own, and most of them with a common occupation. They lie out in the former deserts, those long wasted sunbaths of the race, they tower amidst eternal snows, they hide in remote islands and bask on broad lagoons. For a time the whole tendency of mankind was to desert the river valleys in which the race had been cradled for half a million years, but now that the war against flies has been waged so successfully that this pestilential branch of life is nearly extinct they are returning thither with a renewed appetite for gardens laced by watercourses and for pleasant living amidst islands and houseboats and bridges and nocturnal lanterns reflected on the sea.

Man, who is ceasing to be an agricultural animal, becomes more and more a builder, a traveler and a maker. How much he ceases to be a cultivator of the soil the returns of the redistribution committee showed. Every year the work of our scientific laboratories increases the productivity and simplifies the labor of those who work upon the soil, and the food now of the whole world is produced by less than 1 per cent of its population, a percentage which still tends to decrease. Far fewer people are needed upon the land than training and proclivity dispose toward it, and as a consequence of this excess of human attention, the garden side of life, the creation of groves and lawns and vast regions of beautiful flowers, has expanded enormously and continues to expand, for as agricultural method intensifies and the quota is raised one farm association after another, availing itself of the 1975 regulations, elects to produce a public garden and pleasance in the place of its former fields, and the area of freedom and beauty is increased, and the chemists' triumphs of synthesis which could now give us an entirely artificial food remain largely in abeyance because it is so much more pleasant and interesting to eat natural produce and to grow such things upon the soil. Each year adds to the variety of our fruits and the delightfulness of our flowers.

The early years of the world republic witnessed a certain recrudescence of political adventure. There was, it is rather curious to note, no revival of separatism after the face of King Ferdinand Charles had vanished from the sight of men, but in a number of countries, as the first urgent physical needs were met, there appeared a variety of personalities having this in common that they sought to revive political trouble and clamber by its aid to positions of importance and satisfaction. In no case did they speak in the name of kings, and it is clear that monarchy must have been far gone in obsolescence before the twentieth century began, but they made appeals to the large survivals of nationalists and racial feeling that were everywhere to be found, they alleged with considerable justice that the council was overriding racial and national customs and disregarding religious rules. The great plain of India was particularly prolific in such agitators. The revival of newspapers, which had largely ceased during the terrible year because of the dislocation of the coinage, gave a vehicle and a method of organization to these complaints. At first the council disregarded this developing opposition, and then it recognized it with an entirely devastating frankness.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Never was a more graceful garment worn than the cape when cut on good lines.

In the illustration an exceedingly handsome double faced cloth is shown.

DOUBLE CAPE.

Black charmeuse satin with lining of white is a favorite combination and a handsome one, or black velvet treated in the same way for colder weather.

In addition to all other advantages the cape is always a simple garment to make.

The long double cape will require six and one-half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide; the short single cape four yards twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in one size. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8391, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

WITH SWEET POTATOES.

SOUTHERN housewives know how to serve the sweet potato to perfection and are skilled in a variety of ways of preparing this delicious food. The following methods commended by a famous chef may be of interest:

A Baked Puree.

Sweet Potato Puree.—Boil five medium sized sweet potatoes. When done mash through a potato ricer. Add butter the size of an egg, a quarter teaspoonful of cinnamon, two eggs, one heaping tablespoonful of brown sugar and four tablespoonfuls of milk. Cream well together, pour into buttered pudding dish in which it is to be served and bake in oven till brown.

Sweet Potatoes and Pork.—Boil, peel and mash a sufficient quantity of sweet potatoes and moisten with butter and egg. With them cover the bottom of a deep dish; then put on a layer of slices of cooked pork and sprinkle with sage and marjoram. Next another layer of sweet potatoes, then another layer of pork and so on until the dish is full. Finish with a layer of sweet potato and bake till hot and brown on the surface.

Palatable and Nourishing.

Sweet Potato Croquettes.—Take one pint of boiled, mashed, steamed or baked sweet potatoes, add the beaten yolks of two eggs, season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir over the fire until the mass comes away from the sides of the pan. When cold form into small croquettes, brush over with beaten egg, roll in fine breadcrumbs and fry in smoking hot fat until a golden brown color. The croquette mixture may be made into balls inclosing chopped cooked meat. When used in this way serve with sauce.

Light and Wholesome.

Sweet Potato Puffs.—Steam six large potatoes until tender, then peel and mash them; add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, a saltspoonful of salt, four drops of onion juice and a dash of paprika. Beat until light with a silver fork, then stir in lightly the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Pour at once into buttered custard cups or cocottes, place in a pan of boiling water and bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes. Serve in the cups as an entree or as a vegetable accompanying turkey. They look pretty garnished with parsley.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Fish That Builds A Nest.

Papa Stickleback Is a Wary Old Fish.

"OH, yes, they do!" said daddy. "You needn't laugh."

"But how can a fish build without any hands?" asked Evelyn.

"Why, he uses his mouth to collect small sticks, swimming back and forth and here and there in the stream. These sticks form the framework of the nest, and then he fills the crevices with leaves, gluing them in with a glue which Mother Nature has given him for this very purpose.

"The nest making fish is the stickleback, and when his nest is completed it looks just like mamma's big muff, and it has a front and rear door, the openings in the direction of the current.

"After his house is furnished Mr. Stickleback (called stickleback because of the sharp spines on his back) rounds up Mrs. Stickleback and numerous of her relatives and drives them into the new home whether they like it or not.

"Then they prepare for a large increase in the Stickleback family.

"Papa Stickleback is a wary old fish, and he doesn't mean to let any one interfere with his home and family, so he swims around and around the nest he has made and the wife he has driven into it and the babies that are going to be hatched.

"For, you see, stickleback eggs and baby sticklebacks are a delicacy for some looters.

"Another queer thing about Mr. Stickleback and Mrs. Stickleback and the little Stickleback babies is their ability to change color. Naturally very dark when they are scared by some bullying big fish, they actually turn pale with fright."

"I think it must be some job, daddy, to build a nest in running water," said Jack thoughtfully. "I s'pose that glue stuff keeps it from floating away, doesn't it?"

"I suppose that is so," said daddy, "and now I know two kiddies who ought to go to bed."

"Isn't it funny, daddy, that there are fish that do the same things that birds do, sing and fly and build nests, 'cause I've heard some one speak of flying fishes."

"Yes," said daddy, "but that will be another story. Some night instead of a story I'll read you a poem by Mr. Kipling, in which he tells us about the flying fishes playing and many other things also. But good night, now. It is growing late for small boys and girls and, besides, daddy must read about the terrible war."

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — NOW SCOOP IS HOT UNDER THE COLLAR — BY "HOP"

HALL PRINTING PRESS COMPANY GETTING RUSY

Industrial prosperity appears to have hit this section of the State during the past week. The Hall Printing Press Company, of Dunellen, is the latest shop from which has come the reports of normal conditions at this time. An order, according to the reports, for two presses has been received, and an additional force of pattern makers was placed on the pay roll last week. It is probable that a week or ten days will elapse before the machine shop will be effected by the increased work.

Conditions at the Levgar Structural Company, also at Dunellen, which put a night force to work a few weeks ago, still remain busy. The improved conditions at Dunellen, as well as in this city as indicated in the Daily Press Saturday, are very encouraging, not only to the mechanic, but to the local merchant as well.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Construction of School Building.

The Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., will receive sealed bids at the Board room in the High School building, corner West Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at a meeting to be held on Monday, September 28, 1914, at 8 p. m., for the construction of a school building on Evergreen Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Plans and specifications are now on file at the High School Building, Plainfield, N. J., where they can be seen from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., on week days, excepting Saturdays when the hours will be from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon, until the day and hour of opening the bids as above mentioned.

Plans and specifications are also on file in the offices of the Architects, Wilder & White, 50 Church Street, New York City.

Copies of the Plans and Specifications may be obtained from the architects by depositing with the architects a certified check for $25.00, payable to the order of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J., which will be returned upon the return of the drawings and specifications.

The work will be let in four contracts. 1. For the general construction. 2. For the heating and ventilating work. 3. For the plumbing work. 4. For the electrical work. And separate bids will be received on each contract.

All bids are to be on forms furnished with the specifications and accompanied by a certified check or cash, or a bond of a trust company, equal to 5% of the amount of the Board of Education, Plainfield, N. J., or a surety bond of a company authorized to do business in the State of New Jersey, in the amount of five per cent. of the estimate submitted.

All bids or proposals are to be in writing and sealed and addressed to the Secretary of the Board. Each bid must state explicitly upon what portion of the work is based.

Upon receipt of the bids, or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to open the same and publicly announce their contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received by the Board previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or to waive any or all formalities.

MEN, THE GUN GOES OFF NEXT WEDNESDAY FOR LOW SHOES!

Fashion has this Fall decreed that on and after October 1st it shall be distinctly improper for any man to appear in public in Summer low shoes.

Think how ridiculous you would appear today wearing last summer's straw hat! Yet it is even more important that Low Shoes should now be discarded, for you are likely to get an "awful cold" wearing them.

So, of course, you'll need High Shoes this week.

It would take a whole page to tell you of the scores of styles of men's new High Shoes we have ready for you at the VAN ARSDALE store. Come in and look us over.

MANY BIDS FOR PROPOSED WORK

Contracts for Construction of Evergreen Avenue School Sought by Many Firms.

ALL TO BE CONSIDERED

No Definite Action Taken at Meeting of Plainfield Board of Education Last Night—Local Man the Only Bidder for Plumbing Work.

Over fifty people attended the meeting of the Board of Education, held at the High School building last night, for the purpose of receiving bids for the construction of the new Evergreen Avenue School. While in advance of action by the Board it is not possible to state with certainty who are the successful bidders on the four contracts, the choice on the general contract sees to lie between Edward M. Waldron & Co., of Newark, whose bid of $62,523 was the lowest submitted; John Lowery, of New York city, who bid $63,632, and George T. Kelly, of Yonkers, whose bid was $65,888. Under the terms of the bidding on the general contract, each bidder was required to bid on eighteen alternates in addition to the general bid, and when these alternates are checked up it may easily prove that the low figure on the general contract is balanced by the figures submitted on the alternates.

The local bidders on the general contract were J. C. Abbott, Alexander Milne and B. F. Tallamy & Brother. Mr. Abbott's bid was $78,970, Mrs. Milne's bid $72,534, and B. F. Tallamy & Brother bid $73,485.

The only bid received on the plumbing contract was that of Den. J. Galbraith, of this city, whose bid was $2,772.

Four bids were received on the contract for electrical work, two of them from local men. George W. Ord bid $1,582, Allen B. Laing Co.

NEW RECREATION EVENTS ARRANGED

Miss Lillian Lamson, of New York City, Engaged as Supervisor.

PLAN ACTIVE WINTER

Committee Held Meeting Last Night to Discuss Plans for Widening the Scope of Local Work—May Include North Plainfield.

The Public Recreation Committee held its regular meeting last evening, when many of the questions which have been raised by the increased popularity of the various works as carried on by the committee were discussed. A large number of the members were in attendance, and much interest was shown. The reports of the many sub-committees indicating that several lines of new activities were being planned for the coming fall and winter, and that a busy season was anticipated by the organization.

The large numbers who were attending the municipal dances at the Washington School Auditorium, was the subject of a lengthy discussion. Upon the recommendation of Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, chairman of the chaperon committee, that body has been enlarged to include all of the women of the general committee, in order that a sufficient number of chaperons may be called upon to attend the weekly dances. It was also decided to have dances at the Washington School twice a week. The additional event is to be held Wednesday evenings.

Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde, because of illness, has been compelled to give up her work for some time as chairman of the forum committee, and Champlain L. Riley has been appointed to fill her place. Former Mayor G. W. V. Moy has been added to this committee, which already is

PLAN FOR STATE PHTHISIS EXHIBIT

BEGINNING OCTOBER 12

Local Bodies Will Co-operate—Well Known Speakers Engaged—List of Committees Named to Take Charge of Work.

Plans are now well underway for the State tuberculosis exhibit which is to be held at the Plainfield High School for two weeks, beginning Monday, October 12, except Saturdays. At a conference of members of the Board of Health, the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield and Dr. Knowlton, State tuberculosis inspector, held at the Board of Health rooms, it was decided to hold a general public health exhibit in connection with the tuberculosis demonstration and well-known out-of-town speakers will be engaged to address meetings to be held during the two weeks set apart for the exhibit.

Dr. Knowlton was questioned on several points and gave the committee the benefit of his knowledge and experience and he made many suggestions which will be followed by those in charge of the exhibit. It was further decided to have contrast rooms or something similar, in the window of a store in the business section as a means of advertising the exhibit. Dr. T. S. Davis presided at the conference, others present being Dr. W. H. Murray, Dr. H. D. Corbusier, Dr. J. E. Runnells, Dr. Edward Krans, Dr. F. J. Hughes, Dr. Knowlton, Randolph Chandler, Msis Mabelle Phillips and Miss Mattison.

These committees were named to take charge of the various details for the exhibit:

SPELLING NOW IS COMPULSORY

Boro Board of Education Restores Study to High School Course.

COURSE IN METAL WORK

Bronze Tablet Containing Lincoln's Gettysburg Address Presented to the School by Judd Stuart—Monthly Bills Ordered Paid.

Spelling is to be a compulsory study in the course of the North Plainfield High School, hereafter. This was decided at a meeting of the Board of Education, last night, following a discussion which was started by Judd Stuart, a prominent resident of the borough. For the past five years spelling has not been compulsory in this course, but this year it was made elective in the High School curriculum.

Mr. Stuart emphasized the need of teaching spelling in a public school and finally succeeded in getting the Board to consent to put it in the curriculum, and in the future it will be a regular study as in the lower grades.

The Board was confronted by an unusual proposition regarding two pupils who wish to change schools. Lewis D. Hall, formerly of the borough, but now of the city, was present and made a plea for his daughter, who has been attending the borough school for two years and should now be a junior. Since moving across the brook a tuition fee is necessary, but there is a girl who formerly lived in Plainfield and who is attending the Ninth street school who is similarly affected. Miss Anna Blume, since moving to the borough, has been attending the Somerset Street school, but wants to go back to the city institution. Mr Hall appeared last night to see if an exchange could not be made between the two Boards of Profound Satisfaction Expressed in France Over Present Situation--Austrians in Complete Rout in Galicia, Where They Have Abandoned Everything in Effort to Escape Pursuers--Situation at Tsing Tau--Belgians Hotly Contest Germans--35,000 Refugees at Antwerp.

Paris, Sept. 29, (Central News Cable)—Night and day attacks by the Germans on the Allies' left wing have been repulsed, according to an official statement issued at 3 p. m. today by the war office. The statement says:

"On our left wing to the north of the Somme and between the Somme and Oise the enemy has attempted night and day attacks and has been repulsed. On the north of the Aisne there is no danger. At the centre, in the Champagne district and to the east of the Argonne, the enemy has been engaged in conducting a heavy bombardment of our position. Between the Argonne region and the Meuse slight progress has been made by our troops who find themselves facing strongly organized positions on the heights of the Meuse. In the Woevre sections and on our right wing, Lorraine and the Vosges, no notable change has occurred.

"In a general way our line is thrown east and west along the point from the region of Port a Mousson, Apremont, the Meuse, the region of St. Migiel, the heights to the north of Spada, and a part of the heights of the Meuse to the southeast of Verdun. Between Verdun and Rheims the general front is bounded by a line passing through the region of Varennes, to the north on Souain and Chaussee, Romaine and at Rheims, incloses the approaches to Rheims. The Rheims road to Berry au Bac, and the heights called the Chimindu Dames on the right bank of the Aisne. This line follows the river as far as the region of Soissons. Between Soissons and the forest of L'Aigle it includes the first plateau of the right bank of the Aisne, between the rivers Oise and Somme. This line corresponds to the front of Ribecourt, occupied by us, Lassigny, occupied by the enemy, Royle occupied by us, and Chalins, the enemy's.

"To the north of the Somme the line stretches across the plateau between Albert and Combles. We took many more prisoners in the course of the day yesterday. These belong notably to the Seventh corps, the Seventh reserve corps, the Tenth, Twelfth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth corps of the German army."

Paris, Sept. 29, (Central News Cable)—The tone of the latest communiques have created a feeling of profound satisfaction among the people of France. The defeat of the Prussian Guards and the consequent loss of prestige by that famous German organization is bound to have a beneficial moral effect upon the French soldiers. The closer fighting between the two lines which are now but a few hundreds yards apart in many places is another factor telling heavily in favor of the French troops, who excel in hand to hand fighting. The famous quarries near the confluence of the Oise and Aisne rivers are reported to be in the hands of the French. In the opinion of competent authorities the general situation is as good as it could possibly be hoped. The end of the present battle is believed to be near.

Petrograd, Sept. 29, (Central News Cable)—The pursuit by the Russians of the Austrian army in Galicia is compared by the military experts here with General Kutozoff's pursuit of Napoleon's army from Moscow in 1812, and General Grant's harrying chase of Lee's army in the American Civil War in 1865. The victorious Russian forces have already traversed more than half of the route from Przemysl to Cracow and the latter is now only four days' march distant.

The Russians are on the point of securing the whole of Galicia to the Carpathians on the south and Roumania on the southeast, as the Austrians are fleeing before the Russian advance guard and are unable, after an unvarying series of disasters and a destructive retreat lasting an entire month, to offer serious resistance.

The Austrains have fallen back until they are close to Cracow, where they come under command of the German generals. They have not only abandoned all defense of their own country, but have left Hungary to the protection of her own national troops. The Austrians have also apparently relinquished all idea of independent action and have decided to tack themselves on the right wing of the Germany army now operating on Germany's eastern frontier.

Tokio, Sept. 29.—The Japanese now have the Germans hemmed in within five miles of Tsing Tau. Three German warships bombarded the Japanese right until their attention was diverted by Japanese aeroplanes.

An official announcement today concerning the progress of events in Kiao Chau is as follows: "Japanese forces during the day and night of September 27 drove the enemy in the direction of Tsing Tau. The Japanese casualties were 150. The German losses are not known, but fifty men and four machine guns were captured. This action which was speedier than an-

JOHN MEE LEFT AN ESTATE OF $6,000

Brother of Mrs. Rose Newman, of the Borough, Died Intestate.

New York, Sept. 29.—Letters of administration upon the estate left by John Mee, brother of Mrs. Rose Newman, of No. 120 Duer street, North Plainfield, issued to his brother, Frank Mee, of No. 776 Greenwich street, by Surrogate John P. Cohalan, yesterday, show that when the decedent passed away on July 15, he left an estate of about $6,000 in personal property, and outside of his Plainfield sister and the brother, who is the adminisartor, is survived by seven other brothers and sisters, Joseph and Patrick, of Ireland; James, also of Ireland; Ellen, of No. 36 East Thirtieth street; Margaret Kress and Mary Ann Grourke, both of No. 237 Central avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Elizabeth Kelly, of Cedarhurst, L. I.

The administrator was compelled to file a bond with the clerk of the court before the letters were issued to him. As he brought his bondsman along with him no time was lost.

MAN'S STORY MAY HAVE BEEN A HOAX

Italian Who Said He Was Robbed of $200 Tells Conflicting Tales.

Convinced that the man is putting up a hoax, Chief of Police Kiely has abandoned the search for a supporsed brother whom Milo Rosso, now confined in Muhlenberg Hospital, declares waylaid him on Norwood avenue and robbed him of $200. After being picked up on that thoroughfare in a dazed condition, Saturday afternoon, the man was removed to the hospital, where his identity and weird story formed an enigma for the local authorities to solve.

Since regaining consciousness he has told conflicting stories to the police which are now discredited. He was apparently attacked with a fit while riding a bicycle and fell to the road, sustaining minor cuts and bruises which made it look as though he had been beaten. The man claimed his brother was with him at the time he was on Norwood avenue and alleged that the relative beat and robbed him.

He has fully regained his strength since being received at the institution and will probably be discharged in the next few days. The man is an Italian and refuses to divulge any information that will facilitate the efforts of the police to run down his would-be assailant.

YOM KIPPUR SERVICES.

LATZKO FINED $20 FOR HIS OFFENSES

Convicted on Three Separate Infractions of Excise Laws in City Court.

Following his trial on three alleged infractions of the city excise ordinance, Morris Latzko, a wholesale liquor dealer doing business in Somerset county, with a store on Somerset street, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, for sentence and was pronounced guilty on the three counts. His trial resulted from the apprehension of his driver, Charles Smith, who was alleged to have sold spirituous liquors in quantities less than five quarts. Smith was used by the city as a witness in the case and will be tried on the same charges in the city court next Saturday morning.

Two of Latzko's offenses, the ones committed at 655 South Second street and 33 Everett place, drew suspended sentences, while he was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or serve twenty days in the county jail for selling beer to Mrs. Mary Roan, of West Fourth street.

The ordinance under which Latzko was convicted prohibits the sale of spirituous or fermented liquors in quantities of from one to five gallons to any persons or corporations and provides a maximum penalty of $20 fine or twenty days in the county jail. In response to a plea of leniency made by William Newcorn, counsel for the defense, Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on two charges and levied the minimum fine of $20 in the third case, whereas the maximum penalty could have been $60. Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., prosecuted the charges.

Following the disposal of the case in the city court the defendant and his counsel gave the corporation counsel and the city judge to understand that a repetition of the offenses would not occur.

RURAL MAIL CARRIER HIT AUTO BUT IS UNINJURED

J. Archibold Thompson, one of Uncle Sam's rural mail carriers in the employ of the local postoffice, was struck by one of the Plainfield Cab Company's Ford taxicabs on Park avenue, near Crescent avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning. Thompson was riding a motorcycle at the time and the automobile hit it squarely in the middle.

Thompson was only slightly injured and later reported the incident at police headquarters. He learned the number of the car but neglected to ascertain the driver's [illegible] and the police are making a[illegible] tion today.

SUCCESS OF G. O. P. IS PREDICTED BY LEADERS

City Committee Re-elects J. J. Carroll and W. R. Townsend as Officers.

The local political campaign was officially opened last evening, at which time the City Executive Republican Committee met in the Frost building to organize. Aside from the selection of officers, no action was taken on plans for the campaign, as the county committee was scheduled to meet for organization this evening at Elizabeth. Plans were made for a complete canvass of the city, this to be in charge of the ward organizations. Another meeting of the committee is to be called within the course of a few days. J. J. Carroll, of the Third ward, was elected chairman of the committee, while William R. Townsend, of the Second ward, was chosen secretary and treasurer.

In an interview with a representative of The Daily Press, Mr. Carroll gave his views concerning the outlook for Republican success in the city. He said, "The Republican party has been at the bottom of the heap for the past two years, but the silver lining of the cloud is now being shown. Personally, the outlook appears bright for Republican success, both in city and county. With the failure of the Democratic party to present a full city ticket, and minor differences here and there among the rank and file of the party of the county, there is no reason that I can see why the G. O. P. should not return to power at the close of the present campaign."

MEN'S FEDERATION TO OBSERVE "PEACE SUNDAY"

In view of the proclamation of the President of the United States, setting aside Sunday, October 4, as a day of "Prayer for Peace," and in compliance with the President's wishes, a men's meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon from 4:15 to 5 o'clock, under the auspices of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs, the Federation of Men's Bible Classes and the Young Men's Christian Association.

The question of "Peace on Earth and Good Will to Men," is one that vitally interests the men of the whole world, and the men of Plainfield are urged to evidence their interest by attending this meeting of prayer. All men are cordially invited and earnestly urged to attend this meeting.

HAD PREMONITION OF MIDNIGHT FIRE

Mrs. Frank Peck Entertained a Strong Suspicion Prior to Burning of Home.

Mrs. Frank Peck, of New Market, had a premonition that the fire which broke out in her handsome residence on Main street, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, doing about $1,500 worth of damage was going to occur. Mrs. Peck has been very fearful of a fire since the Jenner and Nelson barns burned down opposite her place about a month ago. Against her wishes on Sunday night, she and her husband retired at 9 o'clock, leaving a log fire burning on the hearth in the living room. Twice she awoke from a light and troubled sleep with fire on her mind and went downstairs to see whether the fire that had been left burning was all right or not. She was awakened the third time by the crackling of the flames in the bedroom adjoining, where she and her husband were sleeping. Jumping out of her bed Mrs. Peck fled downstairs and out on the porch of the home yelling "fire!" Her cries woke Township Committeeman A. G. Nelson, who is a fireman. Mr. Nelson hastily donned a few clothes and hustled to the village fire bell which he rung furiously. In the meantime Mr. Peck, in fighting the flames in the bedroom, was almost overcome by the dense smoke, he being just able to stagger out of the room.

The New Market fire laddies responded to the clanging of the bell in record time. They did most excellent work in confining the damage done by the flames to four rooms, two bedrooms and the dining and living rooms, as the fire was a very difficult one to fight, it being concealed for the most part between the walls and under the flooring in the vicinity of the chimney. The Peck residence is the former Stanley Day place, which had only recently been remodeled at considerable expense. It is believed that the fire was caused by a loose joint in the fire-place.

HARTRIDGE SCHOOL RE-OPENS.

The Hartridge School re-opened this morning for the fall term with a normal registration of pupils, and all of the classes taking up their various couses of study. Among the new teachers of the faculty are Miss Spear, a prominent graduate of Miss Sargent's School, who has charge of the physical culture department; Miss Mary H. Wells, of the National Cathedral School, in charge of the French classes, and Miss Clark, in charge of the elementary third grade. The choral singing of the school will be in charge of Miss Peckham, who was with the school and has now returned.

WATER, NOT ACID, IN "DEATH BOTTLE"

Husband Frightened by Wife's Action in Clinton Avenue Station.

Informed by Frank Weigman, of 681 West Front street, that the latter's wife had attempted to commit suicide in the waiting room of the Clinton Avenue station, last night, Patrolman Kelley hurried to the scene and took Mrs. Weigman into custody. On the way to police headquarters the woman threw a missile into the bushes at the side of the road which was thought to have been a bottle of carbolic acid.

The bottle was recovered and when examined later by City Physician Norman W. Currie it was found to contain nothing but water. The woman attempted to commit suicide in the Elizabethport depot of the Central Railroad several weeks ago and was arrested by the authorities of that place. Her husband interceded in her behalf on that occassion and she was released from custody.

Her action last night is thought to have been merely a scare she attempted at the expense of her husband. She continually threatens to make away with herself, according to Mr. Weigman, and he had enlisted the aid of the police in putting a stop to the tactics. The girl is sasid to be despondent at times and frequently expresses her wish to die.

Before her marriage Mrs. Weigman was Miss Genevieve Moffett, of Westfield, and the wedding culminated an eventful courtship with the local young man.

ALLIED TRADES MAY HOLD WINTER CARNIVAL

The committee from the allied trades which had charge of the big Labor Day demonstration in Plainfield, has presented gold pieces to A. K. Willett and Mrs. Lewis Skillman, they being entitled to the awards under conditions prescribed by the committee.

Another meeting of the committee will be held Thursday night when all business in connection with the demonstration will be concluded. The committee will remain organized and possibly during the winter a carnival may be arranged to raise funds for another celebration next year. The committee will have its photograph taken next Sunday.

TWO GOOD MATCHES IN P. C. C. DOUBLES

Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming Win Two Matches in One Day.

Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming moved into the semi final round of the ladies' doubles tennis tournament of the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday afternoon, by defeating Mrs. A. M. Collins and Mrs. H. H. Foster in two out of three sets, the scores being 7-5, 3-6, 6-1. In the first set the winners were forced to the limit before they could get the deciding point.

The Brown-Fleming team started off well and took several games before their opponents were fairly started. After tieing the score, Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Foster nearly won the set but were at least defeated. They came back in the second set and took it after some hard playing. The third set went to their opponents easily. In the last match of the first round Mrs. Brown and Miss Fleming defeated Mrs. William G. Cooke and Mrs. Howard Colby, 6-3, 7-5, thus earning the right to meet Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Foster in the semi-finals. The other match of the semi-final round will be played between Mrs. C. B. Tyler and Mrs. R. Story Rowland and Mrs. George Hodges and the winner of that match will meet the other successful semi-finalists in the deciding match for the title and trophies.

The results of yesterday's play:

Firt round: Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming defeated Mrs.. William G. Cooke and Mrs. Howard Colby, 6-3, 7-5. Semi-final round: Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Barbara Fleming defeated Mrs. A. M. Collins and Mrs. H. H. Foster, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1.

RECEIVES WORD OF HER SON'S DEATH AT MINEOLA

Mrs. Mary Murphy, of North avenue, Dunellen, received word last evening of the death of her son, John Murphy, of Mineola, Long Island, where he was in the employ of a farmer. The message received indicated that the young man, who was twenty-eight years of age, had fallen from a truck wagon, which he was driving and injuries, which afterward proved to be fatal, were the result. Mr. Murphy was taken to the Mineola Hospital, where he died. The message contained no details as to the time or nature of the injuries.

Mrs. Murphy left this morning for the Long Island town to claim the body of her son. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

END OF BATTLE BELIEVED NEAR

ticipated has accelerated the general attack. The fleet has attacked Iltis Fort effectively, aided by the army.

Amsterdam, Sept. 29. (Central News Cable).—Thirty-five thousand refugees have arrived at Ghent, according to advices received from private sources in northern Belgium. The refugees are peasants and residents of smaller towns in the part of the country west of Brussels, in the vicinity of Alost and Termonde, where the fighting has been going on for several days and from West Flanders, where the people expect conflicts between the Germans and a force of French and British, which is now said to be marching east toward Belgium in northern France.

Further Zepplin forays are reported. Another one occurred yesterday at Deynze, a city of 6,000, ten miles southwest of Ghent, where four bombs were dropped. At Thielt, a city of 12,000 population in West Flanders, four or five miles west of Deynze, two bombs were dropped.

London, Sept. 29.—More than 20,000 German naval reserves have been brought from Kiel and Hamburg to Brussels and are being held in readiness to serve on an improvised German fleet should Antwerp and Ostend be taken. A message from Antwerp says that the following communication has been given out by the Belgian government:

"After bombarding Malines, 14 miles southeast of Antwerp, the Germans under cover of night, re-entered the unoccupied town, but have now resumed their march therefrom. The Germans have directed the fire of their heavy artillery on the forts of Wavre, St. Catherine and Waelhem, about 10 miles from Antwerp, but with a result not satisfying their great expenditure of ammunition. Our forts replied and the bombardment ceased. Between the Dende and the Willesbrock, west of Waelhem, the offensive movement of the enemy was promptly checked. The forts inflicted serious losses on the enemy and compelled its retreat.

A despatch from Rome says that an official communication has been issued at Budapest admitting that the Russians have crossed the Hungarian frontier at several points in the Ung district in the northeastern part of Hungary, despite the fact that reinforcements have been sent against them.

A news agency despatch from Ostend says that Burgomaster Max, of Brussels, who was arrested yesterday on the order of the German military governor, charged with ordering the banks to refuse to pay an installment of indemnity, has been released. The freeing of the burgomaster followed the payment to the Germans of 30,00,000 francs.

A news agency despatch from Petrograd says that the Russian moratorium has been extended for a month.

A despatch from Constantinople says that the Turkish government controlling the Dardanelles has informed the foreign consuls at Constantinople that the straits have been closed to all shipping.

A despatch from Nish, Servia, says that nearly 6,000 Bosnians have volunteered for the Servian army. The Basnian inhabitants greet the Servians and Montenegrins as their liberators.

It is reported by way of Venice that Austria has confiscated the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's securities and money deposited in Vienna, as well as the company's observation cars located on Austrian railroads. The reason given is that the company has refused to pay dividends due to Austrian stockholders.

Geneva, Sept. 29 (Central News Cable).—It is reported that a battery of German artillery has crossed the frontier into Switzerland. The men were disarmed. The privates stated that they had had nothing to eat for six days. They declared that they crossed the Swiss frontier in ignorance but the Swiss believe the mistake was a sequel to their privations as a part of the German fighting force.

Rome, Sept. 29 (Central News Cable).—A despatch from Petrograd says that the Austrian right wing has been driven back beyond the Carpathians into Hungary, where it is being pursued by the Russian army. The Austrian debacle was complete. All artillery was lost by the right wing when it retreated. The Russians have occupied another of the forts in the circle comprising the fortress of Przemysl.

Washington, Sept. 29.—A despatch received at the French embassy denies the report that a French warship has been blown up by the Austrian forts at the mouth of the Cattaro.

Paris, Sept. 29.—It is reported that 100,000 fresh British troops have arrived on the continent and will be sent against the German right.

Ghent, Sept. 29 (Central News Cable).—The Germans yesterday renewed their bombardment of Alost, which the Belgians entered after the fighting of last Saturday and Sunday. The Germans were repulsed in their attempt to retake the city yesterday, after a fierce struggle, in which the Belgian machine guns played a splendid part. The Germans then withdrew their infantry and bombarded the town. They directed shells at the railway station. Two shells fell in the Church of St. Martins, from which worshippers fled in a panic. The bombardment continued all day but the Germans attempts to enter the town were repulsed.

CAUCUS ON G. O. P. COUNTY CHAIRMANSHIP

Many Would Succeed F. H. Smith, Who Declines Re-election.

Elizabeth, Sept. 29.—Members of the Union County Republican Committee, together with several party candidates, met here last night, and considered the proposed endorsement of William Newcorn for chairman of the committee, to succeed Frank H. Smith, who has declined a re-election. Mr. Newcorn is chairman of John H. Capstick's campaign committee, and is believed to have been largely instrumental in securing for the latter the Congressional nomination.

Others who have been prominently mentioned for the chairmanship are Charles N. Codding, of Westfield, Donald McLean, of Elizabeth, and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city. Some opposition has arisen to Mr. Newcorn on the ground that he is in charge of Mr. Capstick's campaign, and for that reason he is likely to lose many votes. Plans were also made for the dollar dinner to be given in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, October 15, which, as usual, will be in the nature of a "get-together" affair. The county committee will meet tonight for the purpose of organization and a lively time is expected.

MRS. J. W. GAVETT IS GIVEN A HOUSEWARMING

The members of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel gave Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett a surprise at her new home at Wachung, yesterday afternoon, the affair being in the nature of a "houuse warming." The women were conveyed to and from Watchung in a large stage. Mr. and Mrs. Gavett only recently moved into their handsome new home. The surprise was complete in every detail. Each member of the party presented Mrs. Gavett with a plant for her garden, and in addition there was a larger plant from the whole society. Luncheon, which the members of the society provided, was enjoyed later in the afternoon.

Another feature of the affair was a reception to Mrs. John Higgins, who yesterday observed her twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Higgins is chairman of the refreshment committee of the society and the fact that the remainder of the committee had arranged the second feature was a complete surprise to her. All joined in extending best wishes.

FRANK LOOMIS IMPROVING.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Manager Counihan in his desire to satisfy the discriminating taste of the music lovers of Plainfield has succeeded in booking the San Carlo Opera Company for one performance tomorrow evening. It will mark the first appearance in this city of a distinguished assemblage of grand opera stars heretofore but little known to the opera lovers of Plainfield however well established they may be in the far off countries of Europe, South America, Mexico and Cuba, where the name of San Carlo towers as high as a company of operatic celebrities as that of the Metropolitan of New York. The foreign musical critics extoll the organization as an admirable one. Certain it is, the musical critics of the large cities of the United States where this company appeared last season in its first tour of this country, have all gone wild over the present organization and its conductors. Mme. Edvige Vaccari they pronounce a "second Tetrazzini" and they are calling Mme. Emilia Vergeri the "Mary Garden."

The present day society girl with her extreme and flaunting styles has been a sort of modern Circe, and the manner in which she should be wooed, won and held is always a bewildering puzzle. In the "Misleading Lady," due at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night, Messrs. Goddard and Dickel have come forward with an ingenious solution, namely, the modern man must use cave-man methods to woo the modern woman who likes to be mastered and subdued much in the same manner as her sisters in Patagonia. The new play ripples with fun and life and sarcasm. Its action is swift and full of thrilling adventure, but underneath it all is a serious analysis of the young woman who deliberately dresses herself to lure man. The cast is practically the same that held forth for seven months at the Fulton Theatre, in New York, last season, and is headed by Lewis S. Stone and enlisting among others Frank Sylvester as the lunatic and Doris Olsson as the "misleading lady."

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 29, 1914.

A WAR LESSON.

Nearly every line of business has been taught a lesson of one kind or another by the European war. Even the value of advertising is emphasized by the situation which the conflict created in this country. It goes a long way to prove that advertising sometimes pays the consumer, as well as the advertiser. NOT AN ADVERTISED ARTICLE ON THE MARKET HAS YET RAISED ITS PRICE.

This shows one thing; that the businesses that advertise pledge themselves to keep faith with the people. They are not nameless like the dealers in raw products who have nothing to lose. They have spent their money to create a good name and they are wise enough now in this crisis to maintain it.

Practically every unadvertised store, as an exchange says, has raised its prices while practically every advertised store is keeping faith. Some of these big advertised stores are actually selling their present stock of groceries at lower prices than they are buying their future stocks. They are paying more for their flour and sugar than they are asking purchasers to pay.

And this applies to many lines. One great shoe manufacturer has just turned down a European order for one million pairs of shoes at an increase of $1 per pair; because if he filled that order he could not supply his own trade at home and so would lose the trade that his advertising has built up.

Another great advertiser of bread is still selling the same sized loaf at the same price, although flour increased in price the day the war was announced.

It is a notable thing that your advertised "baked beans," your advertised cereals, your advertised macaroni, your advertised soups and meats, your advertised "drugs, toilet accessories," shoes, hosiery and clothes, furniture, pianos and talking machines have all maintained their regular prices to you although the prices of the raw materials that go into these things have long since been frightfully advanced.

These manufacturers and these stores are practically the only ones who have shown their willingness to put their avarice behind them and to play fair in these times of stress

NEW LIBRARY FUNCTIONS.

Public Libraries everywhere are entering new fields of co-operative civic welfare. They are doing much to broaden the scope of their activities and enlarge their service to supply the demands of the greater number of people. Minneapolis, Newark and other cities now have a down-town branch library for reference use by their business men. The volumes supplied are devoted to business, professional matters and general education.

The Grand Rapids library this year helped people answer the question of where they would spend their summer vacation. Data as to cost, transportation, hotels, etc., was supplied together with a special library for ready reference of guide books, books on camping, canoeing, resorting and such things. Various railroads and steamship lines co-operated and sent interesting matter which they issue pertaining to summer outings.

The Newark business branch has as a feature a collection of hundreds of large maps for ready reference. These are kept available by the card-filing system. They are of all sorts to interest and aid the business man. In the cabinet are those showing the character and products of the earth in different sections, especially in the State. Then there are larger roller maps on the walls, vest-pocket maps, etc. There are more than 1,000 of them of various cities in the United States and other countries. Real estate maps show dimensions and other conditions of each plot of land in neighboring counties and cities and villages, in addition to which are special maps showing water supply, mineral resources and the various city improvements and utilities, including sewers, paved streets, fire districts, police precincts, etc. There are also large maps of each State, special maps displaying various national road and other projects, with world maps of all kinds but each important for its own purpose, and each readily available for every business man and every other citizen who may have occasion to consult them.

With the approach of winter, unless there is a decided change for the better in local industrial conditions, the Charity Organization Society is going to encounter the most critical condition since it was organized. It has already asked those in the city who are able to do so to send all the second-hand children's clothes they may have to the rooms of the organization, so that it will be possible for many children to go to school. Later we undoubtedly will be asked to contribute money to be used to keep many people warm and supplied with food. As bad as are the times, there are plenty of Plainfielders who still have enough of the worlds goods to be able to assist the needy ones. The work of the C. O. S. is of such a character that all may do something practical toward relieving conditions in this city, without having to personally seek out the needy. Every sum of money sent to the rooms in the Babcock building will be used where it will do good, and clothing is always acceptable.

Forming the opinion from the remarks of those who are seen inspecting the baseball bulletins in front of the Daily Press office, there is as much, if not more interest, among a certain element in our population in the outcome of the baseball games as there is in the news from the scene of the strife abroad.

Oh, for a bed in the park, with the withered grass for a mattress and the sky for a covering.—Paterson Call, Sept. 24.

That may have been all right last Thursday, but it "kinda" sounds out of place now.

Advantages of Buying in Plainfield

Reasons Set Forth by a Competitor in Trade in Plainfield Contest Held by the Daily Press

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Why it paid me to trade in Plainfield. Being one of the vast army of commuters, I have always considered it necessary to buy my needs in New York. Needing a suit of clothes, I had decided to go to one of those loud advertisers in New York, when by chance I picked up the Daily Press and saw Sam Rothberg's "ad." of special sale. I then and there decided to look at his goods.

Mr. Rothberg pleasantly greeted me and I candidly told him I expected to buy in New York, but his "ad." attracted me, and now it was "up to him."

With no show of displeasure, he informed me it was a privilege to show his goods, and if I found anything to my satisfaction, well and good; that I was under no obligations to purchase unless I found satisfactory goods and prices, which after a while I did both.

To satisfy myself I had bought right, I stepped into one of these bold advertiser's places of business whose half page "ad." I had read on my way into New York, of "Uncalled for suits at $5.00, and the ends of 15 to 25 dollar goods cut to measure for $7.75."

I first asked to see some of those "Uncalled for" suits, and was told they had none on hand, but expected a shipment in next day. Where a shipment of "Uncalled for" suits were to come from, except from a regular manufactory, got me, but I said, "Well, show me those ends of goods you advertise to 'cut to measure' for $7.75." After some hesitation he began to show me cloths at $15, $12 and $10. "No," I said, "You advertised goods at $7.75 and I insist on seeing these." After a good deal of talk he admitted they had none, and in disgust I called him a fakir and left thoroughly cured.

This proved to me in buying at home that I received courteous treatment.

Goods guaranteed to be as represented, or privilege of returning, to a firm permanently located, building up a trade.

That the prices was low, as consistent with good material.

Suit neatly pressed and delivered to my home.

A friendship established with one that helps pay the taxes for the schools and privileges that my children enjoy.

With a firm that is always ready to join in any movement for the advancement of my own town, where I own property.

Every advancement meaning an increased value of property, thus helping me again, decided reasons for trading at home

POLITICAL NOTES.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 29—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000

November 3—Election day.

In addition to caucusing on the county chairman to be chosen tonight to succeed Registrar Smith as chairman of the Republican County Committee, the candidates named at the primaries will consider with the committee the dollar dinner planned some months ago. The dinner is intended to be the opening gun of the campaign and arrangements are being made to make it the largest affair of the kind in recent years. The committee in charge is composed of sub-committees from all G. O. P. organizations in the county and each is responsible for its particular territory.

All candidates nominated for any office at the primary election must file their acceptance with County Clerk Calvert within ten days. There is a mistaken impression that the candidates for local office may file with the various clerks of the municipalities in which they are named. This is not the case. Only expense accounts of local offices are filed with municipal clerks. The reason acceptances must be filed with the county clerk is because he has the printing of the general election ballots and without the acceptances some of the candidates are likely to be left off the ticket. The primary ballots only are printed under the supervision of the municipal clerks.

The State conventions at Trenton today and the re-organization of the county committees this evening, are the political events scheduled for the ensuing week. Plans for some aggressive moves will likely be formed after the committees have been organized. In the meantime, little is being heard of any proposed big rallies.

Several of the successful candidates have made inquiries since the primaries regarding changing the designations used on the ballots with a view of using another at the general election. They all were told that the general election ballots carry no designations, the platform of the party being the designation for all candidates running on that ticket.

In deciding to accept expense accounts yesterday which was one day over the five-day limit specified by law, County Clerk Calvert acted on precedents established in a number of instances in the past where the last day fell on a Sunday. The Geran election law says that all statements of expense must be filed within five days, but any sent through the mail or delivered in person will be accepted and filed.

The big primary vote secured by County Registrar Frank H. Smith is a source of keen gratification to his friends, and is taken by them as a splendid omen for the general election. The lack of a contest for the registrar nomination removed any incentive for a big vote on it, excepting the incentive caused by Mr. Smith's popularity.

Reports from Morris county indicate that Charles N. Fowler's prompt and hearty message of congratulations to John H. Capstick removed any possibility that the Congressional primary fight might leave any marks in that end of the district. So far as this portion of the district is concerned there was never any fear of primary effects, as it has been understood throughout that the contest was a friendly one.

Assemblyman William A. Leonard, Democratic nominee for county clerk, was assured of the support of his primary opponents shortly after the returns were announced. Former County Clerk John L. Crowell, of Rahway, who received a good vote and carried that portion of the county easily, has also written a letter to Mr. Leonard, tendering his enthusiastic assistance.

Councilman-at-large John H. Cose, of this city, who gave George C. Otto the hardest run for the Republican shrievalty nomination, was in Elizabeth, Saturday, to express gratification of the excellent support given him throughout the county. The shrievalty race was a friendly one in the fullest sense of the term, he said, and he highly praised Mr. Otto. Mr. Cose declared that he had already commenced campaigning for his successful opponent.

John H. Capstick, the G. O. P. Congressional candidate, has received a telegram of congratulation from William T. Stucheil, one of his contestants at the primary election last week, reading as follows: "Accept my congratulations. With the primary struggle now over, let us all get together for victory in November." Mr. Stuchell is spending some time at Yankee Lake, Sullivan county, N. Y., resting up after his whirlwind campaign, and upon his return will, in all probability, take an active part in the November election campaign. He is now recognized throughout the district as an orator of note and well versed on the issue of the day. The statement of his election expenses filed before he went away, shows that he spent $215.50. This sum was spent for printing, postage, clerk hire and music.

We Serve More Than Two Million People Every Day with

BORDEN'S

Bottled

MILK and Cream

Think of it! The Tremendous Responsibility and the Tremendous Satisfaction of doing this well.

We know, as you do, that mere bigness does not, necessarily, mean Quality; nevertheless, there must be some relationship between Size and Character. For surely no such clientele as that which we serve could have been gotten together, and what is more important, held together, had BORDEN'S MILK and BORDEN'S SERVICE not been of a character that invited confidence.

We often speak of Gail Borden, the founder of this Company, because to us, who are carrying on the work that he started, the Inspiration of his Personality and his ideals keeps him constantly with us. He is more than just a name, for in life he was a hard-fisted, aggressive, militant reformer who tackled one of the most stubborn evils that any advanced thinker ever battled with. His fight was against dirty unsafe milk, and the BORDEN business of today, still controlled by the descendants of Mr. Borden and his associate, is a monument to the victory won by these men.

So much for the sixty years that have passed into history.

What concerns you now is what we are doing today; what we will do to-morrow, next month, next year.

Of this, we can say to you in good faith that we accept the confidence of our great army of customers as a sacred trust and that never a day passes but what some step forward is made to insure our customers a product and service that shall always be in the lead for Honesty, Decency and Dependability.

Borden wagons cover every nook and corner of this great settlement. You can leave your order with any one of them, write a postal, or telephone.

MRS. LUCIE E. RISING RESIGNS AS MISSIONARY

The resignations of Mrs. Lucie E. Rising, as church missionary, and Mrs. Harold Serrell, as a teacher, were accepted at the monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of the First Baptist Bible School, last night. Mrs. Rising left here during the summer, and is now located in Milwaukee, Wis., with a missionary friend who is ill. Mrs. Serrell has removed to Brooklyn, where she will live with her son. Appropriate resolutions will be drafted and forwarded to both Mrs. Rising and Mrs. Serrell, expressing the regrets of the school in their departure.

Miss Ruth Bunker and Miss Alice Drake were appointed teachers. It was decided to try as an experiment the printing of the Sunday-school lesson on the weekly calendar of the school, instead of using the regular quarterlies, it being the opinion that it will serve the purpose just as well and be less expensive.

The presentation of reports from the various officers and departments showed the school to be in an excellent condition, financially and otherwise. Frank W. Jones presided at the meeting in the absence of Superintendent A. M. Harris, who is out of the city.

ADDRESSES AND MUSIC ENJOYED BY DUTCH ARMS

The Dutch Arms, of the Netherwood Reformed church, held its opening meeting of the season, last evening, in the church. This was an open meeting, to which men and women were invited. The Dutch Arms Band very kindly furnished the music for the evening, which was heartily appreciated by all.

The Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church, gave an inspiring and helpful address on "Vision Necessary for Christian Service." There were brief addresses by the president of the club, Edward W. Hughes, Horace Martin, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the church. At the close of the program refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed by all.

MISS DE AHNA IS RETURNING.

Miss Leontine deAhna, contralto soloist of the First Baptist church, who has been visiting at her native home in Germany since last July, is now on her way home and expects to return to her position on Sunday. It is understood that Miss deAhna has been delayed considerable in returning home by reason of the war.

SPELLING COMPULSORY

Education with the parents having to pay no tuition. Miss Hall, who has been attending the borough school, was taking a commercial course and the course given at Plainfield High School is entirely different from the borough course and she would have to start all over again and practically lose two years of stenography. The Board agreed to make the exchange if the city Board was willing and Mr. Hall consented to pay the difference in tuition of the two schools, that amount being about five dollars. Mrs. Blume and her daughter appeared before the city Board last night, for the same reasosn.

Claude B. Jeffries, manual training instructor, was present and spoke about the installment of a course in metal work which some of the girls wanted to take. The matter was laid over for a month for investigation. Miss Jubilee Rowley was reappointed pianist for the High School. The finance committee reported some progress concerning the school bond issue.

Supervisor D. Fred Aungst was present and submitted his first report to the Board. The present enrollment of the borough schools is 1212 against 1045 last year and there is an increase of 19 in the High School. Many of the primary grades are on part time owing to congestions. Mr. Aungst was given the power to use the advanced commercial pupils of High School for office work when Miss Robinson, the secretary and supply clerk, was occupied in other matters. There are now seventy-nine pupils taking typewriting and new machines will be ordered.

Judd Stuart, of the Board, has presented the school with a handsome bronze tablet containing "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address." It has been suggested that it be placed in the proposed new school building on Harrison avenue, but it will remain in the Somerset School for the present. Miss Martha Laning was engaged as a regular teacher last night. She teaches the fourth grade in the Watchung School. Mr. Aungst was also authorized to subscribe to several magazines for the library.

Bills amounting to $5,106.01 were presented to the finance committee and ordered paid, and Frank Rowley, district clerk, furnished the usual $500 bonds required by law.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

MAC SAYS

How different the three-cornered interscholastic tennis fight has turned out from other athletic competitions waged between this trio of rivals. In basketball and baseball it has been Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools to the fore. In tennis it is Leal's and Plainfield, the boroughites having suffered elimination right off the reel. It would do the local sportsman a world of good to see those plucky little private school youngsters annex some kind of a championship this season and relieve the monotony suffered along this line.

Jack Martin announces that he has again affixed his John Hancock to a Phillie contract. Here's hoping you do as good next year as you have this, Jackie, old boy, and maybe a little better.

Right on top of that tennis singles tournament for women at the Plainfield Country Club we have a doubles tourney in which the same sex is involved. The women athletes are certainly holding their own in the field of sports and this may be used as one of their strongest arguments for suffrage.

Speaking of the weaker sex we note that the feminine basketball bee has started to buzz once again. A contest between the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School alumni maidens would be very appropriate as a curtain raiser this season. The girls evidently intend to get a corner on the spotlight before it is all burnt out.

Haven't noted any sign of Warry MacLaughlin's form deserting the veteran in recent contests. The local master is well able to take care of everything that comes his way nowadays and is making some of those who have been springing the has-been stuff eat out of his hands.

Trenton baseball writers tell us that Jack Martin is ambitious. The fact that the Athletics beat the Giants in the world's series last year may be news to the same writer.

Phoney films—Ten thousand fans holding down the Parker Field bleacher seats next Saturday afternoon, when the Pets and Saurers meet in the third game for a real, genuine, non-leakable silver stein.

We have a slight suspicion that there is going to be some crowding on that Holy Cross line this season. It has been suggested that Maximus be allowed to take care of the entire right flank of the squad's line. The tip is a good one, Wilhelm.

Wonder how "Doc" Doyle is getting along with those dancing lessons he was going to give the candidates for the Holy Cross eleven? Maximus would probably prove an apt pupil for the husky "Doc" to pull around on the ball room floor.

Ironies of the times— A report states that Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight champion boxer, was injured in a battle of bullets at Aisne. Wonder what guarantee the French had to give the pugilist to get him in the big war's fighting arena? Who can imagine a boxer fighting for mere patriotism? Most of them don't even know what the word means.

If we get many more diversified announcements concerning the opening date for the world's series games we will begin to think that New York has a chance for the pennant.

"George," a local twirler, got seventeen strikeouts on an Elizabeth lot Sunday afternoon, but was defeated. And to think that only fourteen more of the same variety would have won the contest.

Plainfield High School athletes are now indulging in daily bawths in a bath tub. Plunges are welcome things to the fellow who has spent two or three hours under the gruelling fire of a none too amiable coach.

Big league baseball managers are now willing to admit that the Federals are of some account, after all. We aver that certain pilots will soon be threatening to quit the pastime and earn an honest living.

Now that the Saurer team has won the city championship in baseball, a world's tour is in order for that aggregation. Inasmuch as the European war does not make the best traveling possible through Europe we might suggest that Manager Martin stage a little local world's tour of his own. 'Tis said that fourteen languages are spoken fluently on one of the city blocks.

Parker Field will not be the loneliest place in the world during the world's series, even if the local fans do not patronize that Jack Martin day event. We have a slight suspicion that the Gothamite is going to miss a few of the old reliables hanging around the turnstiles near Coogan's Bluff during the coming fight for the big rag.

The fact that the Saurer ball nine is being pushed to a meeting with the Royal Giants makes us believe that the factoryites have some bitter enemies in these diggings.

EVERYBODY OUT FOR HOLY CROSS FOOTBALL PRACTICE

The Holy Cross football team will practice tonight, and all candidates should be present as it is getting near time to pick a team to play the first game Saturday, when the Elizabeth Trojans appear on Cricket Field as a curtain raiser.

Coach Martin will be present tonight and the practice will be mostly signals. Several Westfield men have been out constantly and Howarth, one of them, looks pretty good for a line man. The practice will start at 8 o'clock.

EAGLES BOWLING COMMITTEE WILL MEET HERE OCTOBER 9

Because one or two of the teams in the Eagles' Bowling League, which comprises Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield, Newark, New Brunswick and Somerville, were not represented at the meeting held in Newark, Sunday afternoon, the season's schedule was not completed, but it is expected that all arrangements will be finished at a meeting to be held in this city on Friday evening, October 9.

A number of matters pertaining to the welfare of the league were discussed and it was decided to have the rules committee, consisting of Joseph Kelly, of Rahway; James Mahoney, Plainfield, and Frank Van Ness, of Newark, act also as the executive committee of the league. Bylaws were adopted Sunday and other preliminary steps taken.

WESTFIELD AND ROSELLE WILL PLAY PINGRY TEAM

Westfield and Roselle High School football teams appear on the 1914 schedule of the Pingry School, of Elizabeth. The former will meet the Betsytowners in the second game of the season, while the Roselle warriors will play the opener with the Elizabethans and a return game has been scehduled for the first part of November. The Pingry men will get into action next Saturday, when most of the High School teams of this vicinity start.

The schedule is as follows:

October 3—Roselle Park High, at Pingry.

October 10—Westfield High, at Westfield.

October 17—Carlton Academy, at Pingry.

October 24—Montclair Academy, at Pingry.

October 30—Newark Academy, at Pingry.

November 3—Roselle High, at Pingry.

November 7—Kingsley, at Essex Falls.

November 13—Carteret Academy, at Pingry.

November 21—Lincoln High, at Pingry.

November 28—Open.

OLYMPIC GAMES NOT TO COME TO UNITED STATES

All chance of the Olypmic games of 1916 being held in America because of the situation arising out of the European war appears to be eliminated, according to a letter received from Baron Pierre de Coubertin. The Baron, who is president of the international Olympic committee, addressed his letter to the late James E. Sullivan and in it he stated positively that the question of a change in the location of the games of 1916 is not even to be discussed.

A cable was received from Paris about two weeks ago to the effect that the games had been turned over to the American Olympic committee and that the authorization from the international committee was on the way over. Little enthusiasm was shown by the A. A. U. officials over this premature announcement, as it was felt that the short time allowed for preparation, together with the fact that mose of the continental athletes had gone to the front, would prevent the meeting being a success in this country.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Pennsylvania has the banner football squad among the college teams It numbers over 100 men.

"Tol" Pendleton, the former Tiger football star, has arrived at Princeton to coach the backs.

Captain Charley Brickley, of the Harvard eleven, is an accurate shot at place kicking from points between the 45 and 50-yard lines.

Dartmouth has two men, Whitney and Curtis, who can punt between 60 and 65 yards. With the exception of Maban, of Harvard, Curtis was considered the best punter in the Eastern colleges last fall.

CHIEF KIELY MADE SOME HIGH SCORES

In the K. of C. Bowling Tourney Last Night he Hit the Pins for a 267.

Two hundred scores were the rage in the Knights of Columbus one-man bowling tournament, last night, and every man succeeded in striking the pins for at least one double century mark and some seemed to have the habit. Last night's play was by far the most interesting of the tournament and some of the matches were exceedingly close and exciting. Kiely, Howe, Blatz and McInerney were the contestants and from the scores it is hard to tell which player came out a winner.

After Kiely had taken the first game of the night from Howe, the pinning became interesting and the excitement was great until the last match. Howe managed to nose out his opponent in the second game by two points, the scores being 170 and 168. Both men rolled two hundred scores in the deciding game and Howe finished a winner with a 236 against Kiely's 225. Blatz and McInerney next took possession of the alleys and the former almost succeeded in making a clean sweep of the three games. He took the first and second games without much work, taking the first game with a margin of 25 points and the second with almost sixty points to spare. In the last game McInerney proved troublesome and nosed out his opponent by one point, the score standing 172 to 171. This last game was the most exciting of the night.

McInerney took the first and second games from Howe in the third match of the night, the first being close throughout and the scores were only separated by two points at the finish. Howe fell down in the second game and his opponents won without effort, but a 204 gave him the third game of the match and prevented his rival from making a clean sweep. In the fourth match Kiely pocketed two and in taking the second he made the high score of the night and also of the tournament. He won the first game by four points and then in the second made a 267 score, which is the highest that has been rolled in these parts this year. That score was only 33 below perfect. In this match Blatz hit the pins for a 171, which is the poorest he bowled. He came back in the third and put the police chief to rout with a 236, while Kiely was credited with 203.

Kiely	222	168	225
Howe	175	170	236
Blatz	180	216	171
McInerney	155	157	172
Howe	185	167	204
McInerney	187	213	150
Blatz	203	171	236
Kiely	207	267	205

LOCAL BOY PLAYED ON COLGATE TEAM

Monroe Good, Former P. H. S. Star, Put in Guard Position in Saturday's Game.

When the Colgate eleven met the Ohio Wesleyan team on the gridiron last Saturday, Monroe Good, of this city, was in the lineup and played the position of left guard for one-half of the game. Good performed with credit and looks like a permanent man for the varsisty this season. Early in September, Good left this city, about ten days before college opened, so as to be present for the first football call. He intended trying for fullback and has been given several chances at that position but was not put there in Saturday's game.

Last season, which was the first year Good had at college, he went out for the team and made a "sub" position. He played fullback in several of the games but did not get into the big game of the year, although he was on the side lines ready to substitute. The local boy has all the weight necessary for a football player and has had some experience on local teams.

As the match with Ohio was the first of the season he will probably be given a chance in the backfield in the next few games, as that is really his position, and not in the line. In the guard position Good held his own with more experienced players who have held those places for several years and was only taken out to give others a chance. The local athlete also hopes to make a place on the basketball and baseball teams.

BORO TOURNAMENT STARTS TOMORROW

Singles Matches Will Begin Tomorrow Afternoon on Several Boro Courts.

The North Plainfield High School singles and doubles championships will start tomorrow afternoon after the drawings have been made. The entrants will be matched for the first round at the close of the morning session and play will begin in the afternoon. There will probably be a time limit for the playing of the different rounds and all matches not played in that time will be considered defaults. This is the method that was used last year and the tournament went off on schedule time.

The entry list will be the biggest ever and the competition should be very close and the tourney interesting. All of those who took part in this event last year will again be ready to try for honors and many new ones have entered. The singles will be played off first and the class doubles matches will be started immediately after. The three favorites for the singles honor are Hoyt Tomkinson, Sherman Chandler and Warren Townley, who are in the best of form as a result of constant practice for this event. The first two named lasted the longest in the interscholastic tournament last week, while Townley appeared to have an off day. Tomkinson was runner up of last year's tournament and naturally is the favorite with the other two pushing him hard.

After looking over the class teams the Juniors look like sure winners with a team composed of Townley and Chandler. Their only real opponents should be the Seniors, winners last year, but the third year men look a little better. The entrance fees will be the same as last year and trophies will be awarded the winners of the two tournaments. The matches will be played on various courts of the borough and some on Parker Field. Among those who expect to enter the singles matches are Warren Townley, Hoyt Tomkinson, Duclos VanMater, Augustus VanDeventer, Sherman Chandler, Lester Chandler, Roy Force, Martin McDonough, Elmer French, Frant Boos, Andrew McDonough, Sydney Dunning and Edward Moraller.

PLACE GIANTS SECOND?

New York, Sept. 29.—Even money is being offered that the Giants don't finish in second place, and a 10 to 1 shot is being offered on Boston's chances of winning the pennant. Even money is also being offered that St. Louis finishes second. Big bets have been made that the Athleics will beat out the Boston Braves in the world's series, and that Chicago will finish ahead of New York. The betting is 5 to 4 that Philadelphia wins the first game of the series.

N. P. H. S. WILL USE SAENGERBUND HALL

Board Appropriated Funds for the Rental of the Building Last Night.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team will again entertain its opponents in Saengerbund Hall this year. Action was taken on this matter by the Board of Education at a meeting held last night, and $300 was appropriated for the rental of the Somerset street building under the same conditions that the boys had the hall last season. Arrangements have been made with the management of Saengerbund Hall and the contract will cover a period of five months.

A little discussion took place as to whether or not the Y. M. C. A. could not be secured, but this was found to be impractical as the amount of time could not be given to the boroughites in the association schedule. The same number of classes will be held this year in the hall with the exception of the eighth grade. The first team will have their regular hours and the girls' first and second teams will probably use the hall three periods a week. The class teams will also be accommodated and a class league will be re-organized.

The freshmen girls' team will also have periods. The hall will be open five afternoons every week and one night. Only one change will be made and that is the hall must be closed every afternoon at 5 o'clock instead of 5:30 as was done last year. This will necessitate the home games being started earlier.

The hall will not be opened as soon this year as it was last and the squad will probably not be called out before the last week in October. That will take the contract up to the latter part of March which is just before baseball starts.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL FIVE TO PLAY LAFAYETTE

Plainfield High School basketball players will get a taste of college basketball this season, as the representative team from Lafayette College has been scheduled to appear in the local gym some time before the first of the year.

The Lafayette team will probably play local rules all the game or they may divide and play one-half collegiate. The manager of the local team has several teams on the schedule that have never appeared here before, including East Orange High School.

A trio of men landed fifty weakfish off Morgan the latter part of the week. They fished from a launch and had a good time. At present it looks as if the fish will bite for another two weeks or more.

The big fish are in Sandy Hook Bay, and the boats from Water Witch are bringing in enormous catches. A party of four caught ninety-one weakfish and thirty-two croakers.

If it hadn't been for the heavy north wind Saturday there would have been a great slaughter of weakfish in Raritan and Sandy Hook Bays. Catches of sixty to a hundred were made in both waters Thursday and Friday. The fish were very big and with them were immense schools of croakers. The wind storm Saturday shifted the fish again, and it will be another hunt before they can be located.

The members of the Newark baseball team went down to Morgan last week and had a great day fishing. In the party with Manager Harry Smith were Sherrod Smith, Bert Tooley, Wyatt Lee, Clarence Kraft, Hewes Proctor and Jeff Holmquist. They caught twenty-four weakfish, and according to all accounts had a dozen others that they didn't catch when they left for home.

One angler reports that he took a trip recently to Seabright on the steamer Augusta and made a haul of twenty-two fish, eighteen blackfish

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Keep cool during the summer. Buy your bread and cake at "THE WOMAN'S EXCHANGE" 207 Park Ave. Tel. 850.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Lustre and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its apppearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

WHO WILL MANAGE CLUBS NEXT YEAR?

Question as to Who Will Lead the Yankees and Other Teams Next Season.

New York, Sept. 29.—When President Farrell, of the New York American League club, accepted the resignation of Manager Frank Chance, he ushered in the season for the gathering of managerial scalps in the major leagues. No sooner had the "Peerless Leader" been handed his passports than rumors of other prospective changes among big league pilots began to travel thick and fast.

It is said that in addition to the new boss of the Yankees there are likely to be new managers leading the Cleveland Naps, the Phillies, the Chicago White Sox and the Chicago Cubs. Rumor has it also that Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pirates, would not be grieved to bid adieu to Smoketown and retire to his Kansas ranch. Naturally, Clarke is a bit discouraged over the showing made by his team this season. Starting like winners last spring, the Pirates suddenly cracked and dropped out of the running. As the Pittsburgh manager is reputed to be worth a large wad of several varieties of regular money, it would hardly be safe to bet that he will not blow the job before training time next year.

From Cleveland come stories of a tinware shower in preparation for Joseph Birmingham. The stories are to the effect that John Ganzel, former Cincinnati manager and for several years a successful pilot of the Rochester club, is to succeed Birmingham as manager of the Naps. Cleveland fans are manifestly displeased at the showing of the Naplanders and their clamor may lead to a change in management.

The present situation in Philadelphia is due chiefly to the failure of the hard-hitting hils to produce the goods. Manager Charley Dooin is a hard worker and one of the most popular managers in the big leagues. But the fact that the Phils are not up there fighting for the flag has disgruntled the fans of Quakerdom and as a consequence it may be that Dooin will get the axe.

A big question mark symbolizes the siuation in regards to Hank O'Day and his chances to remain as manager of the Chicago Cubs. Windy City scribes have been firing Hank at least once a week all season, but Henry is still on the job, which helps some.

Like the Pirates, the White Sox started the season as though they intended to make a runaway race. But the Sox faded when the going became hot, and their failure to keep up the pace naturally has led to rumors that Manager James Callahan may be dropped before the beginning of another season. It is said that in case Callahan is shown the gate he will be succeeded by the veteran William ("Kid") Gleason. The "Kid" is now coaching the White Sox. Though a quarter of a century has rolled around since he first became actively interested in the national pastime he is still there with the ginger.

President Ebbets, of the Brooklyn club, has spiked the yarn that Manager Wilbert Robinson was to be let out. "Bobby" has a three-year contract with the Superbas and will be given further opportunity to produce a winner.

Cincinnati is to retain its present leader, Charley Herzog. It was freely predicted that Herzog would be handed the pink slip when the Reds failed to keep in the running, especially as Cincinnati has been in the habit of changing managers about as often as it changed players. But contrary to expectations "Herzy" will stay in Redland and try his hand at producing a winning outfit again next season.

Along with Herzog there are a number of other major league managers who have no cause for worry over their immediate future. Heading the list of hold-overs are the old guard composed of Connie Mack, of the Athletics; John McGraw, of the Giants; Clark Griffith, of the Senators, and Hugh Jennings, of the Tigers. Without this quartet of veteran polits the good old game of baseball would be about as exciting as a roque tournament.

There are four other major league managers who have made good this year and doubtless will be found piloting the same teams next season. The first of the four is George Stallings, of the Braves. Next in line comes Bill Carrigan, of the Red Sox; Miller Huggins, of the Cardinals, and Branch Rickey, of the Browns.

Nine of the present big league managers are figured as likely to hold over another season. Perhaps some of the other seven will stick, and perhaps they will not. At any rate it's the open season for going after big league pilots, and everybody is welcome to join the canning bee.

BASEBALL NOTES

George Stallings, manager of the Braves, is now caled "The Maricle Man" over the National League circuit.

Catcher Frank Hand, recently purchased by the Giants from the Perth Amboy club, had a batting mark of .313 in the Atlantic League this season.

Harry Lejeune, who has been burning up the Western League in stick work this season, and recently sold to the Pirates, had a trial with the Superbas a few years ago.

Of the 17 National League players batting for .300 or better, six are members of the Brooklyn club. The Superbas in the honor list are Steele Myers, Dalton, Daubert, Wheat and Stengel.

Cleveland fans enjoy themselves jeering the Naps whenever an error is made. All a player on a tail-end team has to do is to look happy while living a dog's life on the diamond.

Fred Beck, of the Chicago Feds received a personal invitation to attend the National Association meeting in Omaha in November. Perhaps the minor leaguers overlooked the fact that Fred is a Federal Leaguer.

When Bill Doak, of the Cardinals, and Bill James, the Braves' star flinger, hooked up in the twelve-inning 1 to 1 tie game in Boston recently Hub fans witnessed the most spectacular pitching duel of the year.

Arthur Irwin says it wasn't because of any real trouble with the club owners that Frank Chance resigned his managerial berth with the Yankees. It was merely because he wanted to quit baseball. Published interviews with Chance tell a different story.

P. H. S. AND SOMERVILLE WILL PLAY NEXT FRIDAY

It was announced today that the Plainfield High School football warriors will get into action one day earlier than was originally planned, as the opening game with the Somerville eleven will take place Friday afternoon instead of Saturday as is on the schedule. The local manager could not get Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, for the contest as the baseball games are still being played on the diamond and the managers had to chose between Saturday morning and Friday afternoon.

This makes the High School boys the first performers in this city this year and a large crowd will probably be present to witness the initial encounter between these two teams. The game will start at 3:30.

HAROLD SHARKEY RETURNS.

Following an illness of almosts a year, Harold Sharkey today resumed his duties as sporting editor of the Courier-News. Sharkey has many friends in this city who will be glad to learn of his full recovery.

NEW EVENTS ARRANGED

at work arranging a number of speakers and debates for the coming season.

Harry Marshall announced plans for an entirely new feature for the program for this winter in the form of a moving picture entertainment which is to be inaugurated in the near future, no definite date for the opening show being set. Educational films will feature the program. It is probable they will be held in the Washington School.

R. S. Rowland, of the clubs' committee, reported that the Italian Club was now in working order, the organization having been completed with a constitution adopted and a full set of officers elected. This department of the work is progressing and a number of organizations are accomplishing much in their various lines of work.

The activity of the general committee has grown to such an extent that plans are now under way to open a number of the schools now unused for these purposes, including the North Plainfield High School, for the various activities.

Miss Lillian L. Lamson, for several years employed by the Playground Commission of New York city, has been engaged as supervisor to co-operate with Miss Brownlee, of Putnam avenue, who was appointed to a similar position a short time ago. Miss Lamson comes to this city with a high recommendation from her former employers, with whom she was engaged in the development of the work in the metropolis.

The Municipal Orchestra feature of the local committee's work is being held up at the present for the want of a leader. Applications from those who would be willing to act in this capacity should be made to G. Stuart Simons. It is hoped that a leader for the proposed Choral Society may be found in the near future.

The committee has been requested to arrange for an exhibit of the work to be displayed at the anti-tuberculosis exhibit. A committee composed of Mrs. Harold D. Corbusier, G. Stuart Simons and W. H. P. Veysey was appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

Henry C. White, of the Dramatic Club, outlined the progress of the work being accomplished by that organization, and announced that two plays would be ready for production within the course of a month or six weeks.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

ANOTHER TROPHY FOR BOY SCOUTS

Unknown Friend Offers Cup for Competition at Annual Field Day.

EVENTS ON PROGRAM

Monster Demonstration for October 17 Promises to Be the Largest of Its Kind Ever Held in This Section.

Another trophy has been given to the local Boy Scouts to be competed for at the third annual demonstration at Parker Field on Saturday, October 17. It was given by a "Friend of the Boy Scouts," the identity of the donor being concealed behind the name of Tiffany, of New York, who advised J. W. Aughiltree, chairman of the field day committee, that a handsome cup had been purchased and was to be delivered to him. The cup, which is of silver and stands about six inches high and is about seven inches wide, will be on exhibition in the windows of Paul R. Collier's store, together with the cup which he has offered, to be awarded to the Boy Scout with the best efficiency record as shown by advance in rank during the last scout year.

The field day committee has decided, in accordance with the wish of the donor of the Tiffany cup, that it is to be a challenge cup to be won three consecutive years by a patrol to become its property. It was desired that the cup be offered in the event most representative of scoutcraft and the committee has decided that it will be awarded the patrol making the best time in the making of fire by friction.

The committee has formally prepared the program of the day's events, modifying the original plan somewhat in order to keep the demonstration from becoming too protracted. Instead of permitting each patrol to present its events in consecutive order, it has been found necessary in order to base the events upon a system of scoring points to project individual effort, rather than attempt to star entire patrols in events. In other words, each patrol leader will select the member of his patrol best equipped to do each particular scheduled act and pit that scout against the entries made by competing scout leaders. Exception has been made, however, in the barrier climb and pyramid building. Whole patrols will enter these events in competition.

The events scheduled with the points allowed are as follows:

1 Rope casting	5
Rope knot tying	5
2 Barrier climbing	5
3 First aid, including ambulance drill	5
Bandaging	5
4 Pyramid building	5
5 Building fire by friction (cup award)	5
6 Scout pace (¼ mile in three minutes)	5
7 Wireless telegraphy (different messages, different sets, time to count with accuracy	10
8 Signalling—A Semaphore	10
B Whistles	5
C Heliograph	5
9 Water boiling contest (boil 1 pint water in 1 qt. tin pail, contestants equipped with axe, 2 matches and piece of wood 2 ft. long by 2x4 inches)	10
10 Surprises (individuals or patrols to compete)	10
11 Fife and drum competition (tune optional)	5
Bugling competition (any four calls)	5
Possible	100

There will be extra events such as centipede races and clown features.

In the surprise event the big interest in the scout field day is expected to centre. Here will be shown all the mysteries that have hovered over scout troop work during the last few months, but about which great secrecy has been maintained.

The judges have not yet been selected, but they will be men entirely disinterested in the various patrols and troops. The field day committee which has charge of the events, consists of J. W. Aughiltree, chairman, T. A. Davis, A. D. Beers, Paul R. Collier, Deputy Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., and scoutmasters of the various troops as follows: F. M. Tomlinson, Troop 13; L. M. Livingston, Troop 12; E. A. Sprowl, Troop 11; Charles R. Bostwick, Troop 10; M. R. Kriney, Troop 9; Allen Stevenson, Troop 8; Joseph A. Garner, Troop 7, and Allen E. Beals, Troop 5.

All Plainfield and visiting scouts will assemble at 12:30 Saturday afternoon, October 17, the day of the demonstration, at Plainfield Scout Headquarters, in the rear of the First Presbyterian church, East Front street, opposite Church street, and will march with full bugle, fife and drum corps to Parker Field. The parade will start from headquarters and proceed down Front street to Grove, to Second, to Park avenue, to North avenue, to Watchung, to Crescent avenue, to Park, and out Park avenue to Parker Field. About 300 scouts are expected to be in line.

—You find the "short road" to employment when you tell what you can do—interestingly, frankly—in a want ad.

Oak Jacobean Sideboard, with Herringbone Inlay

ANNOUNCEMENT

John Wanamaker New York, has taken over the entire stock of the Aimone Manufacturing Company of this city, known throughout the United States for a quarter of a century as makers, in their own factory, of high grade classic furniture, and importers of rare and unusual pieces of antique furniture, objets d'art, Italian terra cottas, and marbles. The collection is valued at more than $400,000. and is to be sold because the expiration of a twenty year lease compels a change of location preparatory to still larger manufacturing expansion and efficiency on the part of the Aimone Company.

The sale will be held in the House Palatial and adjoining areas, Fifth Gallery, new Wanamaker Building, beginning, at a date to be announced in a few days.

MANY BIDS FOR WORK

$1,595, the Beaver Engineering Co. bid $1,744, and the Commercial Construction Co. bid $1,373.

Seven bids were received for the contract for heating and ventilating, the lowest being that of John J. Hess, of Jersey City, whose bid was $13,698, Jaehnig & Peoples bid $14,782.42, E. G. Woolfolk & Co., of New York city, bid $14,684.

When all the bids had been read, they were referred to the building committee for action, and it is probable that as soon as they have been checked and the reliability of the bidders investigated, the Board will announce the award of the four contracts.

General contract—J. C. Abbott, of this city, $78,970; American Concrete Steel Co., Essex building, Newark, $68,843; Barzaghi-Vaught Co., 220 Madison avenue, New York, $79,255; John J. Eagan, 523 Jersey avenue, Jersey City, $74,976; Emerson Building Co., $72,300; L. S. Fleming Co., 17 Madison avenue, New York, $69,582; Frymier & Han Co., 25 West 45th street, New York, $69,990; Hermann-Madden & Co., 103 Park avenue, New York, $67,757; Kelly & Kelly, Inc., 12th street, Long Island City, $76,000; George T. Kelly, Yonkers, N. Y., $65,888; John Lowery, New York, $63,750; Alexander Milne, of this city, $72,534; Oscawana Building Co., New York, $69,700; Charles E. Preston, Monticello, N. Y., $69,900; Schaefer Con'n Co., New York, $68,819; William G. Sharwell & Co., Newark, $65,632; B. F. Tallamy & Bro., of this city, $73,485; Edward M. Waldron & Co., Newark, $62,523; Edward M. Waldren, Inc., Newark, $70,150; United Fireproofing Co., New York, $65,465.

Plumbing—Den. J. Galbraith, of this city, $2,772.

Electric—Beaver Engineering Co., Newark, $1,744; Commercial Construction Co., New York, $1,373; George W. Ord, of this city, $1,592; Allen B. Laing Co., of this city, $1,595.

MUSICIAN AT PROCTOR'S HAD TROUBLES ABROAD

Proctor's Theatre presents an excellent show for the first three days this week, and the various acts were greeted by enthusiastic audiences yesterday. In addition to the usual pictures, which are changed daily, the five vaudeville acts presented are well above the average, and Manager Sanderson has seldom presented a more diversified program than the one being shown now.

The headliners are VonKlein and Gibson, who do a very clever singing and dancing act, with some quick change work by the men. There is a dance at the close which has a combination of all the steps of the popular dances of the day, and this was especially popular with the audiences.

The Romanys, in a musical novelty in which many unique instruments are used, present an unusual and humorous conclusion, which brought down the house. Allinais Apes, two very clever simians, perform a number of amusing tricks. Mr. and Mrs. Chappelen, in a sketch, "Hiring a Maid," and the McCarthy Sisters round out a clever bill.

Paul Romany with his musical act, arrived in this country last week from England, and he relates some trying experiences which he has gone through in the larger cities of England. Mr. Romany, who is a German by birth, had plans for a tour of England and the continent covering many weeks, and had started to fill the engagements when the war broke out. While playing in one of the cities abroad, his automobile was taken over by the government for the transportation of war necessities, but he was able to re-buy it from the officials for a large amount.

During his last engegement across the sea, Mr. Romany was unable to collect his week's salary, while the stage hands of the theatre took vengeance on him because of his nationality by destroying a number of his instruments. The engagement at the local theatre is the first since his arrival.

CHAPTER XV.

"An Extravagant Illegality."

NEVER, of course, had there been so provisional a government. It was an extravagant illegality. It was indeed hardly more than a club, a club of about a hundred persons. At the outset there were ninety-three, and these were increased afterward, by the issue of invitations which more than balanced its deaths, to as many at one time as 119. Always its constitution has been miscellaneous. At no time were these invitations issued with an admission that they recognized a right. The old institution of monarchy had come out unexpectedly well in the light of the new regime. Nine of the original members of the first government were crowned heads who had resigned their separate sovereignty, and at no time afterward did the number of its royal members sink below six. In their case there was perhaps a kind of attenuated claim to rule, but except for them and the still more infinitesimal pretensions of one or two ex-presidents of republics, no member of the council had even the shade of a right to his participation in its power. It was natural, therefore, that its opponents should find a common ground in a clamor for representative government and build high hopes upon a return to parliamentary institutions.

The council decided to give them everything they wanted, but in a form that suited ill with their aspirations. It became at one stroke a representative body. It became, indeed, magnificently representative. It became so representative that the politicians were drowned in a deluge of votes. Every adult of either sex from pole to pole was given a vote, and the world was divided into ten constituencies, which voted on the same day by means of a simple modification of the world post. Membership of the government, it was decided, must be for life, save in the exceptional case of a recall, but the elections, which were held quinquennially, were arranged to add fifty members on each occasion. The method of proportional representation with one transferable vote was adopted, and the voter might also write upon his voting paper in a specially marked space the name of any of his representatives that he wished to recall. A ruler was recallable by as many votes as the quota by which he had been elected and the original members by as many votes in any constituency as the returning quotas in the first election.

Upon these conditions the council submitted itself very cheerfully to the suffrages of the world. None of its members was recalled, and its fifty new associates, which included twenty-seven which it had been fit to recommend, were of an altogether too miscellaneous quality to disturb the broad trend of its policy. Its freedom from rules or formalities prevented any obstructive proceedings, and when one of the two newly arrived home rule members for India sought for information how to bring in a bill they learned simply that bills were not brought in. They asked for the speaker and were privileged to hear much ripe wisdom from the ex-king Egbert, who was now consciously among the seniors of the gathering. Thereafter they were baffled men.

But already by that time the work of the council was drawing to an end. It was concerned not so much for the continuation of its constructions as for the preservation of its accomplished work from the dramatic instincts of the politician.

The life of the race becomes indeed more and more independent of the formal government. The council in its opening phase was heroic in spirit. A dragon slaying body, it slashed out of existence a vast knotted tangle of obsolete ideas and clumsy and jealous proprietorships. It secured by a noble system of institutional precautions, freedom of inquiry, freedom of criticism, free communications, a common basis of education and understanding and freedom from economic oppression. With that its creative task was accomplished. It became more and more an established security and less and less an active intervention. There is nothing in our time to correspond with the continual petty making and entangling of laws in an atmosphere of contention that is perhaps the most perplexing aspect of constitutional history in the nineteenth century. In that age they seem to have been perpetually making laws when we should alter regulations. The work of change which we delegate to these scientific committees of specific general direction which have the special knowledge needed, and which are themselves dominated by the broad intellectual process of the community, was in those days inextricably mixed up with legislation. They fought over the details. We should as soon think of fighting over the arrangement of the parts of a machine. We know nowadays that such things go on best within laws, as life goes on between earth and sky. And so it is that government gathers now for a day or so in each year under the sunshine of Brissago when St. Bruno's lillies are in flower and does little more than bless the work of its committees. And even these committees are less originative and more expressive of the general thought than they were at first. It becomes difficult to mark out the particular directive personalities of the world. Continually we are less personal. Every good thought contributes now, and every able brain falls within that informal and dispersed kingship which gathers together into one purpose the energies of the race.

It is doubtful if we shall ever see again a phase of human existence in which "politics"—that is to say, a partisan interference with the ruling sanities of the world—will be the dominant interest among serious men. We seem to have entered upon an entirely new phase in history, in which contention as distinguished from rivalry has almost abruptly ceased to be the usual occupation and has become at most a subdued and hidden and discredited thing. Contentious professions cease to be an honorable employment for men. The peace between nations is also a peace between individuals. We live in a world that comes of age. Man the warrior, man the lawyer and all the bickering aspects of life pass into obscurity; the grave dreamers, man the curious learner and man the creative artist, come forward to replace these barbaric aspects of existence by a less ignoble adventure.

There is no natural life of man. He is and always has been a sheath of varied and even incompatible possibilities, a palimpsest of inherited dispositions. It was the habit of many writers in the early twentieth century to speak of competition and the narrow private life of trade and saving and suspicious isolation as though such things were in some exceptional way proper to the human constitution, and as though openness of mind and a preference for achievement over possession were abnormal and rather unsubstantial qualities. How wrong that was the history of the decades immediately following the establishment of the world republic witnesses. Once the world was released from the hardening insecurities of a needless struggle for life that was collectively planless and individually absorbing, it became apparent that there was in the vast mass of people a long smothered passion to make things. The world broke out into making, and at first mainly into aesthetic making. This phase of history, which has been not inaptly termed the "efflorescence," is still to a large extent with us. The majority of our population consists of artists and the bulk of activity in the world lies no longer with necessities, but with their elaboration, decoration and refinement. There has been an evident change in the quality of this making during the recent years. It becomes more purposeful than it was, losing something of its first elegance and prettiness and gaining in intensity, but that is a change rather of hue than of nature. That comes with a deepening philosophy and a sounder education. For the first joyous exercises of fancy we perceive now the deliberation of a more constructive imagination. There is a natural order in these things, and art comes before science as the satisfaction of more elemental needs must come before art, and as play and pleasure come in a human life before the development of a settled purpose.

For thousands of years this gathering impulse to creative work must have struggled in man against the limitations imposed upon him by his social ineptitude. It was a long smoldering fire that flamed out at last into all these things. The evidence of a pathetic, perpetually thwarted urgency to make something is one of the most touching aspects of the relics and records of our immediate ancestors. There exists still in the death area about the London bombs a region of deserted small homes that furnish the most illuminating comment on the old state of affairs. These homes are entirely horrible, uniform, square, squat, hideously proportioned, uncomfortable, dingy and in some respects quite filthy; only people in complete despair of anything better could have lived in them, but to each is attached a ridiculous little rectangle of land called "the garden," containing usually a prop for drying clothes and a loathsome box of offal, the dustbin, full of eggshells, cinders and such like refuse. Now that one may go about this region in comparative security—for the London radiations have dwindled to inconsiderable proportions—it is possible to trace in nearly every one of these gardens some effort to make. Here it is a poor little plank summer house, here it is a "fountain" of bricks and oyster shells, here a "rockery," here a "workshop." And in the houses everywhere there are pitiful little decorations, clumsy models, feeble drawings. These efforts are almost incredibly inept, like the drawings of blindfolded men. They are only one shade less harrowing to a sympathetic observer than the scratchings one finds upon the walls of the old prisons, but there they are, witnessing to the poor buried instincts that struggled up toward the light. That god of joyous expression our poor fathers ignorantly sought our freedom has declared to us.

In the old days the common ambition of every simple soul was to possess a little property, a patch of land, a house uncontrolled by others, an "independence," as the English used to put it. And what made this desire for freedom and prosperity so strong was very evidently the dream of self expression, of doing something with it, of playing with it, of making a personal delightfulness, a distinctiveness. Property was never more than a means to an end, nor avarice more than a perversion. Men owned in order to do freely. Now that every one has his own apartments and his own privacy secure, this disposition to own has found its release in a new direction. Men study and save and strive that they may leave behind them a series of panels in some public arcade, a row of carven figures along a terrace, a grove, a pavilion. Or they give themselves to the penetration of some still opaque riddle in phenomena as once men gave themselves to the accumulation of riches. The work that was once the whole substance of social existence—for most men spent all their lives in earning a living—is now no more than was the burthen upon one of those old climbers who carried knapsacks of provisions on their backs in order that they might ascend mountains. It matters little to the easy charities of our emancipated time that most people who have made their labor contribution produce neither new beauty nor new wisdom, but are simply busy about those pleasant activities and enjoyments that reassure them that they are alive. They help, it may be, by reception and reverberation, and they hinder nothing.

Now all this phase of gigantic change in the contours and appearances of human life which is going on about us, a change as rapid and as wonderful as the swift ripening of adolescence to manhood after the barbaric boyish years, is correlated with moral and mental changes at least as unprecedented. It is not as if old things were going out of life and new things coming in, it is rather that the altered circumstances of men are making an appeal to elements in his nature that have hitherto been suppressed, and checking tendencies that have hitherto been overstimulated and overdeveloped. He has not so much grown and altered his essential being as turned new aspects to the light. Such turnings round into a new attitude the world has seen on a less extensive scale before. The Highlanders of the seventeenth century, for example, were cruel and bloodthirsty robbers; in the nineteenth their descendants were conspicuously trusty and honorable men. There was not a people in western Europe in the early twentieth century that seemed capable of hideous massacres and none that had not been guilty of them within the previous two centuries. The free, frank, kindly, gentle life of the prosperous classes in any European country before the years of the last wars was in a different world of thought and feeling from that of the dingy, suspicious, secretive and uncharitable existence of the respectable poor, or the constant personal violence, the squalor and naive passions of the lowest stratum. Yet there were no real differences of blood and inherent quality between these worlds; their differences were all in circumstances, suggestion and habits of mind. And, turning to more individual instances, the constantly observed difference between one portion of a life and another consequent upon a religious conversion were a standing example of the versatile possibilities of human nature.

The catastrophe of the atomic bombs which shook men out of cities and businesses and economic relations shook them also out of their old established habits of thought and out of the lightly held beliefs and prejudices that came down to them from the past. To borrow a word from the old fashioned chemists, men were made nascent. They were released from old ties. For good or evil they were ready for new associations. The council carried them forward for good. Perhaps if his bombs had reached their destination King Ferdinand Charles might have carried them back to an endless chain of evils. But his task would have been a harder one than the council's. The moral shock of the atomic bombs had been a profound one, and for awhile the cunning side of the human animal was overpowered by its sincere realization of the vital necessity for reconstruction. The litigious and trading spirits cowered together, scared at their own consequences. Men thought twice before they sought mean advantages in the face of the unusual eagerness to realize new aspirations, and when at last the weeds revived again and "claims" began to sprout, they sprouted upon the stony soil of law courts reformed, of laws that pointed to the future instead of the past and under the blazing sunshine of a transforming world. A new literature, a new interpretation of history were springing into existence, a new teaching was already in the schools, a new faith in the hearts of the young. The worthy man who forestalled the building of a research city for the English upon the Sussex downs by buying up a series of estates was dispossessed and laughed out of court when he made his demand for some preposterous compensation. The owner of the discredited Dass patents makes his last appearance upon the scroll of history as the insolvent proprietor of a paper called the Cry For Justice, in which he duns the world for £100,000,000. That was the ingenuous Dass' idea of justice, that he ought to be paid about £5,000,000 annually because he had annexed the selvage of one of Holsten's discoveries. Dass came at last to believe quite firmly in his right, and he died a victim to conspiracy mania in a private hospital at Nice. Both of these men would probably have ended their days enormously wealthy, and of course ennobled, in the England of the opening twentieth century, and it is just this novelty of their fates that marks the quality of the new age.

Some Cookery Suggestions

GREEN TOMATO RELISHES.

GREEN tomatoes may be used in the preparation of many relishes for the winter table. Some excellent recipes for these are given here.

Tomatoes With Celery

Tomato and Celery Relish.—Take eighteen ripe tomatoes. Remove leaves and root ends from five bunches of celery. Wipe two red peppers, cut up vegetables, mix, put in a preserving kettle and add two and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of salt and one teaspoonful each of cloves, allspice, cinnamon, mustard and celery seed. Bring slowly to the boiling point and let simmer one and one-half hours, stirring occasionally. Bottle and seal while hot.

Chili Sauce.—Take twelve medium sized ripe tomatoes, wipe and peel and cut in slices. Put in a preserving kettle and add one pepper, wiped and finely chopped, one onion, skinned and finely chopped; two cupfuls of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls each of ground cloves, cinnamon, allspice and grated nutmeg. Mix and heat to boiling point and let simmer two and one-half hours.

This Is Highly Seasoned.

Chowchow.—Take one peck of green tomatoes, four heads of cabbage chopped fine, one peck of small cucumbers, two heads of chopped cauliflower, one quart of small green bean pods, one pint of pepper pods, one-half gallon of small whole onions or large ones chopped fine. Put each of the ingredients in salt water and let simmer fifteen minutes, but do not allow them to boil. After they are thoroughly drained put them together in a jar and pour over them one gallon of good vinegar, six tablespoonfuls of ground mustard, one ounce of tumeric and a little salt if necessary. Put a weight on them and set in a cool place.

Flavored With Fruit.

Apple and Green Tomato Chutney.—Remove the seeds from two green peppers and a cup of raisins, add six green tomatoes and four small onions and chop all very fine. Put one quart of vinegar, one cupful of powdered sugar and two of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of mustard seed and two of salt to boil. Add the chopped mixture and simmer one hour. Then add a dozen tart apples, pared, cored and quartered, and cook slowly until soft. Beat thoroughly and bottle.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — We Would Have No Gardens Without Birds.

He Adores Grasshoppers.

"KIDDIES, I'm going to tell you what a good housekeeper old Dame Nature is."

Jack and Evelyn snuggled down in the big cozy sofa and fixed round eyes upon daddy's face.

"If the birds should all die, my dears, there wouldn't be a leaf, a blade of grass or any green thing growing after a few years had passed.

"You see, birds like grubs and insect eggs, the things that harm the fruit trees and bushes, and when you see them flitting about in the garden singing so blithely and fluttering their wings so coquettishly they are not playing at all. They are working, and the work they do saves our fruit for us.

"The English sparrow and the catbird are the only ones that we ought to kill if we can, although the catbird, while he is very fond of cherries, kills insects for us every waking hour from April to October. He adores grasshoppers, and a scientist in Washington who had this bird under observation saw five of them eat thirty grasshoppers each for one meal.

"Besides grasshoppers, the catbird is very fond of caterpillars, grubs, flies, beetles, spiders, moths and other insects.

"And, kiddies, wouldn't a garden seem queer without birds flashing about twittering and singing their morning love songs in the spring and the evening carols we wait for each evening?

"It would be almost like having a garden without flowers and vines and trees and bushes.

"I'll read you a puzzle by an ardent bird fancier that I saw in the paper today."

Daddy drew a clipping from his pocket and read:

"'If one chickadee eats 444 eggs of the apple tree moth on Monday, 333 eggs of the canker worm on Tuesday and 777 miscellaneous grubs, larvae and insect eggs on Wednesday and Thursday, how long will it take a flock of twenty-two chickadees to rid an orchard of every pest it contains?'

"Jack, do you think you could do that sum?"

"I'm not very good at doing sums, daddy."

"Probably to one cherry that a bird will eat he will destroy hundreds of insects to pay for it.

"For the scientists employed by the government have analyzed the stomach contents of hundreds of birds and find in them very little of cultivated fruits and grains compared with the seeds that should be destroyed.

"So, remember, kiddies, no birds, no gardens. Good night and pleasant dreams."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

In this illustration dotted muslin is combined with white organdie.

The design is just as well adapted to silk as it is to cotton and wool materials, however, and it would be pretty for the new soft finished taffeta that promises to be worn throughout the season for crepe de chine or for any similar silk with the collar and vestee of organdie, pique or of white silk.

The autumn promises to be a season of long sleeves, but there always will be occasions when the elbow length will be desirable, and these can be finished in either way.

For the medium size the blouse will require three and one-half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with five-eighths of a yard thirty-six inches wide for vest, collar and cuffs.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 40 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8385, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

YOU would n't think much of a man who did n't provide sufficient food for his family.

You would n't think his affection was very genuine.

And you would be right.

Providing life insurance is as important as providing food.

It actually is providing food--for the future.

AGED MAN KILLED BY FAST FREIGHT

Joseph Apgar, Aged Dunellen Resident, Meets Horrible Death at Crossing.

WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

One of Many Who Have Been Caught at Washington Avenue Grade Crossing—Had Been Employed by C. R. R. for 20 Years.

Joseph Apgar, one of Dunellen's oldest and best known and respected citizens, met a horrible death before a number of eye witnesses on the Washington avenue crossing of the Central Railroad at that place, yesterday afternoon, being hurled a distance of sixty feet by a fast Philadelphia and Reading freight train. The victim, who was sixty-nine years of age, had been employed by the Central Railroad for twenty years as a bridge carpenter, and was enjoying a day off yesterday. He had spent the morning in painting the roof of his home in Dunellen and in the early afternoon had run short of paint.

Deciding to come to Plainfield to secure a new supply of the material he was on his way to catch the 4:05 train out of that place when struck. In order to board the east bound train it was necessary for him to cross the tracks to the south side. He had failed to notice the train backing up on the north side, however, and when the engine was nearly upon him he leaped to one side, landing directly in the path of the freight. He was hurled bodily into a nearby field, death being instantaneous.

The man had lived in Dunellen for forty-three years and was recognized as one of the municipality's most conspicuous figures. He had been active in promoting the welfare of the place from its earliest days and always took a marked pride in whatever was attempted for municipal development. The sad sequel to the railroad employe's day off was witnessed by a number of his intimate friends. The gate tender at the crossing yelled to him of his danger, but this only served to make the man increase his gait and he ran headlong into danger's path.

He is survived by a wife, two sons, Walter, of Plainfield, and Harry, of Dunellen, and two daughters, Mrs. John Book, of San Diego, Cal., and Miss Alice Apgar, of Dunellen. A particularly sad feature connected with the aged man's untimely death is the fact that his grandson's marriage will occur in about two weeks, an event to which he had been looking forward with a great deal of anticipation.

SEPTEMBER WAS A BUSY MONTH AT BONNIE BURN

There were seventy-nine patients at Bonnie Burn Sanitorium, September 1, according to the monthly report of Dr. John E. Runnells, superintendent. The largest number present during the month was eighty-three; smallest number, seventy-seven; daily average, 79.7. Fifteen patients were admitted during the month, ten men and five women.

Of those admitted, three men were moderately advanced, seven men and five women were far advanced. There were twelve patients discharged, ten men and two women, including seven deaths, six men and one woman.

TO HOLD PEACE SERVICE.

POND'S DENY IT HAS BIG ORDER

Rumor Based on Company's Bid for Part of Large Contract.

During the past few days there has been a rumor in circulation to the effect that the Pond Machine Tool Works had received a $2,000,000 order and that the plant would soon resume a full time schedule with an enlarged force of men. As a result machinists from this section of the country have been coming to Plainfield in search of employment at the plant, only to learn that their trip had been in vain. In order to prevent anyone else from taking a similar trip, the company wishes it stated that there is nothing in the story as to its receiving such an order.

A representative of the company in discussing the matter said that he thought the rumor was caused by the fact that the Bethlehem Steel Company has received a large order, and that the local concern had made a bid for a part of the work such as it is able to do here. Other plants also have bid for the work, but no contracts have been given out.

If Ponds should get the contract it is after it would make the plant a busy place for several months and would require an enlarged force of men. At present the force employed is quite small.

FEDERATION WOMEN WILL SPEAK HERE

First Fall Meeting of Monday Afternoon Club On October 5.

The Monday Afternoon Club's calendar for 1914-15 comprising the work of its three departments promises a year of unusual profit and pleasure, and has in it that which should stimulate growth and betterment in all the members, and through them, in all the interests their lines may touch.

The first meeting will be Monday afternoon, October 5, at 3 o'clock in the parish house of the Congregational church, where all meetings for the coming year will be held. Following the usual informal reception Mrs. William T. Ropes, president of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Lemue Skidmore, of Summit, chairman of the State Federation Department of Household Economics, the guests of the afternoon, will speak.

Mrs. Ropes will tell of the work of the Federation in general, and of the National Federation which met in June at Chicago in particular. Mrs. Skidmore will give the club the very excellent paper on "Household Economics," she read before the Federation last May at Asbury Park. At the conclusion of the program, tea will be served. This meeting, being a gathering of the clans, is for members of the club only.

A necessary change of the date of Mary Austin's lecture has been made. She will speak before the club October 12, instead of November 2, the civic department taking the latter date for its discussion of "Immigration." This is simply an interchange of dates.

TOOL BOX HIT AUTO, OCCUPANTS UNINJURED

A tool box attached to the rear of one of the Public Service Company's motor trucks collided with an automobile on Park avenue near North this morning, the windshield of the latter vehicle being demolished. The heavy box swung to one side of the street as the car made a turn and hit the automobile with a terrific impact.

No one was injured in the cars and the damage was satisfactorily adjusted by the parties concerned.

SPECIAL MUSIC AT GRACE.

The choir of Grace church will be augmented Sunday morning, by the services of Udo C. Gossweiler, 'cellist. Mr. Gossweiler usually plays at Grace church on the second Sunday of the month, but owing to a special observance of "Peace Sunday" the date has been changed.

FIRST FALL MEETING.

The first fall meeting of the Sesame Club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Chase, 514 Putnam avenue, tomorrow morning.

REGULAR MID-WEEK SERVICE.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting service will be held tonight in the Baptist church, of South Plainfield.

EXPLODING LAMP CAUSED BAD FIRE

Firemen Have Hard Time Saving Third Street Residence From Destruction.

Fire caused by an exploding lamp in the parlor of a house located at 534 West Third street, did considerable damage to the building and contents before it was extinguished by the fire department shortly after 7 o'clock last night. The flames had assumed considerable headway when the firemen reached the scene in response to a call from box 81 and the building appeared to be doomed from the start.

The flames ate their way through the walls and ceilings to the second and third floors and the roof was burned off. The material of which the structure was made gave the blaze an opportunity to gain rapid headway and the firemen had their hands full in attempting to check its spread. After an hour's work it was finally controlled.

The damage done by fire and water was considerable, but an estimate could not be secured from the fire department this morning. Families by the names of Bleacher and Salant occupied the dwelling.

ADAM NEUMAN DIES IN 57TH YEAR

Member of Well-known Grocery Firm Succumbs to Pneumonia.

Adam Neuman, aged 57 years, one of the best known business men of the city, and a member of the old established grocery house of Neuman Brothers on Watchung avenue, died about 3:30 o'clock this morning at his home on Watchung avenue, following a three weeks' illness of pneumonia. The disease developed quickly after contracting a severe cold and Mr. Neuman's condition was serious from the first. During the past few days his death was momentarily expected by members of the family.

Mr. Neuman was born at Martinsville. He afterward became a resident of Somerville, where he remained until removing to this city in the early 90's. At that time he formed a partnership with his brother, Peter Neuman, who had been conducting a grocery business about two years prior to that date. Since then the firm has been one of the most successful in this part of the State.

Throughout his long business career, Mr. Neuman has been especially active. For many years the firm's store was on the east corner of Watchung avenue and Fifth street, but the business grew to such an extent that the brothers found it necessary to seek larger quarters and they moved across the street, where they have since occupied a large and modern equipped store.

Mr. Neuman possessed a genial disposition and was an exemplary Christian man. He was prominent in the work of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, of which he was a member for many years, and despite the fact that he was compelled to devote much time to business, he never neglected his church duties. His death brings a distinct loss to the business interests of Plainfield and his wise counsel will be greatly missed.

There survives four brothers, John, Louis, Peter and George H. Neuman and four sisters, the Misses Christina and Emma Louise Neuman, and Mrs. Catherine Enk. The funeral will be held at the late residence, 507 Watchung avenue, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in the Bound Brook cemetery.

FINED $8 FOR LETTING HORSE ROAM AT LARGE

In order to secure his release after being arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, charged with letting his horse roam at large over neighbors' gardens and lawns, Salvatore Asolda, an Italian, had to liquidate an $8 fine.

This is the third time the defendant has been arraigned on this charge and on former occasions he was let go with a reprimand.

SAILS FOR ENGLAND.

William Uzell, of Hartford, Conn., who has been visiting relatives in this city for some time, left today for England on the Mauretania, of the Cunard line. Booking was secured through Estil's Steamship Agency.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

The Missionary and Aid Society, of Warren chapel, will hold an all-day sewing meeting in the church parlors on Thursday, October 8.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE A COMPLETE FAILURE

Westfield Young Man, Despondent, Tries to End Life in Business Section.

Suffering from an incurable disease which had thrown him into a state of despondency, Harry Thomas, of 125 Central avenue, Westfield, made an unsuccessful attempt at self-destruction on Park avenue, yesterday afternoon. The man had apparently made careful preparations for his rash act and while no one was looking drank an ounce of iodine, which he had purchased earlier in the afternoon.

The poison soon took effect on the man's system and he became violently ill, Dr. Frederick Hughes being sent for. The fact that quantities of milk were poured down the man's throat accounts for the fact that he is still alive as this fluid counteracted the effects of the iodine.

Upon the arrival of Dr. Hughes, the man was ordered to the hospital and an automobile was pressed into service by Chief of Police Kiely, who happened on the scene. He accompanied the man to Muhlenberg Hospital. At that institution today it was said that he is well on the road to recovery and that the attempt was a complete failure due to the administering of first aid remedies.

MISS BECHSTEIN WEDS ALBERT V. UTZINGER

Ceremony Performed in the "Rose Room," Hotel Marseille, New York.

Miss Louise Bechstein, daughter of Charles Bechstein, of West 98th street, New York city, and Albert V. Utzinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, were married last evening in the "Rose Room" of the Hotel Marseille, 103d street and Broadway, New York. Rev. A. B. Moldenke, pastor of the Lutheran church, New York, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends of the couple.

The bride was gowned in white crepe meteor and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Rose Schimpf, of New York, a cousin of the bride, was the bridesmaid. She wore a gown of yellow net over yellow crepe de chine and carried a bouqet of yellow chrysanthemums. Christian J. Utzinger, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The ushers were Augustus Bechstein, Albert Scofield and Fred Schimpf.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, covers being laid for thirty-five people. Congratulations were showered upon the young couple, after which dancing was enjoyed. The "Rose Room" was attractively decorated with palms, and in one corner there was an arch beneath which the couple was married.

After a ten days' honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Utzinger will take possession of their new home at 80 Summit avenue, North Plainfield. They will be "at home" to their friends after November 15. The bride is well-known here where she has visited frequently. Mr. Utzinger is also well-known in the city and borough. He has been employed at L. W. Randolph's pharmacy for the past seventeen years. The bride received a large collection of handsome and useful gifts.

PLAN THE ORGANIZATION OF EAST END CIVIC ASS'N

The East End Civic Association will be organized at a meeting to be held Tuesday evening, October 6, at 8 p. m., in the Netherwood Reformed church. Final plans were made last evening by the committee on organization, which met at the residence of former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, on East Front street. An invitation is given to every resident in the Eastern district of Plainfield to attend the meeting next Tuesday, to take part in the organization and election of officers, and help in the work of the association.

AUTOS COLLIDED.

An automobile driven by Charles Vail collided with a taxicab on Park avenue near West Seventh street, this morning, both vehicles being slightly damaged. No one was injured.

SWEDISH LUTHERAN SERVICE.

A services of the local Swedish Lutheran church is to be held tomorrow evening, at the new edifice of the congregation. Rev. Karl Martin will be in charge.

OVERWHELMING VOTE IN RUSSELL'S FAVOR

Elizabeth Man Elected to Lead Union County Democracy This Year.

Considerable interest was manifested by members of the Union County Democratic Committee in the spirited race for county chairman, which marked the organization meeting, held last night in the Elizabeth headquarters. Lucius T. Russell, of Elizabeth, emerged a winner in the race with a vote of 64 against Abram Morris, of Union, who drew 26 ballots. Mr. Morris was afterwards elected vice-chairman.

For several days prior to the meeting rumor had it that General Dennis Collins, Democratic candidate for the Elizabeth mayoralty, was behind the faction in favor of Morris and was doing everything in his power to secure the latter's election, despite his declaration of neutrality. General Collins was opposed to Mr. Russell in view of the fact that the latter attacked him in the news columns of the Elizabeth Times, of which the new chairman is publisher. Russell alleged that Collins was taking an active part in the campaign in favor of Morris, but the indications resulting from the election last night seem to point to some inactivity on the part of the Morris faction. The Plainfield delegates, from the eighteen local districts, were understood to be unanimously in favor of the Elizabeth man.

Mr. Russell succeeds Mayor Percy H. Stewart as Democratic chairman of the county. Other selections made at last night's meeting were: Fred Zior, secretary; Anthony Sattler, treasurer; J. H. R. Corbitt, sergeant-at-arms.

WILLIAM NEWCORN ELECTED COUNTY G. O. P. CHAIRMAN

Peace and quiet prevailed at the meeting of the Union County Republican Committee, held in Elizabeth last night, for the purpose of organizing and electing officers for the coming term. Former District Court Judge William Newcorn, of this city, was elected chairman; Henry C. Hooley, vice-chairman; Charles A. Otto, Jr., secretary; Donald McLean, assistant secretary; Robert C. Plume, treasurer.

Before the meeting, last night, it was understood that Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, would be a candidate for the chairmanship, but the other local man's campaigners failed to land their choice.

MADE CHARGE AGAINST DRIVER OF AUTOMOBILE

Arraigned on a charge of reckless driving before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, Meyer Mechanik, a chauffeur employed by a local taxicab company, convinced the court that the accusation was groundless and the dismissal of the complaint followed.

The defendant drove a Ford car which collided with a motorcycle driven by Rural Mail Carrier J. Archibold Thompson, yesterday morning, and the latter made a complaint of reckless driving against the car driver. Thompson was represented in court this morning by William N. Runyon.

MISS HYDE MAID OF HONOR.

Miss Helen Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Hyde, of this city, was maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Edith Reed, daughter of Mrs. Charles Reed, of New York, and Richard S. Townsend, of Brookline, Mass., which took place last night at the country home of Mrs. Reed at Fairfield Farm, Great Barrington, Mass.

CLAM CHOWDER SUPPER.

A clam chowder supper will be held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the Baptist church, of South Plainfield, tomorrow night, in the church parlors. Supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock. Ice cream, cake, home made candies and other things will be for sale.

SEWING MEETING.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, are to hold an all-day sewing meeting tomorrow at the chapel, at which a hot luncheon at the noon-hour will be served. A full attendance is desired.

OPENING MEETING.

The first fall meeting of the Men's Association, of Warren chapel, will be held at the church, Friday night, October 3.

GERMAN LOSS HEAVY WHEN ALLIES REPULSE THEM IN FOREST OF AIGLE; AUSTRIANS RETREAT IN DISORDER

RUSSIANS NOW 120 MILES FROM BUDAPEST

Czar's Soldiers Have Unfortified Road Before Them, With Three Pathways Open—Russian Embassy at Washington Gives Details of Allies' Repulse of Enemy at Forest Aigle.

Paris, Sept. 30, (Central News Cable)—An official statement issued today said that the turning movement of the Allies north of the Somme is developing rapidly. A German attack on Tracy le Mont has been repulsed with heavy losses.

It was officially announced this afternoon that the Germans have been repulsed with heavy losses in the northeast, near the forest of Aigle.

The text of the official French statement follows: "On our left wing, at the north of the Somme, the conflict continues to develop more toward the north. Between the Oise and the Aisne the enemy has made a vigorous attack on Tracy Le Mont. At the northeast of the Aigle forest he has been repulsed with heavy losses. At the centre there is a lull in the storm along the entire front, which extends from Rheims to the Meuse. Between the Argonne forest and the Meuse we have made a slight advance. In the Woevre region violent fighting has taken place.

"Our troops have advanced at many points, notably to the east of St. Mihiel. On our right wing, Lorraine and the Vosges, there is no change."

This statement on the situation in the east was issued at the same time: "In Galicia the attempted sorties of the garrison of Przemsyl have failed. The Austrain armies continue to retreat in disorder losing many prisoners, guns and supplies. At the Ussok Pass the Russians have defeated a Hungarian Brigade and penetrated into Hungary.

Petrograd, Sept. 30. (Central News Cable)—The Russian advance guards are now within 120 miles of Budapest, with an unfortified country before them. Through three pathways in the Carpathians, at Dukla Pass, Sanok Pass and Ussok Pass the columns detached to advance into Hungary are pouring out on the plains. Through two of the passes are railroads which the Russians now control to points in the foothills on the Hungarian side of the southern Galician border.

The force which advanced to Sanok Pass was opposed by German artillery sent to cut off its movement. The Germans were defeated in engagements south of the city of Sanok and retired to the northwest, abandoning their guns. The Russian force moved on through the defile.

In the Ussok Pass the Russians dislodged the Hunveds from three positions and gained the further side, where they are now descending to the Hungarian plateau. There are no fortifications south of the Carpathians to stay the progress of the armies from the north.

Amsterdam, Sept. 30, (Central News Cable)—The Germans have penetrated to the north in Belgium to within an hours' march of Turnhout, 23 miles from Antwerp, and slightly north of east of that city. It is but six miles from the border of Holland. The Belgians have retreated westward, to within cover of the guns in the fortifications about Antwerp.

Sound of a cannonade has been heard today at Baar Le Nassau in Holland, near the Belgian border. The railway bridge near Moll, 12 miles southeast of Turnhout ,has been blown up. Two German spies were arrested today at Hoogstarten, close to the Holland border and almost directly north of Antwerp.

Peking, Sept. 30.—The fall of Tsing Tao is imminent, as the result of the steady bombardment from both land and sea, according to a statement issued at the Japanese legation today. It is said that Fort Iltis has already been silenced and that heavy damage has been inflicted on Fort Kaiser Point.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Victories over both the German and Austrian troops have been won by the Russian forces, according to a despatch to the Russian embassy today from Petrograd. At the time the despatch was sent a vigorous battle was in progress on the edge of the Awgospow forest. Capture of Austrian prisoners and stores also were reported in the despatch, which follows: "On September 28 a fight with the Germans was in progress along the line of Ossojetz, Druskhinka and Sinno. A new attempt of the Germans to cross the River Niemen was repulsed. An energetic fight was in progress along the north border of the forest of Awgospow. In Western Galicia near Dukla, we defeated an Austrian rear guard. An Austrian column retreating through Frischpaka abandoned his guns and over 400 vehicles of his baggage train near Krastro. We took 200 prisoners belonging to the Twenty-second Infantry Regiment of the Sixth Army Corps.

Significance is attached here to the order today to the cruiser Tennessee to proceed at once to Indisi, Italy in view of the impending abrogation by Turkey of all extraterritorial rights and treaties which occurs at midnight tonight. The cruiser North Carolina has remained in and near Turkish waters since the delivery of a quantity of gold to the gunboat Scorpion at the mouth of the Dardanelles several days ago.

Amsterdam, Sept. 30 (Central News Cable).—The Germans are bombarding with heavy guns all villages south of Antwerp, says a despatch from Antwerp. Offensive movements by the Belgians have resulted in driving back the Germans toward their trenches with heavy losses. The shelling of the forts of Waelhem, Kathdyne and Waever, in the southern segment of the circle of forts around Antwerp continues. The Belgian artillery is replying continually. The Germans attempted an attack on Liezle and Breendonk, two small villages, southeast of Antwerp and west of Malines.

The Belgian Government has been informed through the medium of the American ambassador that the Germans have agreed to spare the art buildings and churches of Antwerp as much as possible their gun fire. In return the Germans ask that the Belgians guarantee not to use the buildings for military purposes.

London, Sept. 30 (Central News Cable)—Advices from Petrograd by way of Rome say that a battle between the army of General Rennenkampff and that of the German general, VonHindenburg, has been raging since Monday morning along a front extending from Grodo to Druskeniki on the Ninemen River. Four army corps have been engaged on both sides and the Russians are be-

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

Asa R. Merrel, of Newark, a former resident of this place, was a visitor in the borough yesterday.

The household effects of Clarence B. Carman have been moved from the Alvah Gray house at the corner of North and Jackson avenues to the house on the latter avenue recently vacated by Clarence Vliet. The Smith Auto Express Company did the moving.

RALLY DAY EXERCISES.

The Presbyterian Sunday-school will hold Rally Day exercises, promotions, etc., in the church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The children and teachers will assemble in the chapel at 2:30 o'clock to march in the church. All the members are invited to attend and are urged to do so in order to encourage the school by their presence.

Albert Ramsey, of Woodbridge, was a visitor at the home of H. Clifford Smith, on Front street, yesterday. Mr. Ramsey is a former employe of Mr. Smith's, having worked five years with him in the moving business at Plainfield.

Mrs. Annie VanBenschoten and family move tomorrow from the Frank Farrell bungalow at the corner of New Market road and Grove street to the William Mullen house on Prospect avenue.

BORO DOING THE WORK.

Borough Engineer Churchill, assisted by Owen Mohan, Jr., gave line and grade yesterday afternoon for the relaying of the sidewalk along the Prospect avenue frontage of the old J. R. Campbell property. An ordinance had been passed by the Common Council relative to the relaying of this walk according to the established grade of the street, but the present owners of the property have paid no attention to it, so the borough is now going ahead to relay it, assessing the cost of so doing against the property. Pedestrians, who have been obliged to walk through the pools of water that formed, owing to the lowness of the walk, during stormy weather, will commend the timely action of the borough's governing body, and especially so since winter is drawing nigh.

Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites, although able to be about, has been considerably indisposed with stomach trouble during the past few days.

John Kope and family have moved from the Herbert Williams house on Fairview avenue to the Henry S. Garretson house on Prospect avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maurer, of Madison avenue, have returned from a protracted sojourn at Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Krom have moved from the Winfield R. Hetfield house at the corner of Whittier avenue and Walnut street to the Frank Farrell house on Penfield place, recently vacated by Arthur Drake.

ON A WESTERN TRIP.

Dr. M. J. Whitford left this morning on a three weeks' trip through the West. His first stop will be Chicago. From Chicago the doctor up to the time of leaving, had not fully made up his mind as to just where he would go, but he thought it might possibly be California. The doctor has been a very busy man for the past twelve months and he goes for a rest. Dr. Roger I. Cooley will take care of his practice.

The household effects of John Rinehart and family were moved today by Isaac V. Smalley from their old home on North avenue, that they have rented to Mrs. Mary Murphy, to the new house on Penfield place that they recently purchased from the Watchung Investment Company.

Mrs. James Bloomfield, of Whittier avenue, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Norman C. Conklin, of Bayonne.

Mr. and Mrs. William VanDusen are visiting Mrs. VanDusen's parents at Patchogue, L. I.

Alfred Osmun, of New Market road, left on Monday on a business trip through New York State.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The Parent-Teacher Association resumed its meetings in the Lincoln School after a summer's recess, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was largely attended. No business of importance was transacted, the afternoon being principally devoted to entertainment. The entertaining features were songs and recitations by the pupils of the primary grades. The school was inspected at the conclusion of the meeting.

TAX RATE $2.48.

Tax Collector Isaac J. Stites said yesterday, that the bills for the 1914 taxes, due October 1, will be mailed within the next two weeks. The total of the borough's assessed valuations is $1,437,941, of the annual budget, $35,682.95, making the necessary rate $2.48, an increase of 23 points over last year's. It had been said that the rate was going to be $2.52, the difference of four points is accounted for by the fact that the library will get no appropriation this year. The library has been getting an annual appropriation of $500. Through an oversight on the part of the Common Council this appropriation was not included in the annual budget. The trustees of the library will now have to get along as best they may without an appropriation until another year. They will probably be able, however, to obtain all necessary funds from the local bank.

Two bunches of Niagara white grapes, raised by Cornelius Ryno, of Center street, have been placed on display in the show window of Smalley Brothers. The grapes are of beautiful contour and of unusual size. They weigh about a pound and a half.

STYLISH RELIABLE

ROTHBERG'S IS A REAL SERVICE STORE

This shop for "Most Things Men Wear" does more than supply the needs of its patrons. While essentially it's a place for the distribution of men's and boys' wearing apparel and caters to the wants of its patrons, included in every purchase is a service of inestimable value. It's because here you will find most efficient salesmen—men who understand your wishes and wants without volumes of talk—men who are considerate of your personal needs—who will not sell you a suit of clothes, a hat, a tie or anything else, unless it's the thing for you. Neither will they, by the art of persuasion or otherwise, force upon you something you do not want.

Belmont Worman and Victor Shiffman, of Trenton, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Roche.

Rev. J. H. E. Schultz is attending the annual mid-year assembly of the Newark Conference in the West Side Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Jersey City.

Professor Norman Landis gave a free organ recital in the Presbyterian church last evening. Miss Marie Schafer, soprano, was the soloist.

Union services will be held in the Baptist church Sunday evening. Miss Ruth Dewey, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will lead the meeting of the Young People's Society.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church held its September meeting in the chapel Monday afternoon. Mrs. Edward B. Allen, the president, presided.

Watchung.

A large number attended the rally social given in Wilson chapel last evening, when a farewell was extended to the summer pastor, Harold W. Schenck. The chapel was prettily decorated with shocks of corn and pumpkins, while the autumn colors prevailed. The program included an interesting address by Rev. Dr. Edward G. Read, readings by Mrs. Charles E. Spier and Miss Theresa E. Schmidt, and solos by Edward F. Bodin, who presented for the first time his songs, "Gloomy Days," "After Vacation Time" and "Don't Disturb My Slumbers."

The Parent-Teacher Association will give a reception to the Watchung School faculty Friday evening, October 9, in the Watchung School. William D. Murray will make an address. All interested friends and parents are invited to attend.

Rally Day wil be observed in Wilson chapel on Sunday.

"Tests of Discipleship" was the very interesting topic which Harold W. Schenck discoursed upon at the Tuesday evening meeting.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action. I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's Drug Store. They seemed to take hold at once, banishing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of my kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different woman. I will always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gardner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

"STOCKING FUND" STARTED BY LOCAL BRITISH WOMEN

A number of British women of Plainfield have organized a "Stocking Fund" to provide socks for the men enlisted in the British army at the present time. All willing to assist in the work by the donation of knitted socks or by offers to knit are requested to notify Mrs. Donald Meines, 824 West Third street; Mrs. Hendry, 923 West Fourth street, or Mrs. Ross, 925 West Fourth street.

The movement is a recently instituted one and considerable interest has already been evidenced in the plan to aid the soldiers of the European war.

DEATH SUMMONS

MRS. M. B. CLAYPOOLE

Venerable Boro Resident Passes Away in Her 94th Year.

Mrs. Maria B. Claypoole, who was within one month of being ninety-four years of age, died early this morning at her home, 68 Grandview avenue, from the infirmities of old age. Until last July, Mrs. Claypoole enjoyed unusual health, but since that time she gradually failed, although only a few days ago she was able to be about the house. She retained nearly all her faculties until the last and in many ways was remarkable for one of her years. Monday night she was taken quite ill and was not able to leave her bed after that time.

Mrs. Claypoole was born at New Egypt, Ocean county, at which place she was married to Charles W. Claypoole. They later removed to a farm near Bordentown, thence to Trenton, where they lived for a time and twenty-six years ago, following the death of Mr. Claypoole, she removed to North Plainfield, where she resided until her death.

The aged woman was a devout Christian and a faithful member of the First Baptist church, which she attended until advancing years prevented. She was a member of Brightside Circle of The King's Daughters, which organization was founded in her home. Practically all of the meetings were held at her home and she was called "the mother of the circle." During her long residence in the borough, Mrs. Claypoole made many friends and she was admired for her strong Christian character.

There survives four daughters, Miss Ann D. Claypoole, Miss Elizabeth Claypoole, who live at home; Mrs. John B. Burtis, of Mansfield, this State, and Mrs. Mary C. Wainwright, of the borough, and one son, William C. Claypoole, of Paterson. The funeral wil be held at the late home Friday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, will officiate and the burial will be in the family plot at Jacobstown, this State.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Ivar Whiting, of Proctor, Vt., will preach in the Swedish Lutheran church on East Seventh street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Karl A. Martin, who has been in charge of the Swedish Lutheran church, this city, attended a young people's convention at the Swedish Lutheran church, East Orange, yesterday and reports a fine congregation of Swedish young people.

The service preparatory to Holy Communion will be held this evening at Warren chapel. The communion service will be held Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The young people of Warren chapel will have charge of the service Sunday evening.

The service preparatory to Holy Communion will be held at Trinity Reformed church, Friday evening.

PERSONAL.

S. H. Lippitt, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Berse, of East Fifth street, for a short time. He is a senior at Washington University.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Boardman Tyler, of this city, who have been sojourning with Mrs. Tyler's mother, Mrs. William A. Whittlesey, in the Tilden homestead in New Lebanon, Mass., have returned home.

Mrs. J. P. Truitt, of "Tunlaw," is stopping for some time at the Belview-Stratford, Philadelphia.

E. C. Pearson, of Second place, has returned after spending some time at Lake Pleasant.

Mrs. Charles Hand, of Netherwood avenue, who has been spending some time at Ocean Grove, has returned to her home.

H. C. Wells and family, of Washington avenue, have returned after spending their vacation at Avon-by-the-Sea.

Mrs. L. E. Waring, of West Seventh street, who has been spending some time at Upper Saranac Lake, N. Y., has returned.

Walter Poling, of West Fifth street, recently entered Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, for a three-year course in architecture.

FIRST WARDERS TO MEET.

The First Ward Republican Club will meet Monday evening at Republican headquarters in the Frost building, at which time final plans for the fall campaign will be made. A complete canvass of the entire ward is to be made prior to the last registry day, which falls on October 20.

MAUDE ADAM COMING.

Maude Adams will appear at the Plainfield Theatre, Thursday night, October 8, in J. M. Barrie's great play, "The Legend of Leonora," considered one of the season's biggest successes.

GIMBELS waited

until the excitement caused by the mobilization of the French troops had ceased, before attempting to assemble a collection of Modes for the Autumn.

We did not want what the dressmakers had ready the first of August, for we have always had the distinction of presenting "the last word of Paris" each season. There was no need for us to hurry and take just what we could get, for our Paris Bureau remained open and our chief representative there is one of the few famous Fashion authorities in the world. Then when the dressmakers reopened their ateliers we were there and in a position to get the real modes for Autumn. These Gowns, Wraps, Suits and Furs have arrived within the last week; many of them came on the S. S. "Adriatic" last Saturday, and tomorrow we shall present them in

"La Promenade des Toilettes"

There is not merely one, but there are several silhouettes, for Cheruit had one idea of what the Fashionable Figure should be; Premet had another; so did Callot, and the other notable dressmakers had their ideas, too. This is a peculiar condition, for, in the past, nearly all the fashions of a season conformed to one silhouette. We shall not discuss the new modes in this announcement, for it will give us great pleasure to have the women of New York visit this Exhibition of the authentic styles decreed by

Callot Cheruit Lanvin Premet
Paquin Drecoll Jenny Bernard
Robert Martial et Armand
Bechoff-David Margaine Lacroix

These costumes will be worn in promenade by thirty mannequins —10.30 A. M. to 12 M. and 2 to 4 P. M. In this exhibition we shall also present all the new Accessories of Dress and

MORE "NEWS" FROM MIDDLESEX

Someone in the New Brunswick Times office must have run across an old file of the Plainfield papers before writing an editorial criticising this city for "longing to become a county seat." That idea was taken up a year or more ago by former Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and while such a scheme would have advantages, it received so little support that nothing has been heard from it for months, until the explosion in Monday's Times. Says the Times:

"Is it any wonder that the politicians of that city (Plainfield) are enthusiastic about the new county and that they intend to urge the authorization of the new county at the next Session of the Legislature?"

The information contained in the above paragraph is startling, and we hope that the editor of the Times, who knows so much about affairs over here, will advise us just who the politicians are who are "enthusiastic" about the matter. If there is anyone who has so much as said a word about it during the past six months; we have not heard of it, for whether it is a good thing or not, all realize that it would be impossible to bring about the necessary legislation for the new county.

Our Middlesex county readers have been much interested in the Congressional situation in the Republican party in the Third district, for one of the oddities made possible by the new primary law has developed in the contest in that district. Shortly before the primaries, W. Burtis Havens, of Tome River, announced that he would withdraw from the fight, and requested his friends to vote for Clarence E. F. Hetrick, who was seeking the Progressive nomination. He did not, however, forward the formal notice of withdrawal to the Secretary of State, and his name appeared on the ballots as a candidate, with the result that he was nominated as the Republican candidate, having 400 majority in the district, consisting of Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties. Having discovered that he is so popular that the people want him whether he wants the job or not, Mr. Havens will remain in the race, and will make a fight against Thomas J. Scully, the present member from that district. It is not often that candidates are nominated in spite of themselves.

The many Jewish residents of Plainfield are observing the twenty four hours which began at sundown last night, as the most solemn day in their year. No other day in the calendar is so universally respected by the twelve millions of Jews all over the world as the great feast of Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, when all of the faith abstain from food and drink and all worldly employment. The devotion thus shown commands the respect of all creeds. Here in Plainfield the great number of closed business houses bears witness to the religious loyalty of the Jew. This race has come into more prominence during the past few weeks, because of the part which many of its members have taken in the war abroad, than has been the case for many years, and they are showing exactly the same devotion to duty there, that they show here in the observance of their religious teachings.

The contention made by so many that the average High School graduate who enters business is a poor speller has been recognized by the North Plainfield Board of Education, for at the suggestion of Judd Stewart spelling has been made a compulsory course. For five years this has not been required in the borough schools, and complaint of poor spelling has become more general during that time. Not knowing how to spell has been a stumbling block for many a man in the past, and too much time cannot be given to endeavoring to make pupils perfect in that branch of their education. There are hundreds of men today who would have difficulty in mastering simple words were they compelled to give up their stenographers, and it is to be hoped that other school authorities will follow the example of the North Plainfield education body, in an effort to do away with this complaint in the future.

Oh, you bald headed men, just listen to this. All you need to do to get a fine crop of hair is have a big bank roll, and take the cure described in the article below:

A method of sewing hair upon the human scalp to put an end to baldness has been successfully used by Dr. Szekely at the hospital of St. Stephane in Budapest. The number of hairs planted on the head of one patient has been as high as 50,000. One hundred hairs are drawn through punctures in the scalp in every square centimetre and as both ends are left free, this makes over 1,000 hairs to every square inch. In the operation very fine gold wires are used. It is quite an expensive operation. There are hopes that the operation may be cheapened so as to be within the reach of all and in time it may offer relief to many of the afflicted in this country as well as in others.

One of the local milk producers, famed for the excellent quality of its product, has been compelled to raise the price from ten to twelve cents a quart, as the establishment has been losing money and the trustees in charge feel that it must be put upon a paying basis. The only lesson to be drawn from this act is that if we are to have milk for household use with the minimum amount of bacteria, we will have to pay more for it. The result of the raise in price on the business done will be watched with much interest, for none of the other local dealers have signified their intention of falling in line.

"Will some kind reader tell us how to pronounce 'Przemsyl?'" was a query made in these columns last night. The kind reader 'phoned last night that the proper way to do the trick is to slur over the P, and leave the 1 silent, the balance of the letters being pronounced "chemish." We hand the information along and all must at least admit, whether this is right or wrong, that it is much easier to say than would be the case were all the letters brought into play.

We suppose that we will be accused of press agent work when we say that the management of the Plainfield Theatre deserves better support when it brings such a high-class play to this city as that which was given Monday night. The audience which greeted that excellent production was one which would dishearten most managers.

THE FORUM

The following is a copy of an open letter to Woodbrook Farms, of this city, which has been sent to The Daily Press:

Your letter of yesterday enclosing notice that beginning October 1st the price of milk would be advanced to twelve cents per quart is at hand. As one of your patrons for a long time I suppose that about the only thing to be done is to "pay the price" and keep on smiling.

But really, suppose that you are not making dividends is not a twenty per cent. advance all at once on a three days' notice rather disturbing to the innocent bystanders although their neutrality may not be protected by contract.

Let us have time to organize our forces to investigate and to mobilize for concerted opposition. Of course we do not want to be unjust, since you have been "retailing the product below the actual cost of production and delivery" at ten cents a quart, and we respectfully suggest that an advance of ten per cent., or one cent a quart, is all that is warranted at the present time, with a promise that a return to ten cents will be given next spring. Such a guarantee would do much to disarm the hostile spirit of your patrons who will find it difficult to pay the seven dollars and thirty cents extra in a year on each quart of milk used. This is no joke. If we must pay, why of course we must. Milk, and good milk, we must have. But let us off this winter on eleven cents with a promise of ten cents the first of May, 1915. Come on now, play fair.

Advantages of Buying in Plainfield

Reasons Set Forth by a Competitor in Trade in Plainfield Contest Held by the Daily Press

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I write this letter, hoping that practical mothers, who have tall girls to dress, may know where to obtain sensible heeled shoes. Our daughter of fifteen in stature like above mentioned, desired a pair of Colonial pumps of the latest style, but told me in a very unhappy voice, that she and her friend had visited all the shoe shops in town to find a pair with low common sense heels, for which they were both hunting. Upon this information I addressed seven of the large stores in New York, always receiving word the pumps they could furnish only with high heels of several styles. A week later reading our evening paper, the Plainfield Daily Press, I saw the sale of shoes for ladies and children at Woodhull & Martin's. As a last trial I visited their store to obtain just the shoe with the heel, for which I had been so anxiously looking.

Right here I must add, out of justice to our local merchants, this is not my first experience of finding in our little city most useful and desirable things I have hunted for elsewhere.

BISHOP WILSON TO TELL OF EXPERIENCES ABROAD

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, of New York, who has just returned from a trip to Europe, where he attended the foreign conferences of the Methodist Church, will preach at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock. Bishop Wilson was privileged to attend the brief, but interesting peace conference at Constance, Germany, and was among the American refugees abroad.

Inasmuch as "Peace Sunday" is to be observed on October 4, Bishop Wilson will undoubtedly have something of interest to say regarding his trip abroad, and the church considers itself fortunate in securing his presence at this time. All interested are invited to hear this able speaker.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 66 degrees; 11 a. m., 71 degrees; 1 p. m., 70 degrees.

JEWS THROUGHOUT WORLD OBSERVE YOM KIPPUR

New York, Sept. 30—The Jews throughout the world today observe the most solemn and important of all the holidays on their calendar—Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, or the Day of the Long Fast. It is the tenth day of the month of Tishri and the end of the ten penitential days, which are devoted to repentance and prayers. Yom Kippur is held as a strict fast day by the orthodox Jews. It begins, as do all the fasts and festivals in the Jewish calendar, in the evening, and continues until the following evening. During the twenty-four hours from sunset yesterday to sunset today no food or water passes the lips of the devout Hebrews. Men and women alike are required to fast, and the only ones who are exempted from this requirement are children, the very aged, persons in ill health and nursing mothers.

Beside the long fast the day is devoted to prayers of forgiveness for sin and in all the Jewish calendar there is no occasion which is so solemn and so fraught with deep sentiment as at this time. The services in the orthodox synagogues are practically continuous. Last evening the holiday was ushered in with the Kol Nidre, observed by the reformeda and orthodox alike, although under different circumstances. The solemn and inspiring music has been adapted to modern orchestras and is thus heard in the sanctuaries of the reformed. In the synagogues of the orthodox it is chanted by the cantors. The services today are divided into four sections known as Shacheras, Mussaf, Mincha and N'hila, but there is no intermission between the different sections, and the services continue until sunset, when the Shofar is sounded once only as an indication that the fast is ended.

HONORED HONORARY.

Among those who received honorable mention in the photo contest in the Saturday magazine of the New York Evening Post on Saturday last were W. Rolman Parvin and James [illegible], of this city. The former's [illegible] was entitled "Bright Outlook On Life," and the latter's "Seeing America First."

MISS JANET RICHARDS TO GIVE TWELVE TALKS

Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, whose series of talks on "Current Events," have attracted widespread interest in this city for the past two or three years, will be heard again in Plainfield during the coming winter, arrangements having been completed for her series of talks. They will be given at the Hartridge Auditorium.

Miss Richards will visit Plainfield on Thursday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock on the following dates: November 5 and 19, December 3 and 17, January 14 and 28, February 11 and 25, March 11 and 25 and April 8 and 15.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

If you should suddenly be confronted by a man with a loaded revolver determined on mistaken revenge which you cannot explain away, while he has the cold steel pressed against your temple and your only weapon is a little bag of tobacco, how would you get the better of him? That is one of the amusing highly dramatic situations in which Craigen, the man from Patagonia, finds himself, in "The Misleading Lady," which comes to the Plainfield Theatre, Monday night. The cast and production are virtually the same seen for seven months at the Fulton Theatre in New York last season. Lewis S. Stone heads the company in which also are Frank Sylvester, Doris Olsson, Albert Sackett, Henry Miller, Jr., Grace Barbour, Walter Regan, Alice Wilson and Daisy Adamy.

The Great Northern Film Company's big production of "Lay Down Your Arms," which is to be seen at the Plainfield Theatre on October 1 and 2, matinee and night, is a picture with a great purpose. It presents the most powerful argument for peace ever advanced, by its terribly realistic portrayal of the horrors of war. No one can witness its exhibition and see the awful carnage on the battlefields and the miseries that war brings into the homes of combatants, without becoming a bitter censor of war and an enthusiastic advocate of peace. The picture deals with the greatest problem of all times and is destined to accomplish much toward advancing the cause of universal peace throughout the world. The book of "Lay Down Your Arms" has been aptly termed the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of European literature, so forcibly does it describe the reigning menace of Europe. As "Uncle Tom's Cabin" exposed the chief evil of America at the time of its publication, so does "Lay Down Your Arms," expose the principal evil in Europe, but while slavery was abolished in this country, war still flourishes abroad.

WAR NEWS

ing constantly reinforced from Vilna. The Russians have already repulsed the Germans at several points.

A message from Berlin contains the following report given out at the German army headquarters today: "There has been general fighting on our right wing in France but nothing decisive. The centre is quiet. The French advances in the vicinity of Verdun and Toul have been renewed."

The Japanese fleet bombarded Tsing Tau for hours yesterday. Troops attacked Germans by land simultaneously and forced the defenders of the city to evacuate all their outer lines of defense. The casualities are said to be small.

According to an official statement issued last night four British steamships and colliers have been sunk in the Bay of Bengal by the German cruiser Emden.

A traveler from Antwerp says that a remarkable guerilla warfare is proceeding around Antwerp. Every night the Belgians have terrorized the German outposts almost beyond endurance. There is scarcely a night when German sentries are not killed, German trains blown up and havoc worked on their line of communications.

Sentiment in Throgmorton street was cheerful today, helped by reports of German defeats in Russia and France. The Stock Exchange committee and Chancellor of the Excherquer, David Lloyd George, have reached the general agreement for the protection of the Stock Exchange preparatory to reopening the Exchange. The details of the agreement will be elaborated shortly. Trading in securities was quiet today with brokers cautious, pending the publication of the moratorium proclamation this evening.

Amsterdam, Sept. 30—The following official statement of the fighting in France and Belgium was given out last night by the Berlin war office: "The conflict on our right has been so far indecisive. Fighting continues to be heavy along the general front between the Oise and the Meuse. Siege guns yesterday opened fire against part of the Antwerp fortifications. The Russian advance across the River Niemen, in Russian Poland, is directed against the German forces in the Suvalki region. Heavy artillery has been brought to bear against Osowice."

Twenty thousand Germans have reoccupied Alost. The Belgians are advancing from Antwerp and a general battle is looked for on the Belgian soil.

New York, Sept. 30.—A wireless message from Berlin this morning read: "Reports made public here from Constantinople declare that owing to the bellicose attitude of British warships cruising near the Dardanelles, Turkey has closed this waterway. The people of Holland are described in Berlin as excited by the repeated capture of Netherlands ships by the British. The Rotterdam Courant declares that Great Britain is acting in utter disregard of the rights of neutral states. It says the Netherlands steamer Sophie from Rotterdam for New York was captured by British warships in the channel and taken into Lowestoft."

The steamship United States, of the Scandinavian-American Line, arrived this morning from Danish ports with 400 returning Americans. Capt. Goetsche said that he had an uneventful voyage. The captain minimized the danger from the German mines in the North Sea, saying that a number of merchantmen, to his personal knowledge, had struck mines without exploding them. Several of the passengers who came from East Prussia told stories of the operations there and of large losses sustained by the Czar's men.

The Belgian special commissioners who came here some time ago to lay before President Wilson the story of the alleged Belgian atrocities, left for home on the White Star liner Adriatic today for Liverpool.

Rome, Sept. 30 (Central News Cable).—A Germany army of twelve corps has been attacking the Russian positions on the River Niemen, in Russian Poland, for the last seven days, says a despatch from Petrograd to the Tribuna. The German bombardment of Ossovietz is said to have been ineffectual. The Kaiser has established his headquarters in Suvalki. The Russians have concentrated their armies from Vilna and Grodno along the Niemen. The Germans are attempting to cut the railways between Warsaw and Petrograd. The battle will perhaps continue for several weeks.

The death in the fighting in the battle of the Aisne of the movies artist, Max Linder, is reported in a despatch from Berlin.

Antwerp, Sept. 30 (Central News Cable).—It is reported here that the Germans have destroyed a quarter of the city of Tournai, in Hainaut, Belgium, levied a war contribution thereon of two million francs and arrested a number of notable citizens. It is declared that a number of the Germans' heavy guns were taken to Namur before the war and concealed in a quarry belonging to the Germans.

It is reported the Germans have bombarded Lierra, a manufacturing town nine miles east of Antwerp. It is feared the whole town is in ruins.

Copenhagen, Sept. 30.—Word reached here to the effect that the Kiel Canal is alive with German warships being refitted with new ordinance and made ready for an impending encounter with the British fleet patrolling the North Sea.

Paris, Sept. 30.—A news agency despatch from Petrograd says that the Kurds, incited by the authorities, have attacked the Persian population near the Turkish frontier.

The Municipal Council of Vienna has voted 1,000,000 crowns $200,000) for the construction of isolation hospitals near that city in anticipation of an epidemic of Asiatic cholera. This information was forwarded by a correspondent at Milan of the Paris Midi, which says that the cholera has been reported in various detachments of the army. Whether any cases have yet been discovered in Vienna is not disclosed.

Pekin, Sept. 30.—Chinese troops this afternoon destroyed the railroad bridge near Weihawei in the Shangtung Peninsula, thus interferring with the communication of the Japanese troops in Kiao Chau.

Washington, Sept. 30.—Setting at rest a report that the British Consul General in New York was recruiting men for the British army, Sir Cecil A. Spring Rice, the British ambassador, has issued a denial that any men are being enlisted in this country. Such action, the Envoy declared, would be a violation of neutrality and never had been contemplated. He explained, however, that British consuls were submitting to medical examination such British subjects as volunteered to return to England enter the army. This fact, he said, probably gave rise to the report that a widespread enlistment was being undertaken.

A message from United States Minister Schmedeman, at Christinia, says that a loan of 25,000,000 crowns ($6,700,000) will be arranged for in the United States by the Norwegian Government, which has commissioned three agents who were expected to arrive in New York yesterday.

French finances are in a healthy condition, according to the French embassy, which made public today a despatch it had just received from M. Delcasse, Minister for Foreign Affairs. The despatch read: "The decree of the French Government, dated yesterday, September 28, confirming the moratorium increases the limit to which manufacturers and merchants may draw on their accounts to two-thirds of their accounts as balanced on August 4, the date of the first moratorium. I call you attention to this disposition which will facilitate economic and industrial conditions."

FINAL EXPENSE ACCOUNTS FILED BY CANDIDATES

Elizabeth, Sept. 30.—The final expense accounts of various candidates for the nominations made last Tuesday have been filed with County Clerk James C. Calvert as follows: Samuel P. T. Wilbur, Republican candidate for sheriff, $58.99; F. Otto Linke, Democratic aspirant for the Assembly, also of Plainfield, $9.25; Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, successful candidate for the Assembly nomination on the Republican ticket, $50.10; James P. Kelly, the Democratic nominee for registrar of deed, $114.40; James J. Potts, his opponent, $98.50; Fred Englehardt, of Rahway, Democratic candidate for sheriff, $88.06, and John L. Crowell, seeking the county clerk nomination, spent nothing.

The Armies

of England, France, Germany and Russia are not permitted to use a pound of alum baking powder. The efficiency of the soldiers depends too much upon their health and endurance to risk the use of food which the authorities believe would be detrimental. Therefore the manufacture and sale of the alum powder is prohibited.

Royal Baking Powder is extensively used privately and by the military forces throughout the world. Its absolute wholesomeness, imparting as it does, healthful as well as appetizing qualities to the food, and its perfect keeping qualities in every climate and under different conditions, make it particularly desirable for all conditions of use.

MAY CONTEST BORO SPECIAL ELECTION

It is Rumored That Steps May Be Taken to Upset the Result.

Rumors have been rife in the borough the past day or two to the effect that those who oppose the consolidation of city and borough, would soon take steps to have the result of the special election set aside on technical legal grounds. It is claimed that the irregularity complained of is that on the morning of the election a citizen of the Fourth district was registered by affidavit and allowed to vote, prior to the time the Election Board received an opinion from Borough Counsel Isaac P. Runyon as to who should be permitted to vote.

A member of the Board in discussing the matter with a reporter for the Daily Press today, said that the method of registry was employed because of a clerical error in not having the name appear on the registry list. So far as known this was the only case of the kind, although it has been intimated that there were one or two similar cases in the First district. This, however, could not be confirmed.

There have also been rumors of a recount of the votes, because of the large number of rejected ballots, there being thirty-one in all five districts. It is said, however, that many of these ballots indicate that the intent was to vote for consolidation. This is said to be true in the case of eleven ballots rejected in the Fourth district.

Efforts to confirm the rumors as to a recount or the efforts to have the election set aside have been unavailing. If an application for a recount is to be made, action must be taken within ten days after the election or by Monday, October 5.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The senior class held a meeting yesterday afternoon to decide the dues for the coming year. There was much discussion regarding the amount to be charged and twenty cents a month was finally decided on. The report of the treasurer of last year was read and showed that the class had a balance of $49. The expense of the senior class this year will be very large as it expects to give the boys' and girls' basketball team a banquet. The senior class this year is one of the largest in the last ten years and many good athletes will graduate.

The executive committee of the Sigma Gamma Kappa Society held a meeting in the history room yesterday to appoint committees for the various entertainments this year.

The Misses Margaret and Amelia Brizzie are preparing for their marshmallow roast, at which they expect to entertain many of their friends at the foot of Watchung Mountain, Friday evening.

PLAINFIELD NEWS.

There is no better way to keep out-of-town friends informed as to Plainfield news than to mail to them from time to time a copy of The Press after you have finished with it, sometimes marking an article of special interest.

Better yet, you might send some one out-of-town a subscription to receive The Daily Press every day at the rate of 10 cents a week or $5.00 a year.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

MAC SAYS

The wood on the Columbus Club chutes is still ringing from the effects of the slam banging it was treated to at the hands of Chief Kiely, Monday night. The "Big Fellow" gave a creditable exhibition of the way they pin on the Elks' alleys and had some of the West Front street athletes sitting up while he graced the rendezvous with his presence. Kiely's average for the evening was little short of phenomenal and his high score of 267 was nothing to be scoffed at.

Indications for a city bowling league are coming to light every day. Present prospects point to a healthy infant coming into the sporting world this fall and the Queen City pinners are getting into trim for the curtain raising. Although nothing definite has been done to organize the league we have it on good authority that those boosting the movement mean business and that's all that is necessary.

Jack Martin packed his duds and left for Philly this morning, after a week's layoff caused by an injury he received in one of the Quaker's games. The Dooin club finishes its schedule for the year with the Giants and Jack will probably be back in Queen City environment again Friday, to commute back and forth to the Metropolis for the Giant-Philly engagements at that place.

Further evidence of the haste of local football managers to ring up the 1914 season was exhibited yesterday, when Manager Updike, of the Plainfield High School eleven, announced that his Saturday contest had been pulled forward to Friday. Oh, well, the sooner the better.

Boy scoutdom will have its day at Parker Field, October 17. Giving the calendar of events that has been arranged, the once-over indicates to us that the program will furnish plenty of entertainment for all who love outdoor sports and a record attendance should be on hand to witness the novel sports.

Whatsmatter with that quoit league that certain lodge members in this section were talking so much about a couple of months ago? We admit that quoits are a minor sport interest, but it is up to us to keep interest alive in this department as well as in any other.

Jack Martin is the honorary guest at a banquet in Philadelphia tonight. Although we have a slight suspicion that Jack has gathered a little popularity while a member of the Philly outfit he contends that people think he needs a square meal and are going to furnish him with the grub. Well, Jack, we're always sorry for anybody who has to eat, anyway.

Jim Emery is making regular week-end trips to this city to play the keystone sack for the Pets these days. Jim had a good year in the bushes and is thoroughly satisfied with the treatment he is receiving as a leaguer.

The Plainfield High School feminine basketball manager is certainly there as a game "scheduler." You have to hand it to any school booker who has nerve enough to start the season off with the Alumni as opponents. She is evidently planning on taking the shortest road to fame.

It's a case of Saengerbund Hall for the boroughites again this season. Well, the Somerset street rendezvous is all right in a pinch and considering the fact that the boroughites won the title there last year we will probably be able to stand it again.

Plainfield High School's basketball manager is another local promoter who is one of those individuals who are not afflicted with "cold feet." He took some chance when he signed Lafayette College to appear on the local court.

Jack Fritts will migrate to Newark, Saturday, to perform in the Newark cops' athletic festival. Jack has been getting into trim by chasing lawless kids during the past week and great things are expected of him by his fellow coppers on the force.

Rumor has it that roller skating will be substituted for field hockey in the Plainfield High School this fall. So much consternation has been felt over the girls' inactivity in the hockey sport that some radical change will have to be made in the very near future.

Monroe Good is Plainfield's representative in collegiate football this year. He is being used by Colgate on the line, a position for which he has always seemed particularly well fitted but has never before been used in.

Everybody has the tennis bug in this city and borough. The N. P. H. S. tourney gets under way this afternoon and some more good tennis is in order. The youngsters who competed for the Princeton Club's tourney last Saturday, in several cases, will make their appearance today on a North Plainfield court.

News headline—Olympic games will not come to the United States. Another load off the American sportsman's mind.

BASEBALL NOTES

Pitcher Alexander, of the Phillies, has pulled down a bonus of $1,000 by winning 25 games this season.

Both Springfield and Decatur topped the champion Davenport team in hitting, according to Three-I League averages.

Outfielder Joe Connolly still continues as the only regular among the Boston Braves to hit for .300 or better.

The Brooklyn Superbas have made a season's record by capturing a whole series of five games, the Cincinnati Reds being the victims.

For three consecutive seasons Manager Joe Killian has piloted the Oshkosh team to the championship of the Wisconsin-Illinois League.

The management of the Chicago Cubs has refused to give Captain Tommy Leach a three-year contract. Tom now threatens to jump to the Federals.

By defeating the New London Eastern Association championships in four games out of six, the champion Lawrence team, of the New England League, won the minor league championship of New England.

In pitching and winning a double-header against Detroit the other day, Ray Collins, the Red Sox flinger, cut in with a stunt seldom seen in major leagues circles nowadays.

MARTIN GOES BACK.

Jack Martin, the local ball player, who has been ill for about one week, reported to Manager Dooin this afternoon and will be back at his regular position at short in the game with Brooklyn. Jack was spiked in the ankle last week and has been out ever since.

GUESTS OF JACK MARTIN'S.

Mr. and Mrs. James Emery and son, of Irvington, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin. Mr. Emery or "Jim," as he is known in these parts, played with the Pets last Saturday.

CARLSTROM HITS .259.

According to the official averages of the International League, Albin Carlstrom, Buffalo's utility player, batted .259 for the season and participated in seventy-seven battles. Out of 278 attempts at the bat "Abbie" swatted out seventy-two average boosters and registered thirty-five runs. He bagged twenty-five two-timers, five triples and three circuit clouts. He did not appear in the Bison's lineup in the last three weeks.

GIANTS vs. YANKS.

At a meeting between H. N. Hempstead and Frank Farrell in New York late yesterday afternoon, it was decided to play a post-season series between the Giants and Yankees. The first game will be played October 8. The series will be the best four out of seven games, world series rules to govern.

BEST SHALL BE FIRST ACCORDING TO DOYLE

Franklins, of Newark, Will Open Local Gridiron Season Saturday.

Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross football team, has prepared a big treat for the followers of his team right off the reel and will have the Franklins, of Newark, one of the best teams in the State, here next Saturday afternoon, when the representative eleven of the borough makes its first appearance of the season. The Holy Cross booker had entered into and almost completed negotiations with the Trojan A. C., of Elizabeth, but he figured that the Franklins would be a greater attraction for an opener. After trying for a long time with no results, the local manager finally induced the Newark pigskin followers to come here for the initial festivities.

The Newark eleven has always been a keen rival of the local team and is well liked in this city because of its sportsmanship qualities and clean methods of playing. They have a large delegation of rooters in the big city and last year they brought about two hundred with them each time they appeared. Those who followed the Holy Cross team faithfully last season will remember the great series of three games that was played between these two teams. The announcement that the Franklins were to be here was a fine drawing card and the biggest audience of the season saw the Newarkers take the locals into camp for their first defeat of the season. Doyle succeeded in signing this club for another Saturday game on the Cricket Field and this time the boroughites got sweet revenge and evened the series up. Still a third battle was arranged between these two elevens so that the series would be decided, but the third game ended in a tie. This team was the best the locals encountered last year and the two were very evenly matched. The Franklins have the same players this year that defeated the locals last season and, for an opener, the contest Saturday should be a fine one.

Both teams are practicing particularly hard for this struggle as both want to mark the first game in the victory column. Holy Cross practiced hard last night and will have another workout tomorrow night in the presence of Coach Martin, who is gradually picking out his men for the first engagement. Many new candidates are making strong bids for positions and the team will have a fine set of second string players.

Manager Doyle expects a record-breaking crowd out Saturday. He will have several assistants to help him. The local booker will probably have the Trojans here some time soon and also has a long string of stellar attractions for Plainfield football fans which will cover a period of about two months.

The signing of this team to appear here in the first game was a great surprise to all, including the members of the team, as it was looked for as a mid-season game. They will probably appear here some time again before the season closes.

ARMY-NAVY CONTEST IS IMPROBABLE THIS YEAR

Washington, Sept. 30—Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who were made the court of last resort in the Army-Navy football controversy, have been unable to reach an agreement that will break the deadlock, and the outlook now is that there will be no West Point-Anapolis game this year.

Secretary Garrison has advised the athletic association of West Point that, in his opinion, there should be no yielding on the tentative ten-year agreement of last year, under which each team would alternate in selecting a city for the annual game. Secretary Daniels is inclined to agree with Secretary of War, but the athletic associations are now so far apart that it is thought unlikely that an agreement will be reached. If the game falls through this year an attempt will be made to reach a satisfactory understanding for future games.

BOSTON TO HONOR THE BRAVES.

Boston, Sept. 30—Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday announced that the organization would take official notice of the victory of the Boston team in the National League. A banquet will be tendered the members of the team during the world's series to celebrate their success. Governor Walsh and Acting Mayor McDonald have promised to attend, and have seconded an invitation to Governor Tener, of Pennsylvania, president of the league, to be present.

GIRLS' SEASON TO OPEN NOVEMBER 28

Plainfield High School Feminine Squad to Take on the Alumni.

The girls' basketball schedule of the Plainfield High School will be opened November 28 with a contest against the alumni sextet organized and led by Miss Helen Brynairski, a player on the P. H. S. squad in 1913. For her challenging outfit the leader has selected the stars of future red and blue teams and believes she has an invincible delegation ready to inaugurate the sport in the new gym on West Ninth street.

Miss Ruth Douglas, captain of the 1912 team, and Miss Jessie Stewart, captain of the 1913 contingent, will be among the performers. Miss Rodenbaugh and Miss Bessie Morris, the latter one of last year's team, have already been approached and have consented to play. Miss Alice Mehl, who is at present playing with the Montclair Normal School aggregation, will complete the sextet.

Miss Sadie Rothberg, captain of the P. H. S. girls' team for this year, is arranging a schedule with formidable feminine teams in this State and expects to pit her charges against some of the stiffest propositions that have been signed in recent years to appear at the Plainfield rendezvous.

MR. AND MRS. JACK MARTIN GUESTS AT DINNER PARTY

Several baseball fans of Philadelphia are going to have a "Jack Martin Day" all to themselves tonight, when Mr. and Mrs. Martin, of this city, will be guests at a dinner given by some of the local ballplayer's friends in the Quaker City. Mrs. Martin accompanied her husband to Philadelphia this morning and will witness the game this afternoon.

Ever since he has been with the Phillies, Jack has been very popular and well liked by the fans of that place. There has been some talk of having a big celebration for the local player at that place, but nothing has been done as yet.

MRS. H. R. STOCKTON WINS GROSS CUP IN "MET" GOLF

Convent, N. J., Sept. 30.—The second one day handicap tournament of the fall season was held yesterday by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association at the Morris County Golf Club. About thirty women golfers played.

Mrs. H. R. Stockton, of the Plainfield Country Club, won the gross prize with a splendid 86, the best golf that has been played by a woman at Morris County in a long time. The net prize was won by Mrs. C. F. Uebelacker, of Hackensack. Her winning score was 97, 7-90.

There were also two Westfield entries in the tournament. Miss Gardner returned a score of 118, 18-98, and Mrs. H. E. Manyel had a score of 114, 10-104.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Joe Pendleton, the well known referee of football games in the East, will again be on the job this year.

Tack Hardick, of the Crimson eleven, is the strongest man at Harvard, having set up a new strength test record of 1381 points.

The Annapolis middies will play Pennsylvania at Franklin Field, October 17. The Navy has never before played away from home except against the Army.

It is said Michigan supporters are offering wagers at evens that the Wolverines will defeat Harvard when the two elevens meet at Cambridge on October 31.

BRAVES WIN FLAG.

Boston has won the National League pennant for the season of 1914. The Braves made certain of the flag yesterday when they beat the Chicago Cubs while the Giants lost to the Pirates. The Giants still have eight games to play and the Braves nine. If New York wins eight games straight and the Braves lose nine in a row the record at the end of the season would read:

	W.	L.	Pc.
Boston	88	65	.575
New York	88	66	.571

GEORGE LEIGHS TO MANAGE HOPE FIVE

Re-elected to This Position at a Meeting Held Last Night.

At a meeting of the Hope Chapel Club, last night, George T. Leighs, Jr., was re-elected manager of the basketball team for the coming season. There was a large representation out at the meeting and several important matters were discussed. Those who are interested in the Hope teams expect to see another fine quintet on the floor this year, and although the team is handicapped by the loss of several players, practice will be started early and a good team rounded out.

The position of captain was not filled last night, and it will not be until the first game is played. Manager Leighs will have charge of affairs until the season is fairly started and then a leader will be chosen. The schedule will start the first Saturday night in November and the first practice has been called for next Tuesday night in the chapel gym when all those who expect to tryout for positions should report.

Jack Martin, who coached the team last season, has consented to do so again and will take charge of the men as soon as he leaves the ball field for the winter, which will be next week. Jack will have his hands full to round out a team to uphold the record of last year, but there are many promising men to pick from. Manager Leighs would like to hear from all teams in this vicinity, especially the Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools.

HOPE CHAMPIONS WILL BE HONORED

Dinner Will Be Given for Sunday School League Winners Next Month.

The Hope Chapel champion baseball team will be honored by members of the church on Tuesday evening, October 20, when they will be the guests at a chicken dinner given in the chapel rooms. The league, which the Fourth street aggregation won this season, proved to be a farce at the finish, but the Hope team was the only club that lived up to the rules of the league and can therefore proclaim themselves as Sunday-school champions.

The Hope team made a fine record this year and one of its notable victories was over the Westfield club that proved a falling stone to other local teams. While the church league was running in real order the Hope team took the lead of the organization and maintained it till the end of the season. Gradually the other two teams in the league broke the rules concerning players and protests were filed after every Saturday game. The Fourth street team has also played many independent games on days when it was not scheduled to play in the league. The Bound Brook teams were good opponents of the Hope team and the series that were played were about evened up.

NEW YORK HORSE SHOW.

New York is not to be deprived of its annual horse show in Madison Square Garden, although the original fixtures of the National Horse Show Association has been abandoned because of the impossibility of getting the foreign army officers who have provided the big features of recent shows. G. Jacson Waters is the leader in the new movement to hold the show, which took definite form at a well attended meeting held at the Metropolitan Club last night.

SENIORS vs. JUNIORS.

"Bill" Nash's senior pinners and Chauncey Stout's junior bowlers will meet for the first time on the Elks' alleys tomorrow night in a practice game. Both teams are entered in the State Elks Leagues and will play against each other for practice until the schedule starts.

WORLD SERIES DATES.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—The world's series baseball games will open in Philadelphia on October 9 and 10 and in Boston, October 12 and 13, at Philadelphia, October 14, Boston, October 15. If a seventh game is necessary the commission will decide where it will be played. President Gaffney, of Boston, called the coin and lost.

IF THE PETS GET ELEVEN RUNS THEY MAY GET TROPHY

With ten runs to the bad, Manager Ernest Dorflinger will again lead his Pets on the field of battle against the Saurer club next Saturday afternoon in the last stand of the season and the last grand try for that silver loving cup that stands in a show window on Front street. The Pets will have to score eleven runs and shut their opponents out in the last game in order to take possession of that trophy.

Saurers have taken advantage of the Pets' weaknesses and have piled up enough runs to make them rest easy for the third game.

WITH THE BOXERS

Leach Cross and Charley White have been signed for a clash at Milwaukee, October 16.

Harry Foley claims he has discovered a wonderful boxer in the person of Ralph Grunau, a lightweight of Portland, Ore.

Winnipeg promoters are trying to arrange a match between Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion, and Pal Brown, of Hibbing, Minn.

Eddie Sheylin, the Boston welterweight, who has been boxing instructor at Dartmouth College, has resigned to accept a similar position at Cornell.

Seventeen channel bass and one large striped bass were taken from the surf at Corson's Inlet last week. One man had five of the channel bass, two of which were taken on Wednesday and three on Thursday.

Another angler, while fishing in the surf Saturday night, landed the largest striped bass taken at Corson's this year, and the second one to be taken from the beach in three years. It weighed twenty-six and one-half pounds, and was beached in ten minutes.

Anglers at Corson's Inlet have been fairly slaughtering the weakfish and croakers. Catches run from 100 to 300 fish each trip. The men fish in the ocean, a mile or two off shore. Many of the weakfish run from three to five pounds apiece.

Good fishing is being enjoyed at Longwood Lake.

WILL CHALLENGE WINNERS.

Charles Nash and Dick Underhill, two crack tennis players of Watchung, will challenge the winners of the doubles match of the North Plainfield High School tennis tournament, to a match to be played on any court that may be agreed upon by the competitors.

HERE'S SOME CHALLENGE.

The Oriole football team, the only colored eleven in this city, extends an open challenge to all local teams after October 10. Arrangements can be made by calling 327-Plainfield.

TWO DANCE DATES.

The dates of two social events were announced today, one being that of the Italian Nest of Owls ball to be held at Saengerbund Hall, November 26. This is the third annual event under the auspices of the lodge. The other is a masque ball to be held under the auspices of the Silent Circle on October 30, at the Nonpareil Club House, on St. Mary's avenue.

JACOBEAN SIDEBOARD WITH INLAY

Entire Collection Valued at More Than $400,000, of the Aimone Manufacturing Company, Known Throughout the United States as Makers and Importers of Fine Furniture

Open to Public View and Sale Tomorrow, Thursday, in the House Palatial and Furniture Gallery on the Fifth Floor, New Wanamaker Building at Astor Place

"IS IT TRUE that you have taken over the Aimone collection?" asked a large furniture manufacturer, and before we could speak he added: "You need not reply unless you want to, but I heard the rumor and I couldn't resist coming down to see you."

"It is true," we said.

"Then I want to say," he followed, "that it is the greatest thing any store has ever done.

"The Aimone name is known in homes all over the United States as a synonym for the finest furniture that is made.

"It is known not only to dealers but to people who buy the finest furniture. For years the best decorators of the country have been recommending Aimone furniture and they have taken their customers into the Aimone factory to make their selections there. Now you offer it, as you tell me, to the general public at prices dealers have paid wholesale. Do you wonder I say it is the greatest thing any store has done!"

And yet many readers of this newspaper have perhaps not heard the name Aimone.

This is because the Aimones themselves—there are two brothers—have the modesty of genius.

And the buildings in which they have worked for the past twenty years are like their tenants.

Fronting on East 23rd Street, near the New York Yacht Club anchorage, is a small fifteen-foot, two-story front. That is all a passing world may see.

But behind it, unseen by the casual passerby, is a cluster of buildings extending through to 22nd Street—cabinet shops, finishing rooms, artists' studios, and five great floors of galleries and show-rooms, a veritable treasure-house of really fine furniture.

Here the Aimones labored with joy and were content.

What they made in these workshops and what they brought from Europe in addition—for they are importers as well as makers—was sold by others. Practically their only advertising was done by the furniture itself, and by the decorators who recommended it.

Suddenly they faced the expiration of twenty years' lease on their buildings.

This necessitated a new policy of action.

They decided upon a greater efficiency and a broader field in manufacturing, giving up their sales warerooms.

So the stocks on hand are to be sold.

They come to Wanamaker's for disposal because no house in the world has a higher standard in furniture, no house has demonstrated an equal capacity for quick general distribution of fine furniture on so large a scale.

Thoroughly to appreciate what these Aimone stocks are, you must know something more of the men who made and assembled them. Head and heart, as well as hands, enter into the making of fine furniture.

Carlo A. Aimone was born and brought up in Italy, in an atmosphere of things historical and artistic.

He served his apprenticeship in Turin with his uncle, a highly skilled cabinet-worker who had learned his trade in the best shops of France and Italy.

He came to America—where he believed the demand for classic furniture was to have its highest development—a finished cabinet-worker, and started business in a little loft at 117 Prince Street, New York, in 1878, with one helper.

Three years later his brother, Raimondo C. Aimone, came to America and joined him.

By this time C. A. Aimone had gathered around him a small band of the best workmen, among them wood-carvers whose reproductions were endowed with the lightness and grace of the master wood-carvers, Grinling, Gibbons, "court carvers in wood to his Majesty George I."

Twelve men were with him when, in 1881, he moved into larger quarters at 30 and 32 South Fifth Avenue.

The business grew.

Seven years later more space was required, and the entire building at 177 Prince Street was taken over.

During the next five years the correctness and careful attention to the minutest details in the Aimone products became generally appreciated throughout the United States, and the move to 23rd Street was made.

Now—20 years later—another step upward is to be taken, to facilitate which this disposal of all stocks on hand has been decided upon.

It is interesting to note among other things, that—

Every man in the Aimone works is a trained cabinet worker.

There is not a nail in the place.

The only woods used are the finest woods of commerce—San Domingan, Mexican and Cuban mahogany, Circassian walnut from the Black Sea district, satinwood from Cuba and Ceylon, white mahogany from Cuba and India, and straight-grained American oak, free of all champs and blotches.

None of the cheaper woods is used; no birch, no ash, no maple.

Every piece of lumber is bone-dry when bought, kept in a kiln from four to six months, then piled up for a year before being used.

All large curved pieces are double veneered on both sides, the very small curved pieces single veneered on both sides. They cannot warp or change their shape.

All delicate pieces are mortised together; the stronger pieces are dovetailed. None can warp or split.

All mirror backs are of selected wood, finished as finely as the wood in front.

The enamelled furniture is in a class by itself. The tone will never fade, nor the finish wear off. Many pieces and parts of pieces, unfinished, in course of construction, will be shown. They were taken from work in hand. We want you to see as you can see fully in no other way, how perfect in every detail, how fine from center to surface this Aimone furniture is.

It is a collection we would be proud to offer our customers at the Aimone regular prices.

To offer it at the lowered prices we feel is the greatest privilege we have enjoyed in our furniture history—in which is written the Pooley, Cowan and other remarkable purchases.

The collection is unusually comprehensive in its range of prices.

There are chairs for $40, $50, $60 and $70—and others for as much as $500.

There are many pieces much under a hundred dollars and some well into the thousands of dollars.

There is a large variety of small furniture—much in demand for gifts, especially at Christmas—trays, tables, muffin stands, book block, etc., for a few dollars.

The Collection

(1.) Adaptations of the purest and best types in period furniture.

(2.) Verisimilitude copies of fine antique pieces of historical interest.

(3.) Rare antique pieces, Italian marbles and terra-cottas and objets d'art, personally selected by Mr. R. C. Aimone on annual visits to the art centers of Europe.

(4.) Lacquered furniture in black, red, bistre, blue and green, made in the Aimone workshops, among the first—certainly the finest—examples of lacquer work done in America.

These are all offered at greatly below the Aimone inflexible price, stated on the Aimone ticket, affixed to each piece.

The House Palatial

was temporarily closed to permit of its refurnishing entirely with the Aimone furniture and art work—each of its twenty-three rooms showing complete individual examples of how the furniture will appear in one's own home.

There could be no finer setting for the Aimone furniture than the House Palatial.

There could be no finer furnishings for the House Palatial than the Aimone furniture.

CHAPTER XVI.

Karenin, the Russian.

THE new government early discovered the need of a universal education to fit men to the great conceptions of its universal rule. It made no wrangling attacks on the local, racial and sectarian forms of religious profession, but it proclaimed, as if it were a mere secular truth, that sacrifice was expected from all, that respect had to be shown to all; it revived schools or set them up afresh all round the world, and everywhere these schools taught the history of war and the consequences and moral of the last war; it was taught not as a sentiment, but as a matter of fact, that the salvation of the world from waste and contention was the common duty and occupation of all men and women. These things, which are now the elementary commonplaces of human intercourse, seemed to the councilors of Brissago, when first they dared to proclaim them, marvelously daring discoveries, not untouched by doubt, that flushed the cheek and fired the eye.

The council placed all this education and reconstruction in the hands of a committee of men and women, which did its work during the next few decades with remarkable breadth and effectiveness. This educational committee was and is the correlative upon the mental and spiritual side of the redistribution committee. And prominent upon it, and indeed for a time quite dominating it, was a Russian named Karenin, who was singular in being a congenital cripple. His body was bent so that he walked with difficulty, suffered much pain as he grew older, and had at last to undergo two operations. The second killed him. Already malformation, which was to be seen in every crowd during the middle ages, so that the crippled beggar was, as it were, an essential feature of the human spectacle, was becoming a strange thing in the world. It had a curious effect upon Karenin's colleagues; their feeling toward him was mingled with pity and a sense of inhumanity that it needed usage rather than reason to overcome. He had a strong face, with little bright brown eyes, rather deeply sunken, and a large resolute, thin lipped mouth. His skin was very yellow and wrinkled and his hair iron gray. He was at all times an impatient and sometimes an angry man, but this was forgiven him because of the hot wire of suffering that was manifestly thrust through his being. At the end of his life his personal prestige was very great. To him far more than to any contemporary is it due that self abnegation, self identification with the world spirit, was made the basis of universal education. That general memorandum to the teachers which is the keynote of the modern educational system was probably entirely his work.

"Whosoever would save his soul shall lose it," he wrote. "That is the device upon the seal of this document and the starting point of all we have to do. It is a mistake to regard it as anything but a plain statement of fact. It is the basis for your work. You have to teach self forgetfulness, and everything else that you have to teach is contributory and subordinate to that end. Education is the release of man from self. You have to widen the horizons of your children, encourage and intensify their curiosity and their creative impulses and cultivate and enlarge their sympathies. That is what you are for. Under your guidance and the suggestions you will bring to bear on them they have to shed the old Adam of instinctive suspicions, hostilities and passions and to find themselves again in the great being of the universe. The little circles of their egotisms have to be opened out until they become arcs in the sweep of the racial purpose. And this that you teach to others you must learn also sedulously yourselves. Philosophy, discovery, art, every sort of skill, every sort of service, love—these are the means of salvation from that narrow loneliness of desire, that brooding preoccupation with self and egotistical relationships, which is hell for the individual, treason to the race and exile from God."

As things round themselves off and accomplish themselves one begins for the first time to see them clearly. From the perspectives of a new age one can look back upon the great and widening stream of literature with a complete understanding. Things link up that seemed disconnected, and things that were once condemned as harsh and aimless are seen to be factors in the statement of a gigantic problem. An enormous bulk of the sincerer writing of the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth centuries falls together now into an unanticipated unanimity. One sees it as a huge tissue of variations upon one theme, the conflict of human egotism and personal passion and narrow imagination on the one hand against the growing sense of wider necessities and a possible, more spacious life.

That conflict is in evidence in, so early a work as Voltaire's "Candide," for example, in which the desire for justice as well as happiness beats against human contrariety and takes refuge at last in a forced and inconclusive contentment with little things. "Candide" was but one of the pioneers of a literature of uneasy complaint that was presently an innumerable multitude of books. The novels, more particularly, of the nineteenth century, if one excludes the mere story tellers from our consideration, witness to this uneasy realization of changes that call for effort and of the lack of that effort. In a thousand aspects, now tragically, now comically, now with a funny affectation of divine detachment, a countless host of witnesses tell their story of lives fretting between dreams and limitations. Now one laughs, now one weeps, now one reads with a blank astonishment at this huge and almost unpremediated record of how the growing human spirit, now warily, now eagerly, now furiously, and always, as it seems, unsuccessfully, tried to adapt itself to the maddening misfit of its patched and ancient garments. And always in these books, as one draws nearer to the heart of the matter, there comes a disconcerting evasion. It was the fantastic convention of the time that a writer should not touch upon religion. To do so was to rouse the jealous fury of the great multitude of the professional religious teachers. It was permitted to state the discord, but it was forbidden to glance at any possible reconciliation. Religion was the privilege of the pulpit.

It was not only from the novels that religion was omitted. It was ignored by the newspapers. It was pendantically disregarded in the discussion of business questions. It played a trivial and apologetic part in public affairs. And this was done not out of contempt, but respect. The hold of the old religious organizations upon men's respect was still enormous, so enormous that there seemed to be a quality of irreverence in applying religion to the developments of every day. This strange suspension of religion lasted over into the beginnings of the new age. It was the clear vision of Marcus Karenin much more than any other contemporary influence which brought it back into the texture of human life. He saw religion without hallucinations, without superstitious reverence, as a common thing as necessary as food and air, as land and energy to the life of man and the well being of the republic. He saw that indeed it had already percolated away from the temples and hierarchies and symbols in which men had sought to imprison it, that it was already at work anonymously and obscurely in the universal acceptance of the greater state. He gave it clearer expression, rephrased it to the lights and perspectives of the new dawn.

But if we return to our novels for our evidence of the spirit of the times it becomes evident as one reads them in their chronological order, so far as that is now ascertainable, that as one comes to the later nineteenth century and the earlier twentieth century the writers are much more acutely aware of secular change than their predecessors were. The earlier novelists tried to show "life as it is," the later showed life as it changes. More and more of their characters are engaged in adaptation to change or suffering from the effects of world changes. And as we come up to the time of the last wars this newer conception of the everyday life as a reaction to an accelerated development is continually more manifest. Barnet's book, which has served us so well, is frankly a picture of the world coming about like a ship that sails into the wind. Our later novelists give a vast gallery of individual conflicts, in which old habits and customs, limited ideas, ungenerous temperaments and innate obsessions are pitted against this great opening out of life that has happened to us. They tell us of the feelings of old people who have been wrenched away from familiar surroundings and how they have had to make peace with uncomfortable comforts and conveniences that are still strange to them. They give us the discord between the opening egotisms of youth and the ill defined limitations of a changing social life. They tell of the universal struggle of jealousy to capture and cripple our souls, of romantic failures and tragical misconceptions of the trend of the world, of the spirit of adventure and the urgency of curiosity and how these serve the universal drift. And all their stories lead in the end either to happiness missed or happiness won, to disaster or salvation. The clearer their vision and the subtler their art the more certainly do these novels tell of the possibility of salvation for all the world. For any road in life leads to religion for those upon it who will follow it far enough.

It would have seemed a strange thing to the men of the former time that it should be an open question, as it is today, whether the world is wholly Christian or not Christian at all. But assuredly we have the spirit, and as surely have we left many temporary forms behind. Christianity was the first expression of world religion, the first complete repudiation of tribalism and war and disputation. That it fell presently into the ways of more ancient rituals cannot alter that. The common sense of mankind has toiled through 2,000 years of chastening experience, to find at last how sound a meaning attaches to the familiar phrases of the Christian faith. The scientific thinker, as he widens out to the moral problems of the collective life, comes inevitably upon the words of Christ, and as inevitably does the Christian, as his thought grows clearer, arrive at the world republic.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Plainfield Delegates to State Convention.

With New Jersey an active campaign State, special interest centers about the State Suffrage Convention to be held in Camden, November 6 and 7. The delegates chosen to represent the Equal Suffrage League include Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Riley, Miss Parvin, Mrs. White, Mrs. Cowperthwait, Mrs. Schwed, Mrs. Haff, Mrs. Hyde. The president, Mrs. Jones, is also authorized to appoint additional delegates at her discretion.

New Local Headquarters.

Members of the Equal Suffrage League are busy today putting the new headquarters in shape for occupancy. The headquarters' housewarming at 128 East Front street will be announced for a date early next week.

The Suffrage Hostess in Tennessee.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association will meet in Nashville, Tenn., on November 12 to 17. The National has a membership of 60 branch associations, and this year's meeting is the forty-sixth annual convention. The Tennessee Equal Suffrage League is the hostess.

Ohio Suffrage Logic.

"We have a woman in our State," said the Cleveland woman, "who pays $30,000 good dollars in taxes. She has brains and conducts a large business. She employs hundreds of people, but she hasn't brains enough to take one hundred thousandth part in deciding the questions of the city government.

"This woman is a widow.

"Every married man may leave a widow before another sun has risen. He may not leave her a great fortune, but what he does leave will be subject to tax and he will die knowing that she will not have one iota of control over the amount she contributes.

"We invite Ohio men to think of this."

By changing "Ohio" to New Jersey this logic applies perfectly here at home. We invite Jersey men to think of this.

Women Help the Cotton Market.

The order to buy a bale of cotton has gone forth to the suffragists. The National American Woman Suffrage Association has sent a check for $50 through the treasurer, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, to the president of every State Suffrage Association in the South. The name of the fund for the purchase of cotton is "The President Anna Howard Shaw Cotton Bale Fund" and each suffrage president who makes the purchase is directed to store the bale of cotton in the warehouse or to have it sent to suffrage headquarters, where it may occupy a place of honor on the platform.

"She is to buy the cotton at ten cents a pound," said Mrs. McCormick, "and regard it as an investment until financial affairs ease up in the South, and the price of cotton returns to its normal figure."

"We wish to show as good suffragists," concluded Mrs. McCormick, "that in the severe economic predicament which confronts the entire South, that our sympathies are with them, and that we have a desire to help."

Another movement on foot among the suffragists has originated with Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, of Montana, who came out so frankly for suffrage not long ago, and whose whole family are devoted adherents of the Woman's Cause.

Miss Clark's idea is that there shall be a cotton bargain day when 10,000,000 women shall spend $1 on cotton goods and thus relieve the money stringency which is paralyzing the cotton-growing manufacturers of the country.

Giving the Militants Their Due.

(New York Evening Post, Sept. 29, 1914.)

That the suffragists, militant and otherwise, and women of all classes, opinions, and interests can work well together for a common cause, the welfare of their country, is being demonstrated in England today, according to Miss Sara Frazer Hillman, of Pittsburgh, who has just returned from London. As a prominent suffrage worker in this country, Miss Hillman was especially interested in the activities of the English suffragists, and worked with them in the voluntary capacities in which they offered their services.

"There is nothing that can impress a stranger more," said Miss Hillman today, "than the attitude of the militant suffragists at this time. Although I am not in sympathy with their work for suffrage, I must express my admiration of the way they have risen to help the Government which has so persecuted them, at the time of its need. We hear of militants slashing pictures and burning. Now at least, let us hear something of what they are doing to help their country and their king.

"They are going about the work in the most systematic and unemotional way which can be imagined. The Women's Emergency Corps, under the leadership of the Duchess of Marlborough, composed of eighteen or twenty women's organizations, many suffrage organizations, the Woman's Health Association, the Women's Liberal Federation, the Woman's Tax Resistance League, and others. Already they have the names of about 2,000 women who have volunteered for all kinds of service.

Ready For All Service.

"The diversity of work which they are willing to do is shown by the fact that there are over 100 interpreters—none of whom speak less than four and some eleven languages—and more than 200 expert horsewomen, who are ready to work at home or abroad, and go at a moment's notice. They are a splendid type of strong young Englishwoman, many of whom have shot and camped all over the world, and are fitted to do heavy, roughwork in remount camps. There are over 150 expert motorcyclists for dispatch or patrol duty, and a large number of women for such work as omnibus conducting, milk delivering, gardening, and farm work.

"Of course there is a great army of nurses and doctors. And just here it is interesting to note that Great Britain is the only one of the Allies who does not allow women surgeons to go to the front. Women have volunteered for the work, but have not been allowed to go.

"There isn't a woman in the country today who is not doing her share to help in the present crisis. And those who have been militant and who have suffered most from the hands of the Government are laying aside all thought of their own cause and working to help that Government. It is team work of a high order, and the world ought to know it. Whether, after the war is over, the magnanimous work of the women will be rewarded and they will be enfranchised, no one can definitely predict, but there is no possible doubt that the sentiment of the country is in favor of it."

Some Cookery Suggestions

FOR THE HOME DINNER.

DINNER MENU.
Potato Chowder.
Browned Potatoes.
Neapolitan Veal Cutlet.
Parsnips Parisienne.
Combination Salad.
Brown Bread.
Apple Pudding.
Coffee.

A SIMPLE yet tempting dinner menu is the following:

Potato Chowder. — Take six large potatoes, pare and slice thinly. Chop one onion ond two large slices of bacon. Fry the bacon and onion together, using care that they do not brown. Put a layer of the potatoes in a baking dish. Cover with the onion and bacon, a little minced parsley, salt and pepper. Add the rest of potatoes. Then cover with a pint of milk in which has been stirred one tablespoonful of flour rubbed well with one tablespoonful of butter. Cover the baking dish and cook one-half hour.

Neapolitan Veal Cutlet.—Take two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one scant tablespoonful of lard. Place in a frying pan, and when hot put in one good sized onion and two cloves of garlic, both chopped, and brown slightly. Push them back to the side of the pan and put into the hot pan the cutlet slightly beaten. Brown it on both sides, and when brown add half a can of tomatoes and seasoning as follows: Salt, pepper, one saltspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful sugar. Let simmer two hours. Serve on a hot dish garnished with sprigs of fresh parsley.

Parsnips Parisienne.—Take three or four parsnips, the juice of a lemon, one egg, some breadcrumbs and one tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Peel and wash the parsnips and, if large, cut in half. Cook in plenty of boiling water containing a little salt and lemon juice. When tender take out and drain, brush with well beaten egg, roll in crumbs and put on greased baking pan in a hot oven to brown quickly, sprinkling with the parsley. Serve in a pyramid with melted butter sauce.

Apple Pudding.—Stew apples that have been pared, cored and quartered until they are a pulp; beat and add to every pint of pulp a half cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of butter, one-half cupful of breadcrumbs and three eggs, well beaten separately. Bake one-half hour. Serve with cream, though the pudding is good by itself with a little powdered sugar sifted over the top. A pint of pulp is the foundation of a pudding for four persons.

And the Dog Pursued It.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Crows Use Both Tricks And Kindness.

"WELL, kiddies, do you want a story tonight?" asked daddy.

"Yes, daddy," chorused Jack and Evelyn.

"Well, snuggle up and I'll tell you about some novel things that crows have been known to do.

"You have heard how tricky crows are alone? Well, two crows are just two times more tricky than one crow. Here is a trick two crows played:

"These two crows sat on a fence, and just below them a big dog was gnawing peacefully away at a bone.

"The crows wanted that bone. But how to get it away from the dog that was so big and fierce? They cawed and cawed mysteriously together for awhile, and then they flew down on the ground.

"Then the fun began. Both of those crows stole quietly up and attacked the dog from the rear, viciously nipping his tail.

"Of course the dog dropped his bone and turned around to defend himself. One crow flew away, and the dog pursued it, but the crow flew too fast and too high. He sat on a limb of a tree and cawed impudently at the dog.

"The doggie barked for awhile and then thought about his bone.

"Alas and alack, when he got back to the place where he had left his bone the bone was nowhere to be found.

"You see, the other crow had carried it away. Pretty soon the crow that carried away the bone was joined by the crow that flew away, and they had a great feast.

"Kiddies, if that sort of thing were done in war it would be called strategy, but when crows do it we call it a trick."

"Well, that was some trick," declared Jack breathlessly. "Tell us another, daddy."

"Crows are at times kind too. They are not all bad by any means. A family who lived in the country had its curiosity aroused by the frequent visits which a little crow made to a chicken coop which was not in use.

"It would enter the door and remain for awhile and then come out and fly away.

"The little boy of the family saw it do that three or four times one day. Then he thought he'd better see what the crow was doing.

"He approached the door very cautiously, and there he saw the crow depositing kernels of corn before a poor chicken that had become caught between the bars of the coop.

"Of course he had to go often because he could only carry two or three kernels at one time.

"Now, good night, kiddies, and pleasant dreams."

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The simple, straight, gathered tunic is an extremely smart and especially becoming one to young girls and small women with girlish figures.

This one is arranged over a two piece skirt. It takes exceptionally becoming lines, while the wide belt makes a new and smart feature.

As shown here, one material is used for both skirt and tunic, but combinations of plain and fancy materials and of contrasting fabrics will be exceedingly smart throughout the late summer and the autumn, and the skirt is quite as appropriate for such treatment as for one material throughout.

TWO PIECE SKIRT WITH TUNIC.

The skirt of summer gabardine, with tunic of taffeta or of plain gabardine and with skirt of striped material, would make a good effect, and similar combinations without number can be made.

For the sixteen year size the skirt will require two yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, the tunic two and three-quarter yards twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls from 16 to 18 years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8359, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln School. There will be a sewing class for the girls, music, games and magazines.

The Bryant Social Club, originally the Folk Dance Club, will meet tomorrow night at 8:15 in the Bryant School.

The Dunbar Club will meet Friday night in the Washington School. There will be a prize waltz, with first and second prizes. This proved so popular when it was given a short time ago that it has been decided to repeat it.

A literary class for the men will be started. The kindergarten room will be at their disposal. No doubt this will prove very popular with those who are so much interested in dancing.

Tomorrow's the Day!

When Fashion Says "TABOO" to Men Wearing Low Shoes

By tomorrow evening, every man who has not already done so, ought to come and get shod in NEW HIGH SHOES.

Otherwise, you'll incur the suspicion of being unfashionable or eccentric.

Time for Low Shoes to vamoose; they've had their day and, besides, if you keep on wearing them you may have a doctor's bill to pay.

We are ready with the NEW HIGH SHOES you want, whatever style you have had in mind, however extreme or conservative—it's here AT YOUR PRICE, and AT THE PRICE YOU WANT TO PAY—depend upon finding GREATER VALUE here than most places.

See the $1.00, $5.00 and $6.00 lines; all leathers, all winners.
